Bisons Edge Indianapolis

By The Associated Press.

The Buffalo Bisons, assured of an American Hockey League playoff berth, are not coasting.

Buffalo clinched the third and last place in the eastern division Wednesday night. They have only a slim chance of taking over second from the Providence Reds but they are not giving up hope.

The Bisons came from behind and defeated the Indianapolis Caps, 6-4 Thursday night to pull to within seven points of the Reds. The Bisons have seven games to play and Providence six.

Indianapolis jumped off to a 4-1 lead in the first period but the Bisons came back with two in the second and rifled home three more in the third to win.

Stan Warachri tied it up at 4-4 shortly after the 15 minute mark of the third. George Pargeter clinched it by firing into an empty net with only 17 seconds of play left.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

By the time this column is read the MacDonald Brier bonspiel will be over, and judging from late reports last night, it looks as if it is between Manitoba and Alberta with Manitoba having the edge for high honors.

Those two defeats of Dr. Clark by Alberta and Northern Ontario have put him out of second place, but there are two more games coming up today and no doubt the standing of the rinks will be changed again.

H. Bradburn, Dr. R. Morgan, F. Hallowell and S. Williamson won the Colts' competition in Lindsay on Wednesday for District No. 3, O.C.A. They return on Monday evening to play another group winner; should they be successful they then will go to Toronto for the final games.

Everything is now ready for the big mixed rink bonspiel all next week. Fifty-six rinks have entered, 14 playing Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Regular schedule games this evening.

Vice-skips' results: R. Lyle won from H. Rutherford; G. Webb won from B. Ashmore; J. Hubbard won from R. Whalan; C. Ferguson won from F. Green; A. Jones won from J. V. Fuller; W. Brown won from T. Hewitt; P. McArthur won from F. Hallowell.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Have YOU ever heard of Canada's Athletic Hall of Fame, and the names of those who dot the mythical enclosure.

Probably not. Yet it is a record of a long and important cross-section of Canadian sports life and endeavour, significant because it reveals that in Olympic competition, Canada, despite is comparatively sparse population has compiled an amazingly fine record.

We think Canadians should know more about this particular Hall of Fame. It was first suggested in 1947 by Lt.-Col. George C. Machun, E.D., President of the A.A.U. of C., adopted by that body in 1949, officially inaugurated by the Governor General in 1950.

First members are first-place gold medal winners at the Olympic Games, for Canada, and the number of these might surprise you.

The first member was a brawny Montreal police officer, Zenon Desmarteau, who won the 56-pound hammer toss at the St. Louis Olympics in 1904. Then came little Billy Sherring, of Hamilton, who galloped home in front of the world's athletes over the original marathon course in Greece, at the 1906 games. Bobby Kerr, of Hamilton, winner of the 200-meter event at the 1908 Olympics in London; George Hodgson, who won the swim events at the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm and the great Canadian walker George Goulding, who won in the Antwerp Games in 1928, help swell the roster.

Vancouver's slim whippet, Percy Williams, who scored a double at Amsterdam, winning the 100 and 200 meter sprints; Ethel Catherwood, the beautiful western girl who captured the women's high jump there, and the Canadian girls' relay team of Fannie Rosenfeld, Myrtle Cook, Ethel Smith and Florence Jane Bell, all won places in the mythical Hall. In 1932 at Los Angeles, Toronto's Lefty Gwynne, a boxer and the western high jumper, Duncan McNaughton, both won championships. In 1936 at Berlin, Frank Amyot of Ottawa, defeated the world's best paddlers. And in 1948, at St. Moritz, it was Canada's sweetheart, Barbara Ann Scott, who added to the Dominion sport glories by winning world and Olympic fancy skating honors.

The Hall committee hasn't stopped at that. Louis Rubenstein, who won the world fancy skating title in St. Petersburg over half a century ago; the late Charlie Gorman, of Saint John, N.B., one of the greatest bladesmen to come from this hot-bed of speed skaters; three Canadian Diamond Skull winners, Lou Scholes, Joe Wright Jr., and Jack Guest, Sr., are listed. So is slim Phil Edwards, one of the great modern runners, three times on Canadian Olympic teams.

There will be many more to come, such as Moncton's Jimmy Humphrey, Montreal's Frank Lukeman, Hamilton's Tom Longboat. There's John C. Caffrey and Johnny Miles, each of whom won the Boston marathon twice, and slim Gerard Cote of Hyacinthe, who took this classic four times. These are only a few. You could rattle off a score of illustrious names that over the years figure in international competition, and brought glory to the Dominion. There are the great professionals, George Young, Hod Stuart, Howie Morenz, George Dixon, Sam Langford, Tommy Burns, whose names would grace any Canadian athletic roster.

But, as it stands, the Hall's list reveals more strikingly than perhaps you imagined that Canada has sent some great athletes to the international wars.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

Clark Rink Loses 2 Rounds Relegated To Fourth Spot

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, March 7. (CP)—Manitoba's Billy Walsh takes his unbeaten rink into the 10th round of the Canadian Curling Championships today with a chance to clinch the title. The bespectacled Walsh, throwing his first rocks in the Dominion curling final, now has a record of eight straight wins—one better than second-place Alberta led by Art Simpson of Bassano. Their 10th-round clash is the feature game of today's final rounds. A victory for Walsh automatically gives him the championship. The two rinks will meet in a sudden-death game tonight if they are tied after the regulation 11 rounds.

There are no playoffs for tied positions other than first place.

Whatever the outcome, the championship is coming back to Western Canada for the first time since 1949 when a Manitoba rink skipped by draw-game artist Ken Watson won it.

No other rink stands a chance at the crown, won last year by Don Oyler of Kentville, representing Nova Scotia.

Clark Out

Ontario's Dr. Ralph Clark slipped from contention Thursday night by dropping a 14-9 defeat to Jimmy Guy's Northern Ontario rink. It was Clark's third defeat against five victories.

Guy scored a six on the fourth end, the largest to date in the 'spiel, and never looked back.

The underrated Alberta rink had knocked off Clark 10-7 in eighth-round play to move into sole possession of second place The two rinks had been tied for second spot with five runs in six starts.

Simpson, a veteran of 24 years' curling, played a brilliant game and was backed by solid curling by his mates in downing the highly regarded Clark.

The Alberta skip looked especially good on the seventh end when he made a double take-out and stuck to increase his slim lead to 6-4. He also cut Ontario out of shot rock on a smart kill on the ninth, to count three to go ahead, 9-5, and practically sew up the contest.

With all hands at work, the Bassano foursome took to the running game on the final three ends and Clark could manage only singles on the 10th and 12th.

Manitoba won its seventh straight game on the same round, trouncing Newfoundland 12-6. Newfoundland, skipped by Tommy Tomelin of Corner Brook, claimed its first victory by defeating Prince Edward Island 11-8 in the ninth round.

British Columbia led by Reg Stone of Trail scored its sixth triumph in nine starts by defeating Saskatchewan 10.4. The B.C. rink now holds third place, a half game up on Ontario.

Still Clicking

Manitoba won its ninth-round game with Henry Blanchard, Nova Scotia skip, 12-5. The rinks fought on equal terms for the first eight ends until Walsh caught a two-ender on the ninth, added one on the 10th and a big four on the 11th to sew up match.

In the seventh round, Manitoba hammered lowly P E I. 14-8.

Art Simpson led his Alberta rink from Bassano to a 10-8 victory over British Columbia in the seventh round and went on to defeat New Brunswick 9-6 in ninth.

Simpson showed a good variety of shots and had little trouble with New Brunswick, skipped by Ralph Limerick. The Maritime rink gave Manitoba quite a battle before losing in a previous round.

When the experts picked up the favorites at the start there was little mention of the Bassano foursome. Manitoba, B C , and Northern Ontario were named as "the rinks to beat."

Now, many fans claim Simpson had a good chance of upsetting Walsh and claiming the trophy. Guy's Northern Ontario rink has been a disappointment in the final, gaining only two victories so far.

Rangers Trip Black Hawks In Last-Ditch Battle

By The Canadian Press.

The annual last-ditch battle for the four-team National Hockey League playoffs is on.

New York Rangers contributed to it Thursday night by downing the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 5-3, to take over sole possession of fourth place, two points ahead of Boston Bruins.

Detroit Red Wings, who sewed up the N.H.L. championship Wednesday night, made their contribution to the New York cause by coming from behind for a final period 2-1 victory over the Bruins. New York and Boston previously were tied for fourth.

Detroit's victory was the first of nine games which the Wings will play to finish out the schedule with nothing more at stake than a few individual honors.

But they played as if they were battling for survival—in a rough, close checking contest. Tony Leswick sent them in front midway in the second period and Ed Sandford deadlocked it a few minutes later. Marty Pavelich's winning goal came near the 10-minute mark of the last frame.

Third Straight Win

It marked the third straight game Detroit had beaten Boston with a third-period rally. Some 10,691 Detroit fans saw it.

Reg. Sinclair and Edgar Laprade led the Rangers' assault before 8,196 Chicago fans. Sinclair banged in two goals and assisted on another, while Laprade ran up three assists.

Chicago moved into the lead at the outset with Jimmy Peters' goal at 3:33 of the opening period. But New York quickly took over 2-1, increasing the margin to 3-1 in the second.

Sinclair's second goal of the night at 1:41 of the last frame set the New Yorkers up with a comfortable edge until the end.

Besides Sinclair, it was Steve Kraftcheck, Ed Kullman and Ed Slowinski who counted for the Rangers. Rookie Steve Witiuk and Bill Mosienko were the other goal-getters for the Hawks.

The playoff picture may be clearer after five weekend games. Detroit meets third-place Toronto twice, Saturday at Toronto and Sunday at home while Chicago takes on second-place Montreal Saturday and then moves to Boston for a game with the Bruins. Montreal plays the Rangers at New York Sunday.

The Leafs defeated the Canadiens 6-2 and came within two points of the second-place Montrealers.

The March 17 date will be filled by a match between Allan McFater, Toronto lightweight, and Solly Cantor of Edmonton or Enrique Bolanos of California.

Only 'Shylocks' Will Refuse Canadian Coins

A plug for the money many American merchants won't give a plugged nickel for appeared recently in a letter to the editor of the Saginaw, Michigan, News.

Paul C. Phillips, of R.D. 4, Saginaw, referred in his letter to the "Shylocks who will not accept Canadian coins in business". He warns his fellow countrymen to "court the lady (Canada) or some day she may turn and . . . tell us where we can go."

This is the text of the letter:

"To the north of us, with only a natural boundary line unprotected by guns, lies the Dominion of Canada, perhaps the only nation in the world that does not hate us. And their government, no doubt, is as pure as their copper and silver coins, which are worth more than our own in actual metal value.

"Wake up, you Shylocks who will not accept Canadian coins in business here! Take a trip through Canada and enjoy their hospitality. Their natural undeveloped resources exceed ours ten to one in spite of our gold reserve. A hint to the wise is sufficient. Send over some kisses and court the lady or some day she may turn and give us a kick in the pants and tell us where we can go.

"Maybe we could start a march of Canadian dimes to melt down and mould into a silver loving cup to be presented to Queen Elizabeth on her coronation. God knows we need friends."

In his maiden speech in the Commons, Mr. Nickle said the ailment resulted from faulty budgeting. Symptoms included loss of weight of purse and pocket book, frayed tempers and cuffs, bigger surpluses and more inflation.

Mr. Nickle, elected in a by-election last fall, paid tribute to his predecessor, the late Arthur L. Smith, who died a few months after resigning his Progressive Conservative seat.

He expressed the hope Canada will reach an oil exchange program with the United States. It was only through such a program that Canada could reach self-sufficiency in oil. The eastern markets were too far from the western sources to be served economically.

He hoped the Alberta government soon would permit the export of natural gas.

Ted Williams Higher On Batting Order

SARASOTA, Fla., March 7 — (AP)—In order to get sluggers Ted Williams and Junior Stephens up to the plate more often, manager Lou Boudreau is moving them up higher in the Boston Red Sox' batting order.

"My idea," says Boudreau, "is to try to get both Ted and Stephens at bat five or six times in every game. In that fifth or sixth time one or both might hit a home run."

Williams moved from third to second and Stephens from fourth "cleanup" slot to third with Walt Dropo fourth. Second baseman Johnny Pesky will lead off, with Clyde Vollmer fifth, followed in order by Dom DiMaggio, then the pitcher, catcher Gus Niarhos and third sacker Fred Hatfield. Senator Outlines Margarine Bill

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP) — Senator W. D. Euler (L., Ontario) told the Senate Thursday a bill he introduced in the Upper Chamber is aimed much beyond simply inter-provincial trade in margarine.

Commenting on a report his bill sought free inter - provincial movement of margarine, Senator Euler said that while "margarine may incidentally come into the question on second reading, the measure . . . has wide implications beyond the subject of margarine."

The Canada Dairy Products Act, which his measure seeks to amend, gives the government power to prevent inter-provincial trade in dairy products. If the government could restrict inter-provincial trade in one class of community, it could do it in all and thus violate the basic principles of confederation.

It was against this prohibition that his bill was aimed, Senator Euler said.

Commies Work From Within West Germany

(Editors' Note: The seeds of Communist chaos are being planted in Germany. William L. Ryan, AP foreign news analyst who is on a tour of Europe, surveys the German situation in this article, last of a series of four.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

FRANKFURT, March 7 (CP)— Boring from within. . . That's the openly - proclaimed policy for Communists in western Germany. The World Federation of Trade Union, an all-purpose revolutionary arm of Moscow, has made it clear.

But there are secret plans, too, for tying the drive in this country to the world revolution Stalin seeks. The W.F.T.U. keeps quiet about those plans, but there is no doubt remaining that they call for creating chaos, of and when Moscow sees the chance.

The Red drive in Germany, as elsewhere in Europe, is aimed at the strategic industries. Some competent observers here express concern at the inroads it appears to be making.

Attempts at infiltration have been considerably stepped up in the industrial Ruhr Valley, where the Communists have built up a strong party organization. Semi-official sources place the Communist party strength in Western Germany at 375,000 members, of whom fully 150,000 are in the Ruhr.

Just how much the Communists have gained is known only to the party itself.

Trump Cards

The Communists have several trump cards which are being used with some success. One is the remilitarization issue. Another is the issue of German reunification. A third is the fear that Germany will become a battleground for a third world war—a strong fear in a country still reeling from the effects of the last conflict.

The West German Trade Union Federation has about 6,000,000 members and exerts a powerful political influence. The great bulk of its membership is strongly anti-Communist. But there have been many labor protests against western plans to rearm the Germans.

The Communists already are actively engaged in a campaign in this country within individual factories in strategic industries, to agitate against the western defence program. The hand of the W.F.T.U. is clearly in evidence.

The W.F.T.U.'s open aims in Germany—to support all strikes and agitation against remilitarization, to infiltrate non-Communist labor ranks, to agitate for the kind of peace Moscow wants, to campaign for "independence from imperialist exploitation" — were made public in Berlin last November.

The secret aims laid down at that meeting were something else. This program includes plans for sudden, swift action if and when the Soviet Union sees the need to paralyze western countries by striking at the vital industries and stirring up political chaos.

This is the path charted for the Trojan horse in West Germany.

Magarac's Molten Metal Bath Gave U.S. Best Steel-Tale Says

By WILLIAM SWARTWORTH

PITTSBURGH, March 7 (AP)— Know why the United States has the greatest steel mills in the world? It's because a fellow named Joe Magarac jumped into a bath of molten metal.

At least that's what some steel workers in the Monongahela river valley near here tell you. They spin tall tales about big Joe, who had arms as big around as your waist, a back as broad as a barn door and a neck as thick as a bull's.

He flattened steel ingots the way a housewife rolls pie dough and made cannonballs the way a youngster packs snowballs. He squeezed out railroad rails with his bare hands and cut sheets of steel with his teeth.

What Paul Bunyan is to lumbermen, Joe Magarac is to steelworkers. Like Paul, too, tales of his fabulous exploits grow just a little bigger with each recital.

Fame Spreads

Magarac is best known in the giant steel mills which dot the Monongahela valley but his fame has spread to wherever men make steel.

The tale of how Joe first appeared goes like this:

"Steve Mestrovich, an open hearth worker, was having his annual picnic-party. Steve had a beautiful daughter, Mary, whom every bachelor wanted to marry.

Steve decided to stage a weightlifting contest. Mary would go to the strongest man.

Three huge steel bars were used for weights, the biggest scaling 850 pounds. Only three of the scores of strapping youths qualified to try their hand at the heaviest bar. One of the trio managed to move it slightly.

As he strained, the biggest man anyone ever saw strode up to the youth, lifted him with one hand and picked up the bar with the other.

"I'm Joe Magarac," the giant said, laughing.

"I was born inside an iron ore mountain," Joe said, "and lived in an ore pile for 20 years. I came here today to get a job in the mills. As for Mary, let her marry some fine steelworker. I just want to work and eat."

Great as Joe was, he couldn't live forever. According to one version Joe died soon after his mill shut down for a brief time. His boss found him sitting in a ladle of molten steel one day.

"I don't like sitting around idle," Joe explained. "I hear new mills will be springing up all over the country shortly and that old ones will be needing repairs. I figure if I melt myself down I can become a part of the steel that goes into them. Then I can work all the time."

Then big Joe sat back, held his chin in the bubbling metal and melted away. The steel from the ladle was said to be the best ever poured.

Four Relatives Of Meek Mental Cases

CORNWALL, March 7—(CP)—Evidence that four of Elias Meek's relatives had been confined to a mental hospital was introduced Thursday at his trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Dolly Alguire.

After Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen denied a defence motion for acquittal on grounds of insufficient evidence, the defence opened its case by calling two psychiatrists and a physician to the stand.

The 21-year-old farmhand is charged with the fatal stabbing last September 28 of his employer's wife on the farm of Allan Alguire at nearby Harrison's Corners.

Dr. MacLean Houze, of the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, said four of Meek's relatives, including two sisters, had been treated at the institution. Dr. Houze said the accused's two sisters suffered from schizophrenia. An aunt had suffered from melancholia, while a cousin was a schizophrenic and also mentally deficient.

Had Family History

Dr. Gordon Lugsdin, Ottawa psychiatrist, said he found Meek suffering from a type of schizophrenia. Fifty to sixty per cent of cases of this kind had a family history of the disease.

Dr. J. C. Wilson, Cornwall physician, said he had doubts about Meek's sanity from the time of his first examination of the accused last fall. He said Meek had a "deadpan" expression, spoke in monotones, showed indifference and suffered delusions. Dr. Wilson agreed, however, that the opinion of mental experts was more reliable than his in determining Meek's sanity.

Robert Meek, brother of the accused, said Elias was a quiet type, but he noticed a change in him about a month before the "accident." At that time, the witness said, he thought Elias looked pale and his eyes were staring, although his talk was normal.

Harvey Presentation Praised By Adjudicator

HAMILTON, March 7—(CP)—The Players' Guild presentation of "Harvey" at the Western Ontario Regional Drama Festival here Thursday night was described by adjudicator Pierre LeFevre as "an amusing show with lots of delicate wit."

He said he was criticizing the show—a comedy by Mary Chase about a halucinated young man's friendship with an outsized rabbit—on a very high level. The acting was sincere and on the right line of comedy but "there was an element of monotony in its tone."

The cause of the monotony might have been the gentleness of William Mitchell in interpreting the young man, Elwood. It was "a really excellent performance" but his ascendancy influenced the sense of timing, tone and level of acting in the whole play.

British Soldiers Testify At Trial

SEOUL, Korea, March 7 (AP)—Two British soldiers testified Thursday at the murder trial of Canadian Signalman Robert Burns MacDonald, 21, of New Waterford, N.S., that they saw another Canadian shot in a Korean house.

A Canadian general court martial is trying MacDonald on a charge of killing Pte. Harold Carlen Harrison, 31, of Truro, N.S., on January 28. Harrison, a member of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade Headquarters, died of a bullet wound in the stomach February 3.

MacDonald, a member of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, pleaded innocent Wednesday. The two Britons said they heard Harrison say to MacDonald, "You've shot me, you dirty dog," after hearing a gun that "popped."

Ontario Seeking Skilled Tradesmen

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP) — Ontario is carrying on a selective immigration program to find certain types of skilled tradesmen for industry here, Planning Minister Griesinger of Ontario said Thursday.

He told an interviewer that 1,250 skilled tradesmen were brought to Ontario last year under the scheme and another 1,500 potential imigrants are being processed by federal authorities.

The industry concerned sometimes pays all or part of the immigrant's passage and each one has a job awaiting him when he arrives. Mr. Griesinger said the Ontario government does none of the actual immigration work but assists the Dominion Department.

Bomb Blast Kills Boy In Apartment Building

OTTAWA, March 7—A 12-year-old boy, Brian Tourangeau, was killed Thursday when a three-inch mortar bomb with which he was playing exploded in the kitchen of his midtown apartment.

Police said the bomb was one in a collection of war souvenirs from a nearby home and had been taken away by Brian and a playmate. They recovered a similar bomb near the apartment building.

The b... the kitchen, knocked out par... of the floor below, blew a hole in the ceiling, and spattered fragments through the walls. The boy was blown to bits. An autopsy was held Thursday afternoon, and an inquest has been ordered.

Two 18-months-old babies, Earl and Gerry Springett, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Springett, in the apartment beneath, were found trapped in their cribs. The ceiling had collapsed around them, but they were unharmed.

Brian's mother, Mrs. Isobel Tourangeau, was absent from her apartment at the time of the blast. Police said that she had ordered her son to take the bomb outside when she discovered he had brought it home Wednesday night.

Apparently Brian, left alone for a while Thursday, had brought the deadly souvenir back in.

Michael Perreault, 2, playing on the floor above, escaped unscathed. Just before the blast his mother had started to take him to a neighbor's apartment.

Gerald Whitley, one of the occupants of the apartment building at 414-418 Arlington St., entered the bombed dwelling and found the kitchen ablaze. Using a blanket he beat out the flames.

Alberta Claims Canada's First Research Body

By LORNE BRUCE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON — (CP) — Alberta, one of Canada's youngest provinces, has the country's oldest research council.

Under direction of India-born Dr. Nathaniel Grace, the Council is carrying on work begun 33 years ago to find ways of utilizing the province's great natural wealth more efficiently and profitably.

At 49, Dr. Grace heads a staff of just under 30 scientists. He took the post only a few months ago, succeeding Dr. Robert Newton who retired. Prior to that he was with the National Research Council in Ottawa for 20 years.

Dr. Grace was born in Allahabad, India, the son of a Y.M.C.A. secretary. He was brought to Saskatchewan at the age of six after his father died and was educated at the University of Saskatchewan and McGill.

Soil study is a major project before the council.

"Alberta has a large portion of the virgin arable land still available in North America," said Dr. Grace.

Much of this land is owned by the government. Permission to open the land for settlement is given only after an area is classified by a soil survey.

McMurray Tar Sands

The Council is also trying to determine an efficient oil-extraction method for the McMurray tar sands in northeastern Alberta, which have been estimated to contain the world's largest known oil deposits.

Oil saturates the sand deposits which jut to the earth's surface in the McMurray area. The problem is how to separate the oil and sand at a cost comparable with oil production from wells. The latest major study indicates an extraction method has been found at a cost "approaching" a commercially-feasible level.

Coal, ranging from semi-anthracite to lignite in various grades, is produced in 17 Alberta districts. By its studies the council helps producers to market the highest-quality coal possible. Heading this section is W. A. Lang, the council's senior reasearch chemist.

Forty-eight per cent of Canada's coal reserves occur in Alberta. The council has been concerned with finding efficient ways of putting powdered coal into briquet size, and also of extracting impurities.

During the Second World War and since, the council has operated a gasoline- and oil-testing laboratory for the Federal Defence Department. Another study involves the settling qualities of sand and gravel on various highway beds.

Asks Sound Management Of Ont. Timber Resources

TORONTO, March 7—(CP)—A plea for sound management of Northern Ontario's timber resources was made in the Ontario Legislature Thursday by Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member for Kenora.

Mr. Wren, one of three members taking part in the throne speech debate, which continues today, charged that there has been "trading in Crown timber property".

Timber was his district's "only continuing asset" and government policies should ensure that holders of timber licences should either develop permanent industries or be forces to turn back their holdings to the Crown.

Other speakers in Thursday's debate were W. J. Stewart (PC-Toronto Parkdale) and J. B. Salsberg (Lab-Prog—Toronto St. Andrew).

... under which a portion of the salaries of temporary civil servants will be withheld, and the accrued amount turned over to their superannuation fund when they join the permanent staff. The amount would be returned if they left the service before reaching permanent status.

Deliberate Mismanagement

Mr. Wren said in the past "there has been very deliberate mismanagement of forests on several occasions".

Timber licences should be given only to persons who would develop permanent industries. If this was not done, improvements such as roads and mills should be purchased and the area returned to the Crown.

Completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway would make northwestern Ontario "more and more important as an economic factor in the province... it is something we have dreamed about for years".

Mr. Wren urged special consideration be given to northwestern Ontario, because of its scattered population, needed extra assistance for schools, roads and hydro.

"An investment in the north country is an investment the province will gain from", he said.

Mr. Stewart urged that more emphasis in teaching be given to patriotism and knowledge of the British Commonwealth, which he said we was proud to call "the Empire".

Asks Special Books

Special text books should be given to school children before the coronation of Queen Elizabeth to tell pupils the story of the Empire and the coronation.

Mr. Salsberg said United States "imperialist pressure" was driving Canada toward a third world war.

He criticized heavy United States investments in Ontario's natural resources and said that ... going from Ontario to the United States were more than double what the provincial government was spending for all social and health services.

Mr. Wren also suggested that some strikes could be averted if the Labor department appointed men to act as "free agents" to look into trouble spots, gather information and forestall strikes.

At the Ford Motor Company wildcat strike before Christmas in Windsor, "some of the union leaders did not know the strike was coming. They were too busy with party politics to know what was brewing'. Such "free agent" inspectors could have forecast the trouble and averted it.

Railway Union Vice-President Graham Retires

LINDSAY, March 7.—William G. Graham, 18 Russell St. E., Lindsay, and former mayor of the town, retired recently as vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Mr. Graham has worked for more than 50 years on the railroads of Canada and United States.

A native of Emily Township, he became an employee of the Grand Trunk Railway in Lindsay in 1902. In 1907 he was appointed chairman of Lodge 136 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. He became general chairman in 1926 and carried on his official duties in Lindsay and Montreal.

In 1940 he was made a member of the board of directors of this organization, and the same year was appointed vice-president, the post which he held until his retirement.

In his work he has travelled approximately 250,000 miles by rail, air and boat to reach members of the brotherhood.

During the past year he was also chairman of the Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment No. 1.

Mr. Graham was an alderman in Lindsay from 1919 to 1924 and then was elected mayor, holding this post for two years.

His wife is the former Florence May Baldwin and they have three children, Mrs. Gordon Eplett (Ruth) of New Liskeard, Stella at home and Gordon also of Lindsay.

P.C.V.S. Curlers Win In Toronto

A collegiate rink won its first test to advance into the semi-finals of the Ontario Junior Tankard in Toronto today.

Skipped by Ted Sanders, the rink includes vice Gordon Graham, second Douglas Baptie, and lead Larry Cunningham.

This is the first year in about 20 years that a collegiate team has competed in the tankard. The last team to compete was skipped by Dr. Ralph Clark who is now skipping the Ontario team curling in the MacDonald Briar in Winnipeg.

Peterborough has another representative in the Junior Tankard. He is Blair Thompson, former collegiate athlete, who is skipping an entry from the University of Western Ontario which also won.

Peterborough defeated Oshawa 9-4. Other winners were Kitchener and Toronto's High Park.

Students Given Guidance In Choosing Occupations

Collegiate students no longer should wander aimlessly through P.C.V.S. for five years. For they now have a modern service which helps them carefully plan their future in terms of their needs, interests, abilities, opportunities and social responsibilities. The vocational guidance department, headed by director Howard Moebus, helps the students appraise their abilities and interests to enable them to know themselves in all phases and show them how they differ from other people. It also presents the opportunities open for them and the requirements for [illegible]

The department hopes that the student, armed with that information, will make his own decision about the future.

Began In 1944

The modern guidance department was introduced on a small scale to P.C.V.S. in 1944, when Mr. Moebus joined the teaching staff. It has grown into a full-time job, helping students from Grade 8 to Grade 13.

The career planning program stemmed from the old system where the student was advised by his teachers. But various teachers had different opinion which often confused more than helped him. The guidance department gathers the opinions of his teachers and presents them without confusion to the student.

A student's history is recorded by the department when he reaches Grade 8. At the collegiate there is a complete record of his activities, marks and personality as seen by the public school teachers.

The department also prepares the student for his jump into Grade 9. Through the vocational guidance director and the board of education, Grade 8 pupils each year in June visit P.C.V.S. and see its facilities. They are told the various courses available and the subjects they must take.

All Grade 9 classes have periods in "occupations" which survey the main fields of employment and the requirements for entering those fields.

Teachers Interview

The Grade 9 student is counselled twice a year. The first is scheduled for early fall when his "home room" teacher privately discusses any difficulties and tries to iron out any problems which prevents him from being a happy student. The second interviw is in the spring, to help the student decide which course he'll take in Grade 10.

The group classes in occupations are continued in Grade 10, emphasizing the benefits of finishing Grade 12 or for those that must leave school at Grade 10, emphasizing the opportunities that await them.

Again the students are interviewed privately, this time by Mr. Moebus. He helps the students obtain work if they leave after Grade 10 and if they plan to continue to Grade 12, helps develop a study program.

During Grade 11 the students are left on their own, but the occupational classes begin once more in Grade 12 with the purpose of presenting the opportunity fields. Academic students are given a detailed account of university courses and other institutions for furthering their education. The apprentice courses and skilled trades are outlined to the industrial arts students and business in general to the commercial students.

Aptitude Tests

Besides these classes the students receive a barrage of aptitude tests. The purpose of these tests is to help the students make a decision by acting as a guide, showing them their abilities and limitations.

Special groups are formed annually for students interested in various vocations. These groups visit the schools and normal school, the hospitals, other institutions which offer opportunities to further their education.

The overall result is that when a student leaves school, he knows where he is going rather than being set adrift to shift aimlessly for himself.

Max Ferguson, Toronto, radio-announcer-comedian will be the guest speaker of the evening.

Struck Down Nearly Hit By Second Car

Robert Thompson, 65 Escapes Death Twice Crossing George St.

Robert Thompson, 65, 335 Gordon Ave., narrowly escaped death twice in a matter of seconds Wednesday night.

Two cars approaching each other from opposite directions were only a few feet apart, when one car struck Mr. Thompson as he was crossing George St., at Dublin about 8.15.

When the southbound car, driven by Dennis A. Taylor, R.R. 4, Peterborough, knocked Mr. Thompson to the street, William Kemp, 121 Wolsley St., travelling north on George St. had to swerve his car sharply and drive over the east curb, to avoid running over the fallen man as he lay on the pavement.

Has Concussion

He was taken to hospital by ambulance where he was attended by Dr. W. J. W. Gamble. His injuries are described as concussion, and cuts and scrapes about the head. Hospital authorities said today his condition is satisfactory.

For Mr. Thompson, the accident was the second misfortune that he has suffered in the last couple of months. A few weeks ago, a passing car sideswiped his car which was parked on London St., damaging it considerably. The driver of the hit-run vehicle has not yet been found.

Mr. Thompson had just stepped down from a city bus with several other people. The others in the group remained on the east side of George St., but according to several witnesses, Mr. Thompson started across the street.

The driver of the car which hit him, told constable William G. Scott who investigated that when [illegible] cross the street, he applied his brakes. The street surface was very slippery, and Taylor said his car skidded into the man knocking him down.

Students' Plays At Collegiate

The results of an experiment in dramatics will be seen tonight at P.C.V.S. when the senior dramatic club presents its Night of Plays, a series of three one-act plays.

In previous years the senior club has presented a three-act play, usually in the fall. But this year the club's teacher advisors decided to let the club members learn to direct a play.

Since the term opened in the fall the students have been working on the three plays. The student directors have conducted all the preliminary work which includes arranging rehearsals, set acting, learning lines, collecting properties and deciding on the setting.

Teachers, Miss Margaret White and Miss M. A. Bailey, supervised the work and helped add the finishing touches. They also worked on the dramatics angle to help bring out the various desired effects in the plays.

One of the three plays is the "Happy Journey", the collegiate play which placed third in the Eastern Ontario Secondary School drama festival two weeks ago in Kingston. The cast then was commended on its performance by adjudicator Michael Meiklejohn.

Mr. Meiklejohn said that the "cast had a wonderful ability to flow over the footlights" and added "that the players have a sense of theatre found in few amateur groups."

Eleanor McBrien won the best actress award for her part in the play as Ma Kirby. That was the third time in three years that a P.C.V.S. student had won the best actress award.

Student director for the "Happy Journey" is Pauline Zacks. She has been assisted, especially in dramatics, by Miss Mildred Bailey.

The other plays will be "Brothers In Arms" by Merrill Denison, directed by student Gail Craig, assisted by Miss White, and "Boatswain's Mate" by W. W. Jacobs, directed by Miss McBrien, assisted by both Miss White and Miss Bailey.

The student-directed plays will be the first attempted at P.C.V.S. and are only an experiment.

"We feel that the students have learned more from the project," said Miss White.

One of the plays will be entered in the Peterborough and District Drama festival in April.

Baby Picture Winners Announced Saturday

In the Examiner on Saturday there will be reproduced the first two winners in the Baby Picture-Quote contest. This contest has been well received by the readers of the Examiner and a large number of entries were received on the first three days. Judging was done on Wednesday and those that were not winners this week will again be entered in next week's contest along with additional entries received up until Wednesday.

Watch tomorrow's Examiner for the first two winners. You will find their photos reproduced on page three.

Spring Has A Gritty Mixture Of Sand But Have Patience, It's On The Way

Peterborough citizens took a deep breath and gritted their teeth. Winter wasn't done yet, that was obvious. The city's engineers department took a deep breath and started to sand the streets and sidewalks again.

It has been a discouraging week for the many eagerly watching for signs of spring. When children brought out their skipping ropes, they cheered. They shed their rubbers and prepared for the best.

What they got was the second best. Snow fell in large quantities and once again the plows started out and cars slithered and skidded about the streets and got stuck.

Drivers who had been congratulating themselves on coming through the winter with fenders intact were bitterly disappointed.

Then when gauge day dawned cold and cloudy and stayed cold, they knew the worst. Spring was going to be cool. But it would be spring nevertheless.

Modern Teaching Methods Treat Pupils As Individuals

George A. Pearson, superintendent of elementary education for Ontario, in an address to the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon brushed off recent criticisms of present teaching methods. "No two children are alike as we can see just by looking," said Mr. Pearson. "And their minds are as different as their faces."

Despite this accepted fact some people are unwilling to apply it to the study of children in schools and educational problems generally, he contended.

"Your schools are symbols of the fact that you believe in free education . . . free so that each child has an equal opportunity—or as equal as we can make it—to develop the capacities with which he has been endowed."

Mr. Pearson said "equal opportunity" in this sense was not the same thing as the "same opportunity." Children differ in their aptitudes and abilities.

"They don't all teethe at the same time and they don't all walk at the same time. Yet some people want to take these children, put them in the same classroom and give them the same work, and expect them to make the same progress."

No Factory Job

"You can't make school into an assembly line and turn out a uniform product," said Mr. Pearson.

He said it would be ideal to have a uniform study program drawn up and then let each child progress at his own speed. As this isn't practical, the alternative resorted to is to divide the pupils into small groups and let them proceed according to their [illegible] according to ability in each subject.

This breakdown of rigid grades eliminates the old system whereby the majority of the pupils, at the end of the year, moved up one grade and the remainder had to put in another year in the same grade.

Under that system some pupils were "swamped" and others were "retarded," said Mr. Pearson.

Go At Natural Rate

"Our hope is that children will proceed with their group at their natural rate; then they go on to the next group. It may take eight months for some; or longer for others. We're trying to get away from the system in which, if a pupil is too slow to make the grade in one year, he must wait for two years."

This is not an invitation to laziness, said Mr. Pearson.

"I want to make it clear that children must learn to work, and work hard. Under the old system we all know of the bright fellow who loafed along through the year, finding it easy to make the grade.

"But when he went out into life it was different. He became the brilliant failure."

The criticism that education today is not stressing the three R's doesn't impress Mr. Pearson.

"That one must be thousands of years old," he said. "Much like the constant complaint that the younger generation is worse than the one before."

Take reading for example, Mr Pearson said. "There is a wealth of reading material in schools now compared with the days when we were in school. It permits youngsters to read sooner and better than before."

Too much bad spelling? English poor? Not according to Mr. Pearson.

Nor does he agree that the "old school" was better for teaching pupils to "read and love good books." He recalls going through elementary school without reading one good book, apart from textbooks; nor was he urged to read these books. And in high school he had to read one only.

Children Reading More

"Records show that children are reading more than ever," he said.

For those critics who look back with favor on their own era of schooling Mr. Pearson suggested that they sit in with a Grade 8 class and see how they compared with the modern pupils on an arithmetic, reading, writing and spelling test.

Character building?

"The child only spends one fiftieth of his life in school, so it can't be the only factor in this type of training.

"Remember, character building is going on every minute the child is awake," said Mr. Pearson, "and, he is in school only one fiftieth of his life. So don't expect the school to do the impossible."

"'Progressive' doesn't mean

Council Delays Signing Land Agreement

The city's Land Assembly Project bylaw was held up for further study by some of the members at the special session of the council Thursday afternoon. They asked for copies of the agreement, and it is expected that the bylaw will be passed after the finance committee meeting next Monday night.

Mayor Waddell said at least one of the options on Smith farms expires on March 15. So there is a time element entering into the council's proposed undertaking in assocation with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a Federal and Crown Institution, and the Department of Planning and Development of the Ontario Government.

The terms of the agreement were reviewed in committee of the whole some time ago, and were further considered here this week at a meeting of Mayor Waddell, W. W. Scott of the Provincial Department, and City Clerk Outram.

The agreement has been outlined in publication. City undertakes the arrangements for the acquiring of land for annexation in Smith, and when community services are completed, Central Mortgage pays the entire amount, assuming 75 per cent and charging the remaining 25 per cent to the city.

The details of distribution of local improvement cost was one obstacle to the immediate progress of the bylaw Friday.

Mr. Scott is being invited back to Peterborough Monday if possible to remove any doubts attaching to the terms.

The proposed annexation of the large block of Smith lands will likely include acceptance of the volunteer fire department property.

It was said Friday that Smith council has expressed its inclination to approve annexation of a strip of the west side of Chemong Road from the Roy Sanderson hill down to the city boundary.

Depth of that west side of the highway strip has not yet been mentioned, but in the meantime it was felt advisable that annexation should take in the west side of the highway as well as the east side.

Body Of Man Found Outside Home

Believed Frozen On Verandah Of Deserted House

Almond Boyd, 40-year-old Marmora township carpenter, was today found dead and covered with snow outside his deserted family homestead, three miles west of Marmora village.

He is thought to have frozen to death sometime before the snowfall last Tuesday. The door of the house was locked indicating he had never got inside before collapsing.

At press time Coroner Dr. Stanley R. Beatty of Madoc was not available to say whether or not an inquest will be held.

Boyd was discovered early today on the back verandah by two neighbors, Clarence Wallbridge and Art Peters. Both had come over to look around because Boyd had not been seen for several days.

Stayed In Marmora

A bachelor, Boyd has lived since September at the home of his uncle, Bert Boyd of Marmora.

Mrs. Boyd said her nephew went out to work in the village last Saturday morning and she has not seen him since. During the week she made several inquiries among his friends, but there was no clue to his whereabouts.

Today, Mrs. Boyd again phoned the home of Mr. Wallbridge asking if he had seen Almond. This time Mr. Wallbridge went over to the deserted Boyd homestead, a short distance away, to investigate. He was joined by Mr. Peters.

They looked around but saw no sign of life and were about to leave when Mr. Wallbridge decided to take a closer look at what he believed to be part of an old mattress on the back verandah. When he brushed away the snow he found Boyd's frozen body.

Boyd comes from a family well-known in the Marmora district. He was born on the family home-[illegible] James Boyd. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Boyd.

He was educated at Blairton school.

Left are a brother Harry of Marmora, and three sisters—Leona Boyd, Toronto; Mrs. George Lummis (Thelma), Madoc; and Mrs. Jack Gray (Jean), Gananoque.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Maple Cattle Breeders' Membership Approaching 5,000 . . . Harry Kennedy and Stuart Whittington Re-elected Directors . . . . Warble Fly Campaign Meeting Friday, March 21 . . . . Auction Sale of Holsteins Down $5,000 . . . . Few Winter Meetings Left.

Harry Kennedy and Stuart Whittington were re-elected directors of the Maple Cattle Breeders Association from its Peterborough branch Thursday night at the Y.M.C.A. Seventy-five of the local members attended.

Voting delegates to the annual meeting of the Association at Maple, March 25 were elected as follows: Edgar Buck, William Whitred, Clarence Tedford, Leonard Hawthorne, Harry Faulkner, Clarence Johnston, Norman McConkey, Stuart Whittington and Harry Kennedy.

Present Thursday night from Maple were: President R. J. Darlington, Veterinarian Dr. D. C. MacKay, secretary-manager G. W. Keffer and secretary-treasurer A. E. Snider.

Mr. Snider's financial statement showed an operating surplus last year of $15,380.48.

Total receipts were $208,846.13 in the following details: Members' fees for services $188,507.50; semen sale $6,124; profit on sale of bulls $2,827.63; sale of manure, etc. . . . $150; grant from Province of Ontario re inseminations $11,237.

Expenses amounted to $193,465.70 as follows: livestock keep including caretaking, feed, hay, caretakers' supplies $15,722.01; technicians' salaries and expenses $128,099.98; administrative expenses including salaries, mileage supplies, etc., $26,038.08; miscellaneous expense $6,713.44; depreciation $15,956.80; transportation and buying, expense of bulls $935.49.

The statement itemized the expenditure accounts and also the depreciation details.

Mr. Kennedy reported Maple as the largest of the artificial breeding units in the province with a total of 37,200 cows bred in 1951 as compared with Oxford unit 25,000; Hamilton unit 21,000; Waterloo 13,600; Quinte Breeders (Belleville) 19,600; and the specialized Lambton unit 1,700. Expected total for this year will exceed 150,000.

"Maple's service charge since June 1945 has remained at $5 in ... said. "Members are getting a lot of value for that same five dollar bill. Heifers are coming along in good size and production, and the Association has had one of its most successful years.

Our aim is to pass along the profits to the members, but we can't get much from the same $5 fee. In that respect you are getting more for your money through the year's services.

The Peterborough branch is now starting its fifth year. In members' cows we are in fourth place to York with 6,800; Simcoe 5,700; Ontario county 5,500 and Peterborough more than 4,000."

435 Local Members

President R. J. Darlington congratulated local farmers on their membership increase last year from 243 to 406, a gain of 163. Since the first of this year, the Peterborough members have moved up in number to 435.

"The Association's membership was 4,627 at Dec. 31 last, not including the members of four subunits in northern Ontario, at Rainy River, New Liskeard, Fort William and Sault Ste. Marie. Deliveries to those groups are made by plane from Malton, reaching their destinations over night, almost as soon as the services in the central counties. Total membership is expected to be 5,000 by the end of 1952 if conditions remain favorable.

G. W. Keffer said the association "never estimated our increase of 47 per cent this year, and we did not extend our area to get it."

No Pressure Effort

The Peterborough record was exceptionally good, he said. "Your increase in members did not cost us a cent. There has been no one in this district trying to persuade farmers to join. That has been left to themselves, and I may say that the Association has been selling itself".

That is a most encouraging progress, and puts 1951 at the top of our records. We appreciate the co-operation from this area, and the work of your directors, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Whittington. It looks to me now that we need it more than ever."

Some of the figures quoted by Mr. Keffer were in the number of breed services: Holsteins 18,771, an increase of 2,000; Jerseys 2,953, a decrease of 600; Ayrshires 2,040, an increase of 440; Guernseys 747, a decrease of 250. He said that some of the Jerseys and Guernseys were bred to beef bulls, crossing to beef. Shorthorns bred were 8,241, an increase of 5,000; and Hereford's 3,192 since May 1st last. That total was around 37,000, with 36 bulls in the barn.

Mr. Keffer said that Stuart Whittington was the only beef man on the board of directors, and was selected to help in buying beef breed animals.

Dr. MacKay gave a practical talk on ways by which farmers can assist the technicians. Tributes were paid to Gordon LaPlante and his assistant Harold Keates on the faithful manner in which they had carried out their work.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, conducted the election of directors and delegates.

JUNIOR GRAIN CLUB

The Junior Grain Club, beginning its second year program, has elected the following officers: President Neal Whitfield of Fraserville; Vice-President Robert Hutchison of Otonabee; Secretary John Waterman of North Monaghan.

The other members are: David Stewart, R. A. Davidson, Gerald Bolton, Guelda Bolton, Eldon Van Volkenburg and Howard Johnston.

FROM THE SOIL

An antibiotic is a substance used by microbes to make war on other microbes. In medicine the word is applied to drugs which kill disease germs with microbes from the soil. Penicillin is one; aureomycin is another.

FOR PRODUCER TOO?

Effects of foot and mouth disease appearing in the news this week included requests to the Ontario government for maintenance of salary of 21 employees laid off at the government owned stockyards in Toronto.

And in the west, packing house workers already out of work asked for the difference between their wages and unemployment insurance. On that score, what might be said for the farmer who took a loss of nine cents a pound in the expected price for five steers that went to market on the day the U.S. embargo was announced?

To what source could he as a producer apply for something like nine cents a pound on five animals averaging perhaps 1,000 pounds?

WON IN HAVANA

Winner of second prize in the senior heifer calf class in the Jersey cattle section of the International Exhibition at Havana, Cuba, last week, was Basil's Pilgrim's Spot, formerly of Bailieboro. This young animal was donated by Harry Gainer to the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club building and sale in 1951, was purchased by Hays Limited of Oakville, and was included in the Hays exhibit of 81 Jerseys sold in Cuba.

WARBLE FLY MEETING

R. H. Graham of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is coming to Peterborough Friday, March 21 for a meeting at 2 p.m. in Frank Paterson's office to plan the second year campaign against the warble fly.

The thorough job done by municipal officers and their assistants in the southern part of Peterborough last year will no doubt be repeated this season. Reeves, municipal clerks and others are being urged to attend this meeting.

The winter's series of farm conventions and conferences is approaching the end of the long schedule. A few events are left for March. Producers will be chiefly interested in the Ontario beef bull show and sale, March 11-12, at the Coliseum, Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Herefords and Aberdeen-Angus will be shown and sold on the first day and Shorthorns on the second.

Finally, on March 27, there is the annual meeting of Canadian Co-Operative Wool Growers Association at the Royal York.

A long list of seed fairs in Ontario extends from Elgin county show at St. Thomas this week to the South Cochrane fair at Mathewson on April 19. They are all part of the comprehensive promotional work carried on by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

CO-OPERATIVE CONGRESS

Total membership increased from 722,971 to 798,843 in the year ending July 31 last, as reported at the 43rd annual congress of the Co-Operative Union of Canada in Ottawa this week. The number of affiliate associations was up from 933 to 954.

Total business dropped from $559,057,000 to $555,008,000. That recession was attributed largely to reduced prices for low quality grain affected by freezing in the west. Co-Operative Wheat Pools in the prairie provinces account for a large part of the marketing co-operative business in Canada.

J. E. O'Meara, economist with the federal department of agriculture, warned in statistical reports that co-operative members were slowly losing control of their own enterprises in the last seven years.

Members owned 59.4 per cent of their organizations in 1947, but that proportion had dropped to 45.9 per cent last year. He called this a "dark overtone on the co-operative horizon."

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, told the congress that the International Wheat Agreement was the first and only substantial step so far made in the direction of distribution of food to hungry nations.

"There can be no peaceful living for us here until we help other countries to come up to our own standards. The people of Asia want food, land and human dignity."

An international program of distribution was necessary to meet emergency shortages and famines, to arrange holding of reserve stocks of food in an international pool, and take up surpluses that clog markets and discourage production.

WINNERS IN CUBA

Holsteins bred in Canada won 18 of the 20 classes at the Cuban International Exhibition at Havana. Grand champion male was Waybrook R. A. Peter, bred by Orvan Chambers of Wilfrid, Ontario county, and now owned by Alberta Tamargo Sanchez of Havana. Reserve grand champion was High Point Texal Sovereign, bred by Smith Brothers, of Port Perry, also of Ontario country. He was junior champion for Roman Brothers of King, Ont., at the C.N.E. last year.

Grand champion female was Robros Dixie Posch, bred by W. H. Robinson of Georgetown, Ont. She was also winner of the five-day competition for total fat production, and second for milk production in the same period.

INFECTION IN EUROPE

The March issue of the Canadian Hereford Digest provided the following glimpse at foot and mouth disease areas in Europe: "The livestock population of western Europe is being decimated by one of the worst epidemics of foot and mouth disease to strike the continent in a long time. So far many thousands of animals have been destroyed as veterinary authorities move to bring the disease under control.

A direct result of the disease has been the reduction of the British bacon ration from four to three ounces. In Switzerland about 2,000 head of livestock have been destroyed. In Britain 4,332 cattle have been destroyed as well as 2,332 sheep, 1,870 pigs and four goats. In Britain the disease has occurred in Norfolk, Suffolk and Yorkshire."

MOSTLY PERSONAL

Press reports from Toronto this week intimated that Hon. W. A. Goodfellow has been ordered by his physician to take a complete rest . . . Ontario Hereford Breeders' Association has accepted the invitation of Col. F. E. Birdsall of Asphodel to hold their annual field day this summer at his farm overlooking Rice Lake . . . Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, and Stuart Bowman of the seeds branch of the federal Department of Agriculture, motored to London, Ont., Wednesday, mainly for ideas, displays, etc. which might be transported from the Western Ontario seed fair, to the Central Ontario Spring Show here Mar. 26-28 . . In the south lately have also been Mr. and Mrs. James T. Brown of Newcastle. They got down as far as Texas.

AUCTION DOWN $5,000

Closing of the United States market to Western Ontario cattle Feb. 28 depressed sales of pure bred dairy cattle from $75 to $100 per head and lopped nearly $5,000 from one auction of 48 Holsteins.

Restrictions to prevent spread of the foot-and-mouth disease prevent export of livestock to the United States.

Hardy Shore, of Glanworth, Middlesex, said prices at his auction were lowered because American buyers were not present.

Better Than Expected

The 48 Holsteins, he sold—composed of two bulls, four grade heifers and the remainder pure-bred cows—netted $15,444.

"This was slightly above the price we had anticipated in view of the restricted market and the current hesitancy of breeders to purchase cattle," he said. "However under normal conditions these animals should have brought close to $20,000.

He said the current situation would not stop further sales.

"We sold the lot in less than four hours, with good bidding and attendance. Although prices may be down we shall continue sales," he said. All buyers were from Western Ontario.

Top price was $375 for a seven-year-old purebred cow.

Finds Scores Of Juniors Not In Clubs

An incomplete survey of rural youth of Peterborough has provided Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, with the names of scores of boys and girls who have not yet joined one of the junior project clubs.

Letters of enquiry, soliciting assistance, were sent to school teachers, directors of the Hog Producers Association, members of Maple Cattle Breeders Association, all the members of the 1951 clubs, Junior Farmers and Club Leaders.

The result was a listing of names which become a challenge to Mr. Bell.

"We are very grateful for the co-operation we received in obtaining all those names," he said. "If each name developed into a new club member we might nearly double the number of our clubs, providing we could get sufficient leaders."

These young folks live across the county, from Omemee to Havelock and Trent River. One of the returned sheets listed the names of 23 boys and 12 girls in the Norwood-Warsaw area. Of all prospective club workers only four boys were attached to any project last year. Eleven others on a Warsaw list have had no club experience. Four of seven from Ida in Cavan have taken part in club activities.

Those figures suggest the potential of the further extension of the junior clubs in the Peterborough district. The ideal of the Department representatives is to recruit all the boys and girls from 12 to 20 years of age into the clubs of their preference.

Interest of parents is essential, and an effort will be made to renew appeals to them to encourage and support the young folks of their families to desire club association and experience. The investment is not in a dairy or beef calf, a plot of grain or a pair of pigs, but actually in the young people themselves, leading them in those early formative years into a more active and positive approach to life.

Organization of clubs for the new season will soon be under way. Three have already been set the others will follow.

The appeal to parents by Mr. Bell is really from the young folks themselves. He and Mr. Paterson are their representatives, speaking for them, and there has been so much quickening of rural affairs in the county this winter that Mr. Bell has recently been altering his estimate of eventual club membership, revising his hopes upward.

The junior farmer motto is "Self Help, Community Betterment." The boys study projects on soils, grasses, more efficient farming, while the girls learn more about sewing, cooking and home management.

Community Betterment—Many clubs have organized choirs, drama groups, clean-up-paint-up campaigns which also includes home beautification. Other clubs carried out a mailbox painting scheme. All this benefits a community.

Miss Saracuse congratulated Durham County on being one of the first counties in Ontario to organize a Junior Farmers' Association.

The next meeting will be held on March 26 at Orono. Mr. Weston Bannister, prominent Durham farmer, is guest speaker. For entertainment at this meeting there will be an inter-county square dance contest. The winning group will take part in an inter-county square dance contest at Peterborough on Thursday evening, March 27, which is the concluding program of the Central Ontario Spring Show. The Harmonizers will also represent Durham County at Peterborough on Thursday night. This program is being staged by the Juniors in nine counties from Ontario to Frontenac.

MISS ELEANOR SARACUSE, President of Ontario Junior Farmers, welcomed by Ray Challice of Cavan, President of Durham Juniors, on her recent visit to their county meeting at Orono.

Miss Eleanor Saracuse Visits Durham Juniors

Eleanor Saracuse, president of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association, was the guest speaker at the Durham County February meeting at Orono on Wednesday, February 27, with around 75 juniors in attendance from every township in the county.

Miss Saracuse outlined the work the Provincial Association has been doing. Last year they entertained two junior farmers from Alberta; Four H-er's from U.S.A.; four Scottish juniors and six farmers from England. In return, Ontario were guests at Washington, D.C.; West Virginia and a delegation of 30 juniors attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Last fall a machinery club was successfully completed, ending with a tractor rodeo in the Coliseum, Toronto.

The one week Provincial Leadership Training Camp was held as usual at Lake Couchiching, and 12 one-day Leadership Schools were held across the province. Also the three-day conference at Guelph and the anual convention held every January at the King ...

Mr. Oakley Carley, Cavan, an enthusiastic promoter of folk schools, said they originated in Denmark, taking the place of our high schools. The folk schools in Denmark are residential schools lasting five months in the winter for the boys and three summer months for the girls. Four years ago the first permanent folk school in Canada was organized by John and Betty Madson at Unionville in York County. This has led to many smaller weekend or longer folk schools in Ontario counties. Mr. Carley had some examples of clay moulding done at a recent school at Unionville.

Farncomb LeGresley moved a vote of thanks to Miss Saracuse, and Glenn Larmer to Mr. Carley.

The Harmonizers from Ebenezer (a junior group of about fifteen young men) under the leadership of pianist Mrs. Glenn Pickle, sang two interesting numbers.

Organized recreation, under the leadership of Muriel and Hazel White, was enjoyed by all.

Few Forced Air Dryers In Ontario Barns

Joseph Lanthier of Gormley estimates at "about a dozen" the number of air-drying mows in Ontario.

Manager of Leitchcroft Farm was advocating the forced air method of curing hay in a talk at Elgin county seed fair. In Pennsylvania, he said, more than 800 farmers have put in fans and air ducts. New York, Michigan and Ohio raise the total to more than 2,000.

Elgin farmers were missing the boat in not going in for mow drying of hay. It was not something that required a lot of thought, nor was it a costly undertaking for the advantages it afforded. It was simply a system of forcing natural air through a hay mow.

The usual system followed was to build a slatted floor six to eight inches above the floor of the mow, with an air duct along one side, and install a 36-inch fan, powered by a five horsepower motor at the opening of the duct.

Six Mows Equipped

The secret was to insure that all the air got up through the hay. Using this method, Mr. Lanthier said, a farmer could dry from 30 to 35 tons of hay in a mow over a period of 10 to 12 days.

Leitchcroft Farm installed their first mow drying unit six years ago, and now have six mows equipped. The fan costs around $250 and the motor $350 to equip a 30 to 35 ton mow.

"Even during the rainy season last year, mow drying was found to be thoroughly effective with no difficulties from excess moisture and high humidity. About 14 days were given to the drying mow, and about 250 tons of hay were dried at the farm."

"As a result of the air drying we have been doing, and from other observations I have made, I am firmly convinced that we as farmers and livestock producers are missing one of the best opportunities to put up first class roughage when we do not investigate the merits of mow-drying hay."

Ensiling Grass

... reasons for poor grass ensilage was the tendency to cut clover and grasses too late."

He advocated cutting before June 15, in fact before the regular haying was begun. While some farmers were preparing grass silage without treatment, he believed in the use of molasses at the rate of 40 to 50 pounds to the ton. Others used ground grain. The advantage of this practice was to set up fermentation with the grass lacking in sugar and carbohydrates.

Some grass ensilage had an evil smell, Mr. Lanthier said, because the proteins break down before the pickling process starts. A farmer should be careful about the amount of moisture put in the silo, and should also use molasses or some other preservative to overcome the objectionable odor.

He should also make sure that doors and all other openings were sealed, and should make a good job of packing the silage when sealing it off. Spoilage could be kept at a minimum by proper packing and sealing, and avoiding excess moisture. The proper moisture content should not be more than 70 per cent.

Canadian Jerseys Dominate

Canadian Jersey cattle exhibited for the first time at the International Exhibition held last week in Havana, Cuba, made practically a clean sweep of their classes. The entire exhibit of 81 Jerseys was sold in Cuba.

The cattle were shown by Hays Ltd., of Oakville, Ont. Hays won the grand champion male with the young bull, Manor Avon Val's Bas, bred by William Davies & Son, Palermo, Ont.

Judge Dr. W. W. Yapp of Urbana, Ill., internationally known dairy authority, described the young bull as "one of the best I have ever seen at that age."

Reserve grand champion female was Fairmount Havana Queen, winning senior heifer calf. She was bred by George H. Innes, Fairmount Farm, Woodstock, Ont., whose herd also furnished several other winners, including four animals, get of one sire, the highlight of this section of the show. These animals were sired by Mr. Innes' herd sire, Brampton Jest Beacon. Best pair of heifer calves was Fairmount Jester Beacon's Helen and Fairmount Havana Queen.

Ask Agreement Newsprint Price

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP).—Representative Lindley Beckworth (Dem. Tex.) Thursday asked price director Ellis Arnall to seek an understanding with Canadian officials that Canadian newsprint price will not be raised without prior consultation with United States officials.

Beckworth made the request as chairman of a House of Representatives sub-committee on newsprint.

In a letter to Arnall, Beckworth said his group had heard "reports of rumors that the Canadian newsprint manufacturers or some of them were considering another increase in their prices."

Can Rehabilitate 100,000 People

MONTREAL, March 7—(CP)—More than 100,000 Canadians, men and women of working age, who suffer from physical disabilities that prevent them at present from earning their own living, can be rehabilitated to the social and economic advantage of Canada, Labor Minister Gregg told the Montreal Kiwanis Club Thursday.

In conjunction with the provinces and various voluntary agencies, the federal government has in mind giving effect to such a program, he said.

The program, he declared, must include medical treatment, therapy, convalescence, vocational guidance and training. All this will be directed toward eventually placing the rehabilitated person in a suitable job in industry.

"The project is both economically and socially sound," Mr. Gregg said. "It makes plain common sense that the nation, the community, the family and the person himself are better off if he is working for a living than if he has to accept a disability pension."

Premier Of Nova Scotia Predicts Surplus In 1952

By The Canadian Press

Nova Scotia may have a deficit for the current fiscal year, but Premier Angus L. Macdonald said Thursday he predicted a surplus of $525,000 for 1952-53.

In tabling his budget estimates Thursday in the legislature, Mr. Macdonald, who also is provincial treasurer, said he will deliver his budget speech in a day or two. He said in an interview that no new taxes are planned and increased revenue is expected from a new federal-provincial tax agreement.

In British Columbia, D. J. Proudfoot (L-Victoria) suggested that the legislature "slap a ban" on the export of iron ore from the province to build up provincial industry. He said a major steel industry would be started in B.C. if ore had to be processed before it was shipped out.

Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader in the B.C. legislature, charged that [illegible] family things were going on [illegible] the government's purchasing system and advocated a budget control division similar to Saskatchewan's to promote efficient management.

Wants Action

Hugh John Flemming, Progressive Conservative leader in the New Brunswick legislature, said he wants something done about the province's sales tax.

The social services and education tax was "a nuisance and a burden" and should be abolished. He pledged that his party would maintain all existing social services if it were returned in a provincial election. One is rumored for this year.

In Edmonton, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, Alberta health minister, cast his criticism at other provinces. He said that hospital care schemes in Saskatchewan and British Columbia were financially unsound. He said Alberta's plan of making a $1-a-day charge for hospital care was the "fairest and most democratic" that can be found.

Industries Minister Dr. J. L. Robinson told the Alberta House that there will be more layoffs at packing plants in the province unless the bans by Ontario and British Columbia are lifted soon.

Premier Douglas Campbell of Manitoba said it would be premature for Manitoba to make recommendations to the federal government regarding payment of compensation to packinghouse workers laid off because of hoof-and-mouth disease [illegible] would be taken by the federal government."

He said federal action on the whole was satisfactory in diagnosing and treating the disease.

U.S. Army Investigating Case Of General's Diary

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The U.S. Army disclosed Thursday it is driving deeper into the curious case of an American general who jotted down his personal views about war with Russia in a diary which was photographed later by Soviet agents.

An army spokesman said an investigation into the situation involving Maj.-Gen. Robert W. Grow has not been completed in all details. Grow kept his diary while military attache at the American Embassy in Moscow.

Information obtained so far, the spokesman said, shows that:

While Grow was in Frankfurt, Germany, last summer, an individual, believed to be a Soviet agent, apparently gained access to Grow's room during his absence. The diary was removed, portions of it photographed, and then it was returned before it was missed.

Photostatic copies were delivered to a Richard Squires, described as a British writer, who incorporated the material in a book called On the Path to War. Its object was to show that the U.S. wants to launch a war on Russia.

The translation of a chapter from the book includes what Squires states are excerpts from Grow's diary. Included were these statements:

"War. As soon as possible! Now!"

"This is the year!" (alleged to have been written Jan. 9, 1951.)

In answer to questions, army spokesmen said no charges have been made by the army against Grow. So far the investigation apparently has disclosed nothing to show that the general violated any regulation.

Spokesmen said there was no order forbidding military attaches from keeping diaries. But army officials made no effort to conceal their surpise that an officer of such rank, serving in a delicate diplomatic post, should put in writing his personal views about war with another country and then leave the material where it might be stolen.

Red Cross Saved Citizens $41,000 In Transfusions Help People In Many Ways

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

Citizens of Peterborough were saved $41,000 in 1951 by just one of the many services of the Red Cross in this city.

The blood donor service is considered one of the most important activities of the Red Cross in this community. This service means that whenever a blood transfusion is needed by patients in either the Civic or St. Joseph's hospital it is available and available free of charge. In the majority of Ontario communities, patients are required by hospitals to pay approximately $20 for blood transfusions. By multiplying this amount with the number of blood transfusions given in 1951, (2,050), the quoted figure is reached that represents a great financial saving made possible by the Red Cross.

Others Help

The numerous other services provided by this organization in Peterborough, although they do not so directly show financial benefits, nevertheless do represent a great saving as well as valuable aid to many in the community.

In many of the services there is a saving, because all of the workers in the Peterborough branch of this national organization are volunteers, and consequently the administration costs are kept to the minimum.

The loan cupboard is another of the important services provided by the Red Cross. In this cupboard are hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches, air cushions, back rests, rubber sheeting and many other types of sick room equipment that are loaned out free of charge.

Visit Sick

The Red Cross also has a very active visiting committee. During the past year many sick people and shut-ins were visited. This committee also sent Christmas gifts to veterans of this district who were patients in hospitals, and provided Christmas hampers for needy families in the district who were not looked after by any other groups.

One of the Peterborough branch's projects is the Red Cross outpost hospital at Apsley. After rebuilding and equipping this branch continues to pay for repairs and equipment and provides a part-time doctor service. The nurses and paid and the provisions are supplied by the Ontario Division of the Red Cross.

This hospital at Apsley is only one of 20 outpost hospitals in Ontario that are instrumental in saving many lives each year because of their availability in isolated districts.

Swimming Classes

The proximity of so many lakes and swimming bathing beaches makes drowning a very real danger in Peterborough. To reduce deaths by drowning in the city the Red Cross has been conducting classes to train instructors in swimming and water safety. These instructors then conduct similar classes and Red Cross awards are presented to pupils successful in the tests.

This organization also conducts classes to train instructors to help physically handicapped polio victims in the city and district.

The home nursing classes held in the city by the Red Cross are becoming of ever-increasing importance.

In the Civil Defence plan for Peterborough this organization has been given the responsibility for nutrition, clothing, shelter and registration of victims.

National Organization

The Canadian Red Cross is a national organization and as such many of its services are operated on the national and provincial level in the interests of economy.

However this indirect method of administration should not make these services any less real to people in communities such as Peterborough. The majority of these services are as available to Peterborough as to any other community.

These services include disaster relief, services for veterans and dependents, Junior Red Cross services, womens work and international relief, Canadian Red Cross Corps, outpost hospitals and nursing stations, health and safety services and travelling dental coaches.

Work In Korea

The Canadian Red Cross has personnel working in Korea and the national blood donor service is providing blood for Korea as well as stock piling it for national defence.

This Peterborough branch as one of the 280 branches in Ontario has national and international obligations as well as local responsibilities. It is for these combined services that this organization needs money and is making an appeal through the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign, March 7 to 15.

Last year, the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Red Cross received $22,000 from the fund.

Sees Alberta Facing Stiff Competition

VANCOUVER, March 7—(CP)—A forecast that completion of the trans-mountain pipeline will not immediately open up a market for Alberta oil in the northwestern United States was given here this week.

At a press conference, T. S. Peterson, head of Standard Oil of California which operates Standard of British Columbia, a subsidiary, said the $83,000,000 Edmonton-Vancouver pipeline "is not going to put the whole Pacific northwest at your doorstep."

He said the pipeline was a wonderful thing, vital insurance against oil shortages on the coast in times of crisis. However, it would not be economically feasible under normal conditions to move oil into the U.S. market on a competitive basis.

(Preliminary work on the pipeline has started. It is expected oil will be flowing in 1954).

Mr. Peterson put it this way: "Canadian oil would have to compete with California oils in Pacific Northwest states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho. And you can be sure California oil men will not gracefully step aside."

Initial Effort

"About 45,000 barrels a day—enough to meet British Columbia demand—will flow through the line initially. It will cost nearly so same price as California oil is dropped here now.

"Your best hope is for the U.S. government to remove a tariff of about 18 cents a barrel against oil imports to that country, but they are not likely to do that unless the domestic supply runs low."

Even so the picture was far from gloomy. Expanding British Columbia industry would call for more and more oil and the more that can be pumped through the line the lower the cost.

To supply the coast market now California is delivering 970,000 barrels daily, including 15,000 barrels imported from Borneo.

On the basis of computed oil reserves, this supply can be continued for at least another five years, Mr. Peterson said.

New discoveries and further technological developments could considerably extend that period.

The travelling booksellers say that if this sales method proves successful in eastern Ontario, more rolling units will be added later this year.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Elderly Burleigh Resident Miss Emma Reid Turns 86

MISS EMMA REID

One of the oldest residents of Burleigh township, Miss Emma Reid, will celebrate her 86th birthday Saturday.

Miss Reid lives with a brother, Gordon, and a niece, Isabel ,on a farm at Woodview.

Her parents moved close to Mount Julian from Warsaw when she was quite young.

On obtaining her education in the old log school house, S.S. 1A Burleigh, she went to Rochester, U.S.A., at the age of 16, where she worked for 26 years, then she came back to the homstead where she has resided for the past 44 years.

Her memory is still keen and she tells of many interesting things that happened in bygone days.

There were no churches at Mount Julian when she first lived there, and some of the roads were of the old corduroy-type with logs laid side by side and no earth over them to cushion the bumps for travellers.

A journey to Lakefield by team and wagon meant an early strart before dawn and arrival home in the late evening.

Miss Reid recalls a journey she made on foot as a child with her sister and brother. Her parents had just finished making maple syrup in the spring and the children decided they would take some to their grandmother in Warsaw.

To go by road meant a journey of 30 miles by team. But they took their pail of syrup and walked on the ice from Mount Julian across Stony Lake to McCracken's Landing, thence on to Warsaw, a journey of 11 miles. They made the return trip the same day.

Miss Reid thinks the winters then were much more severe than now, as no one in these times would walk across the ice once syrup time was over.

She tells too of how many a traveller was guided home across Stony Lake winter and summer by the light that was always kept burning at Mount Julian hotel.

When she returned from Rochester she taught Sunday school for a number of years at the then New Eden church.

She has seen six monarchs on Britain's throne. Miss Reid still has perfect hearing and good eyesight. She sews, reads, writes her own letters, and attends to many of the household duties each day. She goes to church regularly from early spring until late fall.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

Question: I read your column in the paper and know you help others so I am hoping you can help me. Recently I have gotten a Dutch Oven and I know that properly used meats are not supposed to taste like a stew. Could you help me out and tell me how it is done and also any recipes you

I know that wheat germ is very nutritious; have you any recipes using it in something small like cookies or muffins?— Mrs. T. M.

Answer: There are many readers who will want the answer to this good question. I shall give you the method of making my favourite

Pot Roast (Dutch Oven)

This is old-fashioned and I hope you are strict enough with your cooking to follow every detail. This is "different" but delicious.

Cut of beef should be a 4-lb. piece boned and rolled, blade or chuck beef. Besides it you will need ¾ cup sour cream which is easy and cheap to buy these days, salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic, 1 large carrot, 1 large onion, ¾ cup unsweetened apple juice (in the old days when sherry was commonly used in cooking it was the liquid used for pot roast), 3 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice. The sour cream should be lukewarm so stand it near the heat. Mix together some salt and peppefr and rub well into the surface of the meat. Sear all surfaces of the meat in about 3 tablespoons good drippings—this requires 12 minutes of constant turning, in the Dutch Oven without the trivet. Chop the garlic finely and add it and the thinly sliced carrot and onion, and cook while searing the meat during the last 3 minutes. Reduce heat as low as possible. Heat the unsweetened apple juice or cooking sherry and pour over the meat. Stir in the sour cream which should be warm by now, cover tightly and cook over as low heat as possible for 2¾ to 3 hours —until when meat is pierced with 2-tined fork it is quite tender. Remove meat to hot platter. Pour or skim off excess fat. Stir flour into cold water until smooth; stir this paste into gravy which you should make up to 2 cups with additional hot water or hot potato water. Stir until thick. Add lemon juice, and, if desired, 1 teaspoon sugar. This is ideal with matched or Duchess Potatoes.

Champion Drop Cookies

The great objection to wheat germ is its flavour. Fresh wheat germ tastes good. So much of it is allowed to get stale and rancid most folks think this is its normal taste.

One-half cup soft shortening, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 6 tablespoons light molasses, 1½ cups germ, 1 teaspoon each soda, salt, cinnamon, 2 cups rolled oats, ½ cup chopped nuts, 1 cup seedless or chopped raisins. Cream shortening then cream in sugar. Beat in eggs and molasses. Sift together the flour, soda, salt and cinnamon, and sift it over the creamed mixture and stir in. Stir in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet—pointing up the drops and having them 2 inches apart. (If you have time chill this dough before dropping—chilling prevents spreading.) Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 or 10 minutes.

Use wheat germ in making porridge—½ cup, for each 2 to be served, mixed with the regular cereal you are using, such as cornmeal, oatmeal, 3-grain cereal or cracked wheat cereal.

A good rule for the Dutch oven is to use it for everything you would either boil or bake or roast, but use an absolute minimum of water and heat. Watch this column for other wheat germ and Dutch oven comment.

Question: Would you please send me some recipes how to make doughnuts with cream, buttermilk and milk. Also some recipes about using leftover oatmeal . . . would appreciate other cookie recipes too with oatmeal. Mrs. Wm. R.

Answer: See above for oatmeal cookie recipe.

When I have not more than ½ cup leftover oatmeal I add it to the soup pot. OR use it instead of breadcrumbs in your meat balls or meat loaf. But the best solution is to very slightly reduce your amount of water and cereal used until you make just the right amount. This is difficult of course, if your family is large and some of them have a choice between cereal and eggs.

Sweet Milk Doughnuts

Three and one-half cups sifted flour (plus a little more), 4½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and salt, 3 tablespoons soft shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup

Minister's Children Chatter Away In Chinese

TORONTO — (CP) — Margaret Honey, eight-year-old daughter of Rev. Floyd Honey and his wife of Toronto, may feel just a little superior to her two younger sisters. Margaret can speak two languages.

Neither Mary, 5, nor Elizabeth, 3, can speak English. It's not impossible to speak to these two Canadian girls. But you have to speak Chinese.

Mary and Elizabeth can chatter away in Chinese. In fact, to them, English sounds like . . . well, Chinese.

Five years ago Mr. Honey, a United Church missionary, went to China. He took his wife, Mary and Margaret. Margaret could speak English before they went. Mary was too young to talk and Elizabeth was born in China.

The children's playmates in the Far East were Chinese.

For some time Mr. and Mrs. Honey tried to make English the language of the home. But the Chinese playmates won out—except for Margaret, who's bilingual. But even Margaret's English has a tinkling musical tone which speaks of the five years in China.

"At first, to make sure they understood us, too, we had to explain things in Chinese to them," laughed Mr. Honey. "Soon we found we were speaking only Chinese to them."

Fashion Festival Favoring Business Girl

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — The business girl rather than the tea-sipping matron is being courted by at least one large Toronto department store (Simpson's) in its spring fashion parade.

What the store describes as a fashion festival has replaced the fashion show of other years. Instead of expensive creations models will display neat little numbers, modestly priced, at seven 15-minute shows daily for the next two weeks.

Star of the festival is Coco, a five-year-old white poodle belonging to Mrs. Gordon Graham of Burlington. The "poodle" hair cut, the new rough "poodle" cloth all are reasons for Coco's presence at the shows.

There's a good deal of business going on in addition to the modelling. Demonstrations are given in fur-cutting and matching, tailoring, hat-making. Suggestions are offered in selecting a wardrobe and in packing clothes for travelling.

Finally, for the pint-sized guests, there is a puppet show to keep them entranced while mother figures out what kind of hat to buy for the Easter parade.

Models Steal The Glamor In Second Fashion Show

Fashion shows of 1962 and 1972 are shaping up in Peterborough and should be pretty terrific. Models from as young as 18 months paraded in younger set spring fashions Thursday night for the benefit of nearly 1,000 spectators. For some of the nearly 50 models it was a second appearance, having become experienced in the Local Council of Women's original children's fashion parade last year. These walked most assuredly, hand on hip or prettily posed, down a long runway in Brock Ballroom.

Commentator Mrs. Maurice Holt remarked of the bathing suits "they seem to be noticed more for what's in them" but actually this statement applied to all of the clothes in this show. The dainty dresses and smart little outfits were indeed enchanting but it was usually the model's own sweet, shy smile and display of individual personality that attracted attention.

The audience too was different than most here in that it was liberally sprinkled with men — the fathers who couldn't keep the telltale glow of pride from showing nearly as well as their wives did. And quite a number of youngsters were watching their playmates perform with very critical eyes.

Sisters, Brothers, Twins

Sisters Anne and Mary Cahill opened the show in navy and red military capes and matching pillbox hats. Later they were seen in party frocks, Mary wearing forest green organdy with a crinoline, and small Anne in a blue eyelet organdy with pink velvet ribbon belt. Linda Laidlaw starred in a tiny lime green sun suit, the material frosted in gold, and a red corduroy slacks, jacket and beret ensemble, while older sister Judy who learned the modelling business last year showed an Easter hat and coat outfit and a pretty plaid dress.

Two sets of twins appeared together, first teen-agers Geraldine and Margery Vinette, then four-year olds Marlene and Kathleen Carr. Brothers David and Paul McMillan were in the show but they appeared always in brother and sister acts, David with Susan Cheetle and Susan Mills and Paul with Janie Dodds. Could be these fellows intend to play the field thoroughly.

Graham Gilgour had the honor to present the "Prince Charles suit" and wore a lapel button picturing the young heir to the British throne. Cooper Holt, another seasoned model, was extremely casual on the stage and walked about with hands thrust in the pockets of his sports jacket. John Wi[illegible] trunks when he removed the terry beach coat.

Darker Colors

Some new dark colors were featured on the little girls with navy taffeta the leader. Bonnie Payne started a series of these Sunday dresses as she opened the second half of the show, followed by Florrie Jean Hughes, Marilyn Darling, Diane Dalton and Barbara Succee broke the chain in a green taffeta (Barbara also modelled the controversial strides.) Blonde Susan McBride was adorable in a dark brown next-to-best dress and a revealing swim playsuit of white lace over red cotton.

Susan Mills was lovely in a navy and pink dress with a delicious pink straw hat on her silky blondes hair. Gail Maudsley wore a navy and white organdy frock and Susan Arcand modelled a classic style little girl's dress of dubonnet, light brown and white plaid. Janet Hurst showed a striking little dress of terra cotta and white pique. Judy Church was another seen in dark shades, hers of plaid gingham.

Janice Crary seemed to have copped the sweetest outfits. On her first appearance she was described from her undies out to her parasol of matching white dotted voile in a summer boardwalk ensemble. Later she modelled a quaintly styled pinafore of sheer white organdy tied over a dress in delicate pink shade.

Prim Little Misses

Susan Davern was very proper about her modelling and she looked adorable in her primness with her tightly braided pigtails. She appeared first in one of the classic navy coats with white lace collar and lace trim on her rolled brim hat with lipstick emphasizing her own coloring. For the finale she was in a rose organdy party frock. Brunette Mary Lou Sparrow modelled the lovely confirmation dress and veil to advantage and her dark beauty was also heightened in a white eyelet frock with deep band of pink at the hemline.

Older girls in the show were lovely models too. Beverley Truswell of Lakefield showed a shortie topcoat in the much-talked-of "poodle" cloth, worn over a chic navy suit. Florrie Jean Hughes showed a four-piece outfit in grey corduroy of slacks, weskit, jacket and skirt. Marilyn Darling wore an authentic tartan teamed with velveteen jacket. Ruth McKee showed the popular Eisenhower jacket in tangerine shade, and a white jockey cap, and later modelled a frock of pastel blue nylon [illegible] which was contrasted by [illegible] Goodman in carnation pink nylon and lace. Beverley also modelled a sophisticated red satin bathing suit.

With Grandmother

The youngest model was tiny Cathy Ann Constable and she started the parade with her grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Knott, but grandma's pace wasn't for her so she trotted ahead. The commentator described Mrs. Knott's clothes, too—the audience noted that Cathy Ann wore a soft yellow wool coat and hat.

"Frenchie" suits are most likely to catch the parents' favor for playtime this year and for dress wear the white flannel jackets shown with royal yisit crests on the pockets.

Among the other adorable children in the show were Sandra Lamb, Beverley Garside, Sandra Reichardt, Gloria Jean Hughes, Sandra and Maureen McWilliams, Gloria Ann Arcand, Jane Gray, Linda Hewitt, Sharon Reid of Lindsay, Carol Howe, Faye Braithwaite, Annabelle Morley, Leslie Dalrymple and Brenda Hutchinson.

At the conclusion Cooper Holt presented a sheaf of red roses to Mrs. A. B. Collis for the Local Council of Women with a message of appreciation extended by Mrs. Holt at the microphone.

Attractive stage setting and ramp were efficiently bordered with springtime flowers.

Home and School Association News

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Nomination of officers took place as well as "open house" at the [illegible] Home and School Association Tuesday evening.

Mrs. L. Monk presided and read a very effective letter written by the national president of Home and School, Mrs. M. D. McLellan. Mrs. McLellan compared the Home and School Association to the garden of two neighbors who, after taking down the fences and barriers between their lots, could help each other care for the flowers, trees etc. and thereby enjoy more fully the beauty of it all.

The morning class of Miss E. Carroll won the attendance prize.

The next Parent Education meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Porter 268 King George St. Tuesday March 11th. It was also announced that Mr. Cosbie [illegible] School, Toronto, will speak at Queen Mary auditorium, March 19th and all those interested were urged to attend.

Mr. J. Nichol addressed the parents explaining how the educational pendulum had swung from one extreme to the other, but the aim to-day is to strike a middle course in the teaching of children.

The nomination convener said a few words explaining the procedure of nominating, urging those eligible to vote to think about the candidates and give the matter some thought before doing so.

Elongated Handbag Leads, Fabrics Sparkle Styles

Long and flat, that's the new handbag silhouette for spring. But if you don't feel that this is the handbag for you, you needn't start to stow your belongings in a paper shopping bag. There's something for everybody this spring.

Though the trend is to the long and shallow, the bigger bag is here, too, and it's bigger than ever. Last fall, these large bags appeared for travel and casual wear but this spring, they're shown for business and afternoon suits, as well.

Generally, handbags are softer and more feminine. There's a squashy look about them. There is much tucking, pleating and draping. These are in leather as well as fabric, to harmonize with the soft look in spring ready-to-wear.

Sleek and sophisticated handbags have a deceptively flat look and little or no ornamentation. The interest here comes from the line of the bag itself.

For the spencer, the capelet, the waist-length coat, there are pert little handbags. These are small satchels or narrow, low boxes with handles that stand upright.

Patent handbags, returning each spring like birds from the south, are given freshness this year through the addition of stitching or piping in white. This piping is carried over to other leathers and colours, appearing on bags in navy calf, mushroom, taffy and benedictine.

Because blue is high fashion this year, it's important in handbags. But the burnished gold and bronze tones, ordinarily connected with fall, are important. And so are the subtle reds, including a new coral-red shade called "paprika". The variations rung on color are many. They may be cherry red with patent or possibly rosy lipstick red with navy blue calf.

Benedictine, burnished gold, deep, rich mahogany and all the other spicy and russet shades look best in the oversize bags. In the large, pouchy casual bags or the tailored shoulder bags, there's new and glowing color: sun coral, gay fuschia, sky turquoise, burnished gold, eggshell blonde and violette.

Served 31 Years In Exacting Job

MONTREAL —(CP) — Thirty-one years of service as a deportation officer have ended for Mrs. Eva Chevrier of Montreal. She recently retired from the Federal Department of Immigration.

As deportation officer she escorted women deportees to ships which would take them back to their homeland. Usually she had to bring them from far-flung parts of Canada.

Many of her charges were criminals or mental cases and while they were her responsibility she had to be with them constantly.

In some cases she was required to escort the deportee all the way home. One one occasion she accompanied a deranged woman from Sudbury, Ont., to her home in Georgetown, British Guiana.

After Canada opened wide her doors to immigrants following the First World War, Mrs. Chevrier's department was kept busy. She remembers one whole month when she never slept in a bed.

"I am so used to sitting up nights that now I have trouble sleeping" she says.

While many other charges were difficult, others had fallen into the "undesirable" category through sheer bad luck or illness and personal sympathy for them made Mrs. Chevrier's job even more trying.

She first began the work in 1921 when her husband was still Overseas with the armed forces. She has three cihldren and five grandchildren.

DOROTHY DIX

Teen-Agers Should Wait For Settled Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend has asked me to marry him when I finish high school, which will be in another year. I sometimes feel I'm too young to consider marriage, but he insists age make no difference when two people are in love. Do you agree with him or do you think we should wait? We also have his draft status to consider; he will probably go into the service within the next few months.

SUE

ANSWER: You are so right to delay marriage until you think you are old enough. Don't be rushed into so important a step. When you finish school your sweetheart will probably be in service, and will be too unsettled to marry. Waiting another year or two will see him back in civilian life and able to take up the project of a home and family.

Wife Is Bored

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I are both in our fifties, and have been married one year. We get along very well except that he doesn't like radio. When he comes home from work he has dinner, and then settles down to read for the evening. By 9:30 he is ready to retire. He never takes me any place, we have no company and I am really very lonely. I belong to several clubs but haven't gone to meetings since our marriage. I wouldn't leave my husband for anyone; he's a fine man, but I would like to get out more.

ANSWER: Be thankful for a happy, contented and settled husband, and don't yearn for the moon. Since you are home all day and probably don't have too much housework, you want activity in the evening; your husband's situation is just the opposite. He spends the day working and meeting people; by nighttime he's satisfied just to sit and read after one of your fine dinners. Why don't you get all your social activity during the day? You can listen to the radio all day if you like, attend club meetings, have people in for lunch or tea, go to the movies or a matinee. If you spend the day at things you like, the evenings will not seem so long or boring

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is 33, I am 25 and we have three children. He is very good, but I cannot make a go of our marriage. We have been married eight years. I knew I didn't love him when we were married but I thought I could change afterwards. Now I know my mistake. Besides, I have found a man I do like very much, and he likes me, but I can't make up my mind to get a divorce.

J. R.

ANSWER: You are indeed mixed up, and I think a long talk with your clergyman might help straighten things out for you. Your marriage had a very unfortunate foundation, both in your extreme youth and the fact that you didn't love your husband. The bridge has been crossed, and your present situation is not at all bad except for your own reaction to it. You have a good husband and lovely children; nothing finer could be possessed. Your own mind is where the trouble lies, and only you can cure it. Cast out this romantic obsession with another man; even if you were foolish enough to divorce your hausband and marry the other man, you would never be happy. Such marriages are doomed from the beginning. Give him up and concentrate on making a good home for your husband and children. You'll never regret it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend and I would like to get married, but his mother will not allow it until his twenty-first birthday, which is several months away. We were thinking of going to another state, but are afraid his mother will find out and do something. Some people told me to say we had to get married because I was expecting a baby (of course, this is not true). I don't want to do that because I wouldn't want to hurt his mother's feelings.

LORNA D.

ANSWER: How about the most direct solution to your problem—waiting until your boy friend is of age and marrying with the blessings of all concerned? You have just a few months to wait, and when you consider the years ahead of you, it isn't much. The plan suggested by your friends is as contemptible as anything I've ever heard, and you are to be commended in rejecting it. A marriage founded on such dishonesty could never be happy. Remember, a good beginning will make a good journey—through marriage as well as across country. Let your wedding day be a day of joy and honor; nothing less will be adequate.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 and for the past seven months have been going steady with Joe. He's 18, and I love him very much, but he is very mean to me in front of other people.

MARIE

ANSWER: Unless you are looking forward to a lifetime of being treated unkindly in front of others, better give Joe up right now. He will never behave any better, but will humiliate and embarrass you more and more. Find a nice boy who is attentive and considerate.

BROAD JUMPER — Yvette Williams, 22-year-old New Zealander, recently broke the world broad jump record by 1¾ inches, jumping 20 feet, 7¾ inches, although the record was not recognized since there was a slight wind assistance. She is New Zealand's chief hope in the Olympics at Helsinki this summer.

New Zealand Girl Expected Challenge Olympic Record

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z., March 7 — (CP) — Tall, attractive 22-year-old Yvette Williams in New Zealand's brightest hope for the Olympic games at Helsinki.

An all-round athlete, she has been dubbed the New Zealand Blankers-Koen. She has broken existing New Zealand records — usually her own—32 times and excels in so many events she cannot concentrate on them all.

She once went out to give a broad jump demonstration after eating six cakes, two cups of tea and a glass of water, and jumped 20 feet 6 inches, which equals the world's record held by Holland's Fanny Blankers-Koen. At this year's New Zealand championships she jumped 20 feet 7¾ inches, but the record was disallowed owing to a slight following breeze. She won the broad jump at the last empire games and now is jumping regularly near or over the 20-foot mark.

She also holds the New Zealand record for the discus throw at 134 feet 4½ inches, and the shot put, at 41 feet 8½ inches, both of which put her into Olympic class. In additon she is a sprinter and a member of relay teams. In the winter she captains her province at basketball.

Yvette is quiet and modest. She does not smoke and keeps in strict training the year round, with a rigorous schedule which prescribes bed by 9 o'clock most nights.

The other great hope in the athletic field is John Holland, who was narrowly beaten for first place at the last empire games in the 440 yards hurdles. He has improved since then and recently ran the distnace in 52.2, only three seconds outside the world record. Tall, finely-built and keen, Holland is a school teacher.

Reginald A. Douglas, a brilliant though so far inexperienced young sculler is also attracting notice. He has been racing in open competition only since last season, but his feats are comparable with those of Mervyn Wood, Olympic and world champion, over the same courses in New Zealand.

milk. Sift the flour, baking powder, spices and salt. Cream the shortening, then cream the sugar in eggs. Sift the dry mixture over alternately with the milk, stirring well between additions. If dough is too soft to handle add ½ cup additional sifted flour. Chill through. Roll out to 1/3 or ½ inch thickness and cut out with floured cutter. Heat fat to 390 deg. Fahr. (a cube of day-old bread will brown in 60 seconds in this) and slip in cut-out doughnuts, turning them over when under side is golden. Four are enough in the fat at one time. Drain on unglazed paper. Dredge with powdered sugar when cold.

What's Right?

A man asks your son a question and he answers with a "Yes" or "No."

WRONG: Interrupt to tell him he should say "Yes Sir" or "No Sir."

RIGHT: Wait until you are alone with him and then remind him that he should say "Yes Sir" and "No Sir," instead of embarrassing him in front of others.

Ed Wynn 50 Years In Show World

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (AP) —Fifty years ago, a stage-struck kid named Edwin Leopold ran away from his Philadelphia home to join a medicine show. Today he is still in show business, known to television fans as Ed Wynn.

Wynn's career, to be commemorated on his TV show Saturday night, has covered virtually every field of the entertainment business, including stage dramas and musicals, vaudeville, radio and movies. He has even played short engagments in a circus and a night club, so his scope would be complete.

The only medium he hasn't played is burlesque.

"I have never told an off-color joke to an audience," he said. "I'm proud of that."

Wynn is so firm on his point that he once advised a fellow musical: "You could be one of the biggest comedians in the country if you would only drop your dirty material." White dubbed him "The Preacher" after that incident.

Top Men

I asked Wynn to name the top comedians of his day. He listed 20 comics or teams, and I present them in more or less chronological order:

Weber and Fields, De Wolf Hopper, McIntyre and Heath, Montgomery and Stone, Raymond Hitchcock, George M. Cohan, Victor Moore, Bert Williams, Will Rogers, Al Jolson, W. C. Fields, Charlie Chaplin, Sir Harry Lauder, Jimmy Durante, Groucho Marx, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Danny Kaye and Jerry Lewis.

Of the living members on the list, only Victor Moore has been in the business longer than Wynn.

I asked the "perfect fool' about his reflections on TV comedy.

"Let me draw an analogy from the other media," he began. "When comedy began on the stage, it was strictly slapstick. But soon audiences became more educated, and the level of comedy rose.

"The same thing happened in the movies. But now movie audiences consider such things eorny. Radio, deprived of the sense of sight, at first relied on Dutch, Negro, Jewish and other dialects for comedy.

"But as TV develops, the comedy will become smarter."

How Canadian Women Increased Cost Of Living

By KAY REX, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Home-making, 1952 style, has become a penny-watching business, most of it concerned with food budgeting. Leaders of Canada's largest women's organizations agree on that point. The heads of several of these associations have offered a variety of suggestions about the cost of living, and how they are coping with it personally.

"We all know that we have to stretch meat by using it with a cheap filling such as bread crumbs," says Miss Anna Templeton of St. John's Nfld., organization secretary of the Jubilee Guilds of Newfoundland and Labrador.

Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, Ont., has found a home freezer one of the most economical ways to preserve food. Mrs. Summers is president of the 55-year-old Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

A volume of tips—including several family recipes—has been offered by the leaders of organizations which include the Dominion Women's Association Council of the United Church of Canada, the Hadassah Organization of Canada, Les Cercles des Fermieres of Quebec, the Canadian Association of Consumers and the National Council of Women.

The National Council of Women five months ago launched a Canadian "thrift" campaign to get women to save intelligently. Together with other organizations, and particularly with the C.A.C., the council has distributed innumerable household tips and recipes aimed at economy.

Needs First

The council slogan of the drive is "Buy only what you need, not what you want." It has introduced recipes such as the following for quick beef stew:

One pound hamburger, or leftover meat put through the grinder; two tablespoons fat; two tablespoons flour; one cup tomato juice; one cup diced cooked vegetables; one cup vegetable water; salt and pepper to taste.

Brown the hamburger or leftover meat in hot fat. Add flour and brown slightly. Add cup of tomato juice, vegetables, seasoning and vegetable water. Cook, stirring constantly, for 10 minutes.

Next: Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

(Editor's Note: The Canadian Press asked heads of a number of leading women's organizations for their views on how women are meeting the increased cost of living in their own homes and what organizations are doing to combat rising prices. Their replies have been incorporated in a series of articles of which this is the first.)

Modern Teaching

that the pupils do as they like," said the speaker. "But I hope they like what they're doing."

He refused to agree with the precept that "learning isn't fun."

Learn If Interested

"Research shows that when children are interested they learn much more quickly than when they're not interested," he said. Many a person, thought to be dull, shows an amazing knowledge of motor cars or hockey players.

"It's a matter of interest and it's essential that children should be interested in what they are doing."

To the charge that not enough facts are taught, Mr. Pearson said that nothing slips away faster from the mind than facts that are not being used. He suggested to the audience that they had forgotten their school-learned facts, apart from those they had used.

Another criticism, quite popular at the moment, is that modern educational methods are eliminating competition and when the child goes out into the workaday world he cannot face up to stern reality.

Mr. Pearson had an answer for that one, too:

"I'm thankful we've eliminated some of the competition that was in schools when I was a pupil," he said.

He pointed out that children come from all types of homes and environments. In some families there are no daily papers, no books, and they live away from a public library. They differ even in the food they eat and the amount of sleep they get.

"Some people would take all these pupils — varied as they are — and make them compete against each other on all subjects. And they expect uniform results."

"Competition of a whole class in all subjects is just as ridiculous as putting a one-legged man in a foot race with a sprinter," said Mr. Pearson.

Different Competition

To the contention that they must face this competition when thrown out on their own in the world, Mr. Pearson said "No." No pupil will ever again meet with that type of competition. He competes in a general way, only.

He gravitates toward the thing he does best, perhaps doctoring or bricklaying; and he competes in that limited field.

Mr. Pearson said he finds a place for competition in schools. The competitors, after sorting, compete in [illegible] music, for instance.

At the end of his half-hour address, he was thanked by Art Malby. He was introduced by Jack Davern, and President Walter Howell was in the chair.

Special guests of the Kiwanis Club were members of the Separate School Board and the Board of Education.

Many People Offer To Help Youth In Hospital

Several people have indicated a desire to help Fred Brant, since the story of the 24-year-old frostbite victim appeared Wednesday.

Today, Charles Holland, 85 Hunter St., west, said he has offered Brant a room in his home as soon as he is able to leave hospital.

Mr. Holland said he has been talking to Civic hospital superintendent John Hornal and asked him to tell Brant of his offer.

"I have an upstairs bedroom he can have until he can rehabilitate himself," Mr. Holland said. "Two business men have promised to give him part time employment," Mr. Holland added. "Neither job will pay very much, but with the free room, he should be able to clothe and look after himself."

Foot Amputated

Part of Brant's right foot has been amputated and it is believed it will be necessary to amputate the same part of his other foot, as it is not responding to treatment.

However, Mr. Holland said that both men who had offered to give him a job, knew of the man's handicap and believed he will be able to handle the work when he recovers.

A native of Lindsay, Brant was picked up in the city in January When he was released from jail after serving ten days, he had no money and no place to go and a few days later was again charged with vagrancy and sentenced to five days in jail. In the meantime, he had frozen both his feet in the sub-zero weather and after being in jail only a few hours, he was taken to hospital.

"I have fought for the underdog for years," said Mr. Holland who is extremely critical of the way the charge of vagrancy is used. Mr. Holland explained that about 10 years ago his own son was arrested, charged with vagrancy and sentenced to ten days in jail.

He was still in his teens and the boy was picked up under similar circumstances to Brant's arrest. However, Mr. Holland protested the conviction strongly and threatened to sue the city for $25,000 on the grounds that the [illegible]

"I had the boy out in the matter of hours," said Mr. Holland. The magistrate not only dismissed the charge when it was heard again in ten days, he gave the boy "an honorable discharge," because, they had nothing on him Mr. Holland said.

"The next day, a married man was picked up on the same charge" he continued. Not being a lawyer, Mr. Holland said he could not plead the man's case himself, but with the assistance of a lawyer, Mr. Holland obtained the man's release.

When the crown attorney was informed that a writ of habeas corpus would be issued, he was released immediately, Mr. Holland said.

Basic Protection

Since the signing of the Magna Carta, habeas corpus has been a basic protection afforded by the law in England and the Commonwealth. In effect, the crown must show a reasonable cause for keeping a person in jail, or else the person must be released.

Mr. Holland believes that police lay vagrancy charges too often when they have nothing on the person to back up the charge, and as a result, inflict even greater hardships on people who have done nothing wrong but who are merely unemployed and without money.

Until he recovers his health, Fred Brant will continue to receive public ward care in Civic hospital He has been given newspapers and magazines to read, and a relative who lives in the south end of the city has given Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army the money to pay for a radio which is connected at the head of his bed.

When he is able to leave hospital, he will not have to worry about where to go, because Mr. Holland has offered him a home, and arranged a job for him.

Fur Industry In Poor Shape

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP) — The cabinet was told today Canada's fur industry is on the skids and that the government is to blame for a number of reasons, including excessive tax.

The Canadian District Board of the International Fur and Leather Workers Union said in a brief that the situation is reaching a stage where the trade will have to cater only to the rich because prices are geting too high for the common citizens.

In another brief, the Montreal Fur Workers Union of the I. F. L. W. U. criticized the government for encouraging European furworkers to come here by giving them "inaccurate information" about job possibilities.

The submissions, made to a small cabinet group headed by Finance Minister Abbott, said the $87,500,00-a-year fur-production business has been placed in "a most grave situation" by government taxation and restrictive fiscal policies. Employment was being drastically cut and "prospects for the future are most disquieting."

One indication was a sharp drop in purchases of muskrat skins, "the backbone of the fur industry."

Canvassers Key To Success, Red Cross Told

LAKEFIELD, March 7 (ENS)—"The National Executive has done a certain amount in advertising and publicity, but the success of the Red Cross campaign as a whole depends on the canvassers," declared the Rev. Horace Kaye, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, addressing a dinner meeting held on Wednesday evening at the Lakefield Hotel. Attending were the canvassers for the coming campaign, members of the clergy, Reeve E. H. Northey, and members of the executive.

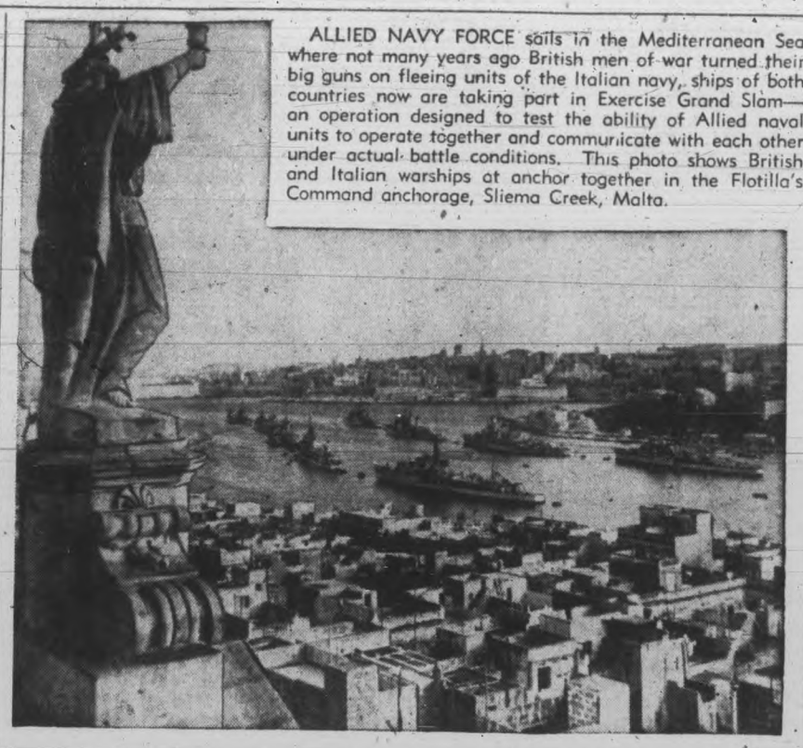
Introduced by campaign chairman W. E. Bailey, Mr. Kaye outlined a plan of canvass he considered suitable to follow, suggesting that the literature provided should be read over thoroughly so questions arising could be answered in a satisfactory manner. He outlined a few of the many phases of work done by the Red Cross, such as their blood transfusion service, outpost hospitals, water safety program and disaster relief.

"Wherever there is diaster, wherever there is human need and suffering, there is the Red Cross to help. I consider it an honor and a privilege to have even a small part in this national campaign," concluded Mr. Kaye, who was thanked by Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

Mr. Bailey then spoke briefly to the canvassers and distributed the campaign material. Each canvasser receives a detailed map of the territory for which he is responsible, with each house in his area clearly marked. In this way it is almost impossible to miss a single call. This plan was worked out several years ago by Mr. Bailey and has proved to be the most successful method. He also reminded the canvassers that the Lakefield quota had been raised from $800 to $1,000, and asked their sincere co-operation.

Reeve E. H. Northey also spoke briefly and extended his best wishes for a successful campaign.

Lakefield canvassers are: Mrs. H. Wilford, Mrs. Wallace Hendren, C. J. Davis, Arthur Kingdon, Oryille Payne, Carson Webster, Ellis Simpson, Thomas Allen, Mrs. H. Kidd, Ken Jenkins, Fred Remnant, S. A. Grylls, F. Waldon, C. Hugh Ketchum, Charles H. Hunter, J. Dainton, Mrs. A. R. Gariepy, Gordon Dunford, Walter Trude, Neptoh, and Arthur Morris, Young's Point.



ALLIED NAVY FORCE sails in the Mediterranean Sea where not many years ago British men of war turned their big guns on fleeing units of the Italian navy, ships of both countries now are taking part in Exercise Grand Slam—an operation designed to test the ability of Allied naval units to operate together and communicate with each other under actual battle conditions. This photo shows British and Italian warships at anchor together in the Flotilla's Command anchorage, Sliema Creek, Malta.

Egypt Studies Eisenhower Plan On Suez Canal

CAIRO, Egypt, March 7 (AP)—General Eisenhower's views on the use of the Suez Canal military base for Middle-East defence are being "carefully studied" the independent newspaper Akher Lahza says today.

The views of the commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have been submitted to Egyptian official quarters, the paper says.

It also reports important "political contacts" are being made "to define relations between the British and Egyptian governments." It says the contacts centre on:

1. A declaration that British forces would evacuate the Suez Canal area.

2. Recognition by Britain of King Farouk's title of "King of Egypt and the Sudan."

3. "Acknowledgment that Egypt should exercise full liberty in choosing defence means that would fill the gap after British evacuation."

Ahker Lahza said it is expected "Washington will do its best to expedite an agreement that would satisfy national feelings in Egypt."

Saved Comrade Awarded B.E.M.

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP). — A Manitoba soldier who ignored a wound to save the life of a comrade has been awarded the British Empire Medal "for outstanding service" in Korea, the Army announced today.

He is L.-Cpl. Herbert J. McCreary of Treherne, Man., a member of the 25th Brigade's Engineer Field Squadron and a Second World War veteran of the

His wife is living in Port Reeve, Sask.

On August 25, 1951, while the Engineers were clearing a heavily-mined area, one sapper strayed into a mined section, tripped an anti-personnel mine and wounded himself, Cpl. McCreary and three other men.

The citation adds:

"Without thought to his own safety and in spite of his shrapnel wounds, Cpl. McCreary immediately seized a mine prod and proceeded to clear a narrow path through the minefield to where the sapper lay wounded. When told of his own wounds he replied 'I know,' all the while continuing to work diligently to reach his wounded comrade. His quick action in reaching the sapper no doubt saved the life of this soldier."

Has Busy Day

ELYRIA, O., March 7. — (AP)—Pearl J. Smith got married, jailed and bailed—all in the same day by the same man. Smith paid Justice of the Peace C. C. Lord, 90, his last $3 to perform a wedding ceremony. Then Lord remembered Smith was wanted on a paternity charge filed by one June Balser, not the bride. Lord had him arrested, arranged his bail and paid a $1 fee for it because he felt Smith should not spend the first day of his honeymoon in jail.

Legislation Killed On Comics Censorship

ALBANY, N.Y., March 7 (AP)—Legislation to authorize state censorship of comic books and similar publications as a means of combatting juvenile delinquency was killed Thursday night by the New York State Assembly ways-and-means committee.

The assembly group, however, approved two other measures drawn up by a special legislative committee in an effort to crack down on publications featuring "crime, horror, sex and lust."

One would tighten existing [illegible] and indecent literature by including in a general prohibition "those publications which are mainly devoted to the display of violence, crime and other matters which may tend to influence minors to commit acts of crime and depravity."

The other would authorize children's-court judges to "entertain prosecutions" against persons contributing to juvenile delinquency through dissemination and sale of such literature.

Man Loses His Arm Ailing Daughter Cured

LONDON, March 7 (AP) — A man who often said "I'd give my right arm" to see his ailing daughter cured lost the arm in a car crash—and she was mysteriously healed.

The odd case, with the names withheld, was described by Dr. J. M. H. Smellie of Liverpool in today's issue of the British Medical Journal.

Dr. Smellie said the girl was crippled by arthritis and disfigured by a skin disease associated with it. Her father tried all kinds of treatment but she did not respond.

One day he set off on a motor trip with the girl and his wife. The car was wrecked and the father's right arm was torn off.

Before his wound had healed, the daughter's skin trouble and arthritis had vanished.

Dr. Smellie offered two possible explanations — the cure might have been due to psychological factors or to cortisone liberated from the girl's adrenal glands by the shock of the accident.

Harwood School Has Open House

HARWOOD, March 7 (ENS)—Harwood schoolteachers and pupils observed Education Week by setting aside Monday for Open House. Most parents and many interested citizens gathered at the school at 2 p.m. The two rooms of the school were prepared to fit the occasion. Work of the pupils of all grades and subjects was on display. Mrs. Marjorie Morris, teacher of the juniors [illegible] community singing.

Billy Houghton, Grade 11, read a welcome to the guests.

The principal of the school conducted his pupils in choral reading and highlight of the program was a paper on local history of the community. This was compiled by Miss Lottie E. Drope and read by Pauline Drope of Grade eight.

A well rendered selection "Santa Lucia" by the senior pupils followed the history of Harwood.

The juniors were applauded on their performance and rendition of the song 'Sweet Little Susie'. They were accompanied at the piano by their teacher, Mrs. Morris.

Sharon Hogg, Grade four, recited Proverbs 3, verses 13 to 17, in keeping with education week.

At this point H. W. Carlton, Inspector of Public Schools for Northumberland county, was introduced. Mr. Carlton pointed out the highlights of education and remarked that receiving an education to-day is a pleasurable experience. The inspector complimented the teachers and the caretaker on the results of their work, which was evident in the attractive classrooms.

Mrs. Morris thanked Mr. Carlton for his kind words and interesting address.

The pupils were then dismissed but the parents remained with the teachers for afternoon tea. Mrs. R. S. Johnson and Mrs. Hilton Graham poured tea at tables centred with daffodils. Misses Pauline Drope, Betty Isaac and Margaret Atkins served the dainty homemade cookies.

Before the ladies retired to their respective homes, Mr. Crews thanked Mrs. Johnson for so capably taking charge of the tea hour and those who had provided the dainties.

Harwood News

The Harwood Telephone Company executive have accepted the resignation of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Kenneth Symons, and have appointed Alfred Crick to that position.

Mrs. R. E. Drope spent this week in St. Catharines, with her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth D. Munroe.

Miss Marjorie Morris, junior teacher in Harwood school, spent the weekend at her home in Prescott.

Newly Discovered Island Named For Stefansson

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP) — Newly-discovered island within the Arctic Circle has been named "Stefansson Island" in honor of the great Canadian-born Arctic explorer, Dr. Viljhalmur Stefansson. The island is 1,000 miles from the North Pole.

Announcement of the tribute was made by the Canadian board on geographical names of the Mines and Technical Surveys Department in Ottawa.

It coincides with the veteran explorer's appearance in Toronto Monday next when he will begin a series of Canadian-club luncheon addresses which will take him also to Hamilton, London, Port Hope, Belleville, Montreal and Ottawa.

Stefansson Island is at the tip of a peninsula forming the northeast section of Victoria Island, jutting into Mellville Sound and Bay and on the east by M'Clintock Channel.

Long Planned

The board is departing from its general practice of not naming geographical areas after living persons but this recognition of the great international fame and worth of the explorer, born in Armes, Man., has been planned for some time.

Only the discovery of something considered worthy of bearing his name delayed the tribute. Last year this discovery was made.

An aerial survey disclosed that the tip of the peninsula was in fact an island separated from the main finger of land by a well defined but narrow strait. The island is about 8,000 square miles in area.

Dr. Stefansson carried on explorations in the vicinity during his 10 winters in the Arctic which have made him one of the greatest living authorities on the north.

He has published more than 20 books on the Arctic including "The Friendly Arctic," "My Life With the Eskimos," and "Uultima Thule." He is a great advocate of the theory that Canada's far north is an "almost untapped reservoir of the earth's riches, easily and comfortably habitable with the aid of modern engineering, transport and communications."

For the last 10 years he has been working on his international encyclopaedia of the Arctic and directing his Arctic collection and library at Dartmouth College.

Schoolhouse Saved

INNISFAIL, Alta.—(CP)—Combined efforts of teacher and students saved a schoolhouse west of here from destruction by fire. While one of the boys rode away for help the teacher and pupils kept the blaze under control with pails of snow.

Wandering Elk

COOKSON, Sask.—(CP)—Farmers claimed considerable damage was done to crops in this district by elk. The animals wandered out of the protected areas of the Prince Albert National Park.

Report Saliva Test DeterminesBaby's Sex

—Indications that the sex of a baby may be determined before birth by tests of the mother's saliva were reported Thursday by two Chicago scientists.

Doctors Gustav W. Rapp and Garwood C. Richardson said they had preliminary evidence of this possibility and were reporting it "to allow early verification by others."

The researchers, both biochemists at Loyola University's school of Dentistry, made their report in Science, weekly of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The indications are, they said, that there is some still-unidentified substance— believed to be a male harmone —which is present in the salvia of a woman who is to have a male baby, but is absent in one who is to bear a female child.

2 Women Presented WI Life Memberships

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 7 (ENS)—March meeting of the Mount Pleasant Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ira Lowe with an attendance of 18.

Owing to illness the president, Mrs. E. McLean, was absent and Mrs. Lowe presided for the meeting.

Members were unanimous in their decision that proceeds of the chicken supper should be applied on the hall debt.

The next euchre was arranged for March 14 with Mrs. K. Morden, Mrs. D. Lawson, Mrs. S. Tully and Mrs. H. Tully named as committee in charge, with the following euchre on March 28 and Mrs. A. Bland, Mrs. I. Lowe and Mrs. A. Tully, a committee.

Mrs. S. Tully displayed the plastic which had been purchased for lunch cloths for the card tables.

Cards were read and verbal expressions of thanks were given for those remembered during illness by the W.I.: L. A. Hooton, Mrs. G. Ruth, Mrs. E. Lawson, Mrs. J. Windrem, Mrs. A. Tully and Mrs. S. Tully.

It was agreed that tickets would be sold on the autograph quilt with Mrs. K. Morden, Mrs. D. Armstrong and Mrs. E. McLean appointed to complete arrangements.

A letter was read from Jean Noble, home economist, about the 1952 garden club which includes girls from 12 to 25 years of age.

The special feature of the meeting was the presentation of life membership certificates and badges to two members, Mrs. M. Jones who has recently left this community to make her home in Omemee and Mrs. N. Fee who has left to reside in Peterborough. The former was a member of the local W.I. for 30 years and the latter for 29 years.

Mrs. Jones was asked to take a chair in the centre of the rooms, when Mrs. Ira Lowe read an address while Mrs. E. Lawson, vice-president, presented the life membership certificate and Mrs. G. McLean, secretary pinned the badge on Mrs. Jones, who replied in a few well-chosen words inviting all the members to visit her in her new home at any time, and especially for the August meeting, which is to be held at her home.

Mrs. Fee was not present at the meeting.

Mrs. Lawson, presided for the program, the topic was a "Canadian Woman of Note".

Mrs. A. Tully gave a paper on the life of "Pauline Johnson". Mrs. H. Tully on the life of "Clare Wallace" and Mrs. Lawson gave a paper on "Adelaide Hoodless".

Candy was passed by the Captain of the losing side of the roll call contest, Mrs. H. Baker.

Mrs. Newton Fee and Mrs. T. C. Morden assisted the hostess in the serving of refreshments.

Two Women Injured In $40,000 Blaze

TORONTO, March 7 —(CP)—Two women were taken to hospital after fire damaged a $40,000 home in suburban Swansea early today.

Damage to the home, owned by Harold Fair, owner of Alliance Paper Mills, was about $15,000.

Mrs. Nellie Rose, 67, a housekeeper, suffered a fractured right ankle and undetermined back injuries when she jumped from a second-story window. Mrs. Fair, about 50, was treated for shock.

Tom Gard's Note Book

Autumn always brings a number of tasks to the home owner, especially if he is a gardener. A few days ago I noticed such a man preparing for winter. He had already constructed a reel for his garden hose, impressing upon me the need to drain it after use, then to store it dry in order to prevent the rubber from rotting. Well, his idea is worth copying.

HAMPERS FOR CLOTHES

His wife was just as handy, in fact she had converted a bushel basket into a clothes-basket by enamelling the outside white, and the inside lined with colourful chintz. This seemed to be the envy of her neighbours.

DOOR-MAT FROM BOTTLE TOPS

There was a youngster in the home, the kind that thoughtlessly ran in after school without wiping his feet. Dad soon corrected this by collecting bottle tops, then in a few minutes he made a door-mat by nailing the tops in even rows on two pieces of pine joined with a pair of cleats. I noticed that the tops were nailed closely together.

ORANGE CRATES FOR SHELVES

This chap turned out to be quite an amateur craftsman, and he liked everything in order. He was very proud of two shelves he had constructed from orange crates, one to serve his purposes in the basement, and the second one, nicely finished, for the living room.

Bring Down Budget On April 8 Abbott Announces

OTTAWA, March 8. (CP)—Canada's 1952-53 budget will be brought down in the Commons a month from today—Tuesday, April 8. Finance Minister Abbott announced the date in the Commons and said he will bring it in at 8 p.m. EST providing nothing unforeseen develops. Mr. Abbott did not give a hint regarding controls. However, Prime Minister St. Laurent already has said that Canadians cannot expect "substantial" tax reductions for the next fiscal year starting April 1, though there may be some adjustments.

Mr. Abbott stepped briefly into the throne-speech debate which produced two more non-confidence motions in the government.

One was sponsored by Robert Fair (S.C., Battle River) and the other, a sub-amendment, was sponsored by William Bryce (C.C.F., Selkirk).

Two other non-confidence motions, one by the Progressive-Conservatives and the other by the C.C.F., already have been defeated in the House.

Mr. Abbott said that the treasury board now has completed study of the 1952-53 estimated expenditures. The task now is to "ascertain what, if any, changes should be made in our taxation structure and what form the budget should take."

May Cut Cigarette Tax

There has been speculation that the budget will contain $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 over-all reduction in federal taxes. It is expected the cigarette tax will be levies on such items as electric stoves, washing machines and refrigerators.

Tobacco growers have asked the Finance Minister to reduce the cigarette tax—now 25 cents for a package of 20 cigarettes which retail for 42 cents in most provinces.

Mr. Abbott said he is always open to legitimate representations regarding taxation, but he objects strongly to the activity of "special pressure groups."

He read to the House a circular letter by the Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada. It asked members to approach their members of parliament to gain support for a campaign against the govern-

3 Canadian Nuns Had Two Trials In China

HONG KONG, March 8 (CP)—Three Canadian nuns, expelled from China by the Communists, said today that if it becomes possible they will return to their missionary work "full of enthusiasm" even if they have to suffer the same ordeal again.

The nuns, who arrived in Hong Kong Feb. 28 after the Communists had kept them imprisoned for almost a year on charges of murdering more than 2,000 orphans at the Roman Catholic orphanage at Canton, met foreign correspondents for the first time.

They said they expect to return to Canada soon but added that they would be willing to return to China to resume their work if the opportunity should arise.

The nuns are: Sister Sainte Foy (Elizabeth Lemire, La Baie du Febvre, Yamaska County, Que.); Sister Saint Victor (Germaine Tanguay, a naturalized Canadian Saint Germain (Imelda Laperriere, Pont Rouge, Port Neuf County, Que.).

The nuns told today how they were tried by a mass "people's" court before mobs of jeering Communists.

They said the reason so many of the children which came into their care died was that only about 10 per cent of newborn infants brought to the orphanage had a chance of survival.

23 Indicted In Drug Ring

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8 (AP)—Police worked swiftly today to round up 23 men and women named in an indictment that United States narcotics commissioner Harry J. Anslinger confidently predicted will "crack the heart" of the illegal heroin trade.

Narcotics agents said the indictment struck at a multi-million-dollar conspiracy strung like a web from coast to coast.

It was returned by a federal grand jury Friday afternoon and arrests began from San Francisco to New York.

Ernest Gentry, narcotics bureau chief for the seven western states, said Gordon (born Irving Wexler) bossed the ring. Gentry said the ring distributed heroin in nine states. The indictment grew from two years of investigation.

The investigation was spiced with fiction-like adventures of a narcotics agent who wormed into the ring as a peddler and almost lost his life as he dug out information on the higher-ups.

Ex-Chinese Officer Answers About Funds

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A former Chinese Nationalist Air Force officer, Col. V. S. Shiang, Friday complied with a federal court order to answer questions on what he did with millions in funds when he was a purchasing agent in the United States.

Col. Shiang and a fellow officer, Gen. O. T. Mow, were fired by the Chinese Nationalist government last year. It charged them with failing to account for $25,890,599 and sued for the return of unexpended funds estimated at nearly $7,000,000.

Shiang appeared before Judge William E. Leahy, lawyer for the Nationalist Chinese Government, to answer questions on a deposition. His answers may be made public later.

Calls Police Bad Shots

Bad Man Taunts Captors Asks To Be Bumped Off

By DET.-SGT. GEORGES COTE, As Told to The Canadian Press.

MONTREAL, March 8 (CP). — He was kind of mad, this fellow Steve Suchan, after we ambushed him Friday night and first he told us we were "poor shooters" and then he asked us why we didn't bump him right off.

He was lying there on the floor of his living room after being shot twice, and I told him:

"As far as we are concerned we are anxious to have you alive."

Sgt. Det. Albert Dauphin and Dets. Maurice Bilodeau and Geo. Poirier and myself had been assigned to lie in wait in Suchan's Cote Des Nieges apartment for him after word had been received from Toronto that he was wanted in connection with a big robbery there on Tuesday and the shooting of two policemen on Thursday.

Dauphin fired three shots. The first one hit the 24-year-old Suchan in the arm. Another one got him in the stomach and he fell to the floor, twisting and grimacing.

From the floor he tried to hold up his gun but he couldn't and the big weapon clattered to the floor.

Kicked Gun Away

I moved over to him as he lay there to turn him on his back and Dauphin kicked the fallen gun away.

Suchan looked up at me and said:

"You guys are poor shooters. Why don't you finish me?"

By this time we were waiting for the ambulance and he was still lying on his living room floor.

Then he said: "Give me one in the head. Nobody will know the difference."

That was when I told him we were more interested in taking him alive.

We found he had two .45 pistols and a German Mauser.

When we went to the apartment earlier in the evening some of the lights were on. We searched it and then left everything just as it was.

Hid In Rooms

Dauphin and myself hid in the kitchen with the door half closed. Poirier and Bilodeau hid in the bedroom. Suchan's place was a three-room apartment so that anybody entering it stepped into the living room and would be kind of sandwiched between us.

We all had our guns ready if we had to use them.

About 9.40 p.m. we heard somebody approaching and then Suchan stepped into the room. He looked nervous and supicious to me as I watched him from the kitchen.

First he looked about the living room. Then he looked at the kitchen and noticed the door half closed. Then he started across the room toward the bedroom and on the way he drew one gun.

That was when Dauphin showed himself. It looked as though Suchan was going to shoot so Dauphin let him have it first.

Doctors Say Tong Much Worse

Not Too Hopeful Detective Will Pull Through

TORONTO, March 8. (CP)—Edmund Tong, crack police detective who never forgot a criminal's face, lost ground today in his battle to recover from a bullet wound received in a Toronto street Thursday.

As hospital authorities said his condition worsened, the man he accused from his hospital bed of wounding him lay in a Montreal hospital, shot down Friday night in an ambush in a swanky Montreal apartment.

Tong, a sergeant of detectives, was shot in the chest when he and Detective Sergeant Roy Perry stopped a car they suspected of beries in the Toronto area. Perry, his right arm and wrist shattered by bullets, is in good condition.

In Montreal 24-year-old Steve Suchan is in critical condition with two bullet wounds in the stomach.

Sound Alarm

Meanwhile Ottawa police said shortly before 3 a.m. they had been alerted to head off a car carrying Quebec licence plates 324-385, believed headed from Montreal to Toronto. In it was believed to be Leonard Jackson, wanted in connection with the Toronto shooting, and Edwin Boyd, wanted for Toronto bank robberies.

The Toronto police dragnet which went into operation immediately after the two detectives were shot down on west-end College Street near Lansdowne Ave. picked up three women, all held as material witnesses.

They are: Mrs. Anna Caramo, owner of the car the gunmen were driving, Mrs. Jane Blahut and Betty Huluk. Mrs. Caramo is also known as Mrs. Bosnick. Police said her husband is a member of a union council at Welland.

Shoot Down Suchan In Montreal

Police Get Tipoff, Hide In Apartment In Fashionable Area

MONTREAL, March 8. (CP)—Surgeons fought today to save the life of bullet-pierced Steve Suchan, ambushed in his swank Cote Des Neiges apartment by police who sought him in connection with a Toronto robbery and shooting of two policemen there. Police said they expected Suchan to live.

Meantime they sought two accomplices also wanted by Toronto police in connection with the Tuesday robbery of $24,000 from a bank and the shooting of Det.-Sgt. Edmund Tong and Sgt. Roy Perry last Thursday.

No Clemency Granted Nazi

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP). — Defence Minister Claxton said Friday in the Commons the case of German war criminal Hans Neitz was reviewed last September and it was decided no clemency would be granted.

He was replying to George Hees (P.C.-Toronto Broadview) who asked when a decision will be made whether Neitz will be free and whether members of the R.C.A.F. court which sentenced him to prison will be consulted.

(Neitz is one of the two Germans still held by Canada for war crimes. The other is Kurt Meyer. Neitz is serving 21 years for shooting an R.C.A.F. prisoner of war.)

The Air Force officer concerned, Rudolph Anthony Roman of Sudbury, was quoted in a copyright story in The Toronto Telegram Thursday as saying:

"I don't want to see him (Neitz) get away with this. He tried deliberately to murder me. He left me for dead. I made no attempt to escape. I was standing with my hands in the air seven or eight feet away from him when he deliberately shot to kill me."

Second Earthquake Rocks Jap Centre

TOKYO, March 8 — (AP) — Kushiro, Hokkaido, hardest hit by last Tuesday's big earthquake, was shaken sharply again Friday night, Kyodo News Agency reported.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The toll in Friday's earthquake in Western Honshu stood at 'two dead and four seriously injured. Nine houses were demolished or burned down and 3,696 others were damaged.

Far to the north, workers still were clearing up debris from Tuesday's much stronger 'quake on Northern Honshu and Hokkaido. That 'quake killed 27 and left about 13,000 homeless.

Community Fund Starts $85,000 Drive

A drive to raise $85,000 for the 1952 requirements of the member agencies of Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund was officially launched at a dinner in the C.G.E. cafeteria Friday night. "You are to be congratulated for taking an active part in this campaign," Alex L. Elliott, campaign chairman told the more than 350 key volunteers workers and committee members attending. "You are all volunteer workers serving the community on your own time."

He reminded the workers that an extra effort would be needed to send the 1952 campaign over the top, because the objective is the same as last year and the 1951 total fell $3,000 short of the $85,000 objective.

"Those of you who are contributing your time and effort to a worthwhile community activity are fulfilling your obligations as citizens," said Mr. Elliott. While the preliminary work of the fund directors plays an important part in getting the campaign organized, Mr. Elliott termed the individual canvassers the key to the campaign's success.

Depends On Individuals

"The collection of funds is our objective and the success of the campaign depends on the ability of each individual to collect funds. What you do and say in making your calls is of the utmost importance. You are a key person in the community's most important annual campaign."

Any plan will produce only routine results if it is permitted to become routine said Mr. Elliott in urging canvassers to impress upon the people on their lists, the importance of giving all they can. Although the objective has been more than doubled since a few years ago when the fund's objective was reduced because of a surplus on hand, some large contributors who reduced their donations are still giving less than they did before, he said. If we keep this point in mind, and exert a little more effort, many of these people can be persuaded to contribute in the amounts they formerly did.

"The school children of the city have provided us with a challenge," said Mr. Elliott in introducing Claire Collins, chairman of the Penny-A-Day drive in the schools. "Let us meet that challenge and if we do, we too will go over the top."

Passed Objective

Mr. Collins announced that the school children had oversubscribed their objective of $500 by 21.22 per cent. The drive netted $643.77, $112.05 more than last year's total of $531.72.

Five children from various schools in the city represented the 19 schools taking part in the drive. In congratulating the children on their effort, Mr. Collins singled out the representatives of three schools for special mention: Catharine Odette of St. Alphonsus School, Ray Willis of Queen Elizabeth School, and Claire Shaughnessy of St. Anne's School. "These three schools are just outside the city but join with city schools in the Penny-A-Day drive," said Mr. Collins.

The dinner was provided by the C.G.E. without cost to the committee. The campaign closes March 15, and Mr. Elliott announced that Wednesday a luncheon meeting of division heads and captains of the canvassing teams will be held at the Empress Hotel. This luncheon is being provided by Canada Packers. Next Friday night, the campaign will end, with a final dinner at the Empress when all canvassers and other volunteer workers in the campaign will be entertained as guests of the Quaker Oats Co.

Mr. Elliott paid tribute to Ross L. Dobbin, chairman of the annual drive for the last 11 years. "He has rendered a great contribution to the community over the last 11 years," said Mr. Elliott. Although he is not campaign manager this year, we have asked his advice and help almost daily."

During the dinner, band music was provided by the Salvation Army band.

Ask New Plan To Ease Housing Problem

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — A government back-bencher and an opposition member in the Ontario Legislature Friday both urged the government to develop a new plan to assist housing.

Harold Fishleigh (P.C.-Toronto Woodbine) and Arthur Reaume (L.-Essex North) made their proposals during the throne speech debate.

Mr. Fishleigh, Toronto real estate salesman, urged a scheme under which the government could plan large-area housing developments, build public services such as sewers, waterworks and schools, and sell the land "at a fair profit" to private builders.

Such a large-area plan would permit mass production of homes "a thousand at a time."

Mr. Reaume made no specific suggestions but said the present land-assembly plan, sponsored jointly by federal, provincial and municipal governments, was "only scratching the surface."

He said he hoped the government would soon announce a housing plan "better than we have now."

Budget Date

Premier Frost said the throne speech debate will continue Monday along with committee work on government legislation. He said he hoped to bring down his budget March 18 or 20 and wanted to give the throne speech debate priority to allow as many members as possible a chance to speak.

Mr. Fishleigh suggested his plan for the Toronto metropolitan area and said it would produce 30,000 homes in two years. But it applied to any other large community.

The main aim was low-cost housing. "We need it with $1,000 down and with not more than $75 per month to carry them."

This could only be done by mass production in large areas, willingness of suburban townships to subdivide more land [illegible] difficulty.

Mr. Reaume, Mayor of Windsor, said 4,000 persons in his city are not properly housed. Families were living in basements, attics and garages and such conditions led to broken families.

Canada Has Biggest Baby Boom In 1951 Births Total 382,000, Up 11,400 Over 1950

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP). — More babies were born in Canada in 1951 than in any other year in the country's history.

Deaths also touched a new high while marriages were above the three previous years.

This glimpse at Canada's vital statistics for 1951 was given on Friday by the Bureau of Statistics in provisional estimates.

Births for the year totalled 382,000—11400 more than in the preceding year and almost 10,300 more than in 1947, the previous record. The estimated birth-rate per 1,000 population was 27.2, compared with 26.8 in 1950 and the post-war high of 28.8 in 1947.

Deaths in 1951 were estimated at 126,500, compared with 123,649 in 1949.

Marriages were estimated at 128,500, compared with 124,733 in 1950.

Ontario had the largest increase in birth registrations, registering 116,193 from 108,554 in 1950. Quebec's total of 117,126 was only slightly higher than the 1950 figure of 117,019.

2 Jet Planes Have Crashes

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP)—An R.C.A.F. Vampire jet exploded in midair today at King, some 20 miles north of Toronto. A second crash-landed some two miles distant.

Some reports said the two planes collided. Others said that one came apart in the air and that the other cruised around for a minute, then turned away and came down.

There were confused reports on whether anyone was killed. There was a report that a pilot parachuted to safety, another that a pilot who bailed out of the craft was dead when he hit the ground, three miles away from the plane.

Transport Plane Crashes On Glacier

BERN, Switzerland, March 8—(AP).—A twin-engined United States Air Force transport plane crashed into a blizzard-hidden glacier on the side of the famed Jungfrau Peak at twilight Friday with eight persons reported aboard.

The Swiss air office said there was little hope any occupant of the plane could survive both the crash and the bitter temperatures of a 60-mile-an-hour blizzard that raged about the peak.

An army officer sighted the wreckage. Rescuers set out at once.

The plane was homeward bound from Madrid to its base at Fuerstenfeldbruck.

Chinese Troops Trade Opium To Get Arms

By JACK MACBETH

NEAR THE BURMESE BORDER IN NORTHERN THAILAND, March 8—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist troops who have taken refuge in northeastern Burma are being supplied regularly through an opium-for-guns smuggling arrangement in Thailand.

This correspondent spent five days looking around the area extending from Chiang Mai 75 miles to the north and within 10 to 20 miles east of the Burmese border.

Sources in most cases cannot be identified for publication but they include teachers, missionaries, official foreign observers, leading merchants, local newspapermen, army officers, senior Thai civil servants and police officials.

Well Organized

Although their information varied in detail it outlined a general pattern strongly supported by evidence which could be observed. This is how the barter arrangement works:

A Chinese posing as a merchant but reported to be a Nationalist army colonel, maintains headquaretrs in Chiang Mai as the link between the Chinese embassy in Bangkok, Thailand's capital, and the Nationalists in Burma.

His job is to funnel supplies received from Bangkok by air and rail, as well as locally-produced food and clothing, across the border. He has several assistants.

In exchange, the Chinese Nationalists in Burma send raw opium to Chiang Mai for forwarding to Bangkok and onward.

Poor Supports Caused Collapse

BALITMORE, March 8 (AP)—The section of bleachers which collapsed and injured about 275 persons here Thursday night at Sonja Henie's ice show was under eight times as much weight as the supports could hold, city inspectors said Friday.

The city report said that in one part of the construction, a two-by-six-inch horizontal support was left out. The collapse was caused "primarily" by weak connections of the horizontal and diagonal pieces to the vertical supports, it was indicated.

Each vertical support, carrying an average load of 1,100 pounds, depended upon two 3½-inch nails which had a combined carrying capacity of 140 pounds, the inspectors said.

Scores of those injured in the accident were still in hospital or under the care of doctors today. Thirty-two of the victims remained in serious condition.

Will Resist Aggression

Won't Try To Overthrow Peiping Regime—Pearson

March 8 (CP).—Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, said Friday night that the Western power should tell Red China's rulers "they must expect Communist aggression to be met by collective resistance."

But, he added, Peiping should also be told the Western powers do not intend to try to overthrow by force the Communist regime in China itself.

At a time when Western capitals fear that China may launch or support aggressions in Southeast Asia, Mr. Pearson pleaded for a common U.S.-Comonwealth policy—he said there is "real danger" of a rift—and crystallized Canada's position in these paragraphs:

"....We should let the Peiping government know that they must expect Communist aggression to be met by collective resistance; that no government in Peiping committing such aggression can hope to be accepted into the community of nations; that, on the other hand, we ourselves did not intervene in Korea or, indeed, in Formosa, in order to overthrow by force the government in Peiping.

"I think also that we should make it clear that while Formosa cannot be allowed to fall into Chinese Communist hands while aggressive war is going on in Korea, we do not intend to use our own forces to restore to China the regime which is now in Formosa (Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists) after being driven off the mainland."

His statment came in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Society of New York. It was the strongest statement yet by the Canadian government in the face of prospects that Red China may touch off new aggressions in the spring.

It was an appeal to the U.S. to avoid the "great tragedy" of a rift with Britain over Far Eastern policies and it was also an indication that Canada herself is ready to back collective action against new aggressions as she has in Korea.

Say Cattle Disease Stopped

By The Canadian Press

Federal officials believe they have the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Southern Saskatchewan stopped, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Friday night. In Regina, centre of efforts to stamp out the easily-spread disease, Mr. Gardiner also had this news for farmers: 1. The Federal Government is not ready to support beef prices, but may do something later. 2. The government will buy surplus pork for canning or processing. 3. He will try personally to convince provincial governments to relax their embargoes on movement of livestock. Meanwhile, the National Dairy Council announced in Ottawa it will take up at its annual meeting the United States embargo on Canadian livestock and meats.

The council said about 300 dairymen from all provinces will consider that among other problems at Montebello, Que., March 17 because the embargo blocks export of pure-bred cattle and milk-producing cows.

Mr. Gardiner, who flew to Regina Friday, said "we don't think foot-and-mouth disease is going to spread. We think it is absolutely under control."

His department felt the 11-municipality quarantine area was sufficient to contain the disease. But some Manitoba official said they would feel more secure if a buffer zone was thrown around the isolation region which was being done.

Try To Ease Bans

Mr. Gardiner told a conference of Saskatchewan government official and farm groups that he personally will take a hand in trying to bring about relaxation of some of the provincial embargoes on livestock.

He said he expects to call on the Manitoba government on his way back to Ottawa to ask it withdraw a ban on shipment of livestock through that province.

Meanwhile, a packing house officials in Edmonton said some meat was getting through Manitoba—in sealed cars. He said the amount, going to Ontario, was "only limited relief."

Mr. Gardiner said the provincial embargoes are "all wrong" and the federal government wants to get the provincial governments to break down those imposed by British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

If the federal government fails, "we may have to do something else," he said.

Quebec To Co-Operate

At Quebec, Premier Duplessis of Quebec promised his government's co-operation in dealing with problems arising from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

He said "Quebec's business is settled in Quebec, for Quebec and not elsewhere" but this policy was "no obstacle to co-operation with all the country's governments as long as co-operation is not understood as a one-way street."

On the question of support for beef prices, Mr. Gardiner said nothing could be done under the present situation of restrictions under which it might be a question of price ceilings rather than floors.

4 Farm Forums Hold Joint Drama Festival

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10—(ENS) — Something new in the way of Farm Forums took place at the Warkworth town hall on Thursday evening when members of four groups in Northumberland County took part in a drama festival and played to a packed hall.

Donald Massey, chairman of the drama committee, was given credit for the success of the evening. Along with other members of the organization, he put a good deal of time and effort into the production and organization of the plays.

A group from Morganston presented the play "Pot Luck."

The Front Road East forum was seen in the comical play "In Doubt About Daisy," in which a visitor from the city, on whom the son has a crush, comes to like the ways of the farm.

The West Dartford group, in a play entitled "Are We Dressing?" enacted a drama where Dad, a prominent garbage can manufacturer, finally gets a big order, although not from the source he expected.

Given Award

The play judged best of the evening by the five judges was "Mail Order Wife," played by the Codrington Farm Forum.

At the conclusion of the program, R. D. P. Davidson, of Camborne, gave constructive criticism on plays. He said he had much praise for the various forum groups and for their directors, and complimented them on the generally excellent quality of the presentations.

Wesley Downs, secretary of the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture, presented a trophy to the directors of the winning group.

The judges included Mrs. Lillian Page, Warkworth; Mr. F. Buckley, Warkworth; Mrs. Ruby Macklin, Cobourg; Mr. R. D. P. Davidson, Camborne; Mrs. Luella Young, of Grafton.

ment's credit restrictions and promised a widespread publicity campaign which, it said, members of parliament would like.

Mr. Abbott mentioned also the reported action of some tobacco companies in cutting down on delivery of Canadian cigarettes. If this was true it was a highly-questionable way of endeavouring to influence public opinion.

Can't Be Frightened

He added that whatever faults the Minister of Finance might have, "he is a very hard man to frighten."

The non-confidence motion introduced by Mr. Fair charged that the government has "failed" to provide adequate inducement for expansion of Canadian food production and "failed" to provide economic distribution and marketing for surpluses.

Mr. Bryce offered a sub-amendment urging establishment of a federal authority to deal with meat and dairy products during the "emergency" he said has arisen as a result of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

The federal controller should have the power to establish floor prices for producers, to protect consumers by control of retail prices and to arrange equitable distribution during the emergency.

Reach Crisis

Earlier Trade Minister Howe said that Canada has reached a crisis in the handling of unusual amounts of tough and damp grain. He said no assurance can be given of prompt delivery opportunities next Spring for grain harvested in a tough or damp condition.

HOG PRICES

STRATFORD, March 8 (CP)—Truck hog prices were unchanged here today at $25.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 8 (AP) — Grains were mixed, but mostly a little lower, at the opening today. A couple of corn contracts went against the trend.

Corn receipts expanded to 145 cars, largest in the past several days.

Wheat continued its late downturn of the previous session. Lack of export business and poor domestic flour sales acted as a drag on prices.

Wheat started unchanged to ⅜ lower, March $2.53¼, corn ⅛ lower to ⅞ higher, May $1.83⅜-¾, oats unchanged to ⅜ lower, March 86-85½, and soybeans ¼ lower to ½ higher, March $2.96-$2.96¾.

Seven Operas Appear In Film

Harry Yudin has been trying to book a filming of "Carmen" for his series of occasional Wednesday operatic features (afternoon and evening) at the Centre Theatre.

So far, in its entirety, it has gone elsewhere, but it is included in compressed form in the so-called streamlined version of seven of the most popular of the world's operas. As condensed, it necessarily omits much of the Bizet music, but is bound to retain such favorite numbers as the Habanera and the Toreador Song.

This program has been frankly selected to give music lovers a broad sample of two Rossini operas, "The Barber of Seville" and "William Tell"; Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"; two of the works of Donnizetti, "Don Pasquale" and "Lucia di Lammermoor"; and "Fra Diavolo" by Auber.

Here they are all in one program, sung by stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company and La Scala Opera Company of Milan. The supporting musicians are the orchestra of La Scala and the chorus of the Royal Opera House of Rome. This film offers the best of the music of seven operas, a broad selection that should bring out a large audience for this novelty.

It sounds like an exceptionally interesting package.

O.P.P. Resignations Grow Much Heavier

TORONTO, March 8 — More than 10 times as many members of the Ontario Provincial Police resigned during the past year as in 1943, according to a report tabled in the legislation by Attorney-General Porter Friday. Replying to a question put by W. L. Houck (Lib., Niagara Falls), Mr. Porter said there were 133 resignations in 1951, compared to 11 in 1943.

This figure was four less than in the previous year, but still 45 more than in 1945. The report followed close on the heels of a statement by Albert Wren (Lib. Lab., Kenora) Thursday, that provincial police were being starved out of their jobs.

Dismissals totalled 11 in 1951; 10 in 1950 and 13 in 1949.

All others lacked proper care and hygiene to such an extent that they could not be saved even with the best medical care. Some of the children were of opium-smoking mothers and they had traces of dope in them.

Many of the children were abandoned on the orphanage doorstep by mothers with too many children. Nearly all were girls one or two days old.

The nuns said that when the Chinese took over the orphanage they put their own staff in charge but permitted the nuns to remain in their quarters.

At that time there were 60 babies there and 93 older orphans. Under the Communist staff, 55 of the 60 died in two days.

The sisters said, however, that that was the normal percentage they could have done little, if any better. On one day 10 babies were brought to the orphanage. The Communists refused to accept eight, saying they were too sick to be saved. The nuns had never been able to refuse babies —"they were simply left at our door."

Had Two Trials

The nuns had two trials, one private on Nov. 28, 1951, in which they were accused by various Chinese who had brought children to the orphanage. It was at this trial that sentences were decided on although the nuns were not told. At their public trial on Dec. 2 they were handed documents containing their accusations and sentences.

They estimated that 20,000 attended the public trial at Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall. They stood for 2½ hours on a table which was stacked on another table. Meanwhile, the prosecutors and judges stood on a platform slightly above. About 6,000 spectators were inside the auditorium. Folding doors put the trial in view of many thousand more outside.

The nuns said they could hear nothing distinctly, just the constant roar and an occasional shriek of "kill them." All three expected to be executed. After the trial they were led among the crowd inside the auditorium and were spit upon.

Sister Tanguay shuddered at the remembrance, then she grinned and said "My Communist guard was spit on too and hit by a rock when I ducked."

They were shackled throughout the trial and rode on a truck to and from the jail. On the return trip they were stoned. Two were hit on the face and bloodied.

Meek Case Goes To Jury Soon

CORNWALL, March 8 (CP)—The case of 21-year-old Elias Meek, charged with the knife-murder of Mrs. Dolly Alguire, is expected to go to the jury late Monday.

The Crown has only two more witnesses to call before it sums up its case against the Cornwall district farmhand.

The trial was adjourned Friday by the presiding judge, Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen, after three psychiatrists gave conflicting testimony as to the mental condition of Meek. Last Friday, Meek had been found sane after a two-day pre-trial hearing.

Dr. C. S. Tennant of Langstaff, provincial psychiatrist, called as a Crown witness after the defence had completed its testimony, said he had not found Meek mentally ill or defective. "I do not think he was suffering from schizophrenia (split personality) or mental illness at the time of the murder or for that fact, at any time," he told the court.

Earlier, Dr. C. H. McCuaig, Queen's University, Kingston, and Dr. Gordon Lumsden of Ottawa, both psychiatrists, testified Meek was insane. They said he was suffering from schizophrenia.

Charge Reds Keep POW's In Manchuria

Officer Describes Processing Centre Deep Within China

MUNSAN, Korea, March 8. (AP)—A United Nations truce negotiator today accused the Communists of secretly imprisoning captured Allied soldiers in Red China.

North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang cho called the charge a "fabrication" and a further attempt to delay the armistice negotiations.

Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby, the U.N. negotiator, also accused the Reds of "threatening" the U.N. Command in a statement lambasting its treatment of war prisoners.

Simultaneously, another group of Communist negotiators backed down on an attempt to write into an armistice a ban on a possible naval blockade of the China coast.

Can't Be Ignored

"We have convincing evidence that you are holding prisoners in detention camps outside of Korea without reporting them to our side," Libby said. "This evidence has reached us from too many sources to be ignored or lightly dismissed."

The Communists always have insisted that all war prisoners are held in North Korea. Proof that U.N. prisoners are in Manchuria would weaken Red China's claim that it is not a belligerent in Korea. Chinese troops are called volunteers.

Officer Talks

Libby said a number of captured Communist soldiers have told of escorting U.N. prisoners to camps in China.

"One such individual described in detail a prisoner-of-war processing centre in Harbin (deep in Central Manchuria) to which he had helped escort captured United Nations personnel," Libby said.

An official U.N. spokesman said later the informant was a Chinese lieutenant who told of seeing more than 1,000 U.N. prisoners—Americans, South Koreans and others—at the Hardin processing camp.

Police said Suchan arrived at the apartment at 9.40 p.m. He tried the light switch and when it wouldn't work drew revolvers. Dauphin, who had moved in from the kitchen, fired. The first shot struck Suchan in the stomach. The Montreal police officer shot again as Suchan lurched towards him.

Got Tip-Off

Assistant - Director Wilfrid Bourdon, head of the detective department here, was tipped off Friday by a long-distance phone call from Inspector Alex McCathie, of the Toronto police.

Bourdon ordered the apartment surrounded and placed four men inside. Police said they heard someone running down the apartment stairs during the shooting, and said it could have been Jackson and Boyd.

Isadore Bobrone, attorney for the apartment house, said Suchan had been registered there since December under the name of E. Lennoff.

Shed, Pig Pen Destroyed In $6,000 Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8—(ENS)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large 30 by 60-foto pig pen and drive shed on the farm of Donld Stephens, R.R. 5, Campbellford, five and a half miles south of this town on Friday afternoon.

The Campbellford fire department answerd the call, in compliance with recently signed agreement with the Seymour township council. The alarm was sounded at 2:10 p.m. and fire chief Alex MacDonald and his men were at the scene in a matter of minutes. They could do little but stand by and see that the flames were kept from spreading to a nearby barn and the farm home. It was feared a 50-gallon drum of gasoline in the shed might explode, but the drum apparently sprung a leak and the gasoline burned freely.

Line Of Pails

When the fire died down, the booster on the truck was used to douse the flames, with one line of pressure hose from the tank on the truck. Neighbors formed a line to pass pails of water from a nearby well to the tank on the truck, and in this manner the firemen were enabled to continue using the pressure hose to quell the flames.

Arden Haig, who lives nearby, discovered the fire and notified the Stephens family. The flames had gained considerable headway before the alarm was sounded, and there was no hope of saving the building or its contents when firemen arrived.

Seven sows and a boar as well as a tractor and a quantity of dressed lumber were lost, in addition to numerous articles of farm equipment, common to a building of this type.

Arthur Wallace of Campbellford scaled a pole to cut live wires leading to the doomed structure.

Mr. Stephens said he had no idea as to the amount of damage caused, but unofficial estimates placed it around $6,000. The loss is only partly covered by insurance.

Joshua Swain

Funeral service for one of the surviving members of the pioneer families of Cavan township, Joshua Swain, 87, of Lot 15, Concession 9, was held at the family residence Thursday afternoon. The Rev. A. M. Butler, of Cavan United Church, officiated and pall-bearers were Ross, Noble and David Swain, D. Nill, John Cathcart and William Howden. Burial was at the Ninth Line cemetery.

Down 8 Jets During Week

SEOUL, Korea, March 8 (AP)—United States Sabre Jets knocked eight Communist MIG-15s out of North Korean skies during the last week with no loss to themselves, the U.S. Fifth Air Force said today.

But the air force, in its weekly summary, said nine United Nations planes were lost during the period March 1-7. Red ground fire accounted for five, a mechanical difficulty caused one to crash, and three failed to return for unknown causes.

In air-to-air battles the Sabre Jets also probably destroyed another MIG and damaged eight.

Ground action was similarly light after a flurry of Communist probing attacks on the eastern front Friday.

Name First Two Winners Baby Picture-Quote Contest

The Examiner reproduces today the first winners in the Baby Photo-Quote contest. The winning pictures were submitted by Mrs. Harvie Ball, 563 Weller St. and Mrs. S. C. Kerneghan, 600 McCannan Ave. Each will receive $5.00.

Photographs and quotations received by Wednesday were judged in this week's contest. From the number of entries made by Examiner readers, it is quite evident that a great deal of interest is being taken in the contest.

Daily Monday through to Friday the Examiner publishes on this page pictures and quotes from the famous bay pictures of Constance Bannister. Then on Saturday the two best pictures, with the most suitable quotes, which have been submitted by the Examiner's readers are reproduced.

Several of the pictures, which did not receive awards this week will be retained and again judged along with the pictures which are entered up until next Wednesday in next week's contest.

Judging is on :(1) Expressiveness of the photo; (2) Suitability of picture and quote for newspaper reproduction, and (3) Cleverness of quote in bringing out good, wholesome humor in baby's pose or facial expression.

Many entries received to date are snapshots and the Baby Photo Editor would like to impress on those submitting snapshots that they must be clear in order that the expression in the baby's face can be easily seen. Then again the caption must imply what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture.

Practically every home has its family album, so look through yours, pick out the picture of a baby two years old or under, write a suitable quote line and mail it to the Baby Photo Contest Editor, Examiner, Peterborough.

Views Differ On Future Of Maori Race

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—At the beginning of the century it was taken for granted that the Maoris, New Zealand's native race, would die out before many years. But the race made an almost miraculous revival and now authorities think they will continue to exist as a separate entity side by side with Europeans.

Opinions on the desirability of this differ considerably. R. O. Piddington, professor of anthropology at Auckland University, told a meeting of Maori school teachers that the policy of assimilating the Maori race had dangers.

The natural environment of the Maori was rural, he said. When the Maori moved into the city to take up unskilled employment, there was a danger of developing a "brown proletariat." Assimilation was liable to lay the foundations of racial friction and a color bar which would be disastrous for the future of the dominion.

One school of thought considers that the best future for the Maori lies in rapid assimilation with the European way of life, or that the sooner the Maori becomes merged with modern society the better. Another believes the two races should live together in interdependence, with the Maori at the same time preserving a large measure of his identity.

Prof. Piddington said he preserved an open mind, but he thought the latter line would be followed for many years, and he stressed the dangers of assimilation immediately.

He claimed that intermarriage between the two races was not taking place to a great extent and he attributed this to fundamental diferences between the cultures of Maori and European.

A Maori View

A different view is taken by the Progressive Ngati Poneke Maori Association in the Wellington district. Far fewer dangers existed in racial assimilation than if the races were encouraged to exist as separate entities, a spokesman said.

"The situation Prof. Piddington recommends by inferences is that which is all to evident in the United States and South Africa," the spokesman declared.

Challenging the claim that the races were not intermarrying, he said census figures showed that between 1936 and 1945 Maoris of full blood increased by 9.9 per cent, against an increase of 44.8 per cent for those only partly of Maori blood. Maoris of full blood decreased from 67.9 per cent of the total Maori population to 62.2 per cent during this period, while those of three-quarter blood increased from 13.8 per cent to 19.2 per cent.

"The dominant culture is now essentially that of the European," the spokesman said. "It is axiomatic that where there is no adaptation there is no equality. We therefore say to the Maori: 'Do not regret adaptation, but rather strive for it.'

"We would agree with the professor that the natural environment of the Maori is rural, but circumstances today are such that a rural existence is no longer possible for many of them. The fast increasing Maori population is forced to move to cities or towns where employment according to their needs and ability is available."

Fleas In Korea

The Communists allege that the Americans have been dropping paper tubes into North Korea full of fleas, spiders, mosquitoes and grasshoppers infested with plague, cholera and other diseases. The Chinese Premier Chou En Lai, taking up these accusations, has charged the U.S. Government with "employing bacteriological weapons, against all the principles of humanity." Returning Canadian soldiers—all of the originals of the 25th Brigade and many others who went out in the first six months will have come back before this month is out—will be able to give friends and relatives first-hand reports on the fleas, spiders, mosquitoes and grasshoppers in Korea. They are Korean and Chinese fleas, mosquitoes et al.—not one of them can be branded with the Stars and Stripes. The U.N.-American forces are plentifully supplied with D.D.T., baths and soap. The vermin belong to the Communists. They were certainly neither brought in nor dropped in tubes by the Americans.

The same sort of accusation was made in the winter months of 1950-51. It is a curious collection of bugs, for mosquitoes and grasshoppers either do not survive the harsh Korean winter, or are inactive during it. The new "bacteriological weapon" in the list—not mentioned last year—is the flea. Fleas stay with Koreans and Chinese so long as their sanitary conditions are what they are. The reason for their inclusion in this year's list may be that there has been an outbreak of pneumonic plague among the North Korean and Chinese troops. If there has been, the Communists will readily blame the enemy—the United States.

Pneumonic plague attacks the lungs. The victim foams at the mouth, spews clouds of infectious bacilli, and dies often within a day. Sometimes he will survive for four days. The germ is due to fleas infesting marmots—small rodents which are hunted for their skins in Eastern Siberia and Northern Manchuria. Thus it is probable that if the Communists are so worried about fleas that they will blame the Americans for them, a pneumonic plague may have begun to lay their troops low. If life in Korea is hard for U.N. troops, it is harder and deadlier for Chinese and North Koreans, beset by bombs (American delivered) and bugs (home grown).

An Agreement To Be Decent About Fishing

Despite the vast amount of effort and time people in these parts give to fishing, and the fact that Canada's fishery products (including fish) have a market value of about $135 million dollars a year, Canadians are not fish-eaters. The nearest many people's mouths habitually get to fish (even during Lent) is to the contents of a can of salmon. Actually, salmon is our most important fish, notwithstanding the chatter of local fishermen about bass and lunge and lake trout. About 150,000,000 pounds of salmon are caught each year on the West Coast. The Atlantic fisheries' cod and herring are more numerous, the catch of each is heavier, but their commercial value is less.

For fifty years salmon has been Canada's leading fish. That prime position is not held as a natural right. The pretty and convenient tins in which it is packed (with edible bones) have much to do with it. And to keep the tins filled each year, the industry and the government have elaborate rules and regulations so that the salmon in the waters will not be depleted. For instance, even during the salmon fishing season, fishermen may not take any during three days of the week. The Government and canneries know that regulation is necessary. In the 1920's the valuable sockeye salmon run of Puget Sound and the Gulf of Georgia was almost wiped out by overfishing. In 1930 an International Pacific Fisheries Commission was established by treaty to restore the situation.

The Pacific Fisheries are controlled by numerous domestic and international conventions, in order that the industry may have a steady supply and that the stock will be conserved in perpetuity. There is, for instance, a joint Canada-United States Halibut Commission (established in 1924) to regulate halibut fishing. The whole quota of halibut allowed to the fishermen of Canada and the United States is now caught in one month's time. These controls and regulations are, in the main, effective.

However, poachers have in time past upset the balance—poachers on a big international scale of operations. Everybody knows that poachers are not gentlemen, so no gentlemen's agreement had any effect on them. Before the war the most ungentlemenly were the Japs.

Japan is a North Pacific fishing nation, like Canada and the United States. The Japanese use and sell more fish, and will go far afield for them. For instance, in 1937, Japanese factory ships began fishing for red salmon in Bristol Bay, off Alaska. The United States warned them off in a stiff note.

Japanese fishermen, operating against Canadian-American conventions, plagued the west coast waters and had support from their fellow-countrymen living in British Columbia, also fishing without due regard to regulations. During the war Canada's west coast fisheries had a reprieve from poaching Japs. After the war, particularly when the Japanese were excluded from the valuable salmon and crab fisheries along the Siberian coast, which they had formerly exploited, they began again to operate in waters which the Canadians and Americans considered their preserves.

Canada's chief dispute with Japan after the war was over the fisheries, and Canada had hoped that some settlement would have been written into the Japanese peace treaty. However, in February 1951, the matter was eased by a letter from the Japanese Prime Minister promising that, pending negotiations of fisheries agreements,

"The Japanese Government will, as a voluntary act, implying no waiver of their international rights, prohibit their resident nationals and vessels from carrying on fishing operations in presently conserved fisheries in all waters where arrangements have already been made, either by international or domestic act, to protect the fisheries from over-harvesting and in which fisheries Japanese nationals or vessels were not in the year 1940 conducting operations."

This was a gentlemanly agreement, a proof, perhaps, that the Japanese had really changed their ways and entered with full heart into the beautiful company of Canadian and American democrats.

The agreement has now acquired a permanent basis. On December 16th, at the close of a conference in Tokyo attended by American and Canadian Government officials (of whom the Canadian Deputy Minister of Fisheries was one), an International Convention for the High Seas Fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean was initialled by Canadian, Japanese and United States representatives. This Convention protects the joint Canada-United States conservation programs for salmon and halibut and the Canadian conservation program for herring. It leaves undisturbed the complex web of fisheries agreements and arrangements between the United States and Canada and provides through a permanent North Pacific Fisheries Commission, the machinery for future co-operation among the three countries in the development of the fisheries resources of the North Pacific.

Thus all should be smooth fishing, with the Japanese no longer poachers but, in the same boat with Canada and the U.S.A., as estates agents over the North Pacific.

No Freedom For Varsity Press

At present two university papers, the Queen's Journal and the Toronto Varsity, are in hot water because they have published matter which did not meet with the approval of some members of the university faculties. The Journal, it appears, published matter which the dean of women thought unsuitable and in bad taste, respecting the relationships between men and women students; the Varsity was disrespectful toward the Students' Administrative Council.

There will be some complaint, we expect, on the part of the staffs of both papers, that their press freedom is being interfered with, but we do not see that they have any real complaint to make. The plain fact is that university papers enjoy only such freedom as university authorities choose to give them; their staffs are playing at journalism, not practising it, and within certain limits they must do as they are told. Their independence is illusory.

Freedom of the press is a widely misunderstood right. It exists not for newspapers and magazines alone, but for every citizen. It is, simply, the right to express opinions in print without submitting them to a censor. With this right, in the case of newspapers and magazines, goes an uncodified but well understood res[illegible] freedom of the press with discretion, and not for base or self-seeking ends.

The kind of discretion which understands and practises the freedom of the press is not found in undergraduates. It would be a pity if it were. Youth is not a time when discretion and reverence for established things is the most admirable of qualities. University publications cannot be as free, for instance, as daily newspapers, for they are not published for the same reasons or by the same sort of people. We are rather glad that the staffs of the Journal and the Varsity have enough of the devil in them to get themselves in trouble. Controlled, that quality will stand them in good stead in later life.

As the Wall Street Journal remarks, "A bride is a former bridesmaid who has been promoted from catcher to pitcher."

BIBLIOMANIA

High Ignorance Of George Moore

GEORGE MOORE, coming late and awkwardly to literature, gave a new turn to the English novel, had to live for over 50 years before he produced a work of accepted literary style. He was born a hundred years ago on February 24th, 1852, and wrote what is perhaps his finest book at the age of 73.

Moore, the fourth part of the late Victorian novel—Henry James, Hardy and Conrad were the others—came to writing through failure. Painting he loved; the smell of oil-paint was, he said, sweeter to him than the smell of flowers; but it required the influence of the British Ambassador to get him into the art school in Paris. So Moore, at the age of 22, in 1874, began to think about writing. He needed to think about it. No writer ever started out with less than George Moore. The legendary schoolboy dunce, Oliver Goldsmith, was a prizeboy compared with the illiterate, fumbling George, who wanted only to ride a Grand National winner. He began to write from a scratch on the paper. It took him seven years to discover elementary grammar and he was 54, established and feted, before he heard of the subjunctive. He went to bed that night muttering, "If it be; if it rain. How wonderful!"

MOORE WAS CAFE educated; he learned in conversation and could speak the French of the Paris poets long before he could read the French of the morning papers. He was, indeed, so ill-informed that whatever he said was sure to be his own. He was the most original critic of his time if only because he was the most ignorant. But ignorance among well-informed people can, if deftly played, be a trump and Moore was clever enough to realize it. He was deft and he never ceased to be ingenuous.

Moore was not, however, simple. He had for one thing a geographical complexity and was altogether unable to settle down to a single nation; an Irishman, he liked to be French and to live in England. He was known as the lover who never kissed but always told, a self-made amorist. Believing in informality, he set out to shock, while he hung his formal hat in the least informal clubs.

BUT AMONG ALL his shifts and drifts there was one constant in George Moore, one unambiguity—his devotion to art. It was Moore who, with D. S. MacColl, then art critic of the Spectator, made the French Impressionists known in England. Moore's Modern Painting (1893) sold a thousand copies in a summer and he formulated much of the aesthetic ideal of the "Yellow Book" movement in the nineties. He gave up years of his life, hours of his nights, to the sneering and jeering at the sentimental, narrative painting of the Victorians. Yet it is typical of Moore that when the Impressionists held one of the earliest exhibitions in Paris (1873) he came to demonstrate—against them. Thereafter he spent 20 years educating himself in every aspect of impressionism, and at the same time he educated England. Whatever Moore discovered he proclaimed. Nothing, he felt, existed before him. Sometimes he was right, more times he was just silly; but, wise or foolish, he was always diverting. For who could resist a man who, at the first sip, got himself excited about a schoolboy's grammar and at the second, the "blonde light" in the paintings of Monet? Moore, certainly, deserved his reputation for frankness; as Oscar Wilde remarked, "George conducts his education in public".

IN HIS FIRST novels Moore was like an infant, tottering from sentence to sentence, gurgling in constructions he did not understand. In his first prolonged phase, Moore wrote in the manner of the French naturalistic writers. He attached himself to Zola—whom he addressed as "master"—using all the devices of realism. He "reported" life, going to every labour of research. Not a smell was spared. The English lending libraries refused to circulate his novels and Moore, always a good literary fighter, went into ambush against them. Out came Literature at Nurse or Circulating Morals, a brilliant invective proclaiming the rights of novelists against the censorship of the libraries. But it was not until one library found it had lost £1,500 a year by refusing to circulate Esther Waters that "pagan Moore" became respectable. Esther Waters (1894) is Moore's best work in the naturalistic technique. An "objective" tale of an unmarried servant girl who bears a child, it applies the methods of realism with a delicate, sensitive loveliness, avoiding sentimentality and that self-consciousness which sometimes gives Moore's writing a flashy surface. Esther Waters was the culmination of many years of experiment and learning.

IN 1900 Moore had what Joseph Hone called "a lover's quarrel" with England. The Boer War disgusted him and he crossed to Ireland. For ten years, Moore was enamoured of Ireland; he painted his hall door green and began to learn Gaelic, even writing a collectionn of short stories, The Untilled Field, for translation into that language. This was the Dublin of the Irish Literary Revival and of excited ideas, of Yeats, A. E., Lady Gregory, Synge—and George Moore. This was the city of brilliant talk, "whose acoustic properties are perfect". And Moore was a famous talker who could also listen and had, indeed, learned most of what he know through his ears. Dublin was, moreover, a city of distinct character and, thus, a good gazebo for the novelist. So Moore began to write studies of his friends, sly, malicious, brilliant essays in personality [illegible] made their victims angry for two days. He also [illegible] confessions. Moore, who never minded being ridiculous and who knew no limits of self-dramatisation, was a very easy confessor. There was no pain, no mea culpa, about it. The only problem was with the reader—which was the grease paint and which the pink-washed face of George Moore.

BUT THESE RACY confessions, with their snorting opinions and trot of ideas, showed one quality in Moore that cut across every pose and playboy gesture. He was capable of hard work. He never rested on his talents; he used them as drills. When he attached himself to Zola it was for better or worse. Few writers have sustained the labours of research and revision as did George Moore; he explored his subjects with, it seems, his whole body. When he wanted to write a novel with a musical background (Evelyn Innes) he took piano lessons; a novel about actors (A Mummer's Wife) meant joining a troup of travelling players, and to find background for The Brook Kerith he journeyed, in his 62nd year, to Palestine. Little wonder that after Moore had left Dublin, Yeats should stroke his nose and remark "He taught us all the value of hard work".

He wondered and pondered the musical lore of W. B. Yeats' prose and found it his most important discovery since the comma. He produced The Lake and went on to produce. Heloise and Abelard (1925). He was 73 then, wrapped up in a dressing gown, but he made his novel of mediaeval Paris stir with young man's blood; this withered stick of a man could, after all, make words sigh like summer trees. Heloise and Abelard is, I believe, Moore's greatest achievement and to have written it would alone suffice for most men.

We are too near to George Moore to judge of his permanence; the echo and thud of his pontification is still too loud in the room, the sideways movement of his personality still too diverting, for us to see him squarely. Time only will put a stop to the fantasia that was George Moore and only time will show him clear as his books—and that, after all, is the way we want to see him.

Letters To The Editor

STUDENTS PLEASED WITH MAPS

Sir: This short letter is being sent in appreciation of the interesting and informative "Wherezit and Whatzit" maps which regularly appear in your paper.

We feel sure that everyone of your readers is conscious of their worth. As history students they have a special significance to us, not only because of the maps themselves, but also because of the foot-notes which, in a concise manner, outline a wide sweep of history, as in the recent map of the Dardanelles. These serve to give a greater meaning to the map itself and are a valuable addition to any student's textbook.

There are many reasons why the Examiner is rated among the papers of highest-standard in Canada. This is but one of them.

Your truly,

STUDENTS OF GRADE XII, ST. PETER'S SCHOOL.

WHAT PRICE DEMOCRACY

Sir; Up to the present time I have always believed that we were living in a Christian and democratic city, but after reading March 5th Examiner about the poor chap in Civic Hospital I have my doubts. When you realize that his only crime was that he had no friends, no job and no money, and after spending 10 days in jail was taken out in 15 below zero weather and told to beat it, surely an investigation is in order. Surely in cases such as this it would only be human to notify the Salvation Army or some Christian minister. In the meantime one young man is practically ruined for life and the taxpayer will have to pay the Civic Hospital for somebody who made one big mistake. Instead of sending our money to Christianize the heathen maybe we should keep it at home to put the milk of human kindness into those who are responsible for the laws of this fair country.

FRANK SMITH.

SUGAR-COATED EDUCATION

Sir: I would like through the medium of your pages, to air a few views and ask a few questions about present day education.

A grade six student whose progress through public school has been rather disappointing, was amusing himself by teaching school, using an old speller for the purpose. He remarked that he liked it much better than the new one which was "all mixed up with stories."

"Well," I said, "you like stories don't you?"

"Not in a speller," he answered, "they are a lot of nonsense and a waste of time."

Is this the kind of sugar-coating Mr. Dunlop refers to? Does the new type of textbook succeed in distracting and discouraging the student. Is the effect also to take the personality out of teaching, that precious, potent quality that no amount of system can replace?

Is it true that when Grade 8 was considered the end of education, working knowledge was taught in public schools of matters that are now senior matriculation material. Now they work towards high school entrance and bend all efforts to that end, looking to high school to provide practical, useful education.

Is it true that many students who are not going to occupations requiring the highest education, get something that is suited neither to their interests or their requirements and they drop out in discouragement.

The fact that the Department of Immigration is forced to recruit badly needed skilled labour abroad is a sad commentary on our educational system. Your truly,

"PARENT."

Fishing Rights

(Moncton Transcript)

For many years many of New Brunswick's lakes and streams have been under lease to private parties. Sportsmen, including residents and non-residents, have been prohibited from fishing these haunts of the trout and salmon unless they have membership in the clubs which hold them under lease. The remaining streams and lakes, which are open to public, have been called upon to bear the burden of continuous fishing. Gradually they have become pretty well fished out, and are losing their popularity as an attraction for sportsmen, native and non-resident.

It is encouraging to note, however, that the New Brunswick Government has moved to open a number of these hitherto leased streams to the public by the simple method of refusing to renew the leases. It is a step in the right direction and should result in a greater number of non-residents choosing this province as an ideal place for fishing. New Brunswick is one of the very few provinces that still cling to the antiquated system of leasing its best streams to individuals who can afford the luxury, and denying the people who, in the final analysis, own the streams and lakes, from enjoying them.

Bible Message

Out Of The Past

(Sir Wilfrid Laurier, speaking in the House of Commons, May 3, 1910)

From time to time in recent years paragraphs have appeared in the press to the effect that at the present stage of Canadian development it would be fitting that a Canadian should be the representative of His Majesty. In this we find a laudable but, to my mind, a misguided expression of national pride

The system which has been in operation since Confederation of His Majesty appointing to be his representative in this country some of the great names of Great, Britain has worked most harmoniously and most satisfactorily and any change in that system would not, I am sure, be productive of good results but perhaps, on the contrary, would jeopardize something we hold dear.

The first effect of this system of having some high statesman of Great Britain to be the representative of His Majesty in this country has undoubtedly been to strengthen, if possible, the ties which bind us to the Motherland and to keep them constantly before the hearts of the people.

The next effect is to place at the head of the administration one who by the very nature of things is not connected with our party or political differences and who by the same nature of things is more apt than anybody else to keep even the balance between all contending parties.

The other value of the system is to ensure the presence at the head of the political administration of one who from early youth has been bound to public life and who has had the advantage of experience of constitutional government in the country where constitutional government originated and where it is best understood. In these respects his excellency was pre-eminently qualified.

Those Lignite Fields

(North Bay Nugget)

Northern Ontario citizens will be forgiven if they sit back and enjoy a hearty laugh of derision upon reading a recent headline which says "May Use North Lignite."

Remember the lignite fields? They have been kicked around, bandied about, for years in Ontario politics.

They lie north of Cochrane on the Ontario Northland Railway. They are reputedly worth millions of dollars as a mineral asset—but nobody has found a profitable way to use the lignite.

Ontario Hydro is looking northward for new sources of power. Premier Frost has stated that the province is interested in the possibility of using the lignite fields to produce electrical energy.

Perhaps Hydro will succeed where others have failed.

"Take your coat out of that puddle, Sir Walter Raleigh—here comes your mum."

A-F-I-E-L-D with NICK NICKELS

Peterborough ice fishermen are having themseves a whale of a time these winter weekends. The Johnnie Young-Deb Wattman-Art Fraser crew, not content with the Beaverton area of Lake Simcoe, hie themselves to Jackson's Point. They report fine results with whitefish but their lake trout luck isn't so hot. They have fun, though, and that is the main thing.

Another gang—Johnnie Russelle, Fred Pepe, Mike O'Leary and Fred Marsden—motored up to Crystal Lake in North Hastings, 25 miles northeast of Bancroft. They were after lakers. After miles of misdirected tramping through the bush they finally chipped out their ice holes, 20 inches deep, and started fishin'. Caught 26, the largest about a pound. They were disappointed in the small sizes and reported finding that all the fish they cleaned had worms in their innards.

I checked this with department biologists who were not duly alarmed and pointed out that parasitic worms in fish intestines are white and that many lake trout are bottom feeders. In fact, many of them live on a steady diet of bloodsuckers, in season.

Fishermen shouldn't be too alarmed, either, nor should they spread bad reports until after having forwarded specimens to the department.

Hurry, Hurry, Hurry!

TEMsters Purvis and Strubbs tell me that Canadian National Sportsmen's Show tickets are selling great guns and it backs up the show's publicity blurbs that this year it will be bigger and better than ever.

Special shows for boats and marine, cottages, travel, conservation, fashions and dogs. Sport demonstrations in golf, tennis, badminton, fencing, judo and archery and, of course, fly and bait casting. And as an added attraction, ladees and genelmen, a real live mermaid in a goldfish bowl. Step thetaway, pul-eese.

Resume On 'Rats

Plucked beaver, wallaby, velvet coney, Hudson seal, Bisam mink, brook mink, electric seal, loutrine, Red River seal, river mink, river sable and water mink are all one and the same beastie. MUSKRAT. This is the furriers' lingo for them while Indians call them "musquash" and the white trapper, plain "'rat."

The muskrat far outdistances all other wild fur bearers in numbers taken and total value of marketed pelts. In 1950 more than 724,000 pelts were tanned worth about one and one-half million dollars.

Fur buyers will never reveal what near-future prices will bring this spring but it is certain that pelts will never reach the high attained in 1919-21; they brought from $5 to $6 each and intensified trapping then just about cleared them out. They have made a comeback in the last few years due to short trapping seasons and smaller takes.

The Rice Lake variety is outstanding on world fur markets.

Muskrat trapping dates and defined areas this year are simple and as follows:

In Haliburton, March 20 to May 5.

In Victoria, Peterborough, Durham and Northumberland Counties, March 20 to April 21. (There are no north-and-south-of-Highway 7 restrictive areas to confuse trappers this year.)

Defenceless Deer Vs. Dogs

All out war has been declared by district conservation officers against dogs found running deer, dogs found at large in any deer-inhabited area whether or not they are actually chasing deer at the time.

Thin and hungry deer and does heavy with fawn are defenceless when pursued through deep and crusted snow by dogs.

The minimum penalty is $50 and costs if you, as an owner, are caught. If you think the khaki-clad boys are kidding and you have that kind of hay to lose, give it a whirl and see.

Malta: George Cross Island Of St. Paul's Shipwreck, Knights' Siege, Air Raids

(Ed. Note: This special article has been written for The Examiner by a resident of Malta who knows the fortress island, her history and people intimately.)

By R. J. WILKINSON

"Malta? Oh yes! That's the island that was awarded the George Cross during the war."

Thus the average reaction when Malta enters tea table conversation. 'Teen age John, with a superior air, may point out that Malta is a naval base which owes its strategic importance to its position in the channel between Tunis and Sicily. But there is much more in Malta than usually appears in the press or in geography books.

Malta caters for many tastes, and has its special appeal, not only to the holiday-maker but to the archeologist, and the historian.

During the Ice Age, the Mediterranean basin was an area of grass-land, forest, hill and lake. The barrier between the two of the largest lakes was a range of hills, an extension of the Appennines, the spine of Italy. One of the hills in this range was what we may, for convenience, call Mount Malta. When by about 12,000 B.C., the Ice Cap had melted and the Mediterranean had become a single sea instead of a series of lakes, Mount Malta, in company with other hills in the area, was submerged, but its peaks kept their heads above water and are now the Maltese islands.

Twilight Of Fauna

No doubt Paleolithic man inhabited the land at the foot of Mount Malta, but he has left no traces on the present islands. Doubtless he had the sense to depart for safer regions as the waters rose. Not so the animals—elephants, bear, deer and hippopotamus. These, more conservatives, merely moved higher up the hill as the water level rose. Remorselessly, the waters encroached on the dry land, while the surviving animals died fighting for the scanty remains of food and fresh water. The last scene but one in this twilight fauna is a waterway choked with a mass of carcases. As the sea pounds in, they are reduced to a heterogeneous mass of bones; antler of deer, tusk of elephant, shoulder-blade of bear, all mixed together. One day, the bed of this waterway collapses and the waters, with their burden of bones, are precipitated into a subterranean cave.

Many centuries later, the curtain rose on the last scene when, in 1892, this cave was uncovered. It is now a museum, known as Ghar Dalam, the cave of darkness.

Stones and flint implements, pottery and statuettes, as well as buildings, found in the islands, indicate that the first settlers arrived about 5,000 B.C. Two thousand years later, these seem to have died out, to be replaced by men of a different race who, in turn, also disappeared after a few centuries, leaving bronze implements and other relics as proof of their one-time presence.

Phoenician Traders

The earlier settlers having failed to stay the course, the honour of being progenitors of the Maltese race fell to the Phoenicians, a Semitic tribe of sea-traders whose chief cities were Tyre and Sidon on the coast of Canaan. By 1600 B.C. the North African coast, had reached what is now Tunisia—and the future site of Carthage. Venturing across to Sicily, they found an uninhabited island with convenient harbours which they used as a place of refuge from the sudden storms which spring up in those parts at certain times of the year. From a place of refuge the islands came a flourishing self-governing Punic colony, first owning allegiance to Tyre and later to Carthage, but with no obligations to the metropolis other than the sending of envoys twice a year to lay offerings at the feet of the god Melkarte and of his consort, Ashtaroth.

In 216 B.C., during the second Punic War, Malta was annexed by Rome and for the next thousand years was part of the Roman province of Sicily. In A.D. 60; the Apostle Paul was shipwrecked on the shores of Malta. In 870, the islands were captured by the Moors and incorporated in the Moslem Mediterranean empire. Two hundred years later they were liberated by a Norman adventurer, Count Roger de Hauteville, founder of the new Christian kingdom of Sicily and nephew of William the Conqueror. For five centuries Malta was part of this Kingdom, the crown of which was worn successively by Norman, German, French and Spanish sovereigns.

Order Of St. John

Charles V, Holy Roman Emperor, in whose domains Malta was a unit, then ceded it to the Order of St. John which, having recently been expelled from Rhodes by the Turks, was homeless. The Knights converted Malta into a stronghold from which they successfully defied the Sultan who was, at that time, endeavouring to restore the old Moslem empire in Europe.

The period from 1530 to 1798 has been described as the golden age of Malta. If a rise in population from fifteen to a hundred thousand can be taken as a guide, it can be said that Malta prospered under the Knights. The magnificent fortifications and fine buildings bear witness to the money they poured into the place.

In 1565 the Knights with the assistance of every Maltese capable of bearing arms or even of carrying a small stone, successfully withstood a four-month's siege by a large Turkish force. Until the end of the 17th century the Knights achieved fame as mighty warriors in the perpetual fight between Cross and Crescent. When, however, the Turks became less aggressive the Knights began to lose the fighting spirit and to become idle and decadent; so much so that when Napoleon descended on the island in 1798 they surrendered and evacuated the Maltese islands almost without firing a shot.

Napoleon

Napoleon stayed a week in Malta, then departed for Egypt, leaving a garrison. Three months after his departure the Maltese rebelled, infuriated by the looting of churches. Seizing arms they succeeded, untrained as they were, in forcing the French garrison to retire behind the fortifications of Valetta. The Maltese leaders appealed to the King of Sicily and to Lord Nelson who had just arrived in Sicilian waters after the battle of the Nile. The ensuing naval blockade, combined with British victories elsewhere, effectively cut off supplies from the island and, after sustaining a two-year's siege, the French commander, General Vaubois, was constrained to surrender to General Pigot, commanding the Anglo-Maltese besieging force. Malta then became a British protectorate, and in 1814 was incorporated in the British Empire.

During World War II, Malta suffered considerably from enemy air action. Over thirty thousand buildings were destroyed or damaged and many people were killed or wounded. In April 1942 the King conferred the George Cross on the island in recognition of its gallant defence.

POLITICIAN-STATESMAN

The politician says: "I will give you what you want." The statesman says: "What you think you want is this. What it is possible for you to get is that. What you really want, therefore, is the following."

Walter Lippman: A Preface to Morals, XIII, 1929.

ON THE QUAKER OATS PROPERTY: This oil painting, the property of Miss Laura Davidson, by whose courtesy it is here reproduced, shows the saw and grist mills of her grandfather, Samuel Dickson. The artist was a Miss Bisset or Biffet, about whom nothing is known. It was painted after 1840 and before 1846—probably 1844 or 1845. The reasons for establishing these dates are (a) Samuel Dickson did not acquire an old mill from the Government until 1840, and a few years afterwards built the larger ones shown here (according to Mr. Howard Pammett's history, published serially in the Examiner in 1950 and 1951. (b) The Examiner has on its walls a surveyor's map of Peterborough in 1846, done by (Sir) Sandford Fleming. The mill and houses on the hill are shown on this map; also shown are a couple of other buildings which the painting does not show. Therefore the painting is older than the surveyor's 1846 map.

The picture was painted from the east shore of the Otonabee, near Hunter Street. In the foreground is a scow or raft being poled against the current by a couple of men. At the track leading into the water a couple of horses with a man are preparing to ford the river. The lowest of the three mill buildings at the water's edge looks like the old Quaker Oats power house which still stands on almost precisely the same ground; it is not, however, the same building. The track leading up the hill is Murray street, or, rather where Murray street would run if it did not end now at the lowest of the three houses shown in the painting. That house is Number 14, Murray street, where the Logan family lived at the turn of the century. The next house up the hill is almost hidden by three large trees. It is on Dickson street, east side, and was formerly the home of Dr. Walsh. The big house at the left, just over the brow of the hill, is at the corner of Murray and Dickson streets, and was formerly the Hartley home. The hill in the background is Nicholls Oval.

The painting has been in the Dickson family presumably since it was painted. Decades of dust and grime had accumulated on it, obscuring the colors and even some of the details. Miss Davidson had it cleaned by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gould, who have taken up residence in Peterborough. The result was a transformation of a heavy dull painting into what Mrs. Gould (Stella Grier) describes as colours in a "higher key than usual for its time." The collection of houses, in the right background, hardly discernible in the photograph, was revealed. The general colours are in grey, soft greens and browns, with a bluish sky. The canvas is about 40 inches by 24 inches.—(Photographed by Examiner Staff Photographer).

Your Garden:

How To Choose and Where To Plant Marigolds

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

The glorious marigold has become one of the three most popular annual flowers in American and European gardens. Should a poll be taken I think the marigold would lead its rivals, petunias and zinnias, by a wide margin.

The name marigold is commonly applied to several different kinds of plants. The one referred to by folks from the old world is the pot marigold, or the Calendula of today's garden. Another is the marsh marigold, known botanically as caltha palustris.

The subject of this article, Tagetes, which includes the French and African marigolds, is neither French nor African but a group of plants native from New Mexico to the Argentine.

Marigolds are best suited to the open border, where the sun brings out their lovely shades of yellow and gold. All marigolds are good for cutting, the flowers keeping in fine condition for a long time.

They are easily grown in ordinary garden loam, but give the best results in a fairly rich medium one. The large, flowered tall-growing chrysanthemum and carnation-flowered varieties want about two feet of space, while the French hybrids like Harmony and Naughty Marietta are best planted a foot apart. The tiny edging, tagetes signata pumila, should be spaced eight inches apart. Incidentally this dwarf plant does well in partial shade.

Dorothy Jenkins in her book on Annual Flowers writes "When it comes to ordering seeds for the garden, the first decision rests between odorless African marigolds and those with the old pungency.

"Then the choice narrows down to color and we roam at will among the types to find the varieties that sound most pleasing. I have learned to avoid the light-toned ones with odorless foliage, for they prove irresistible to Japanese beetles. And so Buff Beauty, a frilled, delicately colored blossom, which is one of my favorites, must wait until the beetles are under better control.

"Crown of Gold, the first odorless variety with brilliant orange blossoms, and Burpee Gold Improved are far safer choices. For those who like exotic flowers, the brilliant Honeycomb is unusual and for size the mixture of Gigantea Sunset Giants is outstanding.

"Yellow Supreme is still a charming marigold, perhaps loveliest of all. The pale lemon yellow blossoms, as full as any greenhouse carnation, are unsurpassed for cutting. And the color is as pleasing with other flowers in a vase as in the border. With cleome Pink Queen in the background or the forget-me-not blue of cynoglossum in front, Yellow Supreme is a garden picture worth planting year after year. It holds it's own with perennials, even the summer flowering phlox."

New for 1952, is Rusty Red, a dwarf French type with large rusty red, fully double flowers two inches and more across. The plants are in bloom from early July until frost hits them. My favorite among the taller marigolds is Glitters, an All-America winner in 1951. The large fluffy chrysanthemum-like, canary-yellow flowers three inches across are freely produced on long stems. The plants are erect and three feet in height, making them ideal for the back of the border.

Marigolds just grow. Routine digging and fertilizing of the soil starts them off well and the bristly seeds may be neatly planted in rows or scattered broadcast, according to the effect desired. Thinning and adequate space are their chief requirements.

New for '52 is Rusty Red, a dwarf French-type marigold with flowers two or more inches across It grows about a foot

Note on Questions

Henry Pree is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, with each column he will answer the most interesting and most frequently asked questions.

Gardening Questions

Q—What sort of soil is necessary to insure blooms on rhododendrons, mountain laurel and azaleas? Ours is a heavy clay.

A—Rhododendrons and similar plants require, 1st, a well-drained soil, 2nd, that it be acid and humusy, and 3rd, a fair share of the day's sunshine.

Q—Please suggest some low evergreen shrubs which will remain a foot or so in height. We have plenty of periwinkle, English ivy and pachysandra but want to add interest to ground cover plantings.

A—The following are suitable for your purpose. Creeping Oregon holly grape, mahonia repens; Canby pachistima; spreading English yew, taxus baccata repandens; Sargent juniper, juniper chiniensis sargenti; Waukegan juniper, juniper horizontalis douglasi.

QUEEN VICTORIA LOOKS UPON WAR DESOLATION of Valletta, capital of Malta. The city is named after La Vallette, Master of the Maltese Order, who organized the island defences against the Turks in 1565. Pope Innocent IV conferred the title "Grand Master" upon the chief of the Knights of St. John in 1252. In Malta the Order developed its own flag, its coinage, its customs, and became virtually a sovereign State. The throne room of the Palace of the Grand Masters served as the original Chapter Hall of the British Order of Saint Michael and St. George. (K.C.M.G. and C.M.G. are ranks in this Order.)

St. Kilda (Scotland) Abandoned To Birds

The most westerly part of Scotland is no longer inhabited, for as we know the lonely little group of islands of St. Kilda, 140 miles away from the mainland were abandoned in 1930. It was in the late summer of that year that the whole population of 40 souls sailed away, most of them to settle in Morvern.

Since then the sea birds have had almost sole possession of the isles, where puffins, gannets, and falmar petrels in particular live in large colonies. They do not have to share the islands with many animals besides a limited number of mice, for even such common animals as rabbits and rats, frogs, toads and lizards, and even bees do not live in St. Kilda.

The main island, Hirta, is itself a forbidding, treeless place. Its name, in fact, means death and gloom, and this choice of name does not surprise anyone who has seen its rampart of massive cliffs.

No one knows much about St. Kilda's early history, but it is thought that it was first inhabited in the second century by the Norsemen. The first record there is of the island is that in 1697 there were 180 inhabitants, who kept 18 horses, 98 head of cattle, and about 2,000 sheep. Twenty-eight years later the Plague—smallpox—struck the island and many died, in fact there were only four adults and 28 orphan children left.

Emigrants from Harris came, and once more the population increased to above 100. In the last century, however, many left St. Kilda for Australia, Canada, and for the mainland, and now, except for a very few naturalists, geologists and climbing enthusiasts, no one has set foot on the island for 21 years.

Hirta is not the only island in the St. Kilda group, though it is the largest. The others are Soay, Boreray, and Dun. Some years ago a few of the wild sheep of Soay were brought to Ailsa Craig (Paddy's Milestone).

Why So Pale And Wan?

WHY so pale and wan, fond lover?
Prithee, why so pale?
Will when looking well can't move her,
Looking ill prevail?
Prithee, why so pale?

Why so dull and mute, young sinner?
Prithee, why so mute?
Will, when speaking well can't win her,
Saying nothing do't?
Prithee, why so mute?

Quit, quit for shame! This will not move;
This cannot take her.
If of herself she will not love,
Nothing can make her;
The devil take her!

PUBLIC SCHOOL JUNIOR HOCKEY CHAMPIONS—Queen Mary school this week captured the public school junior hockey championship to gain one of the three championships available annually in the public school hockey. They used almost 40 hockey players from Grade 4 up in their league games. Playing with smaller schools, Queen Mary used boys from the lower grades to make the games a better match. It also gave more boys a chance to play and developed talent for next year. The boys who played the final games were: (front row, left to right), David Pontin, Paul Cromie, Bob Gatfield, Joel Moldaver, Hugh Young; (second row), Bob Stickle, Brian Malcolm, Bill Dorrington, Dick Burgess, Bill Trude, Dave Perks; (third row) Ron Sinclair, Wayne Routly, Andrew Gemmell, Paul Reader; (back row) O. M. Steer, principal, and V. C. Northcott, coach.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

P.C.V.S. Shades Port Perry To Lead Series

Leave the high-scoring games to the boys' teams, say the girls on P.C.V.S.' senior basketball, and give us the close wins; they're more exciting.

Audrey Hustwitt's girls chalked up their fifth straight victory this season Friday night when the quintet shaded the Port Perry High lasses 17-16. This is the first of a two-game points-to-count series, the winners entering the C.O.S.S.A. series next Saturday in Toronto.

The one-point margin was the edge throughout the low-scoring game. Both teams played cagey throughout, holding the ball with short passes and never shooting unless they were crowding the hoop.

This one-point difference built up the excitement to a breaking point late in the fourth quarter. The Garnet and Grey cagers went into the quarter nursing a one-point lead but saw it change to Port Perry, then it switched back to P.C.V.S. and with three minutes left changed back to Port Perry.

Two points to girls' basketball is something like 10 points in boys' cage; it's hard to get in three minutes. But a daring lass, Janet Frederick, loped a long, lofty throw into the basket with about one minute to go and P.C.V.S. won, 17-16.

A stellar guard line saved the Ports from a severe beating. Vera Howson, Mary Wilson, Margaret Leask and Shirley Vance needled the P.C.V.S. attack, especially in the first and third quarters. They tightly tied up the ball-carrier and then forced some minor violation to gain possession.

Defence Tight

Up front the Ports had their hands full trying to break through P.C.V.S.' guard line. Maureen Fletcher, playing with a broken finger, Betty Wilkinson and Nancy Wilson were steady checkers for the Garnet and Grey.

Fletcher, a stepper with the cheerleaders, several times showed her shifty footwork to step around a check and start a rush up the court. Wilkinson worked in close to the ball carrier and tied them up numerous times while Rowell, a girl with height, was grabbing the rebounds.

Marg Clark, who usually leads the scoring, was held to only four points, while Shirley Frost topped the quintet with seven. Janet Frederick's long loopers helped gain her six points.

Lineups:

P.C.V.S. (17)—Rowell, Wilkinson, Clark 4, Estlick, Frost 7, Frederick 6, Fletcher, Jones, Thomson, White, Wood, Derry.

Port Pery High (16)—Williams, Howson, James 2, Denure 2, Hall 2, Hewitt, Brock 10, McKee, Wilson, Munroe, Cook, Leask, Kight, Vance.

Petes Start Semi-Finals With An 8-2 Win Against Belleville Hawks

The Petes flew to an 8-2 victory over Belleville Hawks here last night before a fair-sized crowd to open their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-final series. They did it with a 4-1 first period splurge and a strong finish for three unanswered goals after a 1-1 middle chapter. Play was very fast throughout, though scrambly in spots, and quite clean, the winners drawing two of the three penalties passed out.

Ron Horton was lost to the homesters early in the second frame when he suffered torn knee ligaments in a collision along the boards. Jack Wardhaugh was a Hawks' absentee, owing to work. Referees Jim Crombie and Maurice Walsh handled the game in flawless fashion. The latter took a dizzy spell and held play up several minutes in the first period, but was okay the rest of the route in fast travelling.

Scored Two

Ted Collins counted two goals for the winners, with singles going to Drake Jopling, Curly Mason, Junior West, Arn Dugan, George Steele and Gus Leonard. Two assists each were earned by Fred Garvey and Dugan as Jopling, Red Robinson, Chum Fryia and West each had one. Peter Jones and Jerry Moher were the Quinte snipers, the latter, Keith MacDonald, Red Doran and Ernie Trumble having an assist apiece. Ron Harding sparkled in goal for the Petes and had a solid defence in front of him. Leforte also kicked out a flock of hard drives.

Reeves went off early for interference and it cost a goal, Jopling banging one home in close in a scramble. Later, Mason slapped in a passout on nice passing right inside by West and Dugan. Barrett was robbed as Hawks fought back, but Petes had a margin on play in fast stepping. Gus Leonard made it 3-0 when he darted in suddenly to pick up a slow forward pass by Fryia at close range and blast it home. Walsh held up play briefly owing to a dizzy spell. Steele stickhandled in close smartly on a solo thrust and blazed a screened shot through defence to make it 4-0, but Jones got that back from Trumble and Doran from the side on neat in-close combination.

Even Period

Play was speedy and pretty even through the middle chukker, each goalie in turn having to hop to halt hot rubber on quick passing thrusts. It was clean all the way. Horton was hurt accidentally early and was helped off. A dash by Gus Leonard and Fryia nearly paid off, and then Collins counted on a swell passing play at close range with Garvey. Goyer evened that up shortly in close in a scramble with Moher and MacDonald helping. It was hot and even and, with Wade off for interference, Hawks tried hard to capitalize but were checked closely. West nearly counted one on a breakaway.

They kept the pace up pretty well through the third stanza, though close checking made for some shinny at times. Collins got in a good try and then Dugan backhanded Jopling's forward pass into the hemp from 12 feet out. Steele served a charging penalty and Petes looked stronger as they bored in frequently the rest of the way. West combined nicely with Dugan with but one man to beat to tally a nifty marker, and Collins finished it up shortly from Garvey and Robinson at close range.

IN ON THREE—Arn Dugan was in on three goals to lead the Petes at bat here last night as they downed Belleville Hawks in the opening game of the "B" group semi-final series.

Belleville. Goal, Leforte; defence, Reeves and Semark, centre, Goyer; wings, MacDonald and Moher, alternates, Doran, Jones, Barrett, Day, Desjardins, Trumble and Bastedo.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Steele and Fryia; alternates, Horton, Wade, Collins, Garvey, Robinson, West, Dugan and Mason.

Referees, J. Crombie and M. Walsh.

Yukon Eric comes here next Tuesday night to headline the pro mat card at the Brock Arena as he takes on Bobo Brazil. The huge Alaskan will pit his great strength against the speed and ring savvy of the popular Negro and he may also wind up with a severe headache. On account of Bobo uses his hard noggin to butt opponents silly when the going gets rocky. Should be quite a match. First appearance of Yukon in a local ring in many months. Rugged Fred Atkins tangles with Warren Bockwinkle in the semi-final, a match that should see the fur fly, as both are boring-in grapplers of long experience. The prelim has colorful Pat Flanagan in against Strangler Bob Wagner.

Lots of local basketball last eve and again tonight. Y.W.C.A. this p.m. present a real hoop attraction with a girls' exhibition between East Toronto provincial champs and the local Towne Togs. Ontario champions two years ago — and who are presently on the provincial prowl again. It's at seven chimes. Two boys' games of a playoff nature tonight at the Collegiate, commencing at 7.30. That'll have Oshawa or Toronto against the P.C.V.S. junior "A" lads, and the nightcap has St. Catharines Stars clashing with Bev Goulding's junior O.A.B.A. entry in a return tilt, the Saints taking the first one in Welland.

First We'd Heard Of It

Speaking on baseball, the Port Hope scribe says: "We understand that the Peterborough senior club is sort of out on a limb as far as organized ball this year is concerned. With Oshawa joining a western league, the Liftlock City team is left practically without opposition. Rumor has it that an effort was made to entice Lindsay out of the Lakeshore League. However, this was a fruitless task for Lindsay — as all other clubs in the circuit — realize that the lakeshore grouping is one of the strongest and best organized in the province. The possibility now remains that Peterborough may wind up asking permission to join the local circuit for next season's play. Something may come out on this at the annual league meeting soon in Whitby."

Kingston Plays Eagles

Hockey returns to the local scene Monday night, and it's play-off hockey. Second game of the best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-finals between Kingston and Eagles. An 8.30 touch at Civic Arena, and no doubt a huge crowd will view it. They open their big series tonight in the Limestone City and, regardless of the outcome, the Monday night melee should be a hot number. Both hustling squads will be giving it all they have to move into group finals and, of course, to stave off sudden elimination within the next week or so. Yes, it should be a grand game before a big crowd.

Petes didn't experience too much trouble downing the Hawks 8-2 here last eve before a so-so crowd. But they had a tough break when Ron Horton had knee ligaments torn in a clash early in the second period. He will be sidelined for some time, perhaps the rest of the season. The club will miss this hard-hitting defenceman in playoffs. Apart from an [illegible] Ellis outfit had a good margin on play to earn the duke in speedy travelling. Arn Dugan, Junior West, Ted Collins, Fred Garvey and Drake Jopling were all prominent on the attack, while Ray Harding and his defence turned in a fine effort, too. Petes play the next semi-final tilt Monday on Belleville ice.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The junior boys made a fine showing in the Ontario Tankard competition in Toronto on Friday. They reached the finals, but were outclassed by the more experienced High Park rink. The boys commenced curling this season and have done remarkably well. Ted Saunders was the skip, with Gordon Graham vice, Douglas Baptie second, and Larry Cunningham lead. The credit for the junior organization must go to Wesley Switzer, A. Ingram, Fred Stenson and Rufus Payne. They spent many hours instructing the juniors and in the short space of three months it shows great promise.

The ladies concluded another of their competitions Friday afternoon. It was a three-game bonspiel for the Smart Set Trophy, donated by Zimmell Levine, and the honor of winning this trophy goes to Mrs. J. Dunkerly's rink, the only one to win three games. It was a purely local affair, with 14 rinks entered. The winners were:

First—Mrs. W. Archibald, Mrs. D. Bell, Mrs. R. Morgan, Mrs. J. Dunkerly, skip.

Second—Mrs. C. Selkirk, Mrs. D. Charlton, Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. M. Holt, skip.

Third—Mrs. E. Welbourne, Miss A. Horsfield, Mrs. A. Sands, Miss F. Gladman, skip.

Tied for fourth—Mrs. J. Wocker, Mrs. K. Milne, Mrs. H. Lawes, Mrs. J. Watts, skip; and Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. H. Worton, Mrs. R. Miller, Mrs. O. M. Steer, skip.

Manitoba Rink Captures Curling Championship, Ontario, Nova Scotia Tied

By AL VICKERY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, March 8. (CP)—The Silver Tankard Trophy emblematic of the Canadian Curling Championship rests in Canada's keystone province today for the 13th time in the 25-year history of the 'spiel. Manitoba's Billy Walsh claimed the trophy and the championship Friday on the 10th round of play, defeating powerful Alberta 9-7. The bespectacled skip—throwing his first rocks in big-time curling—went on to defeat Northern Ontario's Jimmy Guy, 8-6 in the final round. The victory, Walsh's 10th straight, matched the effort of Don Oyler of Kentville, N.S., unbeaten in last year's Dominion curling final at Halifax.

The Alberta rink skipped by Art Simpson of Bassano emerged in second place with eight wins and two losses in the five-day final. British Columbia, idle on the last draw; Ontario and Nova Scotia, finished behind Alberta with identical records of six victories in 10 starts.

The Walsh-Simpson game drew the best day-time crowd. A win for Simpson would have tied the two rinks and forced a playoff, providing both won or lost in the final draw.

Alberta was down one coming into the final end. It was straight knockout for the Manitobans. They killed every rock the Alberta rink threw and were lying shot themselves on a tricky roll when Simpson came up for his last rock.

End Losing Streak

His draw was light and failed to reach the house. Walsh won the championship without having to throw his last stone. His victory ended Manitoba's longest losing streak in the final—two consecutive years.

Alberta has won the crown four times; Nova Scotia and Ontario twice each, and Northern Ontario and British Columbia, once each.

An earlier decision giving Manitoba its 10th-round victory over Alberta by a 10-7 count was corrected by the three officials. A judge had conceded Walsh a point on his unthrown rock.

All rinks lined up on the amphitheatre ice for the trophy presentation. David Stewart of Montreal presented the trophy to Walsh and Chief Justice Thane Campbell of Charlottetown handed silver trays to other members of the rink—Johnny Watson, lead, Andy McWilliams, second, and Allan Langlois, third.

Get Gold Buttons

Walsh and company also received engraved gold buttons. Members of Simpson's Alberta rink were presented with silver ice buckets by Rene Fortier of Montreal.

A fair-sized crowd was on hand during the 11th round to see Walsh make it 10 straight.

Jimmy Guy of Kenora, skipping the Northern Ontario rink, did his utmost to spoil the string. He was particularly brilliant on the final end when he was down two.

With nothing in the house, Guy tried to nick one of his own rocks, sitting about six inches in front, into the house with his last stone.

He failed by a hair. The stone just missed and continued through the house, leaving the end dead.

Tough Schedule Faces Leafs Over Weekend

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The third-place Toronto Maple Leafs, striving to erase that two-point margin held by the runner-up Montreal Canadiens, tonight move into a National Hockey League weekend about as tough as they've experienced all season long.

In what could be a preview of Stanley Cup play Toronto meets the league-leading Detroit Red Wings at home tonight and Sunday back in the United States motor city.

While the rejuvenated Leafs take on Detroit—who has already clinched the league title—in a double schedule, their arch-rival Montreal Canadiens have a somewhat easier task in entertaining the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks tonight and New York Sunday.

The weekend's other tilt will see Chicago playing the fifth-place Bruins in Boston Sunday night.

Not Too Hopeful

In meeting Detroit 12 times this season, Toronto has been able to salvage but three victories while tying four games and losing five. Of a possible 24 points against the Wings, the Leafs have picked up 10. However, they could square their account during the weekend.

Detroit is minus the services of Metro Prystai, Benny Woit and possibly Leo Reise, all sidelined with injuries. Larry Zeidal, up from Indianapolis Capitols of the American Hockey League, will be filling in along the blue line while Jimmy Skinner, Red Wing scout, will coach the champions in the absence of Tommy Ivan, hospitalized with the flu.

The Leafs—with Fern Flaman, Joe Klukay, Gus Mortson and Bill Juzda on the crippled list—have brought Leo Boivin up from their A H L Pittsburgh farm club. They will use him along with Jim Morrison, Hugh Bolton and Jim Thomson on the blue line. The 180-pound native of Prescott, is high in general manager Conn Smythe's estimation.

Hiawatha Leading Downer's Corners

KEENE, March 8 — (ENS). — Hiawatha took an 11-6 win over Downer's Corners here Thursday in overtime after they had tied 6-all at the end of three periods. The win put the Indians up two games in their best-of-five Otonabee Rural Hockey League finals. The third game will be played in Keene on Monday night.

Harold and Wally Steenburgh of the losers retired in the third after being cut in play, and the Downer's crew tired fast then. Goalie Howie McDonald of Hiawatha required repairs in the third, too, but returned to play a sensational game. It was a rugged game with 13 of the 20 penalties going to the winners. The Indians drew seven of them in the third and the delayed penalty rule was in effect much of this chapter.

Boyd Cowie led the winners with four goals as George Sellaby had three. Bob Heafield banged in two, with others going to Neil Paudash and Steed. G. Sellaby also aided on two as did N. Paudash, other assists going to B. Cowie and Howard. Though given a rough ride, Bob Locke led Downer's with two goals and two assists. Wally Steenburgh got two, and Ed Close and Grant Burns one each, the latter also getting an assist. Howie McDonald and Boyd Cowie shone for the Indians, especially in the third when they were shorthanded. Bob Locke and Ed Close played fine hockey for Downer's with W. Steenburgh and G. Burns also good. Both teams gave a big crowd plenty of thrills. The teams:

Hiawatha— McDonald, Anderson, Thompson, Heafield, L. Sellaby, D. Musgrave, Paudash, E. Musgrave, Howard, G. Sellaby, B. Cowie, Steed, G. Cowie.

Downer's — Larable, B. McIlmoyle, Close, Locke, R. McIlmoyle, Burns, Barker Batten, H. Steenburgh, W. Steenburgh, and Humphries.

C.G.E., Lindsay Triumph In Semi-Finals

An over-powering first half gave the C.G.E. lasses a slim 22-20 victory over the Nurses Friday night in the first game of the girls' city league semi-finals. In the second game the Lindsay Merchants clipped Blacks 25-16.

Led by Marg Batley and Dot Jackson the C.G.E. quintet built up a 16-5 score in the first half. Anita Davis and Jean Bell accounted for the Nurses' points.

But the Nurses took over the second half to demonstrate the play but fell short by two points in their rally. Anita Davis with three field baskets and three foul shots led the Nurses on the uphill climb and received some assistance from Susan Slater, B. Dawe and Betty Jaquith.

Two good foul shots and a basket by Dot Jackson, plus a basket by Barbara Luther, gave the C.G.E. girls enough points to squeeze through.

Anita Davis led the scoring with 12 points while Dot Jackson topped the C.G.E. performers with nine.

Lindsay's well-balanced team slightly outplayed and outscored Black's in the second game in both halves.

Marj Owen, Ruth Gilson, Donna Copp, Marg Vanstone and Shirley Meath all contributed to Lindsay's 12-point total in the first half. At the same time Rosie McInroy, Marney Hollingsworth, Carol Raper, Reta Nayler and Marian McGill collected six good foul shots and only two baskets for Black's 10 points.

Donna Copp and Lois Cullis joined Lindsay's scoring ranks in the second half with other points by Owen, Gilson and VanStone totalled 13 more points for the win. Again most of Black's points went to McInroy, Hollingsworth and Nayler.

Black's had the amazing total of 10 good foul shots out of a possible 15. Marney Hollingsworth had a perfect night there recording four for four.

First Game

Nurses (20)—Slater 4, Davis 12, Dawe 1, Jaquith 1, Bell 2, Smith, Martin.

C.G.E. (22) — Jackson 9, B. Luther 5, J. Luther, Waye, Jones, Nixon 2, Batley 6.

Second Game

Black's (16)—McIlhagga, McInroy 3, Hollingsworth 4, Raper 5, Nayler 3, McIlvena, McGill 1.

Lindsay (25)—Owen 4, Gilson 7, Copp 4, Cullis 2, VanStone 6, Meath 2, Algar.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

State Boxing Inspector Edward Leonard said Friday in Syracuse, N.Y., that he would recommend a fine and 30-day suspension for Robert Villemain's handlers who, he claimed, interfered with a physician's examination of the boxer during a bout there Thursday night with Joey Dejohn.

Villemain was floored for a nine count in the fourth round but came back to knock out the Syracuse middleweight in the ninth.

Leonard said that after the fourth round referee Ed Risko asked for a doctor to examine a cut under Villemain's right eye, and George Kantor and Jean Bretonnel, Villemain's handlers, brushed Dr. Arthur A. Vercillo aside when he entered the ring.

At the end of the eighth round Leonard said Villemain's handlers again tried to stop an examination. Leonard said he then went to the Frenchman's corner and the examination was made.

Eight stitches were needed to close the cut under Villemain's eye.

Jacqueline Du Bief, 19-year-old figure skater, arrived in Toronto by air Friday to take part in the Toronto Skating Club's annual carnival next week. The French champion, who won her world title recently in Paris, will fly back to France after the carnival to defend her French championship again.

In Basle, Switzerland, Edmonton Mercurys, Olympic hockey champions, Friday night ran over the Basle club 20-1. Period scores were 7-1, 8-0, 5-0.

Wimbledon champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., overwhelmed Brendan Macken of Montreal 6-0, 6-1, Friday in Kingston, Jamaica, to gain the finals of the Caribbean lawn tennis championships.

Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., Olympic and world's figure skating champion, Friday denied reports that he will turn professional to skate with the Barbara Ann Scott ice show. "There is absolutely and definitely no truth to these rumors and I cannot explain how they arose," Button said in Hamburg, Germany.

MILITARY SPORT

Polo in its modern form was developed by British Army officers in India in the middle of the 19th century.

WORD FROM THE WISE—Infielder Jack Littrell, 22, youngest rookie on the Philadelphia Athletics roster, pays attention to President Connie Mack, 89, at West Palm Beach, Fla. Mr. Mack, who was the club's manager for 50 years, visited camp to get a line on the new recruits.

Young Downs Durando, Eyes Robinson

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP).—Paddy Young, a decisive winner over hard-hitting Ernie Durando, is ready and eager to take on Ray Robinson in a title bout May 16 if the busy Harlem sugar man has his middleweight crown by then.

The 23-year-old Young won the right to meet Ray in Madison Square Garden by his second triumph over the stocky Durando Friday night.

But before Young can step into the ring with the 160-pound king, he'll have to wait and see how Robinson fares in his title fights with Carl (Bobo) Olson in San Francisco next Thursday and with Rocky Graziano in Chicago April 16.

In addition to all of these middleweight scraps, Robinson may box light heavyweight Joey Maxim for the 175-pound diadem in New York this summer. Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said terms almost have been closed for the show, but that it has not yet been signed.

Maxim Willing

"It's all up to Ray," said Norris. "If he wants the Maxim fight, it's his. Maxim is willing."

In the first round of Young's fight with Durando, it appeared that the blond New Yorker's chances of a title fight were hopeless.

Durando, a powerful hitter with his right, rocked Paddy four times with his pet punch and it looked like curtains. But Paddy shook off the effects of the wallop and gave his crude rival a good going over through most of the fight.

He stabbed his swarthy foe with left jabs, belted him with left hooks and right swings to the head and body and took most of the steam out of him. The officials all voted for Young.

P.C.V.S. Curlers Defeated In Tankard Final

Bruce Sonley's Toronto High Park rink Friday night came through with a convincing 23-3 victory over P.C.V.S.' Ted Sanders-skipped quartet in the final game of the Ontario junior tankard. The bonspiel was a one-day affair played on the Toronto Granite Club ice.

The Sanders rink is the first Peterborough collegiate rink to compete in the junior tankard in more than 20 years. The last team to compete was skipped by Dr. Ralph Clark, Ontario's representative in the Dominion curling championships in Winnipeg.

The collegiate rink which included Sanders as skip, Gordon Graham as vice, Douglas Baptie as second and Larry Cunningham as lead defeated Oshawa in the first round 9-4. Then the quartet edged out J. Harris of Kitchener 9-8 in the semi-finals.

Thompson Loses

Peterborough's other representative in the tankard, Blair Thomson, skipping the University of Western Ontario rink, lost out to Sonley's rink in the semi-finals. Former P.C.V.S. athlete, Thomson lost only 9-7.

Sanders skipped a collegiate entry earlier this year in the schoolboys' playdowns and lost out, to Jack Mosley's Ontario champions by one point. His rink Friday was slightly stronger than the schoolboy rink.

Peterborough's representation at the tankard is the result of the new program at the curling rink which includes 14 schoolboy rinks. The Peterborough Curling Club, along with others across the province this season, organized the collegiate division and produced strong contenders for both the schoolboy and Ontario tankard 'spiels.

Collegiate Jrs. Whip Oshawa In Points Series

Jack Cullis' P.C.V.S. junior "A" boys quintet worked as a unit Friday night to outplay, outshott and out-score Oshawa Central 51-42 in the Motor City. This was the first game of a two-game points-to-count series for the Lake Ontario district honors and the right to enter the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns.

The teams, during the regular season play, each had three wins and a loss, the latter to each other. The playoff was necessary and a two-game series decided upon. The second game will be tonight at 7:30 at P.C.V.S.' gym, one of triple-header cage night.

After the game Coach Cullis briefly credited the win to each boy saying that "each played a good team" and "so we played better than they did—we have a team."

Best In Third

Shooting paid off for the Garnet and Grey who carried the majority of the play in the game They didn't start to hit the hoop with accuracy until the third quarter when they dropped in eight out of 15 field attempts as compared with three out of 16 for Central. This helped them to a 36-29 score at the end of the third.

Until then the Garnet and Grey had been outplaying and outshooting Central but were off their mark. Meanwhile the Motor City quintet were cashing in on the fast break which gave them a 12-10 score at the first quarter and a 21-19 halftime score. Then P.C.V.S. hit the target and won.

For the first time in three meetings Ken Armstrong, P.C.V.S. guard stayed on the court, usually he fouled out. Big Ken rebounded well at both backboards, often tipping one in at the offensive end, led rushes up the court and scored nine points.

Checked Well

Jack Corbett had the honor of checking Oshawa's one-man team, Chasczewski, (it'll soon be changed to Chase). The well-built Motor City cager ran up 29 points in the last game but dogged by Corbett, he scored only four points. Meanwhile Corbett took time out to score 12 points, mostly on long shots in the third.

But the scoring honors went as usual to Dan Griffin. With a variety of scoring plays from the layup, key and offensive rebounds, Griffin totalled 21 points to lead the quintet.

Olynik took over Oshawa's top scoring position with 15 points, following Griffin's pattern of play. Yeo with a mixture of long, key and layup shots scored 14.

Lineups—P.C.V.S. (51)—Allan 1, Armstrong 9, Burgess, Carelton 3, Corbett 12, Eastwood 2, Foote Fowler, Griffin 21, Marshall, Roberts 3.

Central C.I. (42)—Olynik 15, Patronishin, Zilinsky 8, Chase 4, Rhame, Yeo 14, Ruskay, Fisher 1, Zinkiewich, Laverty, Yule.

St. Pat's, winners among Ontario and Quebec English-speaking colleges and universities, defeated the University of Manitoba, western champions.

Owen Sound Trips Dutchmen 3-1 As Brantford Upsets Indians

By The Canadian Press.

Owen Sound Mercurys, Cinderella team of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit, moved a step closer to the league finals Friday night when they downed Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 3-1 and took a convincing 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-finals.

The Mercs, who just managed to squeeze into the post-season playoffs after a battle with Hamilton Tigers in the final week of play, have shown amazing resurgence in their series with the Dutchies. Taking a 2-0 lead in games, they dropped the third game of the series and then roared back Friday night to take the all-important 3-4 edge.

In the other O.H.A. Senior A semi-final, the high-flying Stratford Indians who finished up atop the six-team standings over the regular route, Friday night dropped Brantford Redmen 6-3 to even their best-of-seven semi-final at two games each.

In the O.H.A. Junior A loop, Toronto St. Michael's moved into a 2-0 lead over Galt Black Hawks in their best-of-five semi-final by downing the Hawks 5-4 in overtime at Maple Leaf Gardens. In the other Junior A playoff, Kitchener Greenshirts overpowered St. Catharines Teepees 5-1 and gained a one-game lead in the first clash of their best-of-five quarter-finals.

Take Opening Game

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds edged North Bay Black Hawks 4-2 Friday night to capture the opening game of their best-of-five league finals.

At Kitchener, Orv Tessier led the Greenshirt scorers with two goals while Joe Ingoldsby, Graham Joyce, and Jim Fatellie added the others. Willie Haas scored the lone St. Catharines goal.

Tony Poeta was the games high scorer in the St. Mike's-Galt clash banging in three tallies. Tommy Fyles notched the other with the Toronto team spreading theirs all around. Bob Sabourin, Ed Plata, Murray Costello, Jim Logan and Bill Dineen lit the red light for the winners.

Bill McComb netted two of Owen Sound's goals, Bill Grant slamming in the other. Mike Dzuira was the lone Kitchener-Waterloo scorer.

Mickey Roth was Stratford's top goal-getter with two to his credit while linemates Billy Flick and Denny Flanagan clicked for singles. Cliff Burdett and playing coach Pat Wilson added the others. Bill Simpell, Bill Shill and Don Ferguson scored for the losers.

Canadian TV To Feature School Program

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 8 — (CP) — Canada's own television programs starting late this summer will make a special effort for children. Among entertainments of various types will also be programs that will help in classroom studies.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors into whose hands Canada's television future has been placed, believes the screen will play a dual role — it will educate as well as entertain. It doesn't mean, of course, that children will be able to skip school and do their lessons at home. But the Canadian television screen aims to present programs that will help the child's general education.

There's a chance, too, that television may be brought right into the schoolroom. Mr. Dunton, interviewed in connection with observances of Canadian Education Week which ended today, said he is preparing for that eventuality. To start the ball rolling the National Advisory Council on school broadcasting, which works closely with the CBC on radio projects, has appointed sub-committee to explore the whole field of television possibilities.

"Early next year," said Mr Dunton, "The committee may start working on a pilot project in Toronto to see just what the television screen can do for the school. Out of that project may be developed plans for the future."

Amusement Too

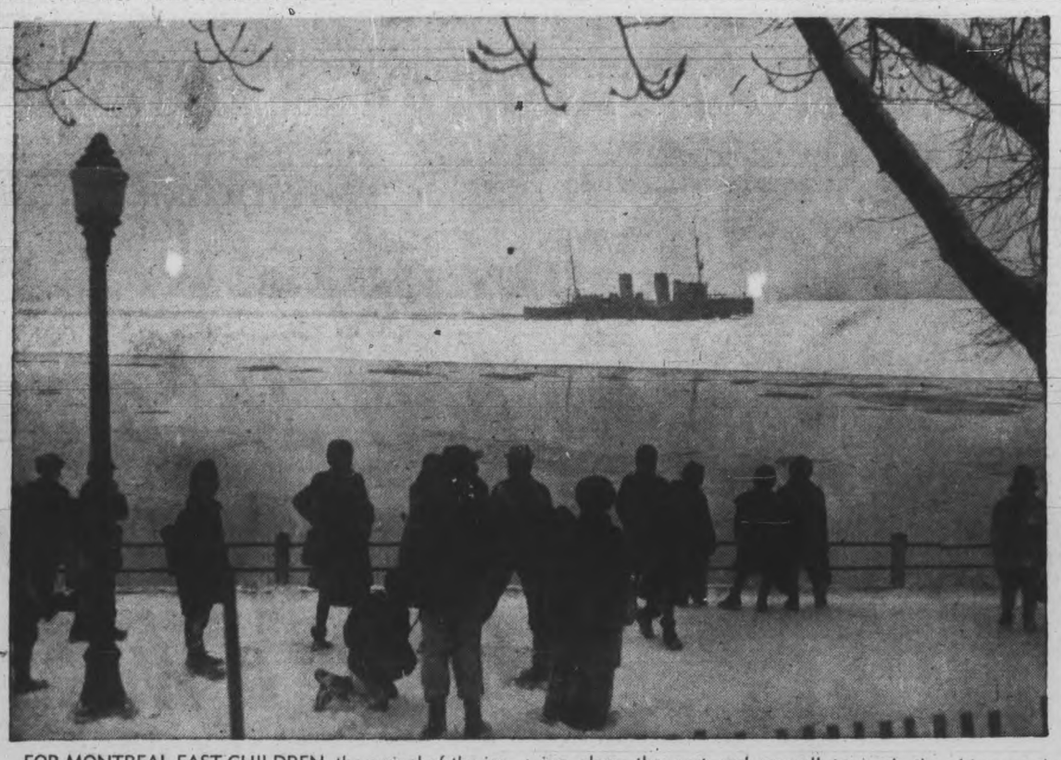
Mr. Dunton said "we are not thinking only of education, of course. We are thinking also of entertainment. But some entertainment projects also educate." In this connection he mentioned the recent two-hour production of Shakespeare's "Othello."

The Massey Commission, in recommending that TV be placed in the hands of the CBC, emphasized that some of the TV programs from the United States were good, but others were not. How was Mr. Dunton going to cope with the competition.?

"The American TV programs which will be carried on the Canadian network of the future will be selected by the CBC," he said, "and we will choose the most suitable. Border communities of course are able to dial right into American networks. The only way we'll be able to compete is to have better, more attractive programs in Canada."

Television stations in Montreal and Toronto are expected to start operation in August. A Montreal-Toronto experimental network will be started in the spring of 1953. Eventually it may extend across the country. The major problem is money. Canada's population is spread over a large area with many thinly-populated districts, which adds to TV costs.

For schools, however, the problem is slightly different. In the past, provincial education departments usually paid the costs when they sponsored certain school radio projects. Sometimes a group of provinces do the financing on a combined basis. The same system might apply to TV, but the costs would be higher.



FOR MONTREAL EAST CHILDREN, the arrival of the ice-breaker N. R. McLean each Spring ranks in importance with the visit of Santa Claus. Scores of them line the railing along the east end seawall to wach the ship crunch the last mile to the nearby oil docks. She made it March 7th, more than a day ahead of schedule.

Imports Strike Severe Blow At Textile Mills

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP)—Dr. W. G. Blair, (PC—Lanark) said Friday that unless some long-range program is devised Canadian textile mills, will have no defence against imports produced cheaper in other countries.

Dr. Blair, whose constituency contains 12 textile mills, said the competition from imports and the reduction of inventories has caused widespread unemployment in the textile industry. He spoke in the Coimmons during the Throne-speech debate.

Defence contracts had provided temporary relief for the industry, but something further was required.

The Canadian primary textile industry, he said, is a $700,000,000 business, which gave employment to approximately 100,000 Canadians.

Many Close Down

As a result of the competition from imports and a lack of orders many Canadian mills closed down or operate only part time.

Canadian tariffs on textiles were lower than those of any other country except Sweden.

Later Earl Catherwood (PC—Haldimand) said all those who recognized the importance of the textile industry would support the beliefs voiced by Mr. Blair.

The demand for textile products was at an all-time high, yet the industry had never been more depressed. The matter was one of great concern and serious consideration should be given all aspects of the textile trade.

Would Review McRuer Ruling

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—A ruling by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer that summonses may be issued against United States residents being sued in Ontario for alleged defamatory remarks made in American radio broadcasts, should be reviewed by the Ontario Court of Appeals, Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smiley said Friday.

Mr. Justice Smiley made the ruling while sitting as a member of the Court of Appeals which has jurisdiction of all other courts. Chief Justice McRuer presides over over the High Court—a trial court.

In a written judgment, Chief Justice McRuer held Feb. 19 that in slander on the radio, publication of the slander is where the broadcast is heard, not where it was written or prepared.

The judgment arose out of a damage action brought about by Clifford R. Jenner, Toronto broker-dealer seeking damages from the Sun Oil Company Limited, a Canadian firm, and its parent Sun Oil Company Limited of New Jersey and Ray Henle and Ned Brooks, two American radio announcers. Radio station WBEN, Buffalo, is also named in the action.

Give Full Study To Siren System

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP)—Dr. E. A. McCusker, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin, said Friday Federal civil defence authorities will give "full study" to recommendatinons on development of a "satisfactory siren warning system for selected Canadian communities."

Dr. McCusker was replying in the Commons to recent criticism by T. A. Lawrence, Toronto civil defence chief, that lack of co-operation by Ottawa had led to purchase of 35 sirens from Toronto which will be useless. The sirens were worth $750 each.

Dr. McCusker said these sirens had been manufactured in accordance with technical data supplied to Ottawa by Ontario on May 30 last year.

Stole Gasoline, Caught Going Back To Farm

LINDSAY, March 8 (ENS) — A patent-medicine salesman, Edward Lemeer, 18, pleaded guilty in police court Friday to stealing gasoline from a service station near Fenelon Falls to the value of $1.50.

Owner of the station, Ross Hebel, said he heard a car drive up to the station late on the night of March 2. He immediately called the police from his home, next door to the station. He said he saw two men go behind the building to a used car parked in the yard. They were caught by Constable Al Rawlings of the O.P.P. who arrived at the scene just before they drove away.

Another accused, C. Barr, failed to appear in court. When he does the two boys will split costs of $22.25 along with a year's suspended sentence. Lemeer said he was a patent medicine salesman but was broke and did not have enough gas to get back to his home in Nestleton. He stated that he was going to quit selling and go back to work on a farm. His former employer, a farmer, offered to pay the fine.

Happy People

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP)—At least one section of the Canadian population is not worrying about getting income tax returns in on time this month. It consists of the bulk of members of armed forces. Under a new system, they have their full tax deducted at the source and don't have to worry about filing returns. There are certain exception to the rule but broadly speaking it spreads its happiness over the great bulk of the forces.

Traffic Troubles Ease

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—H. R. Burton, Toronto's traffic engineer, said Friday that Toronto's traffic troubles are easing off as a result of the installation of parking meters a week ago and a stiffening and extension of rush-hour route regulations.

Orientals In Canada Topic At WMS Meeting

LAKEFIELD, March 8 (ENS)—The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Dunford for their March meeting. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not quite as large as usual. Mrs. W. H. Tonge and Mrs. W. W. Yale convened the meeting, the former taking the devotional period and the meditations.

The concluding chapter of the study book, "Orientals in Canada" was taken by Mrs. Yale. The Chinese were the first aliens to come to Canada and have been here for about 100 years. At the time of the building of the trans-continental railway, labor was scarce and for this reason the Chinese came to help build the railroads. They worked for a very small wage and many died from the extreme climate. During the years that followed the influx from China became so great that the Government imposed a head-tax on all Chinese entering Canada. The Japanese came to this country in 1900 and for the most part settled along the west coast.

The business period was in charge of the president, Mrs. P. H. Darling. The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. McKerchar showed a balance of $17.00 and the secretary's report was read by Mrs. Earl Orr.

It was decided to ask Miss Luella Rourke to be guest speaker for the Easter Thank-offering meeting to be held the last Monday in March.

Mrs. Darling was appointed a representative to meet representatives from the other societies regarding the raising of $500 to be used towards the building of a training school for leaders which is soon to be built in Toronto. The society will also pack a bale of clothing to be sent overseas and make a quilt for the Red Cross.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. H. J. Brown at the conclusion of the meeting.

Girl To Stand Trial In Baby Slaying

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP) — Diane Bound, 22, charged with the Feb. 1 slaying of the baby she was hired to care for, Friday was committed for trial.

The girl sniffled into a handkerchief and rubbed her eyes as William Roy Kellough, father of the slain child, testified that Diane "seemed very affectionate and appeared to like children." His daughter, Susan, 2, was beaten to death in her suburban Scarboro home.

Mrs. Kellough kept her eyes away from Diane as she took the stand. She answered "Yes" in a whisper when asked whether Diane was always fond of children.

AT LOW TIDE—The Petitcodiac River bed is almost empty at low tide, giving way to 30 feet of water with a high-crested roaring tidal bore twice a day when the tide comes in from the Bay of Fundy. The city of Moncton, N.B., can be seen in the background. The river is less than 50 miles long but its first 20 miles—from Shepody Bay to Moncton — is a famed tourist attraction because of the bore. Beyond Moncton the tide spends itself and gently fills the river.

Saint Paul Considered Misunderstood Christian

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

By universal consent, I believe, Paul the Apostle has been, and is, regarded as among the greatest men who have lived.

He was the first great Christian missionary, travelling widely in that ancient world, and the first to bring Christianity to Europe.

No man ever pursued a great purpose with more single-minded devotion, amazing strength of character, and a sublime and implacable courage. Suffering, persecution, threats, and perils could not shake Paul from his mission "to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

Yet Paul with all his greatness has not escaped the barbs of controversy, both in the past and in our own times. Not long ago there was a formidable movement in the religious world that took as its watchword, "Back to Jesus."

It led to what was called "Paulinism," the implication being that through Paul there had been a departure from what Paul himself called "the simplicity that is in Christ" ((II Corinthians 11:3).

Paul was a profound and entirely consecrated disciple of Jesus and his interpretation of the Master's life, teaching and ministry of salvation was sound in word and deed.

Whence, then, comes the discrepancy that makes Paul a figure of controversy, and that leads some to turn from him, thinking to come nearer to the Christ?

I think it arises from a misconception of what to me is the very heart of Paul's teaching. It centres around the doctrine of the atonement, and especially Paul's expositions in the Epistle to the Romans.

Paul was writing to those in whose minds was firmly fixed the idea of the necessity of a sacrifice for sin. It was engrained in Old Testament religion, with its animal sacrifices, and its notion of the scapegoat bearing the sins of others.

Yet even in Old Testament religion there were prophetic souls, who declared that "to obey is better than sacrifice" (I Samuel 15:22), and that "the sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken spirit and a contrite heart" (Psalm 51:17).

To these, and to all who follow the false and superstitious notion that salvation is through sacrifice and punishment of a scapegoat,

INJURED CUTTING ICE

A. Wolseley Northey, 62, R.R. 1 Peterborough, received a bad cut on the left side of his head Friday afternoon, when he was struck by a pole while cutting ice on Pigeon Lake. He was taken to hospital in Peterborough for treatment and his condition is described by hospital authorities today as satisfactory.

School Guard Quits; Pupils 'Refuse To Obey'

John Fredenberg, 545 Sherbrooke St., informed Police Chief John Thompson today he was quitting as school guard at Monaghan Road, and Weller Streets.

Mr. Fredenberg said that he was quitting because the children from Queen Mary school refuse to obey his orders in regard to crossing the street. He told Chief Thompson he had found the children completely unmanageable and in addition he said he was unable to do the job properly in the two hours for which school guards receive pay for each day they are on duty.

This intersection is the most difficult one to keep a school guard on in the city. In recent months, there have been five guards resign because they complained the children were unruly. Another was relieved of his duties because it was not felt that he was doing the job satisfactorily.

In his annual report to the Police Commission, Police Chief John Thompson praised the work ... giving safety protection to school children and recommended that they be given more money in keeping with the responsibilities of their duties.

At present, the guards employed by the Police Commission are paid for two hours daily at the rate of 75 cents an hour. Chief Thompson also suggested that all school guards should be transferred to the supervision of the Board of Education.

At the present time, six of the guards are under the supervision of the police department and three are employed by the board of education.

Traffic Control By Students To Be Considered By Board

Lurking deep in the mind of every Peterborough mother when she packs young Johnny or Joan off to school is the gnawing fear that her child may be killed or maimed by motor traffic while travelling between home and school. In a sense it is part of the price we pay for living in a high-speed age; but not all parents accept the grim statistics that philosophically. Some have decided to do something about it.

Ottawa citizens, in co-operation with their police force and their two school boards, really have done something about it. Since they approved the "school safety patrol" system Ottawa citizens can boast that in four years not one of their 45,000 public and separate school children has been killed or injured.

Not many cities can say the same. And Peterborough, with only a sixth of Ottawa's elementary school population, certainly can't match that record.

Follow Example

The upshot of this general dissatisfaction over traffic safety is that trustees from the Peterborough Board of Education, Separate School Board, and members of the Police Commission are considering starting a plan here similar to Ottawa.

Already the Board of Education has approved the idea of safety patrols and the Separate School Board and the Police Commission are studying a detailed brief on the subject.

In brief, the "school safety patrol" is an organized plan for getting children across streets carrying heavy traffic at a minimum of risk. The novel feature is that adult guards are not needed: well trained senior public school pupils do the job instead.

Only a few (in the case of Peterborough only one) police constables are needed. And their job is mainly supervisory. They also lecture and train the youngsters.

Impractical? Not at all. And Ottawa shows the proof.

"I was amazed to find how smoothly this plan worked in Ottawa," said Mrs. Paige Rowell, chairman of the Board of Education's supervision committee. "At one of the biggest elementary schools with some 1,100 pupils, Grade V pupils were members of the safety patrol and directed younger children across the road quietly and efficiently.

Roll Of Honor

Children consider it an honor to get on the safety patrol, Mrs. Rowell said. They are specially picked from the senior pupils on the basis of high academic standing and leadership ability.

They are carefully drilled by a full-time policeman so they know exactly what to do when assigned to their patrol work. Both boys and girls are eligible. Usual equipment is a white Sam-Browne belt, arm band, and a round hand-sign with the word "Stop" printed in large black letters on a white background.

Patrols do not dash willy-nilly out into the road waving signs for motorists to stop. They are instructed not to direct motor traffic. And unless their view is blocked they don't step off the curb.

Even then their instructions are to step out only two paces, and after the children have passed, return immediately to the sidewalk.

Rawhide Opens City Drive For $85,000 Fund

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and actor Ronald Coleman spoke in support of the drive to raise $85,000 for the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund at the dinner officially opening the 1952 campaign Friday night.

Both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Coleman spoke through the voice of CBC announcer, actor and impersonator Max Ferguson, creator of Rawhide.

Instead of the grizzled old westerner of "uncertain age," suggested by the voice of Rawhide, the audience saw a young man in his late twenties who is a man of many voices.

A one man troupe of actors, Ferguson explained how he first happened to originate his most famous character which has since been developed into a CBC network program.

Started As Hillbilly

After graduating from university in 1946, Ferguson joined the CBC as an announcer in Halifax. Being more appreciative of popular and classical music than the western variety Ferguson said he was appalled when he was put in charge of a hillbilly program. To disguise his voice, he created Rawhide, the first of a series of radio characters he has created which now number about two dozen.

In addition to impersonating such well known radio and screen personalities as Peter Lorrie, and Archie and Finnegan of Duffy's Tavern fame, Ferguson switched his voice to the different characters he has created on his show.

Snuffy, the fellow from the back 40 who is always worrying about his pumpkins—Granny, the dear old lady who is always playing practical jokes on Rawhide by bringing him a bouquet of flowers loaded with bees and the super-syrupy - voiced announcer Marvin Mellobell, were introduced by Ferguson.

When he decided to stage a radio play, Ferguson does not have any problem finding suitable actors. He plays the roles of announcer, producer and all the actors. As a demonstration, he staged a satire on one of the CBC's recent stage '51 presentations and played all the roles himself.

He drew his greatest applause, when he impersonated the voices of British Prime Minister Churchill and actor Ronald Coleman and urged the assembled community fund workers to do a thorough job of canvassing and push the drive over the top.

H. L. Garner introduced the guest speaker and he was thanked by His Worship Mayor Hugh Waddell.

PLENTY OF BRICKS

The largest brickworks in the world, amid vast clay beds 50 miles north of London, England, turns out 10,000,000 bricks weekly.

Polio, Accident Victims Helped Back To Health

Victims of the scourge of polio and people who have had their muscles torn and strained in accidents are exercising their way back to health with the aid of physiotherapists. All patients treated by physiotherapists are referred to them by doctors. They do not carry on private practice, but give their patients the kind of treatment prescribed by the patient's doctor.

It consists of massage, exercises, wax, electricity, water and heat treatments.

The purpose of the treatment is to get the patient back to normal as soon as possible. The physiotherapist uses specialized exercises to rebuild damaged muscles and bring them back to a maximum of usefulness.

Muscles damaged by polio or which have been encased in a plaster cast while a broken bone is healing are put to work. Infrared or ultra-violet heat lamps are also used to speed recovery and the co-operation of the patient is a big factor in the effectiveness of the treatment.

Spectacular Recovery

Three-year-old Billy Murphy's recovery from a crippling bout with polio last August has been nothing short of spectacular. His father, Sergt. Leo Murphy of the city police force gives a great deal of the credit to physiotherapy treatment.

Last fall, doctors advised Mr. and Mrs. Murphy that Billy would be likely crippled in one or both legs. For three months, he was in the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, where physiotherapy treatment was started. Billy was allowed to come home just in time for Christmas. Since then, he has been receiving two treatments a week from physiotherapist Bruce McIntyre. Billy still has his right arm in a brace, but it is getting stronger daily, and he now walks without a trace of a limp.

The treatment follows the Sister Kenny method of re-educating the patient in the use of certain muscles. The physiotherapist moves the muscle if the patient is unable to do so himself. Simple exercises are used at first, to encourage the patient to put forward as great an effort as possible to rebuild the damaged muscles. In some cases, the nerve centre has been permanently damaged, but the treatment prescribed by the patient's doctor is designed to make maximum use of the remaining muscles that are not damaged.

Patient Progresses

As the muscles become stronger and respond to massage, heat treatments and exercises, the amount of effort required on the part of the patient is maintained at the same level, by introducing more difficult exercises that put every muscle in the injury area to work.

Joan Lowes, 76 Aylmer Street, who caught her arm in a washing machine wringer is being given regular heat and massage treatments at Civic Hospital by the staff physiotherapist Miss Elaine Darker. Her injured arm is responding to the treatment, and before long, thanks to physiotherapy, Joan will again have complete use of her arm.

Douglas Graham, 636 Union Street, is also taking advantage of the hospital's physiotherapy department. On December 31, he broke a bone in his left hand when he fell off a roof. To regain the use of the muscles of his hand which are quite stiff, he is being given massage and exercises. Part of ... ing of his hand in a vat of molten wax. The heat given off by the wax as it hardens, penetrates the skin, and speeds up the circulation, giving maximum benefit from the other treatments.

Even In Casts

Even when broken bones are still in casts, Miss Darker begins exercising the muscles which are around the fracture. By massaging the cast, movement can be induced in the muscles underneath. As a result, the joints and muscles retain their flexibility and usefulness and the patient has full use of the limb much sooner after the cast is removed.

Still another phase of physiotherapy treatment is providing relief to sufferers from rheumatism and arthritis. The exercises and heat treatments given by the physiotherapists are also a big help in aiding the recovery of older persons who are partially paralyzed as the result of strokes.

3 Cars Tangle One Man Hurt

One man was injured slightly when three cars collided at George and Dublin Sts., at 1:30 Friday afternoon. Considerable damage resulted to all three vehicles.

Edwin O. Dorrington, 262 Westcott St. was going east on Dublin St., and told police he applied his brakes to stop at George St., but slid into the intersection because of the icy road.

Robert H. McIlmoyle, 751 Water St., travelling south on George St., was unable to stop when the Dorrington car slid into the intersection and the two cars collided.

James Ross, 313 Caddy St., a passenger in the Dorrington car was thrown against the dashboard by the impact and received a severe cut on his chin.

The collision between the cars driven by McIlmoyle and Dorrington swung Dorrington's car around in a north-easterly direction.

A northbound George St., car driven by Frederick C. Williams, 659 George St., then collided with the right side of the Dorrington car.

Williams told constable William A. Scott who investigated that he applied his brakes and swung to the right when he saw the situation developing but was unable to avoid a collision.

Police Report Says Brant Had Five Free Days To Have Both Feet Frozen

Lindsay Police Report Brant Lodged There Same Night Left Peterborough; Believe Hitchhiked To Home Town

When Fred Brant was let out of a Peterborough city police car at the Central Smith Creamery on No. 7 Highway, January 25, he apparently hitchhiked his way to Lindsay, and received shelter at the police station there that night. Brant is the 24-year-old vagrant, said to be somewhat mentally deficient, who has been a patient for the last month at Peterborough Civic Hospital where his left foot was amputated for a gangrenous condition presumably resulting from having been frozen somewhere and at some time before he returned to Peterborough January 20.

That information was set out in a special police report which Mayor Hugh Waddell read at the special meeting of the council Thursday afternoon.

Special Report

"When I read the news of the condition of this unfortunate young man," said His Worship, "I asked Chief Constable Thompson for a special report."

According to the police account, local authority decided that Brant should return to Lindsay where, it was learned, he had been an inmate of the House of Refuge.

The police car drove out the Lindsay Highway between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning of Jan. 25, a sunny, cold day. Recent enquiry by the police department disclosed that Brant had turned up that night at the Lindsay police station and had been given shelter, substantiating from that source that he had not returned to Peterborough that day with some trucker who was said in the news report to have given him a lift.

The statement read by Mayor Waddell affords no further information of the whereabouts of Brant during a blank period of five days until he was back in Peterborough at the end of January seeking night lodging at the police station.

In this ... evidence as to ... fered frozen feet.

Ald. Norman Graham said that if Brant was presumed to be a mental case he should have received some examination here as to that condition.

"At any rate," Mayor Waddell commented, "this report corrects the rumor that Brant was taken out the highway on the night of the 24th. The temperature at the City Hall was 8 degrees above zero at 1.30 that afternoon. The report shows that he spent the night at the Lindsay police station."

However, the night low on January 25 was 10 below zero, and the noon high on January 24 was one degree above zero, as officially recorded by James Harrison at the filtration plant.

Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman of the finance committee, raised a question of liability for the costs of Brant's hospital care and other treatment that might be necessary. The total might run into several thousand dollars.

Ald. Herbert Young, M.D., said that if Brant's feet were frostbitten in a first exposure it might leave them more sensitive to a second attack. Not knowing the circumstances precisely, he said the first occasion might not have been of sufficient severity.

Mayor Waddell said: "There appears to be an intervening period from the 24th until he was picked up here again on the 30th, when we don't know where he was."

Ald. Sid Black said that the action of driving the man out the highway starting him for Lindsay on a January day was taking a serious chance on him making his way by hitchhiking.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie said that what the police had done was to help him get started on his way to Lindsay where he had come from. It was 10.30 a.m., and Brant from then on was a free man, a grown-up person capable of making his way. "I think the police report clears up the situation pretty well."

Ald. P. J. Anglesey asked whether it was known who was responsible for publishing the information. "It seems that some-

Night Of Plays Entertains 500 At Collegiate

The P.C.V.S. Senior Dramatic Society on Friday night put on their 14th annual "Night of Plays" and sent away a paying audience of 500 satisfied with a good night's entertainment.

This year there were two departures from the usual: instead of a single three-act play there were three one-act plays and, besides acting, the students directed and produced the plays.

All three were well received but the response of the audience indicated that "A Happy Journey" (judged third recently in the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Drama Festival) and "The Boatswain's Mate" were considered tops.

This year's venture, with students doing the producing as well as taking the active roles in the plays, was an experiment. Miss Margaret White and Miss M. A. Bailey, teachers who gave their advice and helped polish up the rough edges; both thought the experiment worthwhile.

First of the three plays was "Brothers In Arms", where the scene was laid in a northern Canadian hunting camp.

He is accompanied by his wife who is in love with the wilderness and thinks there is something fascinating about the "strong silent type" of masculine native in that region.

In a deer hunters' shack the major and a woodsman exchange a bit of philosophy, as well as their past impressions of the army. The major appears a stuffy type while the woodsman plays the part of a free-born creature, unused to the seemingly irrational disciplines of army life.

The woodsman repeats the usual gripes of the private on drill and discipline and refers to the army "brass" as "head lads". He makes no bones about it but that he

Stock Markets Showing More Strength

By DICK BAIDEN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Canadian and United States stock markets showed renewed vigor this week as Toronto, Montreal and New York prices pushed doggedly higher.

Toronto industrials put on the best show of the year Tuesday when strong support rolled the exchange's index back to the level of mid-February with a gain of almost three points.

Golds also came to life suddenly on the Toronto market on Thursday as enthusiastic support bolstered most producing issues. Seniors—McIntyre, Dome, Lake Shore and Kerr Addison—attracted most interest.

Both rallies, although strong while they lasted, were brief. Most professional observers considered the market to be highly selective, even in the usually speculative golds. Trading was active as the average daily turnover increased to about 2,900,000 shares, the highest level in about a month.

In Montreal, papers and industrials led a general upswing with gains of 13.39 and 2.7 points respectively. Unlike Toronto, however, the Montreal rise was fairly continuous over the four-day period from Monday to Thursday.

Gradually Faded

New York's rise started Tuesday with a strong gain and gradually faded out by the weekend. Rails and oils were particularly strong.

Encouraging as the market rise was, many traders say the market is nervous and reacts quickly to slight pressures. The generally depressing nature of many anual reports showing the reduction in profits due to increased taxes, should not be overlooked, they say.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials up 3.61 at 329.33, golds up 2.14 at 83.25, base metals up 1.65 at 194.96 and western oils up .56 at 135.44.

In the Montreal averages, banks were down .06 at 29 95, utilities up 2.7 at 216.7, combined up 2.2 at 172.2, papers up 12.39 at 254.67.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $2.60 cents to $100.50.

WAYWARD BUS—Henry Allard, manager of a grocery store in Montreal's northend had just finished setting up his window display for the day when a tramway bus careened out of control into the plate glass front. Fortunately the bus carried no passengers and only three minor injuries were incurred by the driver. The bus struck the corner of the building, buckled the corner support and crashed through the glass and finally ended up with its bumper resting on a pile of hams.

Scientific Study Of Forest Proving Effective In B.C.

VICTORIA, B.C. — (CP) — The battle against disease in British Columbia forests is gradually bringing results and a vigorous new attack is being launched this year, a new method of measuring forest resources, worked out by the Canadian Laboratory of Forest Pathology, is expected to provide an accurate inventory.

It is designed to determine the number of dead trees with average decay of 80 per cent or more living trees with scars or broken tops and living trees free of defects.

The scale, applied to each type of timber, permits reckoning of the commercial value of an area based on actual potential.

Dr. R. E. Foster, Dominion laboratory head here, said the system has been developed over the last three years and has stood up to tests to date.

The test had been used in the Big Bend area near Revelstoke where large stands of hemlock were surveyed. It indicated that from 70 to 90 per cent. defect rating in some areas indicated the hemlock was not suitable for saw lumber.

However, pulp possibilities were much better since the hemlock was not too badly decayed for that product and a heavy volume of 11-inch down to 6-inch trees usable for pulp were discovered.

Since this survey the Celanese Corporation of America cellulose division has applied for a forest management permit in the area.

On Vancouver Island

Potential of Northern Vancouver Island's western hemlock and balsam fir will be assessed by the tree decadence system this summer.

Three Ranger "trouble shooters" will investigate reports of blight and disease as they travel to various parts of the province.

The new ranger service will check on deaths of young firs at Little Qualicom Forest park and investigate black canker attacking western hemlock on Queen Charlotte Islands. Any of these may have a simple explanation or they may threaten the main industry.

Another 1952 project is control of root rot attacking second growth Douglas fir on Vancouver Island and the mainland coast.

Source of the rot is known but its prevalence in some areas and non-appearance in others remains a mystery.

If forest detectives can find what factors contribute to the prevalence of the rot, it means money saved almost immediately.

First step in forest management would be to stop planting in such areas.

The battle to control tree disease has been going on 10 years. The department has study plots that old. In some the disease has been checked, in others, spread.

The search, therefore, is partly for another disease, which, it is believed, may counteract root rot.

Five years study lies behind efforts against the fatal blister rust of white pine.

Fight against blister rust will centre on Vancouver Island where trees thought to be rust-resistant will be used in tests.

Alberta Has Record Budget Of $116,000,000

By The Canadian Press

Premier E. C. Manning Friday night announced a record budget of more than $116,000,000 for Alberta.

Mr. Manning, also provincial treasurer, presented his 1952-53 budget to the legislature, showing a big increase in oil revenue and major increases in spending for education, health and welfare, highways and assistance to municipalities.

By reducing its public debt steadily, the province will be debt free by 1973, he predicted. A surplus of $279,300 was estimated with no new taxation.

The Nova Scotia legislature heard Premier Angus L. Macdonald express hopes that the province has risen forever out of the "unfamiliar ground of deficits."

The premier, discussing the budget he tabled Thursday, predicted a surplus of at least $525,000 for the fiscal year beginning March 31. He noted that the province may have either a surplus or a deficit for the year just ending, depending on current negotiations with the federal government on the Dominion-Provincial tax agreement.

Denounces Seats

E. A. Hansford, C.C.F. leader in the Manitoba legislature, denounced the Manitoba government for its 1949 redistribution of seats. He told the legislature if the government had any sense of fairness it would act immediately to correct the situation.

New Brunswick's provincial secretary-treasurer, G. Boucher, told the House that the budget will be brought down next Thursday. He made the announcement after the throne speech debate was concluded by Education Minister James W. Brittain.

Hope that the United States will someday return territory it has "grabbed from Canada in past years" was expressed by Labor Minister C. C. Williams in the Saskatchewan legislature. He mentioned the northern part of Maine and land along the coast of British Columbia as examples.

The British Columbia legislature heard a suggestion from Leo Minsick (CCF-Cranbrook) that Canada's primary highways be taken over by the federal government as its No. 1 defence project. He said roads are Canada's first line of defence.

Two members of the Ontario legislature—one a government back-bencher and the other a member of the opposition—urged the government to develop a new plan to assist housing. Harold Fishleigh (PC-Toronto West) and Omar Renaume (L-Essex North), mayor of Windsor, made their proposals during the throne speech debate.

Sense Of Good Humor Adds To Canadian Way Of Life

MARMORA, March 8 (ENS)—Art Duncan, president of the Trent Valley Hockey League and personnel officer at the Batawa plant, addressed the local Chamber of Commerce at its monthly dinner meeting in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening. His theme was good humor and following a series of humorous stories dealing with various types of people and his imitation of characters at a talent show he struck a more serious vein in giving his impressions of what constituted a good Canadian.

The Canadian way of life he declared, was not complete without a sense of good humor. With the large number of immigrants [illegible] Canadians should display the true Canadian pattern of life so that they too might be attracted to it and absorbed in it. The speaker was introduced by Major Percy Gray and thanked by Ritchie Wells. The new president, Vaughan Glover, extended a welcome to the visitors. Secretary R. E. Neal read extracts from letters received in support of the request that the closed season for deer hunting south of No. 7 Highway be ended. Roger Young was commended for his fine work as chairman of membership committee.

Joseph Hulsmans spoke briefly of his recent trip to his native Belgium. He told of the many changes in that country since he left it more than 32 years ago. The question of entertaining the hockey team at a future dinner meeting met with favorable response. Art Duncan [illegible] by Marmora would be on display at such dinner but its actual presentation would be delayed with that of the trophies of other sections until the League championship trophy, the Bata cup had been won. It was decided not to run a regatta at Crowe Lake this summer.

Sees Food Shortage As Growing Menace

LONDON (CP)—A bowl of grass soup, followed by some synthetic dish, garnished with plankton, may become a common diet of the future unless something is done to meet the growing threat of a world food shortage.

The warning was given by Dr. G. H. Bourne, London University scientist, in an address here to a group of women public health nurses.

Former nutritional adviser to the British Military Administration in Malaya, Dr. Bourne said that grass provided protein in abundance and plankton, organic matter that drifts in the sea, although fishy in taste was rich in vitamins.

"It isn't a very happy thought" he added, "but we are faced with the threat of world famine and may have to adjust ourselves to more synthetic foods in future. Statesmen should realize that it is a danger greater than atomic war"

Paris Designer's Display Charms Londoners

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 8 —(CP)— Chic simplicity and feminine appeal provide the key-note of a boutique collection shown here by Paquin of Paris.

The spirit of the French boulevards seems to radiate from such creations as a dress of shadow-printed pure silk with grey and black scroll design on a gleaming oyster ground. The sheer simplicity of narrow stand revers, long narrow sleeves, neat waist and clinging skirt, swirling into a gored, petal finish, is seen in this and other designs and fabrics.

The boutique collections of Paquin, and such London designers as Worth, allows the not-so-rich to buy clothes from famous houses at prices similar to those of quality ranges in big departmental stores.

The sophisticated allure of such suits as a black hopsack with neat waist, curved hips and straight skirt will appeal to many. The tight skirt has accordian-pleated frill at the hem and tucked side-seems that curve at the foot to give an apron effect emphasized by three buttons. The button design is repeated on the side-slit jacket pockets.

Another town style with many possibilities is a black dress with stand revers, its slim skirt gored into a flouncing finish and tight, three-quarter sleeves ending in huge, starched cuffs of white pique. The latter are given a shallow curve and pointed edges.

For The Races

One of the loveliest styles is a race-track fashion with strapless black taffeta underskirt beneath a flared, three-quarter-length tunic top of white broderie Anglais. The stiff organza skirt of the tunic flares out from a neat waiset over the slim black underskirt, sleeves are long and narrow and the neck is finished by a mandarin collar.

Stiff silk coats of brilliant colors and pyramid lines top such dresses as a carnation pink chiffon with strapless draped top and pleated skirt flaring out over a crinoline petticoat. The matching faille coat is equally effective with such items as a cocktail dress in almond-green taffeta with slim skirt, tucked and stitched corse-[illegible]

Short evening dresses in stiff silks and satins with exquisite beading give a wide choice of color and beauty—but star of the show was a ground-length ball-gown called "Ephemere." In a glinting shade of lime-gold slipper satin, the dress has simple, full-skirted princess lines with narrow straps to the bra-shaped neckline.

Bodice and skirt are embroidered in spidery lines of silver beading forming panels of flowers, and the addition of a tremendous matching tulle stole adds to the empheral quality of the deisgn.

Mrs. S. Moyer Hostess To W.M.S. In Omemee

OMEMEE, March 8 (ENS) — Mrs. H. Graham's group were in charge of the meeting of Trinity United W.M.S. Thursday afternoon, held at the home of Mrs. S. Moyer.

Mrs. Graham opened the worship service with a hymn, followed with prayer by Mrs. Jane Bradley. Scripture passages were read by Mrs. J. B. Hough and Mrs. Murray Finny and the worship closed with a hymn.

Mrs. Zufelt, second vice-president, conducted the business. A card of thanks for kind remembrance was read from a past member, Miss Olive Wilton of Toronto who has been seriously ill, saying that her condition is much improved. Reports showed 27 paid members and 41 subscriptions for the Missionary Monthly.

The W.M.S. Easter church service was discussed and a tentative date set for the evening of April 20, one week after Easter Sunday, There were suggestions for a speaker but further arrangements were left to the executive.

A report on Presbyterial held at Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, was given by Mrs. Graham. She stressed Dr. Winnifred Thomas' address on the Stewardship of Time. The missionary enterprize, said Dr. Thomas is the carrying out of God's purpose and the object of home missions is to have a church in every community. She advised those desirous of making the best use of their time in their communities not to attempt to join all the commendable organizations but to make a choice, joining only as many as they could do effective work in.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent sewing for the bale, under the direction of the supply secretary, Mrs. Moyer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Graham's group.

Find Mobility Feature Of New Furniture

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON— (CP)— Sideboards and wardrobes that can be moved at the touch of a finger made the biggest hit with women viewers at a furniture exhibition in London's Earl's Court district.

These mobile furnishings are balanced on an undercarriage with hidden wheels that lock and unlock at a touch. This enables heavy furniture to be shifted with ease.

And prices have fallen. Now it is possible to furnish a two-room apartment with kitchen, in simple price-controlled furniture, for less than £100. Such furniture, which consisted for so long of insipid white woods, now can be obtained in fine empire grains as well as birch, sycamore, mahogany and walnut.

Ingenious ideas included one for old folks— a chair with almost upright back, the wooden arms of which curve upwards to knobs that give leverage when you stand up.

Space-saving and double-purpose furniture dominated most exhibition stands. Special pieces designed for bachelors included a small sattee, bureau and armchair — all with a differnce. The settee turns into a comfortable divan bed, the back and one side of the bureau pull off to become a fair-sized dining table, one arm of the chair pulls out to expose a storage drawer beneath the seat. The entire suite cost only £58.

Space Savers.

For cramped married quarters there are divan beds with attached shelves and bookcases resting on panelled supports that contain a linen drawer. Dining room tables have reversible tops that form an ironing board and a baby's cotcum-play-pen can be folded in the middle and wheeled about.

This year's exhibitors came to grips with the old controversy on old and new designs by giving a 50-50 play both to contemporary lines and period reproductions. They find that contemporary styles go down well with women in the south, while north country folks prefer "the trimmed stuff."

From women viewers came one age-old grievance. They say men are better catered for in wardrobe given. Moderately-priced designs for men have sock drawers, tie and trouser rails and the usual wardrobe space. Women are expected to content themselves with dress space and a deep bottom drawer that generally shortens the wardrobe space and results in articles bunching at the bottom.

And, say the women, manufacturers are still out-dated in drawer necessities. Instead of giving six shallow drawers to a chest they persist in three or more deep ones. Deep drawers, say the ladies should have gone out with the Victorian wedding habit of "a dozen of everything."

Bancroft Ladies Plan Bake Sale

BANCROFT, March 8 (ENS).— The Evening Auxiliary of St. Paul's United Church was entertained at the parsonage on Tuesday. The devotional period was led by Mrs. John Hawkins.

The vice-president, Mrs. A. Hewitt, presided. Mrs. G. Andrews was named convener of a bake sale to be held March 22 in the church basement. Mrs. R. Wark was appointed assistant secretary to succeed Mrs. A. W. Smith.

An interesting program of contests was presented by Miss E. Jones and prizes went to Mrs. C. Bierworth, Mrs. F. Hibbard and Mrs. W. Hutton.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. Folils, Mrs. P. Labarge and Mrs. Bert Wright.

Expert Flower Arranging Demonstrated To Art Assoc.

Within nearly every woman a spark is touched off at sight of a lovely flower arrangement to beautify her surroundings. So, a good sized fire was kindled by the demonstration of flower arranging for Art Association members Friday afternoon by Miss Margaret Dove of Toronto. (Miss Dove is garden editor at the Evening Telegram).

"Flowers are an integral part of everyday gracious living", said Miss Dove. "I'm here to dispel the idea that flower arrangements in the home must be expensive". With this statement she whisked up a painted dead limb, set it on a painted board, stuck a lace doilie over a pointed branch and then a nice white cauliflower which had an edge of green brussels sprouts (stuck on with toothpicks). For color she suggested a centre of radishes or new carrots. This arrangement would actually cost nothing as an arrangemnt for the purchased parts of it could be eaten next day.

However, Miss Dove's most lovely arrangements were done with exquisite flower stocks that she chopped up with her sharp shears in a way that almost hurt. She explained that she was doing no harm to the flower nor was she wasting any part that could be used to advantage and she was always careful to cut stems at an angle and with very sharp blades that would not squeeze the cells that take in the water.

"Aspirin is not good for flowers—it is good for headaches", she said while busily engaged in making a crescent arrangement of daffodils suitable for a mantelpiece. "The florist sells a powder to keep water from getting stagnant, but cutting stems each day and adding fresh water will do", she continued, "but don't [illegible] flowers in the middle of the day".

Flowers Take Alcohol

Some flowers are alcoholics it seems—not "anonymous" but "unknown", judging from the breath-drawing and questioning on this remark. Hollyhocks are one which thrives on a drink of one teaspoon of alcohol in a gallon of water. Flowers, like people, need conditioning, and also are hardened by being put into cold water. Woody stems if pounded will take in more water and the flower will last longer, she said.

Expert flower arranging is done to triangle pattern, assymetrical, full-triangle, or variations. "Decide first where the arrangement is to be put—then make it to suit", advised Miss Dove. She made them for a large hall, then a small hall, the mantelpiece, a springtime arrangement for the living room, the dining table and the luncheon table. Her "conversation piece" was made of rhubarb stalks, leaves of house plants and tulips. If out of fresh flowers she can whip up a nice arrangement using home painted flowers made from dried grapefruit skins.

Conceal Mechanics

The mechanical parts of an arrangement are the secret of its success—but they must never show. Concealed wiring produces the outline of the arrangement in most cases. Needle holders are fastened in shallow dishes with wax or modelling clay and hold most of Miss Dove's designs in place. When a bud is needed she re-converts the flower with scotch tape.

Color is important and the arranger uses contrasts, tones and tints to achieve an effect. Miss Dove uses white for a formal dinner, blue flowers to make a room recede and red to draw it in. Color should not be used spottily in a design she warned.

A curious fact is that carnations can't stand noise, so they should never be chosen for the flowers at a gay party. They also don't like drafts which is a general flower trait, though they can stand coolness.

Miss Dove has probably started a number of Peterborough ladies on another hobby and she prophesied that with it they will become students of nature and start picking up all sorts of things on a walk in the woods. She was shown their appreciation and was given vocal thanks by president Mrs. N. D. Seaton.

DOROTHY DIX

Father Ruins Happy Home By Dictatorial Behaviour

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My father is a very selfish person. He never tries to help others and thinks only of himself. My friends invite me to their homes for dinner but my father refuses to let them come to our house because he says he "doesn't have to feed other peoples' kids." Yet my friends' parents are no richer than we are. We badly need a new living room set, but he says we can't afford one, yet he spends $50 on his car which rarely is taken out of the garage. He says as long as he pays the bills he can do anything he wants. What can my mother and I do to change him? Mother is so disgusted she is ready to leave home.

ANSWER: Nothing is more ruinous to peace and harmony in the home than a father whose sole role in the family is that of dictator. He rules by fear alone, and no one would miss him if he walked out and never returned. It is mystifying to understand how anyone can actually prefer to live like that. How can a father spurn the love and respect of his wife and children just for the satisfaction of being the "big boss"? How can anyone ignore so completely the concept of a home, turning from warmth and love to coldness and hate?

Just A Mailing Address

A home into which children are not free to invite their friends is no home at all. It is a mailing address, a roof over the head, a floor beneath the feet, and that is all. It isn't the cost of feeding another guest that determines your father's attitude; it's a misanthropic impulse that sets him against humanity.

There is little hope, Danny, that he'll ever change. A dream transformed Old Scrooge into a kind-hearted human, but unfortunately Charles Dickens cannot send dreams to all men. God alone could work the transformation, so if you and your mother are hoping for a miracle, pray for it.

I don't wonder at your mother's disgust; she must be a martyr to have endured such a home life all these years. Martyrdom is her privilege if she wants it, but she hasn't been very fair to expose you to the same atmosphere. A woman who strongly and definitely puts her foot down in the beginning of marriage can change almost any situation. The trouble is that many namby-pamby creatures are too afraid of riling the men-folk. Hence the husbands who drink, gamble, philander, pinch pennies, or just give in to plain cussedness. Probably the small-time dictator is the worst of all; he goes in for persecution within the home while often putting on a fine front of friendliness to the outside world.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am nearly 17 and in high school. I am very fond of one of my male teachers, who is about 25. I recently moved to this city and was told he used to take some of the students out. Now he is dating a teacher. I know he likes me but not enough to take me out.

M. E.

ANSWER: Teachers may be admired by young students—but from afar. As dating material, they are not for you! In most school systems it is strictly against rules for teachers to take students out, so I doubt the story that has been told you. Some of your romantically inclined friends are weaving tales, I'm afraid. Of course your teacher likes you; most teachers do like bright, amiable pupils, but only as such. You find yourself a boy friend among your own classmates.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have three small children, and my husband earns small wages. Recently he has been offered a job in which he will have a much larger salary, but will have to move every two years or so. Also, he will be away from home quite a bit. When it is necessary to move, the company takes care of all details, even providing a house. At present we are in a charming home life to have him away so much and would it harm the children to move them around?

MYRTLE

ANSWER: The advantages of your husband taking the new job seem to outweigh the disadvantages. Young children adapt themselves easily, and future promotions may permit a permanent settlement sooner than you think. The grave disadvantage is your husband being away from you and the children, but if the absences are not too prolonged, you'll all weather them very well. Sacrifices are often necessary in order to get a young family established, but they are usually very worthwhile.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

Question: I enjoy your column and read it every day. Would you please tell me what makes my dumplings heavy. Also have you a good recipe? Do you have a recipe for a French dish "Ragout"? Mrs. J. C. M.

Answer: I can only guess why your dumplings are soggy. Two causes of sogginess are adding shortening to the dumpling dough, and cooking the dumplings on [illegible] without effecting the lightness of the dumplings.) Measure 2 cups unsifted but stirred flour into sifter. Add 5 level teaspoons fresh baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and sift into bowl. Stir in ⅞ cup milk quickly. You may need the whole cup of milk—if dough seems overstiff add 2 tablespoons milk which will bring it up to 1 cup in all. Work quickly. Drop from tablespoon into boiling stew [illegible] enough to keep the dumpling up. Cover and let boil from 12 to 15 minutes—never lifting the lid until 12 minutes have passed. Then try one dumpling by pulling it apart at centre with 2 forks. If it is not cooked at centre leave them 3 more minutes. Serve dumplings as soon as you can, as they become soggy on standing.

"Ragout" is the French word for stew. French cooks add less liquid than we do to stew and it is a richer dish.

Ragout of Beef

Two pounds round or sirloin steak, ½ cup flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 each diced carrot and onion, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Cut meat into small cubes. Sprinkle with half of the salt and pepper and roll in flour. Melt fat and brown meat in it. Stir in 1 tablespoon flour. Add 1 cup boiling water (or tomato juice), bring to boil stirring until it is thick. Add 1 cup boiling water (or tomato juice), bring to boil stirring until it is thick. Add remaining ingredients, cover and simmer or bake at low temperature until meat is tender.

Ragout Of Veal

Two lbs. sliced shoulder veal, 1 tablespoon fat, 3 finely chopped onions, 1 cup tomatoes, 2 diced carrots, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper; (3 sliced tomatoes would be added when they are in season). Melt fat, add onions and brown them. Wash the veal and add it wet, cut up or not just as you wish. Add all other ingredients, cover and simmer for 2 hours or bake at 275 deg. Fahr. If fresh tomatoes are used add with onions.

Question: You had a "Pineapple Upside Down Cake" recipe in your column once. I wish you would put it in again . . . mine are not as good as that one. Mrs. H. M.

Answer: I hope this is the one:

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

One and three-quarter cups crushed pineapple with some juice included, 2 cups sugar, ½ cup shortening, 2 beaten eggs, 2¼ cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2/3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix 1 cup of the sugar with the pineapple and pour into buttered, waxed paper-lined cake pan about 9 x 9 x 2 inches. Cream the shortening until light then cream in the remaining 1 cup sugar. Beat in beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add them in thirds alternately with the milk and vanilla, beating smooth after each addition. Spread batter over fruit. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 or 60 minutes. Turn out on plate, upside down, to serve. This is best warm with a little pouring cream.

Question: I have enjoyed reading your column a great deal. I wonder if you could help me out . . . a while ago while visiting we had breakfast at a Dutch restaurant They have a specialty of a Dutch cake, the name of which I do not remember. It contained a lemon flavour and raisins. We found it very delicious and would like to know if you have a recipe similar.

Following is a recipe for a Danish sandwich spread "Liver Posteg": Grind five times ½ lb. beef or pork liver, ½ lb. very fat pork and 1 onion. Add 1 egg, 1 cup rich milk, 1 table spoon flour and salt and pepper to taste. Put in a loaf pan, bake in water bath for 1 hour in slow oven. It stiffens on cooking and keeps for 1 or 2 weeks. Mary R.

Answer: I have one recipe that might answer your description. It is called and it is a well-known national sweet made famous by a firm in Deventer.

One pound of white or wholemeal flour, ½ lb. syrup - this may be cane or light corn syrup, 7 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ pint milk, 1 tablspoon grated lemon rind (or anise seed), 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 [illegible] plumped raisins. Sift all dry ingredients into bowl. Mix the syrup and milk, and add gradually to the dry ingredients working them into a firm dough. Work quickly. Stir in the rind and raisins. Press into well-greased loaf pan and bake 1¼ hours at 350 deg. Fahr. This is best on the second day, as it should be stored in air-proof container for 24 hours to soften and ripen. It is similar to a tea-biscuit mixture, but sweet and rich. If readers know of another Dutch Cake to which Mary R. could be referring I would be grateful to receive it.

Susan Ball Latest Film Cinderella

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 (AP) —Star of Hollywood's latest Cinderella story is Susan Ball, who was in high school less than a year ago and now is playing the lead in her second picture. She attributes her success to playing a bad girl.

Susan was the pride of north Hollywood High until last June. After graduation, the tall, shapely brunette thought she wanted to be a vocalist and sang with bands. But then Universal-International discovered her. Even though she had no acting experience, she was put into the second lead of "Untamed" with Shelly Winters, Joseph Cotten and Scott Brady.

Then she was tossed the lead in "The Texas Man," with Robert Ryan and Rock Hudson battling for her attentions. How does she account for her rapid success?

Good Girls Dull

"Because I played a bad girl in 'Untamed'," she explainned, "I could have gone on for years playing good girls and I never would have been noticed.

"Also, a bad girl has more range of emotion. She can be sweet and lovable and she can be a spitfire. That kind of a role gives you more chance to show what you can do."

Susan has nothing but praise for Shelley Winters, which is a novelty these days. "She tried to help me all she could on the picture," Susan said. "We even went double-dating to the night clubs, and Shelley tried to get the photographers to take my picture, too. I think she's wonderful . . . "

But how our hearts were broken
When we saw you breathe your last.
—Lovingly remembered by her husband, Alfred Coppaway, four daughters, Esther, Flora, Clara, Luella and son Elwood.

COPPAWAY—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Alf. Coppaway, who passed away two years ago, March 9th, 1950.
We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But many a silent tear is shed,
While others are asleep.
—Ever remembered by Luella, Percy Nicholls and family.

EVERITT—In loving memory of Arnold Everitt, who passed away March 9, 1947.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Remembered by his wife Irene, son Ted and daughters Mrs. E. Hotrum and Mrs. J. Kanally.

HEWETT—In loving memory of a devouted husband and father, Cecil Douglas Hewett, who passed away March 8, 1950.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
He who loved you sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year.
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.
—Ever remembered by mother, brother and sister-in-law.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by sisters Gertie and Lottie and niece Madelyn.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mary Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
Three years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
—Ever remembered by husband, son and family.

Night Of Plays

found the "head lads" a poor lot.

Bruce Nyberg was the major; Dorothy Browne his wife; and Brian Bell was good in the role of Syd White, the let's-take-it-easy-and-not-jump-to-conclusions woodsman. Paul Ward played the part of another hunter, with a philosophy similar to Syd's.

Unusual Drama

"A Happy Journey", a play by Thornton Wilder that the Dramatic Society entered at the Kingston festival, was unusual and held the interest of the audience till the curtain fell.

The plot is nothing more than a United States' family (the salt-of-the-earth type) leaving their home in Newark, N.J. for a motor trip to visit Pa and Ma's married daughter in Camden.

They say an effusive goodbye to their neighbors and set off in a 1920-vintage car for their summer holidays.

Four chairs plunked down on a two-step platform simulate a car. And Ma and Pa Kirby, their dice-playing son Arthur and their pudgy daughter Caroline go through the patter and motions of a happy family motoring through new parts of the country.

The kids (Caroline played by Margaret Martyn) and Arthur (by Robert Ross) gawk at the sights, ask innumerable questons, ask to be relieved at awkward times and generally behave as American youngsters, according to American legend, are supposed to behave.

Much of the humor is in the constant vibration felt by all four of the family as they go on their way in the 1920-model bone-shaker.

Eleanor McBrien gives a convincing display as good-hearted Ma Kirby (in a lesser performance Ma might have seemed just too sweet).

Miss Kirby won the award at Kingston for being the best actress in the festival. Friday night she was certainly the best stage performer of the night.

Solid Acting

However all six (including Ron Buck as Pa, Barbara Clark as daughter Beulah, and Arthur Low as the versatile stage manager) give solid performances.

The third play, "The Botswain's Mate" by W. W. Jacobs and H. C. Sargent, probably drew more laughs from the audience than either of the others.

All the action takes place in a small English pub, owned by a desirable widow (Lee Glennie). Eric Jackson as a bos'n, more used to swilling beer than plotting, hits on a scheme to win the hand of the evasive widow. He pays a tosspot, who enters the pub at a lose end, to pretend to break into the pub after closing time and frighten the widow.

The would-be hero is waiting nearby to rush in and rescue her from the burglar. As a reward he anticipates marriage. That's the way the scheme is planned but through a couple of quriks of fate it goes wrong.

The result is a switch of matrimonial partners and a humorous ending.

Eric Jackson as the bos'n, and Jack King as the tosspot who wins the widow, both squeeze all the humor they can out of the situation; and both seem to enjoy it as much as the audience.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Sense of Fellowship Needed Between Parents, Teachers

By NANCY CLEAVER

During Education Week, the attention of the public is focused on schools. Scholars take literature home. They participate in special programs in Home and School meetings, and on radio broadcasts. Displays of pupils' work is shown. In many centres parents visit their child's classroom and interview his teacher.

This plan of a brief confidential chat between a teacher and a mother or father has much to commend it. The parents see the environment in which their child spends his school working hours.

Perhaps mother has a chance to glance over Junior's note books. On the wall she may see a sample of his writing, or a picture he has drawn. Most important of all, mother meets teacher, teacher meets mother. From this time each woman has a distinct impression of the other's personality. When the scholar mentions "teacher" or "my mother," a picture flashes through the minds of the mother or teacher.

Knowing how full a teacher's day must be, and being busy herself, without this occasion of Visiting Days, many mothers hesitate to get in touch with their child's teacher. Teachers and mothers otherwise might never meet. If Junior has gotten into trouble, or if mother is upset and worried about some phase of Junior's schooling, mother may make a special point of "seeing teacher." But when a mother is anxious or angry and a teacher is on the defensive, the atmosphere is anything but friendly. Without a sense of fellowship in a common task, a solution to a problem is hard to find.

Parents find it almost impossible to be objective about their own flesh and blood when the child's actions are being questioned. Teachers are in a position of authority. They are often overworked and it is hard for them to admit that it is just possible mother or dad may have some reasonable suggestions which might be helpful.

Parents and teachers have the opportunity to become acquainted in the friendly, informal atmosphere of the monthly Home and School meeting if they both attend. The pity is that the average Home and School meeting represents only a fraction of the parents who might come up to it.

One of the greatest values of the Home and School Clubs is the association of parents and teachers working together on a program or a project. Education Week reminds parents of the importance of Home and School Clubs. If you are an absentee parent from Home and School Club meetings, you are missing something worthwhile.

Thoughtful mothers and fathers observe that teachers are not just transmitting facts to pupils. A child receives much more than just "book learning" from his teacher. His ideas and ideals are colored by her thinking. His attitude to life, his habits of work are influenced by her behaviour and her routine in the classroom.

Education Week should remind both teachers and parents that they are fellow workers in the greatest of all tasks—the training of today's boys and girls for tomorrow's world. They can do a better job if they know each other and if they give each other loyal co-operation.

Teachers and schools are not perfect—but neither are parents. However, schools have been vastly improved during the last few decades. The standard of teaching has been raised. With very few exceptions, the teachers in our country are making an outstanding contribution, not only to their scholars, but to community and national life. At this special time, let us parents give our child's teacher the praise which is her due. Let us also say a word of appreciation on behalf of the devoted work and the fine leadership of all who toil at the task of Education, throughout the whole land.

A CHILD RECEIVES MUCH MORE than just "book learning" from his or her teacher. His ideas and ideals are colored by her thinking. His attitude, his habits of work are influenced by her behaviour and her routine in the classroom.

Roseneath News

Among those from Roseneath attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Douglas Wilson at Port Credit on Tuesday were: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Linton, Mrs. Roy Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Flex McMillan have returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, Hastings, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Eddy.

Among those from Roseneath attending the Northumberland County drama competition at Warkworth on Thursday evening March 6, were: Mr. and Mrs. Beecher McDonald, Mrs. Percy Macklin, Miss Nelda Brown, Mrs. Clifton Rogers, Mrs. Fred Ferguson and Mrs. Frank Brown.

Mrs. Thomas Sandercock has returned home from a holiday in Strathroy.

Mr. Frank Nill, Brighton, called on friends in the village on Thursday evening.

Mrs. George Bull, Baltimore, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles Sandercock.

Mrs. A. Nill Brighton is a guest at the home of Mrs. Ella Brown and Miss Irene Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley, were recent guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. E. J. Milne.

Reeve Fred Broadworth and Mrs. Broadworth accompanied by the former's parents, Reeve Geo. Broadworth and Mrs. Broadworth of Percy township, attended the banquet at Coldsprings community hall on Friday evening for Warden Harry Campbell of Northumberland and Durham counties.

Traffic Control

bers are stationed at each intersection, one on each side of the road. They are dressed in their Sam-Browne belts, arm bands, and carry hand signs.

Standing on the curb, the patrol member holds back the children until he sees a lull in the traffic; then he motions to them to cross in a group.

If there is no absolute break in the traffic line he holds out his hand-sign so that a motorist, half a block away, will be able to see it and have time to slow down.

No Game

Smart-aleck motorists who imagine this is just a kid's game get a rude shock. If the car goes through without stopping the patrol members take the licence number, time, direction, and intersection and hand this data over to the police officer for investigation.

Later the motorist may find himself facing a careless driving charge.

Patrol members do not stop fire trucks, ambulances or funeral processions.

Mrs. Rowell, who has studied the plan at first hand in Ottawa, says that one of the best features is the discipline self-imposed by the school-children.

A child who commits a breach of the traffic regulations is charged in a school-children's court. The pseudo-magistrate is either the traffic officer or another pupil.

The offender hears the charge solemnly read out to him. He is asked to plead "guilty" or "not guilty," and then evidence is heard.

If convicted he may be given extra duties or extra studies.

This discipline is effective, Mrs. Rowell said.

Jaywalk Here

"In Peterborough you can go to any school when children are coming and going and you will see 20 or more jaywalking. There isn't any of that in Ottawa; the children are too safety conscious."

"I feel it is training in good citizenship. It makes good pedestrians and teaches community co-operation."

The plan would call for perhaps 15 or 20 patrol members in each school. They would be hand-picked by the principal, thus adding to the prestige of the job, and would work in three week shifts: one week mornings, one week afternoons and the third week off. Parents would first have to give their permission.

They take up their posts 30 minutes before the opening of school in the morning and 15 minutes at noon, remaining until the last bell. Five minutes before noon dismissal, and five minutes before school is out in the afternoon, they leave their classes and take up positions at intersections for 10 or 15 minutes.

To maintain discipline, school bounds are arbitrarily extended to the end of the patrol areas.

At present in Peterborough there are 10 traffic guards at hazardous intersections in the city. Four of them are hired by the Board of Education and six by the Police Commission. And there is a rising cry from the parents for more guards.

Just As Cheap

It would be just as cheap—perhaps cheaper—says Mrs. Rowell to take one police constable, send him to Ottawa for a week to study the system there, and then give him the job of organizing the school safety patrol in Peterborough.

And—if Ottawa's experience is any criterion—it would be a more effective method.

Equipment would not cost much over $1,000, it is estimated.

Lectures and training would have to start by Easter if the plan were to be initiated this coming September, Mrs. Rowell contends.

"If we are going to adopt the school safety patrol system it must be done properly or not at all. Unless we have the enthusiastic and active support of the police force, principals and teachers, and parents, then we would be better off to leave things as they are."

"Personally, I think it is the answer to our problem here," said Mrs. Rowell. "As Peterborough expands there will be more cars and the traffic hazard for school children will only become more acute. If the patrol system can work so successfully in Ottawa with 45,000 public and separate school children it can work here."

One of the members said: "I'm surprised that it did not get into publication sooner than it did."

Could Have Been Colder

"If the weather was 8 above zero here in the city that afternoon, it might have been zero out on the highway," Ald. Rehill remarked. "I think the mission was done in good intention, but I don't see how the city police can go on that trip into the country, when they can't go on calls for police protection."

He understood that the custom was to transfer to the Provincial Police any calls from outside the city.

The special report read by Mayor Waddell bore the date of (Thursday) March 6. The text follows:

"About the 2nd week in January, 1952, I received verbal reports from various members of this department with reference to Brant, who had been noticed as a stranger loitering around the business section of the city with local alcoholics and ne'er-do-wells.

"On Sunday, January 13th, this man was arrested at 11.05 a.m. by P.C. Conlin, at the rear of Cherney's store, charged with vagrancy. On January 14th he was brought before the Magistrate and sentenced to 10 days in the County Jail. On January 23rd, 1952, he was discharged from the County Jail and loitered around the public rest-room on Charlotte St. at the Market Square for most of that day. At 10.30 p.m. he came to the City Police Station and applied for lodging, which was given to him.

"P.C. Farthing, who was on duty at the time, questioned Brant, who 'seemed to want to go to jail.' He told Constable Farthing that he was responsible for attacking a woman on Pearl Avenue; this was known to be untrue, as was later proved. The suspect known to us at the time, Brant stated he was responsible was identified, charged and convicted. P.C. Farthing notified the sergeant-in-charge to hold Brant until he had been interviewed by me.

At 9 a.m. on January 24th I talked to Brant, who I believe to be mentally deficient, and he told me that he came from Lindsay, but that he had no place to go to and wanted to spend some time in jail, as it was cold. I suggested to him that he might be better off in a town where he was known, and told him he could go. But after leaving me, he got into the line of prisoners being brought up at court.

"There being no charge against Brant, he was told to go and later was taken by P.S. McGillen out on the Highway to Lindsay to assist him in getting back to his supposed home. P.S. McGillen dropped him near the cheese factory north of the Chemong turn, and upon contacting the Lindsay Police Department, I learned that Brant had not been picked up later in the day and returned to Peterborough, but had continued on to Lindsay and had applied for, and been given, lodging at the police station that night (January 24th) and allowed to go on on the morning of January 25th.

"Brant was not heard of again by this department until 9.23 p.m. January 30th, 1952, when he again applied to this department for lodging and it was given to him. On the morning of January 31st, he was charged with vagrancy, as the weather was cold and this was only means available to provide him with food and shelter. These were the last dealings this department had with Brant."

Omemee Guild

OMEMEE, March 8 (ENS). — The Women's Guild of Christ Anglican Church met on Thursday at the rectory with 17 members present.

The president, Mrs. H. Laidley, opened the meeting with prayer.

On motion of Mrs. V. Jones and Mrs. R. Cornwall it was decided to place a box at the back of the church to collect donations for Easter flowers. It was suggested that the Guild sell home made candy at the play that is being presented by the young people on Easter Monday.

On motions of Mrs. R. Thorn and Miss H. Clark the proposed March 17 entertainment was cancelled. The members were reminded to shop for the bazaar early in the season. The next Guild meeting will be held at the home of Miss Clarke. Mrs. Laidley and Mrs. Ruttle will be hostesses.

Tea was served after the meeting by Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Richmond.

Busy Housewife Praised For New Comedy

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—An Edmonton housewife has written a three-act comedy with an Alberta theme of oil and dinosaur bones. The "sold out" sign was hung up for all nine scheduled performances of "Widger's Way," by Gwen Pharis Ringwood, when it was produced at the Studio Theatre of the University of Alberta.

Mrs. Ringwood, mother of four young children, was commissioned to write the play by Robert Orchard, director of the theatre and assitant professor of drama at the university. He said he asked Mrs. Ringwood to write it because the art of the dramatist is not to create stories but to make them stage-worthy. Many great playwriters of the past had "pinched good stories."

Working at home and writing "only in the morning," after she has popped her two youngest children into a nursery school, Mrs. Ringwood went away back for the skeleton of her plot. She took a work by the Roman dramatist Titus Maccius Plautus, born 254 B.C. The French playwright Moliere used the same play as the basis of his comedy, "L'Avare," or "The Miser."

Mrs. Ringwood turns the theme upside down, puts the action in an Alberta village, and uses Alberta characters, situations and "dramatic incident." Widger is a farmer who is none too successful until oil is found on his land.

"Rich Comedy"

Prof. Orchard said "Widger's Way" is "rich Canadian comedy."

"I read many Canadian scripts because it is our policy to stimulate Canadian playwrights where possible," he said. "But I find most of our Canadian plays are not stageworthy. They are not written by people who have the feeling of the stage, and they are not good stories."

He said he approached Mrs. Ringwood because she can write "plays for actors." She already had written nine one-act and three three-act plays and many short stories, and her work has been produced in Europe and the United States.

Mrs. Ringwood and the professor discussed the plot of Plautus' play in September. The first draft of "Wodger's Way" was ready by November. Three more drafts followed, then the play went into six weeks of rehearsal, during which time it was constantly being rewritten.

"That's the inevitable result of this kind of work," said Prof. Orchard. "You're rehearsing a play as it is being written. It's one of the exacting and interesting things about it."

But Mrs. Ringwood isn't too sure.

"I don't think I'd like to do it again," she said. "It's too rushed. I'd like to take a year on the next one."

Roseneath W.I. Honors Member

ROSENEATH, March 8 (ENS) —A presentation of a gift of crochet work to Mrs. A. Nill, a life member of Roseneath W.I. men's Institute, was the highlight of the March meeting. Mrs. Nill, a former active member of the Roseneath W.I., had also held the office of District President of West Northumberland W.I. and was a member of the executive of the W.I. of Belleville Area and a former member of the F.W.I.O. She had recently moved to Brighton and the presentation was made as a tribute of many years of active service in W.I work. An address was read by Mrs. Leslie Tucker and the president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, presented the gift.

The meeting was held in the township hall on Thursday evening. It was their annual open meeting when the members of the W.I. entertain the people of the community. Progressive games were played with Mrs. Fred Murphy, convener of the program committee, in charge.

In the euchre games, James Thompson carried off the men's high with the low prize going to Charlton Grigg, Mrs. John Beatty winning the high prize for the ladies and low going to Mrs. Edwin McCleary. In the progressive crokinole, high prizes were carried off by Mrs. E. Sandercock and Mrs. George Bull, low prizes going to Bill and Lanny Murphy. A lucky door prize was won by Mrs. William Halstead.

Mrs. E. Rae Brown held the lucky ticket for the draw on a quilt. The proceeds from the sale of tickets to be donated to the Northumberland T.B. Association.

Lunch was served by the members.

High Hopes

PORT ELGIN, N.B. —(CP) — When the snowdrifts disappear in a few weeks Leslie Turner, eighth grade student, hopes to find the source of the gold nuggets that one of his ducks picked up recently. The nuggets were found while dressing the duck for the table, and Leslie figures there may be more where they came from.

Railway Chiefs Receive Honorary Degree

LONDON, Ont., March 8 (CP)—The two chiefs of Canadian railroading received honorary degrees Friday at a special convocation of the University of Western Ontario. Then they outlined the future that awaits students and the vital part that lies ahead for rail transportation in Canada.

Given honorary LL.D. degrees were W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways. Similarly honored at this founders' day convocation was Lieutenan-Governor Breithaupt of Ontario.

"All things considered the economic prospect well warrants the description of Canada as a land of promise," said Mr. Gordon. He urged the university students to remain in Canada and take part in the country's development even if they, in some cases, had to forego a higher income in so doing.

Mr. Mather reviewed the part the railways have played in the development and unficiation of Canada and said:

"The railway still remains, and, I venture to suggest, will forever remain, the basic system of mass transportation on land . . . North American Society, as we know it, is very definitely the result of the use of transportation on steel rails . . . ."

He made a plea for "fair treatment" of railways by Canadians. One could hardly imagine a farmer prospering while his horses starve. So with the railways.

"Our railways serve the nation", he said. "They require fair treatment from the nation."

Mr. Gordon said that "from a nation which was once essentially a prime producer, Canada has begun to evolve into a well-rounded and diversified economy giving promise of support for a considerably larger internal market." Now a great future lay ahead.

"Those of you who will soon be graduating from this university will, I trust, be able to assist in giving direction to this dynamic process of change."

HOUSE NO. 1028—Illustrated here is a charming stone-faced cottage. Using the floor plan as suggested, the house has large living room with an open fireplace centred on the longest outside wall, two compact bedrooms with convenient bathroom, a dining room, and a "face-the-front" kitchen directly over the contained garage. Kitchen equipment is placed in the popular "L" position in this plan, with the window over the sink. Many housewives prefer this window position not only because of the light, but because it presents her with an interesting outlook. While the contained garage was made possible by the sloping lot on which this house was built, it could be easily eliminated if building on a level lot without impairing the appearance of this fine home one bit. Caution Needed In Applying New Paint Jobs

Before paint is applied, make all surfaces clean, dry and smooth, whether of wood, metal, or other material. This means free from dampness, grease, gummy or sticky substances, loose paint, and dust.

Oil paint and varnish will not dry on a damp surface nor over a partially dry coat of paint or varnish. They remain sticky, or crack, or peel. Let each coat dry thoroughly all the way through before applying the next coat.

If a new, unpainted wood or metal surface is in good condition, clean it with steel wool or fine sandpaper and dust it thoroughly before painting.

If an old painted surface is in good condition, roughen it or reduce its gloss so that the next coat will stick. To do this, wash it with strong soap and water, or with a thin paste solution of strong scrubbing powder and water. Rinse it well and let it dry thoroughly for at least 48 hours, then give it a light sanding and dust it thoroughly. This removes soil and gloss and gives a "tooth" to which the new paint will stick. But if the old paint is rough and marred, sand it down until all roughness and any marred spots disappear; or take the paint off entirely from wood or metal with paint-and-varnish remover. Remove lacquer with lacquer thinner only; remove shellac with alcohol; remove wax with turpentine or a non-inflammable dry cleaner.

Applying Paint

Paints are opaque, semi-opaque, or transparent. A good flat-oil paint, which is opaque, hides the surface well. A semi-gloss, which is semi-opaque, may allow the under surface to show through a little. Enamels, except for a few are semi-transparent and varnish is even more so; both let the under surface show through. Water paints are opaque when mixed according to the formula on the container.

If a light-colored paint is to cover and hide a dark one, this plan helps to keep the dark underpaint from showing through the lighter top coats: Brush a white priming coat over the dark surface for a flat oil finish. Follow this with one or two coats of colored flat oil paint as needed. If the finishing coat is to be semi-gloss, enamel, or varnish, use a white undercoater, then a coat of flat oil paint in color, followed by a coat of colored semi-gloss, colored enamel, or varnish.

If a light-colored surface is to be painted with a darker color, follow the same method. Tint the undercoater with the selected dark color. Cover this when dry with the dark-colored flat oil paint. For a harder finish use semi-gloss or enamel in the color wanted.

If the new paint is to be of the same color as the old one, then one coat of the new is usually enough to cover and hide the old surface, if the new paint is of the best quality.

If a change from the old color is wanted, but one not darker or lighter than the old one, use a coat of flat oil paint in the color wanted. If semi-gloss or enamel is to be used for the final finish then make that the second coat.

An "NHA best seller", this charming bungalow would be a fashion leader in any residential district. It has been designed to meet today's demand for economy through the judicious use of a limited amount of floor area and provides five full-size standard rooms and bathroom within exterior dimensions of 37 feet by 31 feet nine inches.

The design follows simple lines, deviating only slightly from the dollar-saving rectangular house plan for the living room extension which adds a note of distinction to an exterior which might otherwise appear bare.

A compact, conveniently located kitchen is large enough for a dining nook but if more space is required for serving meals the living room may do double duty as a living-dining room. The large window areas enhance the appearance while the porch arrangement provides a protected front entrance.

One of the prime considerations in planning the room arrangement of a bungalow is the separation of the sleeping quarters from the remainder of the house. This has been accomplished in this plan through location of the basement stairway and bathroom which effectively separates the bedrooms from the living section.

For estimating purposes the area of the house is 1,008 square feet and the cubic contents are 21,150 cubic feet.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design No. 50-2, are available from any office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Sarnia Play Praised By Adjudicator

HAMILTON, March 8—(CP)—The Sarnia Drama League's production of "The Heiress" at the Western Ontario Regional Drama Festival here Friday night was prais... as "the best piece of acting ... so far" by Pier.e LeFevr., adjudicator.

The direction, however, came under heavy criticism.

The play told the story of a wealthy girl living a loveless life with a harsh father in New York in the 1850s. She meets and falls in love with an adventurer, who jilts her on their honeymoon night but returns two years later when she has inherited her father's fortune and renews his proposal. Then she jilts him.

Of Betty Allinghan's performance of Kathleen Sloper, the girl, Mr. LeFevre said that one of the scenes had moved him to tears.

"She had a precious emotional quality, rare on any stage, professional or amateur. It was worth sitting through the whole evening to see it."

Too Emotional

Harold Van Horne as the girl's father played the part too emotionally, Mr. LeFevre said.

Hazel Cooke's portrayal of Mrs. Montgomery he praised because she had given the impression of great dignity and humility.

Frank Hogg had done well as Maurice, the adventurous suitor but had not appreciated to the full "the character of a cad who had at the same time maturity and good taste and could have given the girl a brilliant life."

The adjudicator said that because of the arrangement of the set, the audience could not see the faces of the performers, a vital factor in a play of circumstance.

He criticized the lighting and the sound effects he described as "overloaded and flimsy and one could only register astonishment at the defects."

LIVESTOCK BARRIERS—Cattle from Alberta and Saskatchewan normally stock butcher shops in many parts of Canada and the United States. Now many barriers have been set up to keep out western Canada animals and thus prevent the spread of foot-and-mouth disease. Since an epidemic broke out near Regina, the U.S. has banned all livestock shipments from Canada. British Columbia has embargoed westward shiyments. A series of barriers has been put up to the east—by Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia. Shaded areas show provinces where meat shortages may result. If meat becomes scarce, prices probably will go up.

FORT FRANCES, Ont.—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Begg of International Falls, Minn., who were married in Kenora in 1887, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. They have six children, 29 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

Says Criticism Not Justified

OTTAWA, March 8—(CP)—Dr. E. A. McCusker, parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin, told the Commons Friday that in view of the record, he does not think criticism of Canada's overseas physical examination of immigrants is justified.

Canada maintained a staff of Canadian doctors overseas and x-rays are required of all immigrants over the age of 11. Where there is a tuberculosis history in the family, children are x-rayed as well.

The physical examinations were given with care to avoid admitting epileptics, mental cases, tuberculosis, trachoma and venereal disease cases. Immigrants arriving in Canada were given medical care until employed.

In Ontario which had taken 500,000 immigrants since the war, the rate reached the "phenominal low" of 13 per 100,000 and the incidence of tuberculosis in immigrants coming to Canada was .043 per cent.

Saint Paul

rather than through repentance, and the manifestation of the pardoning grace of God, Paul was saying, in effect, God Himself is the sacrifice.

When I was a boy I used often to hear a hymn sung, with this verse:

"My God is reconciled
His pardoning voice I hear;
He owns me for His child
I can no longer fear."

But the first line is all wrong. What does Paul say? He says that "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." He constantly urges men to be reconciled to God. God is not the one who is reconciled: He is the great Reconciler.

This is the very heart of the Gospel that Jesus proclaimed, and that Paul preached and expounded. He called it "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

Honeymoon Trip Ends In Police Court Girl With $10,000 Held In Robbery

TORONTO, March 8—(CP)—Shirley Lupson's "sort of honeymoon trip" is over. Police said Friday they found a box containing $10,000 in the basement of the 16-year-old Toronto girl's home.

The money is believed to be part of the $34,000 loot taken in the holdup February 22 of the East York branch, Bank of Montreal. Shirley's boy-friend, Leo Laramie, 24, has been charged with helping to rob the bank. The girl is held at a material witness.

Shirley and Laramie, whom she described as "a very lovely lad," were picked up early Friday near Brantford. They were returning from New York where she said for the last week she and the bank robbery suspect have been on a "sort of honeymoon trip."

"I loved him—oh, I loved him so much," she said in an interview in East York police station Friday. "And we intended to be married in a week or two—but now I guess that's all off."

George Nicholson, 24, and his brother, Robert, 22, Thursday were remanded without bail to March 13 when they appeared in court charged with armed robbery of the same bank as Laramie.

Police Comb Castleton Area For 2 In Toronto Wounding

Canada To Restrict Movement Of Russ Diplomats

OTTAWA, March 10. (CP)—Canada is going to restrict the movements of Russian diplomats and is expected to pen them into a small area around Ottawa. The action will be taken as part of joint Atlantic Pact retaliation for increased restrictions on movements of western diplomats in Russia, it was learned today. The Hague, Paris and Washington also announced restrictions today. Canada's ban is expected to apply only to the Russian embassy. There are two other Iron Curtain embassies here—Poland and Czechoslovakia—but they are not likely to be affected.

The Russian embassy is being informed formally that members of its staff are not to go outside a certain area around Ottawa without permission from the External Affairs Department.

The Atlantic Pact powers took the first step in this direction at their Lisbon meeting in February when they gave orders for a study of joint action. Their decision was made because Russia recently ordered western diplomats to stay within a 25-mile radius of the centre of Moscow.

Big Step.

Canada's action will represent the biggest step she has taken against the embassy since the spy trials in 1946. The Russians withdrew their ambassador shortly before the spy inquiry broke and they never replaced him.

Lonid Teplov, Charge D'Affairs is in charge of the embassy. There are 12 other men of diplomatic status and a number of others who do not have diplomatic status.

The restrictions will be the first Canada has slapped on the Russians with the exception of the policy of not inviting them to military exhibitions and displays along with other foreign attaches.

Apartment Fire Traps Three Children

BEDFORD, Que., March 10—(CP)—Three small children died today when a fire, caused by an explosion in an oil burner, ripped through the home of their parents.

Dead are Lise Smith, 2, her sister Pierrette, 4, and their brother Robert, 6. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith of Bedford.

Police said Mrs. Smith ran for help after the explosion and when she returned she was unable to get past the flames which blocked the doorway of the second-storey flat.

A passing motorist turned in the alarm and the flames were quickly brought under control, but too late to save the three children, one a cripple and another blind.

Other tenants in the six-tenement house were unaware of the fire until firemen arrived.

Death Sentence For N.S. Soldier

SEOUL, March 10 (Reuters) — A court martial today sentenced Sgt. Robert Burns Macdonald, 21, of New Waterford, N.S., to death for the murder of Pte. Harold Carlen Harrison, 31, of Truro, N.S.

The tribunal found that Macdonald shot his comrade to death Jan. 28 with a .45-calibre automatic during a quarrel in a house at Tokchon, 20 miles north of Seoul, Korea.

The court, in a report to Canadian army authorities in Ottawa, recommended clemency.

Macdonald is a member of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Harrison, a member of the Canadian 25th Brigade Headquarters, died in hospital Feb. 23.

Sharp Earth Tremor Flattens Jap Houses

TOKYO, March 10—(AP)—A sharp earth tremor jolted Hok-Kaido and Northern Honshu today, flattening scores of houses weakened by last Tuesday's heavy 'quake.

Japanese press reports said at least 17 persons were injured and possibly 113 houses demolished.

Tidal-wave alarms were issued over wide areas and sent thousands fleeing to the hills. They returned after the big waves failed to materialize.

The Tokyo meteorological observatory said it has recorded about 100 after-shocks since the disastrous Tuesday 'quake.

Doctors Say Tong Shows Improvement

Squads of Police Press Search For Leonard Jackson

TORONTO, March 10. (CP)—Toronto police today continue their hunt for Leonard Jackson as persistent reports from Montreal said the fugitive is headed back to Toronto and familiar ground.

Meanwhile, in hospital, Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong has for the time being won the fight of his life against death. With .45-calibre bullets still in his chest, mid-section surgeons Sunday reported the officer 100 per cent better.

Early today hospital attendants said Sgt. Tong is still on the critical list but that he is continuing to show improvement.

They added: "Sgt. Tong was very near death late Friday night and again on Saturday. His pain and torment were extreme. Only through fortitude and sheer grit—his determination to live—was he able to survive those hours."

In serious condition in a Montreal hospital is Steve Suchan, who was shot three times in a police ambush Friday night in a swank Cote des Nieges apartment. Suchan is charged with the attempted murder of Sgt. Tong and Sergeant of Detectives Roy Perry.

Squads of Toronto detectives are still working on a round-the-clock basis in their hunt for Jackson, also charged with the attempted murder of Tong and Perry.

Jackson is now believed hiding in Hamilton, Toronto police said today. Officers said they learned that Suchan and Jackson went to Hamilton after the shooting here last Thursday.

Suchan probably took a train from Hamilton to Montreal, while Jackson disappeared into the Hamilton underworld, officers theorized.

Jackson is known to be well armed. As a result, Toronto detectives who normally carry .32-calibre revolvers now are in most cases armed with weapons of a much heavier calibre.

As one detective said: "I want to knock him down with one bullet. With a .32-calibre bullet he might be able to keep on shooting even though hit."

TWO GUNMEN WANTED for the attempted murder of two Toronto detectives are believed to have stopped at Harry Isaac's service station in Castleton, north of Colborne Sunday noon. "It may have been them," Mr. Isaac tells two customers, Wilfred Hockney, left, and Arnold May, right, as he explains why he became suspicious of three men who pulled up in a late model maroon car bearing Quebec licence plates. Peterborough Detachment Directs Search, Many Road Blocks Set Up

Garage Station Operator Gives Tipoff After Suspicious Actions Of Three Men In Car, Purchasing Gas

By DON SWAIN

CASTLETON, March 10.—For several hours Sunday afternoon, this crossroads hamlet north of Colborne was the hub of an intensive police search for Edwin Boyd and Leonard Jackson following the attempted murder of two Toronto detectives. After three men in a car bearing Quebec licence plates stopped for gas at Harry Isaac's service station, he became suspicious and notified Provincial Police at Brighton. It had already been reported from Montreal, that Boyd and Jackson were trying to get back to Toronto from Montreal and within minutes, all highways and main roads were being watched.

Sgt. Stanley Palmateer of OPP district 8 Headquarters, Peterborough, directed the search. Road blocks were set up at Welcome Corners west of Port Hope, at the Junction of Highways 28 and 2, east on Highway 2 at Belleville, at Campbellford, Havelock, Bewdley and Dale. In addition to cutting off the main escape routes, all bridges and main crossroads in the area around Castleton were checked during the afternoon, as 15 police cruisers from district detachments prowled the district.

Suspicious Actions

"We see lots of cars with Quebec licence plates in the summer," Mr. Isaac explained later, "but now it's unusual."

However, what really aroused his suspicions that the men who stopped for gas just before noon might be the ones wanted for shooting detectives Roy Perry and Edmund Tong on Thursday was their actions.

The driver merely told Mr. Isaac curtly to "fill her up." When he had filled the car and went around to tell the driver how much the gas was, he said all three looked straight ahead. The driver passed him a $10 bill but never looked sideways and never bothered counting the change.

The car came from the east, either from Highway 30, leading north from Highway 2 at Brighton, or south from Highway 7, it is not known which. There is a four corners right in the cen-

Revolution Starts In Havana

HAVANA, March 10. (AP)—Fulgencio Batista seized power in Cuba today in an army-backed revolt, three months ahead of scheduled presidential elections. President Carlos Prio Socarras fled from his palace, where two men were killed. President Prio, accompanied by two army officers and possibly under arrest, left the presidential palace after announcing that Batista had seized control of Camp Columbia, the army's major military base.

Batista told a reporter: "I was obliged to make a revolution because I had news from the most reliable sources that President Prio, faced with defeat of his candidate in the June 1 elections, was planning a phony revolution for April 15."

Two army tanks and army trucks loaded with soldiers took over the presidential palace in the centre of Havana.

Set Free

Former president Ramon Grau San Martin was arrested at his Havana suburb, and taken to Camp Columbia. Batista, advised of this, sent out word: "Turn him loose." He was set free at once.

Apparently Prio was not in prison. Some reports said he was at La Chata, one of several luxurious country estates he owns, on the outskirts of Havana. He was reported under guard, but Batista followers asserted he had been given "the fullest personal guarantees."

Batista said "Cuba will comply with all international obligations

Put Finger On Sutton Informer Slain Near Home

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP)—Police pushed a vast manhunt today for the killer of Arnold Schuster, the man who caused bank robber Willie Sutton's arrest. Two major questions puzzled investigators: Was the slayer an underworld figure, who killed the 24-year-old Schuster to avenge the arrest of Sutton? Or was he a crank who hated informers and police in general? Some 150 detectives picked up scores of former convicts for questioning, and pushed through the city hunting clues.

The No. 1 man sought was a convict murderer and prison fugitive, Frederick J. (The Angel) Tenuto, an old pal of Sutton. They broke out of Pennsylvania prison together in 1947.

Tenuto, already on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's 10-most-wanted list, was reported seen in New York Friday by a bartender. Police discounted the report because the description didn't tally.

Pointed Out Schuster

Schuster pointed out Sutton, the most-wanted man in the United States, to police just 19 days before the young clothing salesman was slain Saturday night.

Six doors away from home, Schuster was hit by four .38 calibre bullets. People living nearby heard the shots and running feet. When they reached Schuster he was dead—victim of a smooth, vicious, gangland-type job.

For him, it was the end of days of torture, the fear of death ever present.

Police disclosed that he had received 11 threatening letters since he put the finger on Sutton. He had so many threatening phone calls that he had the number changed to an unlisted one. Neighbors said he hadn't left the house for a week before he decided to venture out Saturday after F.B.I. agents reassured him.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said Schuster and his father, Max, had repeatedly turned down offers of a police guard.

Sutton is in jail awaiting trial of a bank-robbery charge. He said he was surprised by the slaying.

Fear 60 Sailors Lost In Gales

LONDON, March 10—(AP)—Sixty seamen were feared lost in gales which swept the North Sea during the weekend.

The body of one of the seamen, apparently frozen to death, was found in a lifeboat.

Search was abandoned early today in the storm-tossed waters off the Orkney Islands for 17 sailors from the 447-ton German trawler Thor which capsized in heavy seas.

One survivor of the Thor, First Mate Willi Sunkyman, was picked up, unconscious and half-frozen, by the German trawler Fladengrund.

"We ran into a gale," Sunkyman said after he was revived, "and after that it took no time to capsize."

Search continued from Norway for 18 sailors of the 829-ton Finnish ship Adna which radioed she was sinking. All are believed lost.

In Scotland, the Royal Navy picked up an SOS from the 1,253-ton Swedish ship Rosso with 24 aboard. Lifeboats spent 19 hours at sea searching for survivors, and a four-engine Coastal Command plane returned after a fruitless search.

Import Controls Shock Australia

CANBERRA, March 10—(Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert Menzies told Australians today the government's import-slashing plans will save the country more than £200,000,000 a year.

The new controls cut Australia's imports by half, affecting both dollar and sterling products and ranging from every-day items, such as cigarettes and beer, to major consumer goods, such as clothing, washing machines and automobiles. The people, shocked by the suddenness of the government's move last Saturday, heard Menzies' explanation in a country-wide broadcast.

Menzies said the export cuts are a temporary solution to the country's economic problems, and a negative one at that. The real answer lay in increasing exports, not cutting imports.

Trainmen Stage Surprise Strike In U.S.

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP)—The men who run the trains staged a surprise strike Sunday that virtually paralyzed the New York Central system. It raised the question: will the walkout be extended to other lines, perhaps to cripple the United States' rail transportation?

Chiefs of the three big unions which struck in concert for higher wages—the Brotherhoods of Railway Conductors, Locomotive Engineers, and Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen—themsives raised the question without answering it.

Written instructions to strikers said the orders would apply to "every brotherhood to which the strike may later be extended." Another sentence said, "If it is determined to extend the strike to other railroads, full information will be furnished . . . to . . . those in charge. . ."

At a press conference in Cleveland, the brotherhood leaders, Roy O. Hughes of the conductors, James P. Shields of the engineers, and David B. Robertson of the firemen and enginemen, declined to elaborate. They said, "we'll have to await developments."

But already the Army, technical boss of U.S. railroads as a result of the wages and working-rules impasse, had warned striking workers of the New York Central: get back to work or face "appropriate action."

Circumstances indicated that the Assistant Army Secretary, Karl B. Bendetsen, may have meant a court injunction when he issued the warning in Washington, but he did not elaborate. The Army has been custodian and nominal operator of railroad lines since government seizure in August, 1950, when the same unions threatened a country-wide walkout.

The unannounced strike halted most New York Central trains west of Buffalo Sunday morning, many before they reached their destinations. It also hit the St. Louis Terminal Railroad, paralyzing that vital switching centre for east-west rail traffic.

Ex-Hockey Star McNamara Dies

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — George McNamara, former hockey star who headed one of Canada's biggest construction companies, died today in Miami, Fla., where he was holidaying. He was 65.

A native of Penetanguishene, he started his hockey career at Sault Ste. Marie, later played with Kitchener in the old Trolley League before moving into the National Hockey League.

A bruising defence player, he and his lat ebrother, Howard, were called the "dynamite twins."

George McNamara was one of the few men living who had watched professional hockey in Canada from its infancy to the present day.

He watched and played—getting into a couple of games—in the old International professional league which was launched in 1904 and broke up after the 1906-07 season. After a brief turn in the trolley league, he played with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto St. Patrick's in the N.H.L. He maintained his interest in later years and seldom missed a game when he was in Toronto.

Investigate Attempt To Derail Crack Flyer

PHILADELPHIA, March 10 — (AP)—The F.B.I. today investigated an apparent attempt to derail the crack Pennsylvania railroad flyer, "The Constitution."

The express, travelling at 70 miles an hour with 600 passengers aboard, was nearly wrecked by an obstruction on a bridge at nearby Chester Friday night.

A spokesman for the P.R.R. said the train, en route from Washington to New York, struck a 75-pound tie plate which had been placed on the track at an overpass. The only damage, he said, was to the undercarriages of the electric locomotive and several of the 14 cars.

"Competition Tough" Says Dr. Ralph Clark But Peterborough Curlers "As Good As Any"

"We were just as good as any of them", Dr. Ralph Clark, skip of Ontario's rink in the Canadian curling championships, said today after he had stepped off the noon train from Winnipeg.

"The competition was tough, but we should have had a seven-three record", he added.

Dr. Clark explained that the rink which included himself, Vic Brown, Ken Bissett and Burritt Harrison should have won the game against Northern Ontario, their second last loss on Thursday night.

"The ice was poor", he explained. Earlier that day they had met Nova Scotia and won, then lost to the second place rink, Alberta.

"The competition was tough", Dr. Clark said again, mentioning briefly the losses to Alberta and Manitoba, and the wins with Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

At the station a number of friends greeted the rink as they stepped off the train at 11:40 a.m. There they received the greetings from their fellow club members and showed them a large cardboard curling stone, marked with a large Ontario and autographed by members of the various curling clubs.

Trenton Airman Killed In Collision

TRENTON, March 10—(CP)—Cpl. Peter Dorran of the R.C.A.F. was killed Sunday night when a dump truck sheared off the top of the automobile in which he was riding a mile west of the Trenton R.C.A.F. station.

Cpl. D. Elliot of No. 6 Repair Depot, riding in the same car, suffered head injuries. Murray B. Malloy, his wife Doris and their 15-month-old daughter, Rita, all of Belleville and passengers in the truck, were only slightly injured.

Cpl. Dorran was a native of Belleville. Preliminary inquiry into the crash was scheduled for today.

Players Get Shock

HEILBRONN, Southwest Germany, March 10. (Reuters)—A football fan had to bet 1,000 bottles of wine before anyone would investigate his claim that the local football field was filled with high explosives. At the end of the Second World War tons of bombs and ammunition were dumped into a huge bomb crater and covered with earth. People forgot about the ammunition. The site became a football field. Authorities refused to believe the fan when he told them what was under the players' feet. Only after he made his bet did anyone think it worthwhile to dig up the field. It took bomb-disposal squads several days to cart away all the live ammunition.

Mayor Threatens Action

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport said today that should the Consumers Gas Company raise its rates he will press immediately for city ownership of the firm. Mayor Lamport's statement followed a newspage story in a Toronto paper which said: "Examination of how the firm's reserves are being depleted leads to one conclusion—an increase is inevitable."

Adenauer Arms Program Endorsed In Test At Polls

BONN, GERMANY, March 10—(AP) — Konrad Adenauer, West German Chancellor, had a majority endorsement of his rearmament program today from its first test at the polls. He was expected to press full steam ahead to put German soldiers into the projected European Army.

The vote came in the first elections Sunday in the new Federal state of southwest Germany, in which members of Adenauer's pro-rearmament government coalition bested the anti-army Social Democrats of Dr. Kurt Schumacher almost two to one.

Complete unofficial returns showed the voters in the State formed by the merger of Baden, Wuerttemberg-Baden and Wuerttemberg-Hohenzollern gave 982,464 ballots to Adenauer's Christian Democrats and 491,587 to the Allied Free Democrats.

Schumacher's Socialists polled only 764,857. The Socialists had stressed their opposition to the government's program of rearmament and co-operation with the west. The new state is West Germany's fourth-largest.

Political observers here said the victory for Adenauer's coalition would be a big boost toward approval by the West German parliament of the proposed European defence force, in which German troops would join those of France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

Minor parties trailed badly. The Nazi-like Socialist Reich party, making its first election bid in southern Germany, did not elect a delegate to the Assembly.

Begin Slaughtering Cattle In New Disease Outbreak

REGINA, March 10. (CP)—Slaughtering of cattle involved in a new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease is expected to start today. Work on a burial pit for the diseased animals was begun Saturday. The new outbreak is in two herds in the Regina district. A third herd is regarded as likely infected and will be slaughtered.

About 95 cattle and 20 swine are involved. Dr. Kenneth Wells, senior federal veterinarian supervising control measures, said "clinical diagnosis indicated the new outbreak is definitely foot-and-mouth disease." Samples from the animals have been sent to the federal laboratories at Hull, Que.

The new outbreak was announced Saturday, the day after the slaughter of livestock from 22 farms and other infected premises had been completed—with the exception of one herd being kept alive for experimental purposes. In all, more than 1,100 cattle, sheep, swine and goats were shot in five slaughterings.

All three farms affected by the new outbreak are within a mile of the Regina city limits. One is north of the city and two are east.

First symptoms of the disease were found Friday. The nature of the symptoms was not disclosed officially but it is understood that some animals had begun frothing from the mouth, one of the most common symptoms of the virus infection.

Continue Close Check

Dr. Wells said Saturday that a continuing close check is being kept on all animals in the quarantined area, which now extends through 11 rural municipalities surrounding Regina city. He said only those animals which break out in foot-and-mouth symptoms and those known to have had direct contact with the disease will be shot.

Still to be slaughtered—besides the three herds involved in the new outbreak—are the 39 cattle in the dairy herd of Leonard Wass at McLean. It is on the Wass farm that the original outbreak is believed to have occurred last November. These animals are being kept alive temporarily to allow tests to establish virus types and immunity duration.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who arrived in Regina to confer with Saskatchewan leaders on the outbreak, said Sunday night he will ask the Manitoba government to lift its embargo on the passage of livestock through that province from the western ranges to eastern Canada.

The Minister said in an interview he is convinced after two days of observation here that cattle can be moved through Manitoba without danger of spreading the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

Saturday, Mr. Gardiner met with officers of the United Packinghouse Workers Union (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) Many union members have been laid off because of the lack of business for the packing firms as a result of the foot-and-mouth outbreak.

UN Planes Down 7 Enemy Jets

SEOUL, Korea, March 10 (AP)—Seven Communist jet fighters were blasted out of the North Korean skies today, the United States Fifth Air Force reported. The Reds were trying to break through a screen of U.S. Sabre Jets protecting U.N. fighter-bombers.

Thre other MIGs were damaged the air force reported.

It was the biggest bag since Jan. 25 when the Sabres shot down 14 MIGs in four battles. U.N. losses, if any, are not reported until the weekend.

The MIGs made three bold attempts to break through the Sabres and shoot up more than 100 fighter-bombers attacking a Communist rail line east of Sunchon in northwest Korea.

Ground action flared at only scattered points.

U.S. Eighth Army censors took the blanket of security off two more U.S. divisions. The U.S. 40th (California National Guard) division is on the central front south of Kumsong. It came to Korea recently from occupation duty in Japan. The U.S. 25th division with an attached Turkish brigade is dug in northwest of the punchbowl on the eastern front.

Saboteurs Blow Up Army Train, 85 Killed

SAIGON, Indo China, March 10 (Reuters).—Communist saboteurs blew up a French army train in Cambodia last Friday, killing 85 persons and wounding 20, it was learned here today.

Well-informed sources said the blast took place Friday 30 miles northwest of Pnompenh, capital of the Southern Indo-China State of Cambodia.

Saboteurs had loosened ties on the lines and planted explosives near the approach to a bridge. Fifteen cars were overturned by the explosion.

U.S. Has Developed Portable Hospital

OMAHA, March 10 (AP) — Strategic air command planners have developed a complete 36-bed hospital that can be packed in less than 500 cubic feet.

The hospital is complete with operating room and X-ray equipment. The whole thing weighs only 10,000 pounds.

Four men can load it into a C-54 transport plane in a few hours.

Stock Market Prices Make Little Headway

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—Stock market prices made little headway today in early afternoon dealings.

Trading opened briskly then tapered off. Industrial dealings shrank to leading issues but a few golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,810,000 shares.

Papers, constructions, banks and miscellaneous issues drew firm support to form industrials' strongest sections. Steels, foods and refining oils held gains and losses in balance but textiles, retail stores and manufacturing companies slipped.

Base metal losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Coldstream, East Sullivan, Minda-Scotia, Ontario Pyrites, Quebec Copper and United Keno Hill were among the losers. Consolidated Smelters and Quemont edged upward.

Western Oils were mixed as Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Gridoil, National Petroleum, Sapphire and Canadian Williston strengthened while Devon-Leduc, Home Oil, Trans Empire and Punch weakened.

Senior golds were firm as Domé, Kerr Addison, Lakeshore, Lamaque, and McIntyre climbed moderately. Secondary issues eased.

of the republic. It makes guarantees of safety to all."

Batista said his government was only a transitory one "which will give way to fair and honest elections at the soonest possible date."

Remove High Officials

"All high officials of the military forces have been relieved of their posts," he said. "We count on enthusiastic support throughout the country of all forces from captains on down."

Gen. Francisco Tabernilla, old-time friend of Batista, was reported temporary chief of the army, with headquarters in La Cabana, but Batista was expected to take that job on a permanent basis.

Newspaper circles mentioned Carlos Saladridgas, prime minister while Batista was president from 1940-44, as the probable successor to Prio as president.

New Police Chief

Lieut. Rafael Salas, a follower of Batista, took over police headquarters and announced: "I am a colonel now and chief of police."

Salas said Cubans were weary of gangsterism and graft and that army forces friendly to Batista had asked the veteran strong man of Cuban politics to take over.

Orders went out over police radios to retain several official automobiles—another indication that Batista forces were gaining control.

Socarras called upon all Cubans to resist Batista but after making the plea fled the palace.

Two guards were slain at the palace in the first outburst of violence.

Frederick N. Wrightly

HAVELOCK, March 10 (ENS).—The funeral of Frederick Nelson Wrightly, 63, of Smiths Falls, and formerly of Havelock, took place here Saturday afternoon under the auspices of Havelock L.O.L. No. 326 from the residence of his niece, Mrs. Grenville Rutherford, to the United Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. N. G. Newman. Burial was in Maple Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: M. Tysick, Henry Sexsmith, E. Hartwick of Smiths Falls, L. Sanderson, Geo. Outwater, and E. J. Leeson of Havelock. The flowerbearers were: Keith Green, E. Peterson, Clarence Barr of Smiths Falls, Bud Wrightly of Norwood, Anson Seabrook, W. Copp, Alex. Keene, Gerald Wrightly, Robert Wrightly, Ray Outwater, and Ray Wrightly of Havelock.

Mr. Wrightly died in his sleep Thursday morning. He had been in Havelock on Wednesday and left here on the 2 o'clock train on Thursday morning, arriving home about 5 a.m. The family thought he was sleeping and decided not to disturb him, but when his youngest son Neal went to call him about 11 a.m. he found his father had died.

Born in Belmont Township, Mr. Wrightly was a son of the late John Nelson Wrightly and Agnes Brean, and received his education at Preneveal and Old Havelock Schools. He was superannuated last fall as a conductor by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, after being 40 years in their service as a trainman. Prior to his removal to Smiths Falls nine years ago he lived all his life in Havelock and district. He was a member of the United Church, Havelock L.O.L. No. 326, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Surviving besides his widow, formerly Myrtle Bound, are one daughter Mrs. John Free (Madeline) of Campbellford, four sons Cecil in England, Clifford, Douglas and Neal of Smiths Falls, five brothers, Robert, Levi, Herbert, and Frank of Belmont Township, and Andrew of Norwood.

No Armistice With Threats

MUNSAN, Korea, March 10 (AP)—Allied negotiators today warned the Communists that threats and intimidation will not force the United Nations' command to accept Red terms for a Korean armistice.

"You cannot dictate the terms of an armistice and you cannot hope to achieve any progress in these meetings by resorting to threats and unfounded accusations," said Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby.

He said U.N. negotiators did not propose to "sit and listen" any further to repeated accusations that the Allied delegation was "telling lies."

Libby emphasized later, however, that he did not threaten to break off the tightly-deadlocked negotiations. He said the next move is up to the Reds.

Truce negotiators debating truce supervision met only long enough to agree to meet again Tuesday. They adjourned after six minutes.

Sutton Sets Up Fund To Help Delinquents

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Willie Sutton turned philanthropist today and set up a trust to combat juvenile delinquency and help rehabilitate ex-convicts.

The notorious holdup man and escape artist signed an "indenture and deed of trust," drawn up by his lawyers, setting up the "Willie Sutton Helping Hand Fund."

His debut into benevolence was announced by his lawyer, George Washington Herz, as police pushed a hunt for the killer of the young salesman, Arnold Schuster, whose tip led to Sutton's arrest.

Herz said Sutton has offers totalling $250,000 for book, magazine, movie and television rights to his life story.

In the document, Sutton says he is "cognizant that all his remaining years will be spent in prison walls."

tre of Castleton, three of the roads leading: east to Warkworth, and Campbellford, north toward Morganston and Hastings, and south toward Colborne. The fourth road leads a few feet west of the intersection to a dead end at a pond.

Slightly Confused

Mr. Isaac's service station is just east of the intersection, and the car pulled away and drove straight west, through the intersection. The driver stopped short after he saw the street lead nowhere. He backed up, sped north past the hotel, swung east, then south and west past the service station again. This time, he swung sharply south toward Colborne.

By this time, Mr. Isaac's suspicions were really aroused and he hurried into the house to check the story and pictures of Boyd and Jackson in his Saturday newspaper. Believing the men he had just seen in the car were the wanted gunmen, he went across the street to the telephone office. He first told his story to Jack Yardy, manager of the township telephone system who then telephoned OPP corporal Lloyd Lyle at Brighton.

Car Disappears

The car however, was not seen again. It is believed that if Boyd and Jackson were two of the trio in the car, they may have been trying to get from Highway 7 to Highway 2 or vice versa.

Mr. Yardy said he turned in the alarm at 12:05 and in the period that elapsed from the time when the car pulled away and the Brighton OPP detachment was notified, the car could have been through Cobourg. It is likely, that if the gunmen were in the car, they turned right, onto the Shelter Valley road, just south of Castleton and reached Highway 2 at Grafton.

Brother Worked There

The fact that Jackson's younger brother William worked for Jack Whitehouse, a farmer in the Castleton area for two years, 11 year ago, gave strength to the report. Sunday night, Mrs. Whitehouse said she believed the wanted man visited the brother who was a ward of the Bowmanville Training School while he was working for them, as she recognized his picture which has appeared since both gained notoriety as bank robbers.

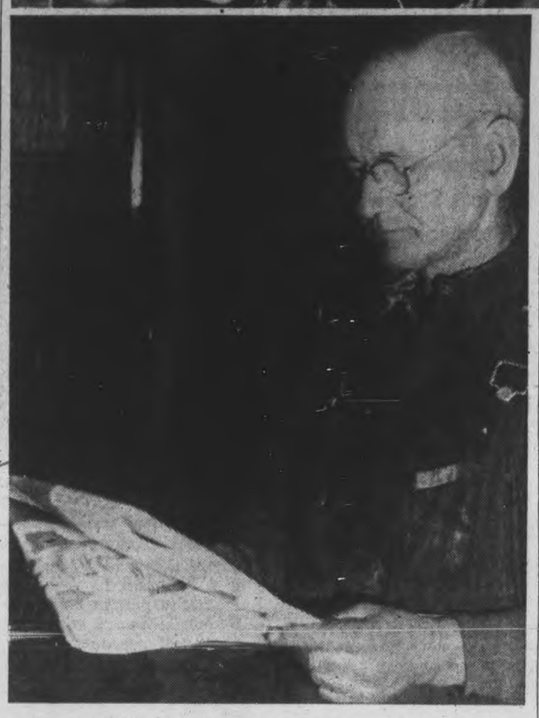
The younger Jackson, who escaped from Don Jail with Boyd and his brother has since been recaptured. He was convicted of the armed robbery of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Colborne a year ago. Some time after the bank in Colborne was robbed, it was learned that the bandits had holed up in an isolated shack near Castleton.

It was thought for a time Sunday afternoon, that Boyd and Jackson might be thinking of using the same deserted hideaway until the heat of pursuit cooled off.

However, no further reports of the car having been seen in the area were received, and the search in the Castleton area was called off at 8 p.m.

Twin Calves Born

HAVELOCK, Mar. 10 (ENS)—Twin bull calves were born on the farm of Councillor Gardner Gawley in Belmont township last week. The mother is also a twin. She is a Holstein while the sire is a Hereford. One calf has a black face while the other's face has red markings.



A TIP-OFF from service station operator Harry Isaac, (lower photo), touched off a hanhunt in the Castleton district, north of Colborne Sunday afternoon. Mr. Isaac became suspicious of a late model maroon car bearing Quebec licence plates which stopped for gas about noon. Believing two of the three men might be the gunmen wanted for the shooting of two Toronto detectives, he told his story to Jack Yardy, manager of the telephone office across the street. Mr. Yardy and switchboard operator Shirley Johnson (upper photo) notified the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Helicopter Lands On Sioux Deck

ESQUIMALT, B.C., March 11—(CP).—H.M.C.S. Sioux is probably the only destroyer in history ever to provide a landing space for a helicopter at sea.

The story of how she did it came to light as Sioux pulled in here Saturday from her latest Korean patrol. Her crew told how her afterdeck was cleared and strengthened off the Korean coast Feb. 8 to allow the landing of a helicopter bearing an emergency case.

Naval officials believe it is the first time an aircraft ever landed aboard a destroyer.

The Sioux was carrying out anti-invasion patrols among the islands off the west coast of Korea when she received a message reporting an emergency appendix case on one of the islands. But due to ice conditions, no boat could be sent ashore so a U.S. Army helicopter was sent in to pick up the unidentified patient.

A small helicopter made two landings first to test the deck. Then the larger helicopter bearing the patient gingerly but safely touched down after a practice run.

The patient was found to require an operation and Sioux set course for a British cruiser equipped with an operating room. The patient was transfered to the cruiser without a hitch.

British Press Hostile To Bevan Rebels

LONDON, March 10 (CP) — A sidelight on the left-wing revolt against Britain's rearmament program, led by Aneurin Bevan, is that virtually the entire British press is hostile to the rebels.

For more than a year since the first rumblings of dissent were heard the weight of editorial opinion has been solidly against the Bevan group, whose main claim is that the arms bill is too big.

Among daily newspapers, only the Communist Daily Worker has found common cause in what is known as "Bevanism."

In the weekly magazine field, the only noteworthy sanction has come from the left-wing New Statesman and Nation and from The Tribune, whose contributors are the principal supporters of Bevan in the House of Commons.

Strong Disapproval

Disapproval of rearmament-without-tears, on the other hand, has been consistently expressed not only by Conservative papers but by such independent publications as The Times, The Economist, and The Observer and by the independent Liberal Manchester Guardian and the Liberal News Chronicle.

The arguments of the Bevan group were first fully advanced last spring in a Tribune pamphlet. Entitled "One Way Only," it received suprisingly harsh treatment.

In recent weeks as the rearmament issue came increasingly to the fore, the Manchester Guardian and The Times warned leaders of the Labor party opposition against the dangers of bowing to the Bevan group—as it has often been expressed, "of allowing the tail to wag the dog."

Developments this week may show whether the Labor split is prominent or whether a compromise can be arranged.

Deep-Water Explosion Likely In New A-Tests

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) —A deep-water explosion of an atomic bomb appears probable in forthcoming tests at the Marshall Islands nuclear-weapons proving ground.

The atomic energy commission has tried out explosions under a variety of conditions — mid-air burst, surface explosion, underground and in shallow water. It has amassed a vast amount of data on what such basts will do to buildings, underground structures, weapons, ships anchored in harbor and to men.

But until it runs a test first planned and then abandoned in 1946 it will not know how effective would be a deep-water blast against a force of war ships or a convoy on the high seas.

The assumption is that at least some target ships will be used in the test, although instruments that record shocks, pressure, radiation and other effects could procide valuable data alone.

Ships On Hand

Without tapping its reserve fleet of useful vessels, the United States Navy has on hand a large number of ships which could be used.

The "Baker" test in Bikini Lagoon in 1946 produced formidable results; two battleships, a big carrier, three submarines and some small craft were sunk in a single blast.

But scientist believe a great deal of destructive force was lost because of the shallow depth of the lagoon—about 180 feet at the deepest point. Much of the bomb's power was expended in the spectacular column of water thrown up by the blast.

Scientists believe a deep underwater shot might produce far greater damage over a much wider area. This is because the full blasting power of the bomb would be held within the water and the shock transmitted to the hulls of ships. At Bikini some ships which escaped actual sinking were seriously damaged internally.

Eight Killed During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

A mid-air collision of two Vampire jet airplanes killed two reserve airmen and brought to eight the number of persons killed in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed six persons killed in Ontario, one in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia.

Besides the two air-crash victims, four persons died in traffic accidents, one beneath the wheels of a train and one at work.

FO. Robert Yates, 30, of Toronto and Wing Commander Alan E. Fleming, 30, of Port Credit, were on a routine training flight in Vampire jets of a Toronto reserve squadron 20 miles north of the city when their planes collided in flight.

Both were killed.

Killed In Collision

Another airman, Cpl. Peter Dorran of the R.C.A.F. station at Trenton, was killed in an automobile-dump truck collision that sheared the top off the car in which he was riding near the station.

Near Jamestown, Ont., 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ellis Cash, 24, was on his way home after a day in town when both his legs were cut off by a railway train. He died in hospital.

Clarence Nelson Bebee, 45, was crushed to death at Peterborough when the cement loader he was driving turned over on him. Bert Stewart of Whitby was killed at Oshawa when he was thrown out as his automobile rolled down an embankment.

In Quebec province, Marilyn Coates, 4, was struck and fatally injured by a snow removal truck in Sherbrooke.

At Maitland, N.S., Mrs. Winnifred Barry, 58, was killed when the truck in which she was riding was struck by a train.

Alnwick School Board Buys 50-Passenger Bus

ROSENEATH, March 10 (ENS) —Members of the Alnwick Township School Board have purchased a new 50-passenger school bus to transport pupils to Cobourg collegiate.

The pupils from Alderville Reservation and Fenella school went on a bus to Cobourg operated by Carter Bus Service. That service for school pupils was discontinued this month.

The new bus can accommodate the pupils from Alnwick, Alderville and Fenella schools.

Members of the school board are: Ross McCracken, Harold Davidson, James L. Timlin, Frank Adams and Lloyd Parker.

Neil Sherwin is hired by the school board to drive the bus this year.

We'll extend our schedules, because we won't have to declare winners for provincial playoffs, and it if works out we'll continue our leave of absence indefinitely."

Union Officials Ask Ban Ease

VANCOUVER, March 10 (CP) —A delegation of Packinghouse Union officials leave for Victoria today to ask Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman to remove the ban on the shipment of prairie livestock into British Columbia.

"We are laying the responsibility for the lost wages of our workers directly at the door of the B.C. government," said Bill Symington, field representative for the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.C.L.)

The ban on shipment of prairie cattle into B.C. was put into effect shortly after the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

The union said at least 35 employees of city packinghouses are out of work as a result of the ban and still more face unemployment.

In Victoria, Mr. Bowman said: "There is no immediate prospect of relaxing the ban. Nothing will be done until we have definite assurance that the disease is entirely restricted to the quarantine area."

It Never Works

The Russians, we read, have been burning books in the Soviet zone of Germany. To the Germans it must seem like old times, when Hitler sought to enchain the minds of men by burning books which did not support his particular brand of nonsense. And to the Spirit of History, brooding over Europe, the bonfires must have a familiar smell, for books have been burning there for hundreds of years. And yet, somehow, enlightened ideas, and other ideas which are not so enlightened get about, and are understood and acted upon by people who are not content to believe precisely what they are told.

The Russians are said to have burned six millions of books recently, collected from schools, public libraries, booksellers and publishers. The condemned books are those which are thought to contain capitalistic Western notions. We are surprised that the pile is not bigger. For capitalism, despite its sins, has been the economic background of some of the most remarkable advances in history. Those advances were sometimes made possible by the kind of freedom which capitalism engenders; sometimes they were made necessary by the evils which capitalism brings in its train. For no economic or political system is perfect; it is possible to argue effectively in favour of feudalism, or slavery, but the good which feudalism and slavery brought with them has remained, in great part, and the evil has passed away. So it will be with capitalism, no doubt, when enough time has passed for us to see it in historical perspective.

Only fools and zealots believe in infallible systems, like Communism or Nazism. And in their foolish zeal they will commit every sort of crime and endorse every possible sin against humanity. The destruction of books is, all things considered, one of their less heinous crimes, for books can always be reprinted, or re-written, if need be. But it is sad to see men so silly and so short-sighted that they think they have achieved something when they have burned some books. Have the Russians already forgotten Hitler?

Brandon Not Alarmed

The foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan is not putting Brandon's nose out of joint or its tongue in its cheek. Officials of the Manitoba Winter Fair, held at Brandon, have decided to continue their preparations to hold the annual show of livestock and whatever else is shown at the Winter Fair.

The Brandon Sun remarks that: "The reasoning behind the decision is sound. There are competent authorities to decide what should and what should not be done to prevent spread of the foot and mouth disease and the board intends to carry on as usual until such time as these authorities advise differently. The implications of the outbreak of this disease in Canada are extremely serious, but ill-considered actions or actions prompted by panic on the part of individual groups could make the situation even more serious. The livestock industry has already been disrupted and further disruption may be necessary before the danger is completely averted."

It seems, actually, that the disease is under good control and that there is no need to panic.

The Weakness Of The Franc

Before the Great War the French franc was worth twenty cents. In the middle thirties it was worth six cents. During the last war an artificial value of one cent was given it. Two years ago a franc was worth a third of a cent. Today the banks offer 350 francs for an American dollar but a visitor can get 450 for his dollar at a street corner.

Frenchmen themselves have no confidence at all in their money. Those to whom dollars are owing (business firms as well as individuals) try to postpone collection. Those who owe debts in dollars want to pay them as quickly as they can before the franc depreciates further.

The last Government discovered itself short of both francs and dollars. It has been overspending at home and abroad—abroad in the costly Indo-China war, and at home in Europe in re-arming as a NATO country. France has found it cannot any longer afford the Indo-China war, and it has given notice that it cannot meet its NATO obligations. At the same time, the last Government tried to increase most taxes by fifteen per cent. The Government fell on the issue.

Frenchmen are not only unwilling to pay the extra fifteen per cent; they are also evading in wholesome ways, the payment of taxes already due. The people have no confidence that their tax money is being put to proper use; that the finances of France are anything but chaotic; that the economic direction of the country has been sound or good. The ruination of the franc (such inflation as France has had of course wiped out savings and reduced to worthless paper Government bonds and life insurance) could be the ruination of France. The instability of its numerous governments is a sign of insecurity throughout the country.

The Premiership of M. Antoine Pinay, a conservative businessman, may restore some confidence in French securities and the franc, but without a stable and strong administration of the departments of finance and taxation, and more floods of American dollars, the new Government cannot save the situation. Without a basic reform in the parliamentary structure, can any salvation be achieved? Under the present electoral system of the Fourth Republic, no government has enough power to take and enforce strong policies.

Prescription For Voters In New Hampshire Primary

The first Presidential primary in the United States is to be held in New Hampshire tomorrow, and the campaign there is being waged vigorously. For readers unfamiliar with United States political procedure, a primary is a preliminary election in which delegates to political conventions or candidates for office are nominated directly by the voters of a state. Not all states hold primaries; many still nominate by state convention. Success in a primary, of course, is no guarantee of nomination at a national convention nor of election to office, although it is almost invariably an accurate reflection of state voting strength. For this reason, great importance is attached to the results, and primary campaigns often produce interesting situations.

One of these has been developed in New Hampshire, involving the men of medicine with the men of politics. Dr. Read Lewin, president of the New Hampshire Medical Association, obviously convinced that Senator Robert Taft of Ohio should be the next President of the United States, is the head of a group named "The Doctors State Committee for Taft for President." And to all his fellow doctors, Dr. Lewin sent a mimeographed letter containing the following:

"Dear Doctor—

"Most New Hampshire physicians are concerned, as are other citizens, over the need for better government. Doctors have proved they can do something about it—and in many communities about the nation are being looked to for leadership toward that goal.

This committee represents doctors who have come to the conclusion that Senator Robert A. Taft is the best man for the Presidency."

This political prescription goes on to list Senator Taft's talents, including "strong and absolute opposition to socialized medicine and other socialistic projects." It then asks New Hampshire doctors:

"Will you authorize a letter similar to the above to be attached to go to all your patients on your own letterhead and in your own envelope? If you can do this in your own office it will be of tremendous help. If you are unable to do this work—and will send us a list of your patients, or place a mark after their names in your city or phone directories, and send them to us—we will prepare them for mailing."

The form letter the doctors were asked to foist upon their patients read as follows:

"To my friend and patient, from your doctor:

"I do not know very much about your political views. I only know that you have been a valued patient of mine and certainly are as interested as I in the imperative need for better government in this land of ours.

"There are several good and honest men whose names are being considered as candidates for President. I am going to vote for Senator Taft largely because I believe he is the one man who can clean up the corruption we all know now exists in many of the top branches of Government.

"I do not believe that anyone can do the thorough job of housecleaning that needs to be done in Washington if he is obliged in any way to the present Administration. Senator Taft is not so obligated.

"There is no stronger foe of Socialism in our country than Senator Taft—for the welfare of the country we all love I hope with all my heart that you cast your vote for Senator Taft March 11.

"Most sincerely,

Your Doctor.

"P.S.—For your convenience I am enclosing a card with the list of candidates supporting Senator Taft. I hope you will find this list helpful on election day."

Doctors have as much right as anyone to work for a preferred candidate, but this method strikes us as highly improper. Many New Hampshire doctors apparently felt that way about it, too, since only a minority are said to have mailed the form letters. And reports say that the general reaction to the letters has been resentment and considerable loss of Republican strength, which is not surprising. From what we know of them, the people of New Hampshire will vote by conviction and not by prescription.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Commenting on an advertisement for "evaporated goat's milk," the Ottawa Citizen says "The evaporated goat is new in our book." The Ottawa purist probably insists on "goat's evaporated milk," though goats which produce milk in this handy form are uncommon.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

I AM AFRAID that there are still some people about who are impressed by mere size. The bigger the better, that is their motto. While this criterion may be valid in the case of fish caught in the local lakes and rivers it is dangerous in the case of the arts. Salisbury Cathedral impresses because of the exquisite grace of its form and the purity of its style, which harmonizes so well with its setting, rather than the crude fact that it is the tallest building in the British Isles. Its proportions are so perfect that one forgets its size. To be sure, size sometimes conveys an impression of grandeur that would be absent in a miniature reproduction, as in the case of the Great Pyramid, which is a contemptible object if reduced to the size of a paperweight. All the same I would rather read a perfect sonnet than a dull epic. The difference between a Mozart and a Beethoven symphony is not to be compared with the difference between a six-cylinder and an eight-cylinder car, and yet some critics are still working on this assumption.

THIS CRAVING for size has created monstrosities in performance. Elizabethan madrigals, designed to be sung or played by a handful of people for their own enjoyment, are sung at times by large choirs of over a hundred singers in enormous concert halls. Under such conditions the intimate charm of madrigals vanishes and audiences are disillusioned because they can't hear the words, always a difficulty with large choirs. Of course the ideal is to have no audience at all in the accepted sense, but rather an intimate gathering of friends, some of whom sing, while others are content to listen. There should be the feeling amongst everybody, singers and listeners alike, of being at a party: the watertight division between performers and audience should be broken down.

THE DIAPASON, the leading American periodical dedicated exclusively to "the organ and the interests of organists", has just published for the tenth consecutive year an analysis of programmes of organ recitals in the States based on 11,161 programme numbers. What impresses one chiefly is the high quality of the most popular selections. Gone are the days when shoddy and showy pieces were in vogue. Bach is the most popular by a long way, with no less than 2,744 performances. His nearest rival, Handel, is far behind with 501, followed by Franck with 327, Vierne with 262 and Mendelssohn, who has regained a certain popularity, with 244. America has always been friendly to French music, and it is not, therefore, surprising that French composers are represented more fully than any other country if one treats Bach and Handel separately. In this connection it is not clear whether a composer such as Milhaud, born in France but now resident in the States, is counted as French or American, or whether Franck is counted as French or Belgian. It is perhaps significant that four out of the five favourite composers are not simply organ composers. The only name that is familiar to organists alone is that of Vierne (1870-1937), a pupil of Franck and Widor, who later became organist of the cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris. In spite of being blind he composed a good deal of music which owed a certain amount to the impressionist school of Debussy. His improvisation at the organ was celebrated.

Healey Willan, the only Canadian mentioned individually in this analysis, received 41 performances. Needless to say the most popular number of all was Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor, with 83 performances, followed closely by Cesar Franck's Chorale in A minor with 79. Franck's organ music reveals the heart of the composer more than any other facet of his genius, and deserves to be better known to the general musical public. He was first and foremost a church organist, and this shows itself in all his output. A knowledge of his organ works leads to a deeper understanding of the symphony in D minor, which at times takes on the aspect of an organ improvisation.

DR. LESLIE BELL (of the Leslie Bell Singers) and Dr. Leo Smith, who write musical columns in two of the leading Toronto dailies, are at cross-purposes on the nature of good music. Dr. Bell rejects the current terms "popular" and "classical", pointing out that there is no real antithesis between the two: many classics are also popular and vice versa. Moreover "it all depends on what you mean by the words popular and classical". He agrees with Spaeth that a more sensible classification is provided by the words "permanent" and "impermanent". This as all right as far as it goes, but I cannot help feeling that there are weaknesses in it. In the first place it provides us with no means of making up our minds on the goodness or otherwise of contemporary music: presumably we must just sit back for fifty years and see what happens: then we accept the opinion of the majority—if we are still alive! There is another difficulty. If the musical (?) public, by a mysterious exercise of their democratic privileges, has relegated certain composers to oblivion the assumption is that their works lack greatness. Then somebody comes along and rescues them from musty libraries and gives them a new lease of life. Are they better now than they were fifty years ago? This is not just a trick question: it has happened several times, notably in the case of Bach and the Elizabethan composers. Doubtless many more composers, forgotten today, remain to be unearthed.

LEO SMITH goes nearer to the heart of the matter. He is in agreement with Leslie Bell as far as permanence is concerned, but he adds thereto a number of important points. In the first place he equates permanence with quality, because quality alone endures the test of time. To sum up, quality entails avoidance of the obvious: there is thought in great music. "When we repeat the obvious it becomes odious. Such music is bad." By the obvious I take it that Dr. Smith means those catch-words and cliches, harmonic and melodic, that make bad music sound cheap and secondhand, rather than the obviousness, for want of a better word, of Handel as typified in the Hallelujah Chorus. Here the simplest progressions are used with telling effect. Handel's monumental simplicity is akin in spirit to the majestic nudity of Greek sculpture.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Peterborough Collegiate Choir on their successes at the Toronto Kiwanis Festival. Great credit is due to their present director for his work in the past few years. A good choir may be ruined in a month, but it takes time to build it up.

NOTE—I regret that owing to a slight misunderstanding my last article received some editorial "touching up" which made nonsense of the first part. The first three paragraphs referred, of course, to Stanford, not to Parry.

An American Opinion: TRIUMPH OF BRAINS OVER BRAWN

Letters To The Editor

CALLS FOR AN ENQUIRY

Sir: Is it possible that our straying dogs receive more humane treatment than the Fred Brants of the district.

An inquiry could not mend this young man's feet, but it might possibly prevent a repetition of such barbarity.

Yours truly,
N. PIERCE

MORAL RESPONSIBILITY

Sir: On March 5th issue there appeared an article by Don Swain dealing with the episode of a young man age twenty four, who was recently sentenced to prison on a period of ten days on the nominal charge of vagrancy. Upon his release from prison, he was taken by the police and escorted a distance of five miles beyond the city. From there on, this young man was free once again to walk Her Majesty's Highway.

Mr. Swain's article stated quite clearly this poor chap's circumstances. Mention was also made of the climatic temperature on that particular day. It appears this young man was not equipped with suitable clothing to protect his body from the elements and, it was stated that no person living by Her Majesty's Highway saw fit to render sympathetic aid to this unfortunate person and, as a result of rebuffs, he was fated to pursue his wanderings until such time when exhaustion overcame his spirit. He returned to the city and sought shelter at police-headquarters. He was once again brought before the magistrate and sentenced to five days' imprisonment. Shortly after his admission, he complained of pains in his feet and upon examination by the prison doctor, it was discovered he had frozen feet. He was removed to hospital and underwent an amputation operation for one foot. There is also danger of the second foot having to undergo a similar operation.

This article of Mr. Swain's has touched the writer's feelings very deeply. It is tragic indeed, that this young man should be physically handicapped for the rest of his life due to no fault of his own. No matter what attention, however skilful, he may receive from the hospital where he is at present confined, he will never emerge from the depths of resentment which this cold callous world has brought upon his soul.

Here, there and everywhere, man is complaining of the selfishness and indifference which exists in the hearts of mankind. The press, the radio and the churches constantly remind us of our responsibilities to our fellowman and yet right at our very doorstep, we turn aside from our moral responsibility and ignore the commands as laid down by the Great Master Jesus. I'm quite sure that had this young man approached Jesus in that grave state of physical suffering Jesus would not have questioned his background but would have extended a helping hand without embarrassment to the seeker.

Mr. Editor, would you some time write an article on Love in relation to 'Man's Responsibilities to Man'. There are many fine gentlemen here and there throughout the world, whom I'm sure would appreciate a contribution from you through the medium of your Journal.

ALBERT J. J. STRANGE.

DARE WE WASH OUR HANDS?

Sir: And now abideth, faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

Can it be possible that Peterborough, our city, is lacking in "the greatest of these"?

It was with interest, then sorrow and finally with disgust that I read the article about Fred Brant in the Wednesday, March 5th issue of the Peterborough Examiner.

Where lies the blame? Is there no justice, no mercy, no charity in the Police Court of this city? How can one believe there is when a 'young man homeless, jobless, without money or friends is taken from the jail, put in a police cruiser, and driven five miles out into the country and dropped like a stray dog or cat. Worse even than that. An animal can hunt its living and find some sort of shelter. It is also protected by a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head."

To do this to a citizen of Canada—a young man who in time may have been called upon to help preserve the ideals of his country by being maimed or giving his life's blood on some foreign battle field.

Where speaks this deed of Charity, Mercy or Justice? Had he been maimed for life in line of duty for his country he would have been a hero. He would have been duly compensated by his country. What has he to look forward to now? To spend the rest of his days a cripple? Why? Every Christian who read that article should be asking the same question! Why?

The answer I would give is this: "Because the men is whose hands is placed the power to administer justice simply cannot be bothered to follow it up with money and with charity". All of us know that there are proper places in this city for this sort of a case to be handled. Was any one of them approached? No—it would have caused too much inconvenience to go to that much bother for a fellow-man.

So, they turn a man out scantily clothed, no prospect of food or shelter in cold weather. How many times have they probably said, "I wouldn't turn a dog out in this weather"!

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

These men, to whom is allotted the great task of administering justice in this city, should get out their Bibles and read the 13th Chapter of the First Epistle of Paul, the Apostle, to the Corinthians. This one chapter should give them ample food for thought. Show them that their ideal of justice, unless it is tempered with mercy and charity, becomes plain, ugly injustice.

The city is bewailing that fact that it is costing $6.75 a day for hospitalization and medical treatment. Perhaps it would be a wise idea for the bewailers to ponder for a moment on the reason that Fred Brant is in hospital needing medical treatment. Very little time would be needed to place the blame exactly where it belongs.

Where? Fellow citizens, your answer to that is no doubt, the same as mine.

Should we stand idly by and let a case of this kind repeat itself? Once upon a time there was man who "Washed his hands'. Dare we do the same? We dare not! We, as citizens have the right to demand that our courts when called upon to administer justice are compelled to temper it with mercy and with charity.

To the court that administered this so called justice I suppose the case was just another 'trivial' affair. But it may become a veritable Frankenstein!

PRAISES SALVATION ARMY

Sir: Reading in your paper Wednesday night about Fred Brant who has been in the hospital since sometime in January, and now has one foot amputated, and the other foot to be operated on, I couldn't help but think how thoughtless some people are. This boy without money and friends being driven out into the city outskirts and dumped off to pitch for himself, sounds as if he was just as an unwanted dog.

It doesn't give the policeman's name who did this, but he should have a guilty conscience when he read of what happened to the boy.

This is a sad world we live in. But thank God there was someone who took an interest in this boy. The Salvation Army of Peterborough is doing a wonderful job, and are always ready to help anyone in need. I am sure they will be rewarded in that coming day, and it will be said of them "Well done Thou Good and Faithful Servant.'

Thank you, Mr. Editor,

H. W. S.

CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION

Sir: Your paper of March 5th. carried a front page story. Here was tragedy in its most heart-breaking form.

Let us review in brief the details of this incident. A young man in his early twenties was guilty of being misfortunate enough to have no employment, no funds, and like the Son of Man, no place to lay his head. For this offence, our Christian Society demanded he should be punished under the laws, which are as outdated as the ox and cart.

To the stone pile on the hill, he was confined for 10 days, there to ponder and pay penance, for daring to offend Society in the above mentioned manner.

On his release, our upholders of law, order and good government, placed this unfortunate man, or should we say "boy", in their well-heated car and took him out on the highway where he was dumped as unceremoniously as a cat or dog—would we do this to a cat or dog?

It was an extremely cold day in January and as a result this poorly clothed citizen of Canada, suffered frostbite to his feet, which will undoubtedly leave him a cripple for the rest of his life.

Who is responsible for this tragedy? The Judge who sentenced him, the police department or, maybe Society as a whole, is guilty in part?

Mr. Editor, you have a duty to Society, as the Editor of our Community paper. You have fulfilled in part, that duty and obligation, by the publication of this story, but are you prepared to complete your duty, to the public and this unfortunate man, by using the columns of your paper to protest to high Heaven, the high-handed, cruel and unsocial method, adopted by the police in this matter.

Will you call for a complete investigation by the City Council into the administration of the police department, and to find out who authorized the police officers to take the action they did?

I would further suggest, Mr. Editor, that some courageous lawyer, step forward and volunteer to act as legal counsel for this lad with a view to taking the legal steps necessary to institute civil action for adequate compensation.

I trust, Mr. Editor, that you will publish this letter, to help right the great wrong.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul that I may shew the kindness of God unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is lame on his feet . . .Now when Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant!

And David said unto him, Fear not: for I will surely shew thee kindness for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father; and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually . . .

Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him, I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul and to all his house . . . Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons. (II Sam. 9: 3, 6, 7, 9, 11.)

Number Ten

(Frank Lambe in The Victoria Colonist)

No one will ever see Mr. Winston Churchill, Britain's Prime Minister, insert a key into the door of No. 10 Downing Street. There is no lock into which a key can be inserted, though there are of course bolts on the inside of the door, and a doorkeeper is always on duty. This is one of the many quaint things about which is probably the most famous private house in the world.

Downing Street was named after Sir George Downing, a 17th Century aristocrat who was given a grant of land that had once been the cock-pit of Whitehall Palace. Instead of building himself a solitary mansion and converting the rest of the ground into park land, Downing decided to build several houses "suitable for persons of honor and quality". The house he built for himself is the present No. 10.

Downing's descendants lived at No. 10 until the baronetcy became extinct in the early 1700's. In 1732 George II offered it to his Prime Minister, Sir Robert Walpole, who accepted it on condition that he should occupy it not as a private citizen but by virtue of his office.

Some occupants have liked the place; others have vilified it. Mrs. Attlee, who lately moved out, sighed as she regretted the loss of "our lovely home," although Mrs. Churchill's reactions remain a mystery. Yet Dame Margaret Lloyd George called it "a dingy place, old and dark," and complained that "it gets dirty very quickly and is not convenient in any way." Stanley Baldwin found that an "enormous" bill had to be paid for gas and electricity to keep the house properly warmed and lighted, while Margot Asquith said: "It has little of general atmosphere, color or beauty."

On the other hand Mrs. Neville Chamberlain sensed a definite atmosphere here. She said: "You divine at once a feeling of dedication and higher responsibility," but, practically, she installed in the vast basement kitchen a new gas cooker.

From the outside, No. 10 presents the same flat facade that Sir George Downing must have known. The street number is boldly painted on the black door, and underneath is the famous heavy iron knocker moulded in the shape of a lion's head with a massive ring in its jaws. How many sensation-seekers, one wonders, have tiptoed up to the door and touched this same knocker, and then crept away to boast of it to their friends?

ALL DEPENDS

Said defending counsel to the witness: "You have known the accused a long time?"

"Twenty-odd years," was the reply.

"And you think him perfectly honest?"

"Perfectly!"

"Would you trust him with your own money?"

"I certainly would."

"Then tell me—do you consider it likely he would have stolen this sum of money, as the prosecution alleges?"

"I consider it most unlikely—impossible—that is—er—well, how much was it?"

Compel Reserve Soldiers To Train On Own Jobs

OTTAWA, March 10 — (CP) — The army is tightening up its rules in an effort to make sure that reserve or part-time soldiers train for their own jobs and don't spend their time at something else.

One of the features of new regulations passed recently is that the commanding officer of a regiment which goes to summer camp no longer has final authority to approve exemptions from duty by his soldiers there.

The final authority now rests with the camp commandant. The aim is to try to keep soldiers training for their own specific jobs instead of spending their time as batmen, cooks, or in other non-training spots.

The final blow is that the man does not get paid unless he does do his own job—unless the camp commandant says he can skip the training to do something else.

Hint Ottawa May Ease Credit Curbs

By The Canadian Press

The decline in living costs during January gives rise to the possibility that the federal government may soon consider further easing of its consumer credit restrictions.

But just how soon, or what pattern the reductions may follow, are still matters for conjecture. The government has given no clues what its next step will be.

However, Finance Minister Abbott dropped a hint of the government's general policy when he announced reductions in the restrictions last January, extending the time-to-pay on installment buying to 18 months from 12.

From time to time, he said, the government would consider further cuts in the restrictions, depending on how the country fared in its fight against inflation.

Appears To Be Slowed

If inflationary pressures eased, further reductions would be considered. If inflationary pressures increased, the government would not hesitate to tighten up restrictions again.

Government economists believe prices may strengthen toward the end of 1952 as defence purchases in Canada and the United States move towards a peak.

But for the moment, the inflationary gallop which almost doubled prices from their 1939 standing appears to have been slowed if not arrested.

It appears likely that if the federal government is to make any realistic move for further reductions, it may well in the field of down payments which in Canada seem tougher than in the U.S. and U.K.

Victoria Warmly Welcomes Crew Of Destroyer Sioux

VICTORIA, B.C., March 10 — (CP)—Sweethearts, relatives and friends Saturday gave a tumultuous welcome to H.M.C.S. Sioux on her return home from nine and a half months in the Far East.

The destroyer had completed her second tour of duty with Canadian naval forces in the Korean war theatre.

It was a year ago when Sioux returned from her first Korean tour. The second tour of duty for Sioux showed much more action than the first, Commander Paul Taylor revealed.

On the first tour Sioux was never under enemy fire. This time she was under fire on five occasions and more than once was straddled by shells from enemy shore positions.

Some members of the crew have shrapnel pieces as souvenirs. But the Sioux carries no battle scars.

Commander Taylor compared Sioux's first and second tours thus: Days at sea, first tour 165, second tour 223; miles steamed 49,000 and 65,000; times under fire, none and five; bombardments four and 151. Rounds fired in action, 156 and 2,898.

"It's time Pop knew some of the facts of life!"

Funny thing about parents. They can be so smart about some things — and blind to other things.

Take my Pop, for instance. When I first bowed into this confusing world, he was wise enough to take out more life insurance. Now, if anything happens to him, Mom will still have money for groceries and rent. And I can go on playing here, instead of at some nursery while Mother earns a living.

For that, I give Pop full credit. Yet he's always complaining about how tough it is to save more money these days. Why can't he see that he can use life insurance—with its system for putting money aside regularly—to reach other goals. That way, saving's as easy as sucking a toe!

An[illegible]onomic conditions in this great nation of ours, one fact is increasingly evident! Every dollar that's saved helps to check inflation. So we should all save as much as we can, every way we can.

That's what I'm going to tell Pop. And if he doesn't listen to reason, I'll just drool all over his new tie!

Life insurance dollars serve you these other ways:

A large part of every life insurance dollar is put to work in investments that bring you—and all other Canadians — extra benefits.

Hundreds of millions of these dollars have been used in this way, helping to provide new schools, highways, power plants, oil pipelines, homes and many other vital projects that raise living standards.

Today, by their thrifty habit of paying life insurance premiums regularly, nearly five million Canadians are providing security for their families . . . working to check inflation . . . and promoting progress throughout the nation!

Kingston Downs Eagles Before 1,859 Fans In Semi-Final Puck Tilt

KINGSTON, March 10.—Strategy or something backfired here on Saturday night when the Peterborough Eagles used the services of five junior "B" players against the strengthened Sacs and absorbed a 10 to 4 drubbing in the opening game of the best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" semi-finals. The visitors made it a close battle until past the half-way mark and then collapsed with a thud. The crowd (the paid attendance was a seasonal record of 1859) exhibited keen interest in the drama unfolded before them when Sammy MacDonald, an experienced goalkeeper from the Maritimes, made his debut and when the firing was over it was unanimously agreed that the newcomer knows those answers. He was voted the first star while the second went to Don Murray and the third to speedy George MacGregor, who had recommended MacDonald to the Sac management. MacDonald wasn't subjected to the persistent sniping that assailed the visiting cageman but he did make many difficult saves while showing the coolness and nonchalance of a professional. The shots that beat him, three by Hill and the other by Crowley, were delivered from close range and were labelled all the way.

FINE SHOWING — Bert Hill put up a fine showing in a losing cause Saturday in Kingston as he scored three goals. However, the K's took a 10-4 senior "B" playoff win to start semi-finals.

Team play had its inning in this outing and to such extent that no less than 12 of the 13 local skaters figured in the point-getting. Only the hard-checking Bud Goodfellow went empty-handed but he did scintillate defensively.

Worked Hard

The five juniors wearing Eagles' regalia worked with determination and executed smart moves but did not figure in the scoring summary.

The first string line composed of regulars did all the tallying while the dynamic Monty Montgomery added an assist. Hill, sparking the attacks, got three well-earned goals and an assist while Crowley had one and one and Vitarelli two assists.

It was a cleanly played tilt with each team drawing four minor penalties. Jensen of the Eagles topped the offenders with two. The Eagles protested several decisions or lack of same with the usual negative results.

Murray, the Perth flash, scored the opening goal when he relieved Fred Mortimer of the puck in front of the Peterborough net and beat Nicholls from close range. The junior line then swung into action and bottled up the Sacs for two minutes but MacDonald handled the shots with ease. The Eagles did a bit of flying too and reaped a reward when Hill soloed for their first counter. MacGregor made a thrilling end to end dash, faked a defender out of position but was balked by Nicholls. Another promising Kingston attack was stopped when Richlark held Larmer. The Eagles' youngsters kept stepping along briskly but lacked the payoff punch. Vitarelli drew the first penalty.

Scored Early

The Sacs struck swiftly when the second session opened and at the 51-second mark Gabby White scored with Cliff Aitken and Murray drawing assists. Twist of the Eagles was penalized for an accidental trip and Stan Stewart joined him when charged with interference. Two returned before Aitken was banished for interference. Both teams were at full strength when MacGregor, aided by Bender and Larmer, hit the webbing. Mulholland, attacking with Larmer and MacGregor, made it 4 to 1 at 14:10. Hill replied in a space of 58 seconds. Jensen drew a penalty for holding and while he was away Joey Catlin brought the fans to their feet when he scored from directly in front of the goal crease. Tinkess and Wagar figured in the assault.

Early in the last period Sweetman lengthened the Sac lead in a three-way attack with White and Murray. Then Hill completed the hat trick with Vitarelli and Montgomery his assistants. In jig time MacGregor got that one [illegible] Mulholland, duplicated the feat at 15.27 and Murray, who took a pass from Aitken brought the local tallying to a close. With time running out a Hill to Vitarelli to Crowley attack rang down the curtain.

Although the visitors served only four penalties three goals were scored against them while they were short-handed. The Sacs also spent eight minutes on the bench but kept their net clear of rubber while they were undermanned. The Eagles were definitely below expectations in the Saturday going whereas the locals were more potent than in previous starts. The Eagles' defence was away below par and in adversity Monty Montgomery had to shoulder most of the burden.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, Hill; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, T. Mortimer, R. Stewart, Jensen, Coyle, Heffernan, Twist, Munro and Richlark.

Sacs: Goal, MacDonald; defence, S. Stewart and Bender; centre, MacGregor; wings, Mulholland and Larmer, alternates, White, Murray, Aitken, Catlin, Tinkess, Wagar, Goodfellow and Sweetman.

Referees—Jim Crombie and Louis Lecompte.

Marines Edged By A Goal In Semi-Finals

Outboard Marines, Eastern Ontario juvenile hockey champions, lost a 1-0 decision to Downsview Spitfires at New Toronto Sunday afternoon. It was the first game of the third round, the locals having previously eliminated Oshawa and Belleville. The second game of the home-and-home semi-final series will be played here Thursday night.

It was a sizzling, mile-a-minute game that saw both teams totally exhausted at the close. The visitors faced a heavy, fast, well-balanced team with a corking goalie, and the Downsview team was right at home on the huge ice surface which is 16 feet wider and 30 feet longer than Civic Arena.

Marines held the homesters scoreless for 52 minutes of play, when Terry Dolan, left-winger, whipped the puck past Delahaye from close in after passes from C. McCarthy, and Blair Graham. Incidentally, Graham has many relatives in Peterborough as his mother is the former Marion Hopkins of this city. That was the only goal of the game.

Big Ice Surface

Marines found the big ice surface bewildering, and with their fast centre man, Gary Kearns, recuperating from a week of the measles, matched the homesters with some beautiful back-checking and solid defensive work. The Downsview players used a wide sweeping passing system that was effective, and they caromed the puck off the curved corners of the rink, when blocked by a winger at the blueline. Delahaye smothered shots from every angle and kicked out several that came at him through a maze of players or through their legs.

Downsview drew 14 of the 20 penalties including a five minute misconduct, and used their weight liberally against the lighter Marines. The dominated play in the first period, holding the Marines inside their own blueline, but found Delahaye unbeatable. The middle period was about even, but in the final minutes of play, Marines carried the fight to Downsview's doorstep, and on five tries drove the puck at Buchanan in the homesters' net. He played superb hockey, turning all thrusts aside.

Kenny Pammett played his best game of the year for the Marines, while Corbett, Kearns, McGrath, Cupoli and Frizzelle all turned in fine performances. Frank McGillen, the heaviest player on the Marines' team, stopped every opponent who came his way, while Murray Byrne and Bob McCormick snared the puck time and again when the homesters were threatening. Dodds got a painful body blow, but should be o.k. for Thursday's game. Spencer, perhaps the lightest player for the losers, was bounced around by the opposing defence, and Lavergne Jones, on defence for Marines, found his heavier opponents tough.

Downsview's best line was McCarthy, Dolan and Graham, with McLean, Smith and Gleed also showing up well. Greenan on defence played superlative hockey but weakened his performance by rough play.

The teams:

Downsview: Buchanan, goal; Greenan and Cheu, defence; McLean, centre; Smith and Gleed, wings; alternates, Dolan, McCarthy, Fellman, Pulford and Graham.

Marines: Delahaye, goal; McGillen and Byrne, defence; Kearns, centre; Frizzelle and Dodds, wings; alternates, Corbett, Pammett, Doris, McGrath, Spencer, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Referees: J. McErlain and Bill Glover.

"Y" Cagers Victors

Oshawa Mormons tumbled 92-62 in a wide open, fast exhibition basketball game to the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. quintet Saturday night at the "Y" gym.

Armed with only five men, the Oshawa quintet managed to hold the Y.M.C.A. cagers to an 11-6 score in the first quarter and 34-25 at half-time. But they quickly tired and fell behind at the three-quarter mark and collapsed in the fourth.

Besides the additional manpower, the Y.M.C.A. quintet had the superior height of Hugh Dibben and Bill Trimm. The Peterborough cagers worked a zone defence and when Oshawa's wild, long shots rebounded, Trimm and Dibben were there. From there they started fast breaks up the court.

Dibben took time out to work under the basket at the offensive end to collect 21 points to easily lead the scoring. Neil Thompson, besides helping his teammates with neat fakes to set them up, also took time for 18 points. Ted Payne's set shots helped him total 17 points. Oshawa's best were Salway with 19 points and Hanson with 17.

Lineups:

Y.M.C.A. (92): Payne 17, Thompson 18, Trimm 3, Dibben 21, Butcher 9, A. Stewart 14, Batchelor 10.

Oshawa (62): Hanson 17, Reddock 12, Salway 19, Jackson 2, Bassett 12.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Kingston clashes with the Eagles at 8.30 here tonight in Civic Arena, second of their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-final series. K's captured the first on home ice Saturday 10-4, and they'll have the third one back there Wednesday eve. Which means the Eagles will have to grab off a decision tonight here to keep even with them in these sawoffs. We'll call 'em to win, since the team is noted for fighting back when things start to look grim—and the Vitarelli pack will battle bitterly to tie it up on home ice. A swell, scrappy struggle is assured in this playoff, and it should pack in a big crowd of puck fans.

* * * * * *

There's considerable doubt in our mind if Kingston is allowed to use that new goalie from the Maritimes. The O.H.A. and group clubs leaned over backward in allowing the K's a raft of players this season when they had a bunch of last year's puckists barred. But there must be a line drawn somewhere, a certain point placed on imports and a definite deadline as to the final date to bolster a club. Certainly none of the other group squads can add new players in playoffs, and why should Kingston? So what if one of their goalies was injured some time ago? Joe Rochetta was injured in the very first game of the Eagles' schedule and hasn't played since—but no replacement was granted to the team. It's worth checking into.

* * * * * *

Oshawa Line Missed

The starry Oshawa forward line didn't make the Saturday trip to the Limestone City, and that made quite a difference. A line of junior Oddfellows was used and it worked pretty well, but there's quite a difference between junior "B" and senior "B" hockey. Also the imported Kingston net custodian was mighty tough to beat. Eagles can and will play better, and they know they'll have to show it right away or their chances of survival will be mighty slim. That's why we figure they'll come up with one of their old fighting displays here tonight to knock off the rugged K's and sew up the series. From then on it'll be a dogfight, and no fooling.

* * * * * *

Incidentally, with the Eagles in playoffs now, we'd like to again mention their executive. It's a small one but a capable and compact set of officials which has had plenty of trouble all season icing a contending club, what with one thing and another. But they'll be there or thereabouts yet ere the marbles are all picked up. D. A. McGillis is sponsor and president, with Dr. J. R. Epping vice-president as well as family doctor for the club. Horace Guppy is a most efficient secretary-treasurer, and a likeable fellow as well. Ned Vitarelli is the scrappy, experienced coach, with Red Creighton acting as manager. Mick Magee is there, too, in an advisory capacity. Don't write these officials or the playing Eagles off yet, not by any means.

Six Teams In So Far

Prexy Bob Pierson and Manager Bob Curtin of the Petes' Timbermen took in a senior lacrosse meeting in Mimico on Saturday. Six clubs entered: Petes, Mimico, Toronto, St. Catharines, Fergus and Owen Sound, the latter back after a year's absence. Brampton is expected again, but there's some doubt, now of Hamilton. Orillia will likely go senior "B" and will be advised by local officials that there's some good senior "B" material here, if wanted. All senior "A" clubs must signify their intentions by March 1, so definite plans can be made and a schedule drawn up ere the O.L.A. annual meeting in April. Local club will hold an early meeting, also, to make plans for the season.

P.C.V.S. girls have a senior hoop return tilt tonight in Port Perry, while P.C.V.S. juvenile boys go to Toronto in O.A.B.A. play with Malvern. The Collegiate dropped 49-46 junior O.A.B.A. return go to St. Kitts Stars here Saturday to lose the round 123-77. Junior "A" Collegians erased Oshawa 96-91 on their round to make C.O.S.S.A. playoffs again this coming weekend in Toronto. St. Peter's junior "B" boys downed the "B" Garnet and Greys 29-24. At the Y.M., the local cagers clipped Oshawa Mormons 92-62 in an exhibition, while a girls' exhibition Saturday night in the Y.M. saw the Classy Towne Togs whip East Toronto, last year's intermediate "A" provincial champs, by a 40-33 score. Nice going.

Towne Togs Get Easy Win Against Toronto

Phil Macks' Towne Togs swept through last year's intermediate "A" L.O.B.A. champions, East Toronto, in easy fashion Saturday night 40-33 for an exhibition win. The Togs were testing their strength for the next round which opens Saturday with the Toronto intermediate "B" champions.

Employing a strong zone defence, the Togs had little trouble with the East Toronto girls who were poor on the long-distance shooting. Only one girl, Charrie Tofsted, managed to break the zone for three baskets.

Meanwhile Togs were breaking through the East Toronto man-to-man defence easily with their short choppy, but fast passes. They also in the late stages of the first half and midway through the second used the fast break from the zone.

Scores 19 Points

Mabel Gillen with fast breakaways and excellent foul shot shooting totalled 19 points to easily lead the scoring. Out of eight possible foul shot chances she dropped in seven while the baskets were mostly on breaks for layup shots.

Joan Dunk, a heady player with loads of drive, helped the Togs build up an early lead with both long and short set shots and finally ended up with 10 points.

The game was fairly clean with 18 personals called against East Toronto and seven against Togs. Toronto lost Gwen Morris and Marg Patterson in the late stages via the personal foul route but it was too late to affect the game.

The Togs had a better-than-average foul shot record dropping in 12 shots out of possible 20. The Toronto quintet had only a three for nine record.

Ethel Syms, the only Toronto player who could drop a field basket in from any distance, was held to 13 points. She was Toronto high scorer. Tofsted dropped in a total of eight.

Lineups—Towne Togs (40)—Dunk 10, Stewart 2, Owen 5, De Warga, Rumble, McIlhagga, Batley, Raper 8, Jackson, Gillen 19.

East Toronto (33)—Syms 13, Tofsted 8, Morris 4, Williams 4, Earle 4, Patterson, Statler, Eppingham, Gladhill, Willis, Bates.

Twenty-eight curlers of the Smiths Falls Curling Club motored to Peterborough Saturday and enjoyed a friendly game with seven rinks of local curlers. It was a sort of return visit affair.

These inter-club games do a lot to create good fellowship among curlers and the idea is rapidly gaining importance in all curling centres. At the conclusion of the games a hot dinner was served by members of the ladies' club.

R. Payne and his committee are to be congratulated on the success of the short but happy event.

Dr. Ralph Clark, Vic Brown, Ken Bissett and Bert Harrison arrived home today from Winnipeg after taking part in the Canadian Curling championship. They finished in third place when carrying the honors for the province of Ontario. It was the first time that the Peterborough Curling Club has been represented in the Canadian championships and the boys brought honor to their home club.

The brass hats of curling had just put them down as another rink from the east. However, right in their first game they made the mighty sit up and look for they defeated the highly rated British Columbia rink 7 to 6. From then on Clarke was the man to beat to win the bonspiel.

The Winnipeg newspapers had many complimentary things to say about the Peterborough curlers. True they did not win, but they came third, and when you think that they were curling against the best rinks the country had to offer, it's no mean achievement. Billy Walsh, the Manitoba skip who won the championship declared the Ontario rink was the toughest one he met. They played hard, curled well, conducted themselves on and off the ice like gentlemen, showed real sportsmanship, did honor to themselves and not only brought honor to our club but to our city.

We believe we voice the sentiments of not only our club members, but of the citizens of Peterborough generally when we say "Boys, you did a swell job. Well done."

The big week-long open mixed rink bonspiel got under way this morning, and 14 rinks are entered each day for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with the successful rinks returning on Friday for the final windup.

The annual mixed rink event for the Sturgeon Trophy began on Saturday evening. Two rounds were played. The bonspiel continues next Saturday night.

Yukon To Test Bobo Brazil

Bobo Brazil is certainly not being given any soft spots in his bouts here. After his smashing victory over Hans Hermann last week the ebony-hued Brazil has been matched with Yukon Eric. This will be the feature event of Tuesday's mat card at the Brock.

Yukon Eric is one of the most powerful matmen of the present day, possessing great strength, experience and numerous effective holds. He is such a fortress himself that most of the attacks hurled at him are practically without effect.

However, it is doubtful if he has been up against an opponent using the damaging headbutts that Brazil lets loose. The colored giant also shows tremendous speed in his attacks and in this department will have a distinct edge over Eric. A win for the colored boy will put him in line for a bout with Whipper Watson.

Rugged, grinding wrestling will be stacked against fast, scientific battling when Fred Atkins goes against Warren Bockwinkle in the semi-final.

Strangler Bob Wagner and Pat Flanagan start off what promises to be an exciting evening.

Wings and Leafs Divide Weekend Games, Chicago Bows To Boston

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings, firmly esconsced as National Hockey League champions, gave a queer exhibition of inconsistency during the weekend, losing 6-3 at Toronto and then walloping the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-1 Sunday at Detroit. A near record crowd of 15,626 jammed Detroit Olympia for the Sunday feature. Toronto picked up two points on its weekend showing, but still lost ground to second-place Montreal Canadiens who rallied for a 4-4 tie with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks at home Saturday and came through with a 2-0 victory Sunday against the Rangers in New York.

In the weekend's only other tussle, Boston Bruins, playing at home, downed Chicago 4-2 Sunday to move back into fourth-place deadlock with New York Rangers.

Saturday night at Toronto, the two clubs were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period with the Leafs holding a 3-2 lead by the finish of the middle session. Outscoring the Wings 3-1 in the final stanza, Toronto walked off with their 6-3 victory.

Divide Honors

Cal Gardner, Ted Kennedy, Tod Sloan, Ray Timgren, Max Bentley and Hugh Bolton divided the Maple Leaf goals while Gordie Howe, Sid Abel and Larry Zeidel scored for the Red Wings.

Sunday, the Red Wings took a 4-1 first period edge and added singletons in the final two sessions to march away with their 6-1 win. Marcel Pronovost, Metro Prystai, Sid Abel, Red Kelly, Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe picked up Detroit markers with Tod Sloan spoiling Terry Sawchuk's shutout for the Leafs' lone goal.

Howe's goal was his 41st of the season, tops in the league. He also picked up two assists to boost his loop-leading point total to 75.

In picking up a 4-4 tie with Chicago Saturday night, the Canadiens were forced to wipe out a three-goal lead and help Elmer Lach celebrate his night when fans and teammates presented him with more than $10,000 worth of gifts.

Take Lead

Bodnar, Bep Guidolin and George Gee. Then Paul Meger started the Habs on their way in the second and Bill Gadsby made it 4-1 at the end of the second. Third-period markers by Johnny McCormack, Paul Meger and Bernie Geoffrion produced the tie. Geoffrion's goal came at 18:12 of the final session.

At New York, Dick Gamble and Bert Olmstead scored in Montreal's 2-0 Sunday victory over the Rangers. Gamble tallied at 18:22 of the second period and Olmstead scored in the final minute of play when the Blueshirts took Emile Francis from the nets in an effort to produce a tie with an extra forward.

Woody Dumart, Ed Sandford, Ed Kryzanowski and Dave Creighton scored the Bruins' Sunday goals with Gus Bodnar getting both Chicago markers.

Trenton Overcomes Glen Roys 7 to 1

BRIGHTON, March 10.—A five-goal splurge in the third period enabled Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers to whip Belleville Glen Roys, 7-1, here in the Quinte Valley Hockey League southern division final. The win gave the Airmen a 2-1 game lead in the three-out-of-five series.

Garry Scott turned in an outstanding goaltending job for the winners with the only goal against him resulting from a rebound, after he had been felled by a puck which hit him over the right eye early in the final period. After getting four clamps in to close the wound, he finished the game.

Great 5-Mile Runner Joe Keeper, 65, Dies

WINNIPEG, March 10 (CP) — Joe Keeper, one of Canada's greatest five-mile runners, died Sunday at the age of 65.

A Cree Indian, he represented Canada at the 1912 Olympic games, placing fourth among 75 runners in the 10,000-metre race. He placed second in the 10,000-metre race at the inter-allied sports meet at Paris in 1919.

During the First World War he served in France where he was in charge of 11 runners attached to the 1st Canadian Engineer Battalion. One of the men under his command was Tom Longboat of Brantford, a famous marathon runner.

Keeper won many Dominion and provincial championships in Canada. He said his policy was "not to let the other fellow get too far ahead."

Terry Moore Enjoying Latest Role

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 10 (AP) — Terry Moore is happy about playing her first sexy role but a mite confused too. The studio has done everything possible to de-sex her.

The brown-haired Glendale, Calif., girl is all hepped up about her role in "Come Back, Little Sheba." She plays a college student who has a torrid affair with an athlete.

"But they've done everything they can to make me look less sexy," she said. "I started out wearing sweaters in the picture, but the director, Danny Mann, wouldn't let me wear them. I have to wear blouses....

"The only way I can get the idea across is with my eyes."

Terry is so enthused about her role in the Hal Wallis production that she has banned dates for the duration of the picture.

"A friend of mine, (oil heir) David Frame, flew up from Texas to see me, but I even told him I couldn't go out."

Previous to the picture, Terry had been doing her first dating since her separation from all-America footballer Glenn Davis. The marriage lasted a mere two months, and Terry remained out of the social whirl for 10 months. The divorce is finally nearing the courts, pending a divvying up of the wedding presents.

Sad Comment

Her only comment on the break-up was a remark concerning Elizabeth Taylor, whose first beau was Davis. "If Liz had to make a mistake in marriage," "why couldn't it have been her first boy-friend?"

Despite her marital mishap, Terry isn't bitter with men. She just a bit bewildered.

DR. ELDON RAY

Dr. Eldon Ray Recommended Kenner Collegiate Principal

Dr. Eldon P. Ray, head of the history department at P.C.V.S., has been recommended for appointment as principal of Kenner Collegiate. The choice of Dr. Ray was made Saturday by the appointments committee of the Board of Education after they considerd 52 applications and interviewed six of the top prospects.

Kenner Collegiate, now being built by the Eastwood Construction Co. on Monaghan Rd. S., should be completed and ready for use by Sept. 1. Estimated cost of the new collegiate is $650,000.

Formality Vote.

The appointment committee will pass along their recommendation for confirmation of the Board at the next regular meeting, Thursday night. However, as all trustees are members of the appointment committee, and have already voted on the choice, confirmation of Dr. Ray is little more than a formality.

"Yes, I'm delighted that the committee has recommended me for the principalship of Kenner Collegiate," Dr. Ray said today. "I know they have given this long and careful thought; I'm glad it was no snap judgment."

"I'm particularly happy that will Teach I'll be principal right from the beginning and will be able to see the school grow," said Dr. Ray.

On Staff Eight Years.

Dr. Ray, a history specialist and head of that department at P. C. V. S., has been on the staff her for eight years. Altogether he has taught secondary school for 13 years.

Before coming to Peterborough he was on the staff at Forest Hill and at Simcoe High School.

Dr. Ray was born in Stanley, New Bruswick. Both his elementary and secondary school education were obtained in Halifax and he was graduated from Dalhousie University with a B. A., in 1932, followed by an M. A. in 1933.

In 1944 Dr. Ray obtained his Ph. D., from the School of Graduate Studies, University of Toronto. He began teaching in secondary schools five years before that.

His appointment will probably be from Sept. 1, but there is a lot of work to be done before that. As new principal he will have to busy himself with plans for drawing up a school program so classes will get underway as soon as the building is finished. The teaching staff must be assigned and supplies laid in.

Despite this load of administrative responsibility —particularly at first— Dr. Ray does not intend to give up teaching.

About 300 students are expected to register at Kenner Collegiate when it opens this Fall.

Dr. Ray lives on the River Rr., just outside the city boundary in Douro township. He has a wife, the former Dorothy Holliday of Stratford, and two children—Malcolm, 10, a pupil at Auburn school and five-year-old Ann who starts kindergarten this year.

He is a Mason, a member of the Royal Arthur and Scottish Rite, and he is a parishioner of St. John's Anglican Church.

A cigarette butt that had not been properly snuffed out started a fire today in the bathroom at the home of Howard C. A section of the bahtroom floor and a wall were scorched and there is smoke damage throughout the upper rooms of the house.

TICKETS IN DEMAND.

There will be quite an exodus from Peterborough Saturday when hundreds of C. G. E. bowlers head for Toronto by special train. Hundreds of others will be taking this same train to the Sportsmen's Show at the Coliseum. A. Sands, Princess St., and Murray Corkery Westcott, are two C. G. E.'rs who aren't worrying about tickets for the Sportsmen's Show. They were the lucky winners in the St. Peter's High School draw.

THIS TRACTOR OVERTURNED Saturday afternoon, and instantly killed the driver, Clarence Nelson (Sam) Bebee, who was pinned beneath it. Mr. Bebee was manoeuvring the tractor on a ramp leading to his barn on Highway 7 at the Keene road, when it began sliding down the icy incline and upset. He died before a crowd of volunteers and a tow truck could lift the heavy machine enough to release him.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Man Crushed By Tractor Skids Down Barn Ramp Overturns, Kills Driver

"Sam" Bebee Helping Brother Tow Truck From Barn On Keene Road

No Inquest To Be Held Says Coroner

Clarence Nelson Bebee, 46, local cement contractor, was killed instantly when a heavy tractor overturned, crushing him beneath it Saturday afternoon. The accident occurred on Mr. Bebee's farm on Highway 7 at the Keene Road, as he and his brother Maxwell were attempting to tow a truck out of a barn. As Maxwell Bebee was hooking a chain onto the truck, the tractor driven by his brother Clarence started to slip sideways down the icy ramp at the barn entrance and upset on top of him.

The weight of the tractor crushed Mr. Bebee's chest and he was dead when volunteers lifted the tractor enough to pull him free. Dr. H. G. Carleton said today no inquest will be held.

Motorists Help

A crowd of passing motorists and nearby residents quickly gathered but it took the combined efforts of nearly 25 men and a tow truck to lift the heavy machine from the man.

C. N. (SAM) BEBEE

He is survived by his wife, the three children: Merlee, 8, Samuel, 5, and Patricia 2. Also surviving, are his mother Mrs. Bessie Bebee, three sisters: Mrs. Curtis Mackay (Reta) of Pontypool, Mrs. Elmo Nesbitt (Phyllis) of Orillia and Miss Gladys Bebee of Peterborough; and five brothers: Lorne, Morley, Stanley, Maxwell and Blake, all of Peterborough.

He was born in Peterborough, and lived in the city and suburbs all his life. Mr. Bebee was an adherent of George St. United Church.

Funeral services will be held from the Comstock Funeral Home Tuesday at 3:15 p.m. The Rev. Arnold Mathews of George St. United Church will officiate. Interment will be in Welcome cemetery.

Community Fund Underway In All Divisions

Peterborough's Red Cross and Community Fund campaign is well underway.

All four division chairmen report that campaign workers are on the job and some of the canvassing has been completed.

Mrs. J. P. Watts, chairman of the Women's Division said today that about one third of the canvassing in her division had been completed. The 120 women in this division are carrying on a house-to-house canvass and also canvassing schools, hospitals and other institutions in the city.

Approximately 25 per cent of the canvassing in the Special Names Division has been completed, S. J. Whitehouse, chairman, reported today. There are 21 workers in this division who are responsible for 5-10 people on the special names' list.

Distribute Cards

Retail Division canvassers were busy last week distributing subscription cards to the approximate 150 retail establishments in the city. The division is divided into 16 teams of workers with an average of seven workers on each team. Ford Warren, chairman, said today that the canvassers started collecting the cards today.

The 36 industries in the city are being approached by the fund's contact men, who are employees in the industries. A few of the industries are on the payroll deduction plan. In the remaining industries canvassers started distributing cards today. The chairman of this division is Thomas Glover.

Some of the campaign workers have brought in returns, but the first totals will not be ready until Tuesday.

First Night Back Al Marshall GetsBabyCougar

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP)—Somebody dumped a real problem into the lap of Flt. Lt. Allan Marshall of Peterborough on his first night home from overseas—a live baby cougar. And what's worse, that makes him the guardian of two cougars.

The one Flt. Lt. Marshall received last night came by plane from Vancouver. A second is waiting for him in Calgary.

It all started when the officers and men of 410 Cougar Squadron of the R.C.A.F. stationed at North Luffenham, England, decided to adopt a cougar.

A group from the Montreal squadron approached the London zoo which said it would be glad to [illegible] if the Canadians could find one.

The Calgary zoo offered the squadron one of its two cougar kittens; the offer was accepted That was before the Vancouver Province got a baby cougar from forest ranger Dave Williamson who captured three near Comox.

First Flight

The newspaper packed the scratching, foot-long kitten into an R.C.A.F. Dakota piloted by Flt. Lt. Stewart Skinner of Vancouver. The plane and kitten, after an eventful flight which included giving the tawny cougar oxygen while flying over the Rockies, landed at Rockcliffe Airport last night.

Flt. Lt. Marshall, the member of the 410 Squadron who made the original suggestion to adopt the cougar, was handed the crate. He had just arrived from England on R.C.A.F. business.

Marshall bedded down his charge in a hangar at the airport and now is trying to make arrangements to have his mates in England adopt the Vancouver cougar as well as the one in Calgary.

All he has to do is get the London zoo to agree to look after two cougars for 410 Squadron if the officers and men will contribute the seven shillings, sixpence (about $1.00) a week cost for each one.

Part Of Brant's Right Foot Amputated In Hospital

Fred Brant's second foot, his right, was amputated Friday at Civic Hospital, leaving little better than two stumps to hobble about on for the rest of his life. It is understood that the operation in each case was to remove the forepart of the foot. Fred Brant is the homeless young man of 24 years whose plight has deeply aroused the sympathy of the community of Peterborough.

Arrested here as a vagrant, he was taken by police out Highway No. 7 and let out of their car at Central Smith cheese factory, about five miles from the city, in the expectation that he would thumb the rest of the way back to Lindsay where his home at one time had been in the Victoria House of Refuge.

Since the publication of the news of Brant's first operation, kind-hearted citizens have been sending him letters and cards of good wishes, also fruit and such little gifts. Some have called at the hospital to tell him they wanted to encourage him in his looking toward the future.

Money More Practical

Actually there is considerably more gift fruit in the Civic refrigerator than Mr. Brant could eat, and it has been suggested that the most practical means of helping would be in cash to pay for the artificial feet he will have to use whenever he walks again.

This is necessarily a delicate suggestion because it touches upon motives of sympathy and kindness and desire to help a young man in misfortune, already somewhat handicapped otherwise, as reported.

Since his admittance to Civic Hospital as a patient whose indigence was not even mentioned, Mr. Brant has been receiving all its resources of aid without any immediate question of cost. His dietary includes whatever fruit is recommended.

All that is of present attention and care, but some day this young man is going to need artificial feet. So, it has been suggested that public contributions in his aid might take the form of a fund for the artificial supports that will be necessary when he leaves the hospital.

Worked At House

Brant first went to the House of Refuge in Lindsay on February 14, 1950, when he gave his age as 20. He worked there as a laborer on the farm until March 30, 1950, when he ran away.

He was picked up in Minden in June and brought back to the home. He left again October 29, and that is the last record the House of Refuge officials have of him. He was declared officially discharged in April, 1951.

BenefitFilmShow Stopped By Lord's Day Act

COBOURG, March 10 — A benefit film show for Japper Wilcox, Cobourg hockey player who has been paralyzed ever since a motor accident some months ago, was scheduled for Sunday night. But due to the opposition raised because it was being held on a Sunday, the benefit was called off.

The benefit was a movie which was to be shown in the Park theatre and manager Ruth Harrison had received permission from O. J. Silverthorn, of the treasury department, of the Motion Picture Censorship and Theatre Inspection Board, to show the picture with the ruling that there was to be no admission price or tickets sold.

To Take Donations

Some of the hockey team were to have been present in the lobby and there was to have been a box to receive donations for the Wilcox Fund. Use of the theatre was donated and theatre employees were giving their time without charge.

On Saturday Mrs. Harrison posted a sign outside the theatre which announced that the benefit Sunday night was postponed because of the Lord's Day Act. The Rev. A. G. McDowell of Calvary Baptist Church, secretary of the local ministerial association, said that no official action had been taken by the ministerial association, but that it was a fact that the clergy were opposed to the Sunday show because it violated the Lord's Day Act and they were also afraid that if it went on, it would be the thin edge of the wedge for a commercial Sunday.

Africans Riot In Fierce Clash

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 10 — (Reuters)—European police today clashed with thousands of rioting Africans in the native section of town in a fresh outburst of a fight which began Sunday night.

Sub-machine-guns at the ready, the police moved against throngs of Africans pelting rocks and wielding clubs in a faction dispute within the settlement.

The casualty list mounted hourly. At noon 12 Africans were listed dead and hundreds wounded.

Mobile police squads were rushed from one trouble centre to another as homes were pillaged and looted and terror-stricken inhabitants were attacked.

The battle, mainly with sticks and stones, is between Basuto tribesmen and the recently-formed African "Civilian Guards," made up mainly of Zulus.

Tribesmen included a gangster organization known as the "Russian gang."

Police See Crash Driver Charged

George Sorenson of 39 Argyle St. faces a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign after a two-car collision late Saturday afternoon at George and Dublin Sts. Nobody was injured and damage totalled $120.

Sgt. Leo Murphy and Constable William G. Scott of the city police witnessed the accident. They say Sorenson was driving east on Dublin St. and started to make a left turn onto George St.

Sorenson apparently saw a northbound car coming so he pulled onto the west side of the street to avoid cutting out this car approaching from the rear. As a result, a southbound car, driven by Frank Connelly, 8 Haggart St. collided with the front end of Sorenson's vehicle.

The street was wet and slippery and in the opinion of the police, Connelly had no chance to stop.

There was $95 damage to the bumper and grill of Sorenson's car and $25 to Connelly's.

A minor accident resulting in dented fenders and other damage, occurred shortly after Saturday midnight at Otonabee St., near Crebar's Chicken Palace.

John Davis of 48 Welsh St., was driving east on Otonabee St. and when he made a left turn to drive into Crebar's he was in collision with another east bound car, driven by Laverane Sutton, 302 King St. Sutton had just pullel out to pass when Davis began his turn.

Davis told Constable Eldon McDonald and Ed. Patterson that he signalled before making his turn.

Gov.-General Offers Recreation Centre Site

PORT HOPE, March 10—(ENS)—Vincent Massey, Canada's new governor-general, has offered Hope township land for a recreation centre. The land was offered with a life-long lease— the equivalent of 99 years.

The land, which fronts on the Ganaraska river, is a part of the Massey estate at Canton, near Welcome.

Mr. Massey made the offer some time ago, and it has since been under consideration by the township council. The matter came to a head Friday when a deputation of Hope township residents appeared before council to urge the start of some sort of recreational project.

One member of the deputation said he was not too much in favor of the land Mr. Masseyy offered. A road would have to be built, and the land is sometimes flooded,

Coal-Steel Pool Brings New Era To West Europe

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS, March 10—(AP)—Western Europe is moving steadily into a vast new social and economic era through its coal-and-steel pool.

The plan, launched first by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France, calls for each of six western European countries to stop pampering its own coal and steel industrial and work co-operatively for the good of the whole.

Their aim is high, their progress so far good.

Six countries — France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—have signed a treaty saying that they are:

"Desirous of assisting through the expansion of their basic production in raising the standard of living and in furthering the works of pace," end

"Resolved to substitute for historic rivalries a fusion of their essential interests; to establish, by creating an economic community, the foundation of a broad and independent community among peoples long divided by bloody conflicts; and to lay the bases of institutions capable of giving direction to their future common destiny."

All have signed the treaty, and the parliaments of France, Germany and the Netherlands have ratified it. The others are expected to do so without much delay.

Greater Than Soviet

These six countries produce about 38,000,000 metric tons (of 2,200 pounds each) of steel a year.

That is more than Russia, with 31,300,000 tons, and nearly equal to Russia and its satellites. It is more than double Britain with 15,900,000.

It is far less than half that made by the United States, now producing at the rate of about 98,500,000 metric tons a year.

Nevertheless, this area supplies 75 to 80 per cent of the world's export steel for countries which haven't enough steel of their own.

In part the aim of the plan is to supply world markets with steel. This area needs the money. Its intention also is to build up the use of steel within the six countries. In doing so, the planners hope to raise the standards of living of the 160,000,000 people living within the area.

Schumania

The experts are already calling this new trading and working zone, Schumania.

1. They will have a "high authority" of nine men whose job it will be to establish fair marketing practices, break up monopolistic cartels, wipe out subsidies and trade discrimination, and replace old and costly methods and machines with new and efficient ones.

2. This high authority will have the power to put ceilings—and floors—on coal and steel prices. It will raise money by taxing production one per cent or less. With the money it can assist investments in new machinery where it is needed.

3. There will be an advisory board (consulative committee) representing the works, the management and the consumers.

4. There will be a high council containing a member of the cabinet of each of the six countries. This must be consulted by the high authority before any major decision is taken.

5. Over all will be a European parliament chosen by the six countries which can, by a two-thirds vote, throw out the whole high authority of nine men and call for a new one.

The agreement lasts for 50 years.

The principal power the high authority can exercise will be financial. It can break any company which refuses to act in general harmony with the rest.

All On Plane Dead

4 Chile Newsmen Released On Bail

SANTIAGO, CHILE, March 10 (AP)—Four Chilean journalists arrested for criticizing a cabinet minister were released on bail Saturday by a judge who said the motives involved did not constitute a crime.

The journalists had accused Francisco Melfi of irregular business transactions while minister of lands and colonization. Melfi resigned Saturday.

Three of the journalists were arrested four days ago under a clause of the law for the defense of democracy, originally passed to outlaw communism. The fourth was arrested yesterday.

The Chilean Court of Appeals will rule next week.

W.I. To Continue Cemetery Work

LAKEFIELD, March 10 (ENS) —The Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell Bullock for their March meeting. The president, Mrs. E. Waldon, was in the chair.

Roll call was answered by "What's Your Beef". Mrs. C. C. Stenner was convener for the program and gave an interesting paper on "Community Activities".

Some months ago a letter was received by the Institute from Miss Vera Doole of Toronto requesting that the Institute should use their influence in having the cemetery on Highway 28 between Lakefield and Peterborough put in more presentable condition. The matter was brought to the attention of the Smith council who co-operated by cleaning out the under brush and weeds. It is now the intentions of the Institute to continue with his work in the spring and plant flowers and to do all they can to make the cemetery a beauty spot rather than the eye-sore it was. Miss Doole sent a cheque to the Institute in appreciation.

A letter of thanks was received by Mrs. T. Payton from an institute in England for a gift of tea bags and Christmas cards sent to them.

It was decided to vote $10 to the Lakefield Girls' Club which is under the sponsorship of the Institute. This money will be used to take the girls to Peterborough to take part in Achievement Day [illegible]

The members also voted to make a quilt for the Red Cross, and to have a hobby table at the home and school fair on April 4. The matter of the proposed cooking school was left for further consideration as the dates suggested were not suitable.

Tea was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. A. Gill, Mrs. Clarence Foster and Mrs. E. Irwin.

Joint Fire Protection

BRONTE, Ont., March 10 (CP) —Eight fire departments in Halton County Sunday banded together for fire protection in the Halton County Mutual Fire Service Association. The county, between Hamilton and Toronto, is the first in the province to provide for interchange of fire-fighting apparatus and firemen.

Human Polar Bear

PORT STANLEY, March 10 — (CP)—Arikor Herkiminian, who calls himself the human polar bear, Sunday attracted 3,000 visitors to watch him lay in bathing trunks on the frozen tug channel here and swim about in clear water. Herkiminian ate ice cream cones during his half-hour act and drew frozen fish out of his trunks while swimming about.

Woodstock Wins Hanna Shield At Festival

HAMILTON, March 10 (CP)— The Woodstock Little Theatre production of J. M. Barrie's fantasy, "Dear Brutus," was awarded the Hanna Shield Saturday night as the top play of the three-day Western Ontario Drama Festival.

Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre awarded honors to the Woodstock players for their "general high level of acting, direction and set design."

The Fuller Shield, for the second best of the five plays presented, went to the Players' Guild of Hamilton for the comedy "Harvey."

The Brickenden Medal for the best actress was awarded to Betty Allingham, of Sarnia, for her portrayel of Catherine Sloper in the Sarnia Drama League's production of "The Heiress." Adjudicator Legevre said, "her performance showed such varied emotion, such delving into human suffering. In all of her themes there was a flash of truly beautiful and poignant acting."

The Jordon Memorial Medal for the best actor went to William Mitchell, of Hamilton, for a "tender, sympathetic and distinguished character study of Elwood P. Dowd" in the Hamilton Players' Guild production of "Harvey."

Praises Performance

Mr. LeFevre praised Rena Petrie, of St. Mary's, for her portrayel of a sharp-tongued Scottish lady in the St. Mary's Little Theatre production of the Canadian play, "Sit Ye Doon." The adjudicator said Miss Petrie came "very near" to the best female performance.

The Kitchener-Waterloo Little Theatre presented Saturday's matinee performance of "Ladies In Retirement" which, according to the adjudicator, was "on the whole quite well done."

Other awards Saturday were: the Meredith Achievement Thophy to the group performing the most ambitious and demanding production in preliminary performances, the Welland Little Theatre; the Jamieson Play-Writing Award to Mrs. G. A. P. Brickender, of Simcoe, for the play "With Tongue In Cheek"; the Phelps Award to Walter Massey, best actor of preliminary performance; the Gross Award to Audire Vale, best actress in preliminary performance, and the Phillips Award to Simcoe Little Theatre, best visual presentation in preliminaries.

Pray Water Drops

ROCHESTER, N.Y., March 10— (AP)—The congregation of a Roman Catholic Church in the suburban town of Greece prayed Sunday for relief from an expected record lake level that may force half of them to leave their homes. Army engineers have predicted that Lake Ontario will rise to 249.3 feet above sea level by summer. Saturday night, Norman Atterby, president of the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protective Association, predicted that about 1,000 lakeshore residents would be forced to move within six to 10 weeks if the lake rose as expected.

Queen Juliana To Visit Ottawa After U.S. Stay

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS, March 10 (AP) — Queen Juliana expects to pay an unofficial visit to Canada—her wartime home-in-exile—after her state visit to the United States, a reliable source said Saturday night.

State visits originally had been planned for both Canada and the U.S. but, the informant said, the period of mourning for King George VI ruled out an official status for the Canadian visit. Festivities attending a formal visit would not be in keeping with the mourning period.

But the Queen expressed a wish to make a sentimental visit to Ottawa anyway. One of her daughters, Princess Margaret, was born there during the Second World War.

The Canadian visit was expected to follow immediately after the U.S. visit, probably April 17. Details of the American tour have not yet been settled.

Gas Rates May Rise

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)— Toronto residents may pay more for their cooking and industrial gas soon. A Toronto paper says in a newspage story today: "Examination of how the firm's reserves are being depleted leads to one conclusion—an increase is inevitable." Officials of the firm, The Consumers Gas Company, refused to confirm the rumored increase.

Mass. Dr., R. E. Lincoln Planning To File Libel Suit

MEDFORD, Mass., March 10 — (AP)—Dr. Robert E. Lincoln said Sunday night he will file a libel suit against "people responsible for the issuance of a report" by the Massachusetts Medical Society which requested his resignation.

At the same time, the doctor, whose treatment of cancer, tuberculosis and other "viral" diseases has been widely publicized, charged that "surgeons are interested in slowing up medical treatment of cancer because it would hurt them in the pocketbook."

Dr. Lincoln emphasized there is "not such a thing as a cancer cure."

He referred to his treatment as an "apparent cure" and said it brought marked results in other diseases such as sinus, asthma, arthritis, colitis and Hodgkin's disease. The latter, he explained, is a malignancy of the lymph glands.

Couldn't Find Benefit

A committee of the society, after an eight-months investigation, had reported it could find no real benefit to patients from Dr. Lincoln's treatment.

Dr. Lincoln asserted that vomiting, constipation and other symptoms of "malignancy" disappeared in from four to 14 days after he administered nasal and oral doses of "Beta Bacteriophage."

He explained that both Alpha and Beta Bacteriophage, used in his treatment of cancer, were particular strains of a type of germ.

The doctor said he would like to hear one scientific answer as to why this "Beta Bacteriophage" is not being used in hospitals in the treatment of cancer.

Dr. Lincoln reiterated that he would not resign from the Medical Society.

Watching New Hampshire For U.S. Election Pattern

By JACK BELL

CONCORD, N.H., March 10 — (AP)—The pattern for a bitter down-to-the-wire battle over the Republican presidential nomination is being threaded together in New Hampshire.

Tuesday the Republicans of this State, somewhat bewildered by all the outside fuss being made over them, vote in the first Presidential primary.

Democrats will go to the polls to cast some light on the political fortunes of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is drawing on his reputation as a "crime buster" to oppose President Truman for the nomination. Surveys indicate Truman, who hasn't said whether he is running, may be the winner.

The outcome is expected to be close in the battle between forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio for endorsement in Tuesday's preferential (popularity) contest on the Republican ballot.

New Hampshire is the first state to hold its primaries, in which members or the respective parties indicate preference for presidential aspirants by choosing candidates to the national nominating conventions. The presidential elections will be held in November.

With Governor Sherman Adams and other "big name" delegates candidates on his side, Eisenhower might get most of the state's 14 Republican presidential nominating votes. Taft has said he would be satisfied with four.

Fight To Go On

Whatever the outcome, both sides have made it abundantly clear the fight will go on with increasing intensity and probably with increasing bitterness.

Along with Harold E. Stassen, figured as a poor third in Tuesday's balloting here, the two major candidates are heading toward their next explosive collision in New Jersey's April 15 primary.

By then U.S. voters will have had time to gauge the effect of 12-hour-a-day and person-to-person campaigning such as Taft is conducting here, as contrasted with vote appeals by proxy for Eisenhower.

Taft has been hitting hard at Eisenhower, saying that nobody knows what kind of a candidate the General would make because he hasn't said anything on current issues.

The Ohioan said Eisenhower's backers are "afraid" of the results and taunted them because he said they thought they had picked a favorable spot in New Hampshire but now seem to be changing their minds.

Attack Views

Eisenhower rooters in return have said pointedly that Taft has no administrative experience and have attacked his foreign policy views. At least one local speaker contrasted Taft's role as a campaigner with Eisenhower's role as North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander.

The unknown quantity in the New Hampshire Republican contest is wrapped up in a slate of delegates running for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, despite the fact that he has said he is not a candidate.

On the Democratic side, Senator Kefauver has been running a soft-spoken, slow-motion campaign here aimed at appealing to reticent New Englanders.

The senator's attractive wife, Nancy, has been getting in some campaign licks by making speeches in French areas where there is a large French-speaking population.

President Truman has indicated he won't have anything to say about his future political plans until he returns form his current Key West, Fla., vacation the end of this month.

A regular twice-daily mail and passenger service operated between Amsterdam and the Hague as early as 1669.

Yugoslav Bosses Have Difficulty Explaining Alliance With West

By WILLIAM STEWART

BELGRADE, March 10 (CP)—Capitalism and Communism, forced into a strange alliance, eye each other critically in this no-man's land between east and west, Premier Tito's Yugoslavia.

Uncomfortable in the alliance, Yugoslav theoreticians are hard at work trying to explain it to Communists.

Western aid is coming in because Yugoslavia is strategic in the cold war. Yugoslavia cooperates in the western defence effort not out of admiration but because it fears Russia. Western observers here seem to have few illusions: the Tito regime is a tight police state, in many respects a vest-pocket edition of the Soviet system.

Tito, though cast out of the Cominform fold since 1948, learned his Bolshevism from Moscow. Like Moscow's regime, his is a dictatorship of the few over the many—kept in power by legions of secret police, political commissars and informers. About 500,000 party members rule 16,000,000 persons.

Probably a large bloc of members within the Communist party would as soon go over to Moscow if the chance arose. As long as Tito has his secret police and controls the army, that will not happen. The disgruntled Communists will stay quiet to save their skins.

But Tito's police boss, Interior Minister Alexander Rankovic, is aware of such feelings. Westerners in Belgrade say there are daily roundups and trials of actual and potential sympathizers with the Cominform.

Lots Of Explaining

As matter stand, Tito seems fully capable of retaining control. Meanwhile, the party politburo, caught in an uneasy dilemma, tries to explain how a country "building socialism" can be allied with the "decadent" capitalism of the west.

I asked Moshe Pijade, leading theoretician of the Yugoslav Communist party, to explain how the party could claim to be Leninist without accepting Lenin's thesis that sooner or later the worlds of capitalism and Communist must clash bloodily.

His answer was extremely involved. Paraphrased, it would go like this: Things have changed in the 35 years since the Bolshevik revolution. Countries of the west are moving leftward too. There is a possibility that instead of clashing, they will one day come together in common agreement.

Outlook Bleak

A high-level member of the ruling Politburo admits Tito's regime will hold living standards at their present low level, perhaps for years, while Soviet-Cominform pressure continues on the frontiers.

Official propaganda paints glowing pictures of things to come but those in high places acknowledge the outlook is bleak. Much of the country's substance must go into guarding the border while its riches remain underground.

In few capitals is the contrast between high officials and ordinary people so apparent as it is in Belgrade. Communist leaders will deny this, insisting everything in Yugoslavia belongs to the people. But the people are mostly on the outside, looking in. Belgrade is a shabby old city whose citizens for centuries have been too busy fighting wars—too backward, too illiterate, too suppressed—to build anything better. The Communists are trying to wipe out illiteracy and to fight the backwardness, but there is a long, hard road ahead.

The leaders have done well for themselves. They are installed, the new ruling class, in the swank areas once the pride of wealthy classes.

Short Hair All The Style

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Long tresses for women are to modern hair styles as a horse and buggy to a jet engine, says Raymonde, leading London stylist.

"Short hair belongs to these times," he said. "With it women look lighter, brighter, wittier and smarter."

Whether Raymonde's influence is responsible, London's Mayfair salons are certainly sharpening their scissors for the latest spring cuts. Styles are short, with the accent on grooming.

The most wind-blown number is a poodle cut favored by television hair expert, Jose Pou. With two-inch curls completely covering the head, it's just right for those natural curls—but definitely out for those who have to "perm." For one thing, it's much too expensive. A cut is needed every three weeks and this means frequent perming.

Nevertheless, for those with the courage—and the income—this is an excellent style for new spring hats. Easter bonnets will be shallow crowned with little or no back, the front stopping short of the hair-line. The poodle cut is therefore a good choice for such as the poke bonnet in parma violet velveteen that sweeps up at back like the ridge of a cowboy's saddle.

Streamlined Style

Smooth and groomed is a style by Raymonde that streamlines into a short curling page-boy. The roll is swept back from one temple only, forming a slight ridged curl secured by application of lacquer and the use of a tiny comb. A side parting comes from low on the temple and sweeps back in a wide arc to the centre crown.

Another smooth number is the heart-shaped style by Steiner, Mayfair stylist who competes yearly with Raymonde for top honors in the newest curls. This is a style that deals effectively with shoulder-length hair. Brushed tightly back from the forehead, the hair is caught at either side with a ribbon bow and curls downwards over the ears in two horsetails. Loose ends are finished in tiny pin curls that soften the temples.

For the more daring, there are rainbow hair fashions. Two or more streaks of color are layered by dye or lacquer sweep back from the temples. For evening wear there are gold and silver curls that can be added at will and the hair may be dusted with these and other colors to give it a night-time glitter.

"This is the age of the illuminated brunette," says Raymonde.

Doris Sutton, Lynn Thain Wed At Mark St. Church

A pretty wedding took place in the Mark St. United Church Saturday afternoon at the Rev. B. S. Morwood united in marriage Doris Sutton and James Lynn Thain.

Her bouquet was a cascade of Bettertime roses and white buddlia. She was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Orman Sutton of Toronto.

Speedy Divorce Often Possible

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — Divorce proceedings may be started in South Africa even faster than in Reno, Nevada, where there's a six weeks residence qualification.

One Johannesburg lawyer explained "a man need be only two days in any city in South Africa and, providing he intends to make his domicile permanent, he can immediately begin divorce proceedings."

He estimated that the shortest time for obtaining a divorce decree is less than two months after first stepping into a lawyer's office, and the costs run as low as £35. Such speedy divorces are possible only in unconfested actions, but more than 99 per cent of divorces in South Africa are uncontested. [illegible] there is often "collusion." Collusion however is difficult to prove. The most common ground for divorce here is desertion, and the desertion need not be longer than one day for proceedings to be instituted.

Whether an easy divorce is a good thing is a matter for argument, this expert pointed out. His personal opinion was that if two persons cannot get along together it is better not to force them to remain married.

Where a woman sues for divorce here, there is no provision for alimony but it may be introduced by legislation now being considered in parliament. Introduction of alimony would probably tend to increase the divorce rate since many dissatisfied wom-

Queen Picks Color Scheme For Palace Redecoration

LONDON, March 10 (CP) — Nine rooms in Buckingham Palace are being repaired and painted under the direction of the Queen.

The decoration is being done in preparation for the Queen and her family to move from their present home, Clarence House. Court circles, however, say they don't know when Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will make the move.

The throne room, where the Queen will receive visiting royalty, and the green drawing room, one of the most ornate in the ancient 690-room palace, are being done over in two shades of ivory.

Plumbers are installing steam heating in both rooms. Since the war, central heating has been slowly reaching into one room after another of the rambling old palace, but most are still pretty much as Victoria left them.

King William IV once termed Buckingham Palace "the coldest palace in Europe" and palace flunkies—for whom the winter sniffles are almost an occupational disease—ruefully dub themselves "royal ice cubes."

Seven rooms on the second floor are being redecorated in pastel shades. The work is being done by the Ministry of Works, as well as a permanent staff of 118 palace men.

These workers give the palace a daily once-over. They include electricians, art and porcelain experts, and brass and furniture polishers. One expert mothers the palace's 250 clocks.

But the Queen keeps a close eye on planning and has the final say on color schemes and similar detail.

Film of 7 Operas Features Many Singing Stars

A problem is facing Peterborough people this Wednesday, March 12th, in that there are too many interesting things going on. However, there is one that will not be repeated which is worthy of a special effort to attend.

It is the unique film containing parts of seven world-famous operas being presented in matinee and evening performances at the Centre Theatre. Large cities, such as Montreal, have run this film for eight days with capacity crowds at each showing. Opera lovers claimed it was the biggest feature of the year.

The "Festival of Operas" contains summarized versions of "William Tell," "Fra Diavolo," "Carmen," "The Marriage of Figaro," "The Barber of Seville", "Don Pasquale," and "Lucia di Lammermoor." The list of famed singers to be heard is too long to mention here. All are stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company and La Scala Opera Company of Milan.

Calls U.S. Policy "Weak-Kneed"

WINDSOR, March 10—(CP)—Mrs. Lucille Vogeler, wife of a U.S. executive who was jailed by the Hungarian government and later released when the State Department agreed to ransom terms, Sunday night called American foreign policy "weak-kneed."

"It is a humiliating sight to see the strongest country in the world cringing before bandits when they should be giving orders," she told a Christian Culture lecture audience.

Her husband is Robert Vogeler, a foreign executive of International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"Had it not been for the storm of public opinion stirred up by a friendly American and British press, Bob (Vogeler) would still be a prisoner," Mrs. Vogeler said.

She said State Secretary Dean Acheson refused to take any action until "I blackmailed him by threatening to release full details of his lack of co-operation to the press and to seek a personal interview with President Truman."

Parents Often Neglect Teaching Manners

DEAR MISS DIX: Why don't parents teach their children good manners and respect for older people? My neighbors' children are very noisy, and when I called their mother the other day to ask her to keep them quiet, she hung up on me. If I say anything to the youngsters, they answer in a most impudent and impertinent manner. All the people on the block complain about them, so I am not just being a crank.

This seems to be a definite trend among children of today. They are never corrected by their parents for lack of consideration toward their elders, and as for common courtesy, the parents, apparently, have never even heard the words.

THALIA MARIE.

ANSWER: Although most people today deprecate the value of good manners in children it is surprising to see their reactions when a really well mannered child is encountered. No matter how liberal a person may be in his views on courtesy among the young, he is favorably impressed by a child who typifies good breeding and rearing.

Sheer Laziness

Parents have a tendency to shrug off the impudence of their children by observing that good manners are so old-fashioned; actually, the only reason they do not inculcate them in the young is sheer, unadulterated laziness. It does take time and care to bring children up carefully, and far too many parents haven't the time or patience to put into the project. A child with a haphazard upbringing can no more become a well-adjusted adult than a similarly neglected puppy can be a fine dog. Many a man who will spend hours training a hunting dog won't give five minutes to teaching hiss on to say "Please" and "Thank you."

The most flagrant breach of good manners a child can commit also hapens to the most widespread; a total lack of any form of respect or consideration for his elders. The child who rises when an older person enters the room is all but extinct, as is the youngster who has learned to keep quiet while someone older is talking. Perhaps these were old-fashioned traits, but the fine people of today are those who were thus taught in their childhood.

Of course, when a mother sets such a horrible example of behavior as abruptly terminating a telephone call by banging down the receiver, we know what to expect from her offspring. What parents forget is that the standards they established for their youngsters will ultimately come home to roost. If early training has not included consideration for adults, for one's superiors in authority and age, such consideration will not be forthcoming to the parent when the child himself has reached adulthood. Principles are the result of example and precept. To let a child acquire a reputation for rude behavior, back talk and rowdyism, is to stamp oneself as a disinterested, negligent and indolent parent. Not a very nice achievement, is it?

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a mother of a 17-year-old boy who, about two years ago, was hit in the nose with a baseball bat. His nose subsequently became greatly enlarged. All he does now is sit [illegible] quit school. Could doctors do anything for him, and where could I locate a doctor who would help us? MRS. G.

ANSWER: Since you live in a large city with excellent hospital facilities, you should be able to locate, through them, a good plastic surgeon. Your eye, ear, nose and throat hospital is the best source. This work is expensive, but since it involves the entire future of your child, it will be worth whatever it costs. The cost of these operations varies with the doctor, so I can give you no idea of the price. I'd like to know if you're successful in finding a doctor, and if you have the operation performed.

DEAR MISS DIX: I go with a boy 20, who lives in a village quite a distance from us. When Fred wants to see me, he has to walk into town—quite a distance—then walk another two miles to my house. Therefore, I have been going into town to meet him. I like him a lot and he is a very fine boy, but the neighbors are talking about me because I go to meet him. I am 17.

MARJORIE A.

ANSWER: You are a considerate girl to be so understanding of Fred's problem, and your neighbors are too critical. Don't walk into town all the time to meet him, however. Have him make the extra effort to get to your house once in a while, so your parents will become better acquainted with him, and when the nosy neighbors see that he really is a nice boy, perhaps they will stop gossiping.

"It's his way of unnerving the batter!"

Self-Discipline Topic At Y.P.U. Of Springville

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 10 (ENS) —First meeting in March of the Springville Y.P.U. was held at the home of the Misses Myrtle and Wilma Seymour, with Myrtle Seymour, convener of stewardship and training, in charge. Assisting were Neal Whitfield, Eleanor Whitfield, Creighton Carr Shirley McGee, Myrna Seymour and Bryce Larke.

The topic "You Can — but Will You?" was developed as a drama and led to an entertaining discussion of self-discipline. Twenty-nine young people were present.

Hazel McIntosh conducted the business part of the meeting and read invitations from Bensfort, Bethel and George St. (Peterborough) Y.P.U.'s. It was arranged that Myrtle Seymour's group would provide the program at Bensfort Y.P.U. and the executive would arrange the worship program for the evening of March 14 at Bethel. Mrs. W. Seymour and daughters served refreshments.

What's Right?

You and your wife have a woman guest for the evening in your own home.

WRONG: Jump to light the guest's cigarettes, but do not bother to light your wife's.

RIGHT: Show your wife the same acts of courtesy you show your guest.

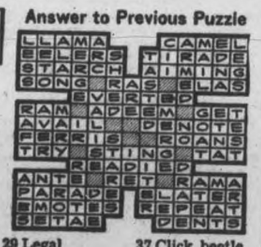
Answer to Previous Puzzle



MARY MOORE SAYS:

Casserole Dishes Easy On Grocery Money

Neither time or space permit hack fence chatter today because I am going to pack this column with casserole dishes,—everyone a strong favourite, and I might add, ever so easy on the grocery money. I've remembered Lent too.

Spinach and Tuna A La Hollywood

(My cousin married a Russian who sang in the Don Cossack chorus and once had some bit parts in Hollywood, but he's in the army in Guam now—but it shows how intimate I am with all the brightest Hollywood stars.) Wash and cook 2 bags spinach (2 lbs.) without any water—shake off as much washing water as you can. Turn it over several times—let it cook 6 minutes in all. Drain, add ¼ teaspoon salt, chop coarsely. Then make this Mock Hollandaise Sauce: melt 4 tablespoons margarine or butter, stir in 4 tablespoon flour, then 2 cups milk until thickened. Add ⅛ teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, and salt and pepper to taste. Let this cool a little and add ½ cup genuine mayonnaise, a tablespoon at a time, stirring after each addition. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix half of this with the cooked and drained spinach. Turn into buttered baking dish. Open 1 7-oz. tin tuna and distribute the pieces over the spinach. Pour remaining sauce evenly over top. Sprinkle with ½ cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs (and a little cheese if you like) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes.

Colonel's Lady's Casserole

(If you decide to make this be sure you do it exactly as outlined—you will never regret it.) You have to ask the butcher to grind you 1 lb. beef and ½ lb. fresh pork together. Now cook it with 2 finely chopped onions in 2 tablespoons butter until golden brown. Add 2 No. 1 tins condensed tomato soup, 1 3-oz. package white cream cheese crumbled, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Simmer for 15 minutes or until thick. Have ready cooked and in a greased large casserole ½ lb. wide noodles. Pour meat mixture over. Brown ¼ lb. sliced mushrooms in 1 tablespoon butter. Spread these over top. Sprinkle them with 1 cup crushed cornflakes. Bake about ½ hour at 350 deg. Fahr. but 5 minutes before removing from oven sprinkle top with strips of bacon if desired. almonds. Will serve from 6 to 8 choosy people.

Cheese Tomato Souffle

Girls you should know how to make souffle if you claim you are a good cook. Eggs are cheap, Lent is here, here's the recipe—what are you waiting for? Make a thick sauce by melting 4 tablespoons margarine or chicken fat and stirring in 4 tablespoons flour, then 1½ cups tomato juice—preferably warm, until thick. Add ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt and good shake of pepper. Stir into this sauce ¼ lb. cheese cut up or grated—you may use processed, or nippy cheddar. Then add 3 beaten egg yolks. Beat until stiff 3 egg whites with ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, then fold them in. Pour into greased large casserole. Cover otp with strips of bacon if desired. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 or 60 minutes, and serve at once. For special occasions serve with Mushroom or Shrimp Sauce.

The Variations of Souffle are many: Use milk instead of tomato juice for regular souffle or use a can condensed mushroom soup for mushroom souffle. Souffle always falls, so have the family at the table and bear it straight from the oven to them,—so that they see it at its best.

Just Meant for LENT...

Man 39, Held On Criminal Assault Count

Armand Larocque, 39, was arraigned in police court today on a charge of rape. He was remanded without bail until Thursday.

Larocque is alleged to have assaulted a young housewife early Sunday morning near the city dump in North Monaghan township. He was arrested Sunday by provincial police and before he appeared in court this morning, the woman identified him as her attacker when she saw him in a police lineup. When arrested, he gave his address as a Patterson St. rooming house.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said he was not asking for a plea and that if defence counsel were agreeable the crown would be ready for the preliminary hearing on Thursday.

Larocque was represented by Robert Carley.

Medical Missionary Addresses YMCA Club

At the regular meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Club president Don Whitaker welcomed Dr. T. J. Arnup as guest speaker. Introduced by Bob Oliver, Dr. Arnup a former missionary doctor, gave an informative talk on present conditions in China and how the Chinese people are striving for world recognition. He concluded his talk by telling of the effects of Communism in districts in which he lived. The speaker was thanked by Douglas Buck.

Report Czech Reds Plan Mass Trial Of Traitors

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA, March 10 —(AP) — Rudolph Slansky and a score of other purged Czech Communist "traitors" recently were taken to Moscow and there forced to "confess" for a possible mass trial, it was reported here Sunday.

The reports, from usually well-informed western sources, speculated the Russians had supervised the cross-examinations and had laid the groundwork for a coming trial. The group was returned to Prague about a week ago, the informants asserted.

There has been increasing indications that the Czech Communist regime is planning a mass trial which may be as great as the Moscow trials in 1936. The Czechoslovak press appears to be in the process of preparing the Czech people psychologically for such a trial.

The Czechs are being told that the purged Communists were members of a Trotskyite-Zionist conspiracy aimed to overthrow the present regime with the support of the western powers.

Many of the group have been under arrest for months. The purge of "traitorous" elements reached its high point in late 1951 when Rudolph Slansky, secretary-general of the Czech Communist Party, was removed.

Scores of top party and government officials were arrested or ousted and the purge reached down to the lowest levels of the party.

Many, including Stansky, were of Jewish origin. The Communist press has been accusing the Zionists of partial responsibility for Czechoslovakia's present economic woes.

The long list of "traitors" who had been named in press and radio recently and who may be defendants in a mass trial include the following:

Rudolph Slansky, former Communist Party secretary-general, arrested four months ago.

Marie Svermova, his deputy, arrested a year ago.

Vlado Clementis, former foreign minister, arrested 13 months ago.

Ezven Loebl, former deputy minister of foreign trade, arrested in October, 1949.

Arthur London, former deputy foreign minister, arrested 13 months ago.

Oskar Klinger, a department chief in the Foreign Ministry.

Lieut.Gen. Bedrich Reicin, deputy defense minister, arrested a year ago.

Vilem Novy, former editor of the Communist newspaper Rude Pravo.

Diplomats here believe that any future trial may also include the army chief of staff, Varoslav Prochaska, who recently appeared, and Security Minister Ladislav Kopriva, arrested in January.

Drive Against Protestants Expected Again In Spain

SEVILLA, Spain, March 10 — (AP).—Pedro Cardinal Segura Saenz, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Sevilla, published a pastoral letter today warning against tolerance of Protestantism and other "heretical religions" in Spain.

A new campaign against Protestants now is expected. The government is known, however, to be upset by the letter and by an attack on a Protestant chapel here last Wednesday.

Youths invaded a Protestant chapel here during choir practice that day, insulted the pastor and burned hymn books and pews. This was the first anti-Protestant incident to come to light in months.

Cardinal Segura, senior prelate of Spain, warned the government not to trifle with Catholicism's position as the state religion in order to obtain favors from other countries in political negatiations.

"The spirit of Catholics is worried over fear that, under the pretext of politics, concessions gravely prejudicial to the Religion may be made," he said.

This was a reference to impending negotiations for United States aid in return for naval and air bases here.

Cardinal Segura said a campaign of friendliness toward Protestants began with the recent death of the King because of the "manifestations of grief and universal condolence."

As a result, he said, some apparently have come to believe that "all religions are equally acceptable in the presence of God," and the Protestant campaign in Spain increased in an extradordinarily grave manner."

He criticized recent statements by President Truman and the former U. S. Abmassador, Stanton Griffis.

Truman told a press conference Feb. 8 that he was not very fond of Franco's regime. Griffis said be believed the President's attitude was due to "intolerable delays" of the Spanish government in granting religious freedom.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

Brothers Guilty Of Stealing Copper Wire

Two teen-age brothers, Ronald and Douglas Hunt, 182 Westcott St., pleaded guilty to theft charges in police court today.

Ronald Hunt, 19, who had been previously convicted of theft and breaking and entering was sentenced to one year definite and six months indeterminate in reformatory. He was only recently released from reformatory after serving one year definite and two months indeterminate for breaking and entering.

The younger brother Douglas Hunt, 16, was placed on suspended sentence for two years. Magistrate W. R. Philp also advised Douglas Hunt to report to Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army during his two years' of probation.

Wire Stolen

The brothers were charged with stealing a quantify of scrap copper wire from an Erskine Ave. salvage firm.

Constable Douglas Farthing testified that he learned that the rear of the firm's warehouse had been broken into the night of March 6. Six pails of scrap copper wire weighing about 500 pounds were missing he said. The scrap wire is valued at 24 cents a pound.

On March 8, Constable Farthing said Donald Hunt tried to sell 203 pounds of the wire to another scrap dealer.

When the manager went to call police, he said, Hunt left. He was arrested later and admitted being in possession of the stolen copper, constable Farthing said. He also confessed that he and his brother had taken the copper from the Erskine Ave. warehouse.

Both brothers admitted selling quantities of the stolen copper wire previous to March 8.

Produced Money

Constable Farthing produced $24 in bills which he said Ronald Hunt admitted receiving for scrap wire, and $11 which the younger brother Douglas said he had received for the stolen wire.

Douglas Hunt, who had no previous record, is said to have acted only as a lookout, while his brother, Ronald, entered the warehouse. Constable Farthing said that about 400 pounds of scrap wire and four old batteries had been returned to the salvage company.

Ronald Hunt's record was produced which showed he had been convicted of three charges of theft here on June 1, 1950, when he was sentenced to reformatory for breaking and entering.

Hunt said he had not been able to find suitable employment since his release. He told Magistrate Philp that he had changed jobs several times because he could not make enough to pay his board and that was why he had stolen the wire.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked that Hunt be given a two year reformatory term. He should be given an opportunity to learn a trade," Mr. Bradshaw said. While he was at the Bowmanville Training School and Guelph, all he did was learn to milk cows.

Magistrate Philp said he agreed that Hunt should have a chance to choose and learn a trade, and that he would recommend to reformatory authorities that he be given an opportunity to do so.

Russian Budget Hailed As Peace Move

MOSCOW, March 10 (AP)— The Moscow press today hailed The new Russian budget as the "budget of peace" and contrasted it with the "war budgets" and Britain and the United States.

The budget, biggest in the Soviet Union's history, was approved Saturday night by the Supreme Soviet. (parliament). The legislatores made almost no change in the appropriation line-up submitted by Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev.

Total expenditures of 477,000,000,000 rubles — about $119,500,000,000 at the official rate—are planned. Of this almost 114,000,000,000 rubles is earmarked for the armed forces, the largest peace-time Soviet defence budget in history.

(United States state department experts said that actually at least one-half of the Soviet budget indirectly and directly is for military purposes. They estimated that 30 per cent of the Soviet Union's "national product" will go for the military program, as compared with 2 per cent in the U.S.)

Peaceful Policy

All papers devoted many columns to discussions of the budget. Much attention was paid to the statement of chairman Kornlyets of the lower house's budget committee that the proposed expenditures "testify to a peaceful policy."

(State department sources said that atomic development and expansion of war production facilities are not itemized under military headings in the Soviet budget, but are hidden under peaceful industrial and scientific enterprise.

(There is no market to determine the real value of the ruble internationally.)

P.C.V.S. Juniors Get Round From Oshawa

Jack Cullis' P.C.V.S. junior "A" cage quintet will carry the Garnet and Grey colors into the C.O.S.S.A. championship tournament in Toronto next Saturday. The quintet, although losing to Oshawa Generals 49-45 Saturday, won the final round 96-91.

During the regular season play the Collegiate won three and lost one to tie Central for the league leadership. The two-game points-to-count series opened Friday when P.C.V.S. won 51-42 in the Motor City.

In a grudge battle the St. Peter's High juniors finished stronger than P.C.V.S.' junior "B" team, also coached by Jack Cullis. The Saints edged out a 29-24 win.

The junior "A" game was marred by the fouls called on both teams for personal violations. P.C.V.S. lost three regulars, Corbett, Armstrong and Boorman, with five fouls, while Dan Griffin and Terry Roberts, the other starters, each had four called against them. Oshawa meanwhile lost Olynik, who Friday night was top scorer, and Ruskay.

During the last quarter play was ragged as the inexperienced players tried to hold the fort. The tricky Central players, Chase and Yeo, quickly took advantage of the weakness to run up the score and nearly win the round.

Good On Foul

Central's cagers were better on the foul shooting and this helped them to hold their lead. Out of a possible 35 chances to score, the Motor City quintet cashed in 17 times. P.C.V.S. had only 28 foul shots, scoring on 11.

With a fast break off a zone defence the Central cagers quickly broke into a healthy lead which threatened the Collegiate's round lead. They went ahead 10-4 at the first quarter, then were grounded by a furious Collegiate barrage. It ended at the half with the Garnet and Grey up 19-18.

But in the third quarter the fouls first struck the P.C.V.S. team. They lost star guard Ken Armstrong, then Jack Corbett, and Oshawa quickly climbed back into the lead 37-33. During the fourth Boorman and Allan scored enough to keep P.C.V.S. the round lead.

Boorman was the P.C.V.S. standout with his defensive rebounding and his scoring. He worked well with long and short shots for his 10 points to tie Dan Griffin and Terry Roberts for the Garnet and Grey scoring honors. Oshawa's Yeo topped the scoring with 20 points while Chase had 16.

In the junior "B" game, Coach Johnny Lynch's Saints in a fast first half allowed P.C.V.S. to take a 20-19 half-time lead. But in a close checking, low - scoring second half, S.P.S. outscored P.C.V.S. 10-4 for the win.

The Saints' Doug Galvin led the scoring with 13 points while team mate Legros had 10. Doug Ash was P.C.V.S.' top scorer with eight.

Lineups:

Junior "A" — P.C.V.S. (45): Griffin 10, Burgess, Boorman 10, Eastwood, Roberts 10, Corbett 3, Allan 4, Carleton 1, Armstrong 7, Marshall, Fowler, Foote.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Thousands of sport fans filed sadly past the body of Howie Morenz, lying in state in the Montreal Forum 15 years ago today. The great centre star of Montreal Canadiens, making a comeback at the age of 35, died of a heart attack some weeks after he broke a leg in a game against Chicago. His funeral was attended by more than 25,000 persons.

St. Kitts Squad Wins Series Against P.C.V.S.

Coach Bev Goulding's Garnet and Grey cagers overcame Saturday the shock of last week's trouncing by St. Catharine's Stars but couldn't overcome the 43-point deficit from the first game. In fact they couldn't overcome the Stars.

But the Garnet and Grey, while losing the second game to the Stars Saturday night 49-46, and also the round 123-77, came up with a rousing performance against the Stars, one of Ontario's best junior teams.

A week ago the Collegiate seniors appeared to have jumped out of their class when they met the Stars in the first game of the Ontario semi-finals. But Saturday night they showed they could hold their own and well at that.

A Tall Squad

The Stars, a quintet well-drilled in basketball fundamentals, averaged about six inches taller than the P.C.V.S. crew. Several times Saturday night they used it to advantage by easily outjumping the Collegiate cagers on jump balls and rebounds.

But the Goulding-coached boys were not to be neglected. Murray Grafstein, Dave Langhorne, Butch Hempstead and the rest, although much shorter, were leaping up to grab their share of rebounds. Last week in the first game the Stars virtually controlled things with their rebounding.

The Stars were experts. Whenever given an opportunity to shoot, anywhere within a 20-foot area, the ball dropped through without touching the hoop. In fact they had a variety of trick shots, hooks, backhands and others, all effective. Harrison, Martin and Wilkerson were the long-distance performers while Dube, possibly the best cager to appear in Peterborough this year, was good anywhere.

Ted Cranfield, with his dash and long field basket shooting, sparked the Garnet and Grey from the start. For him to take this time for his top display was fortunate, for the regular guards Bryon Young and Murray Grafstein fouled out early.

Cranfield's play seemed to spark the team and brought out the best in Dave Langhorne and Terry Brown. Dave Langhorne came back with his set shots in the second half to lead P.C.V.S.' scoring with 12 points. Brown's seven points came at opportune moments.

Young's driving-in for layups helped P.C.V.S. stay close, 14-8, in the first quarter. Brown, Cranfield and Langhorne collected points to match Dube's work in the second quarter, but were still down 24-17 at the half.

Young, Don Ash and Grafstein brought the score up to 29-27 in the third and from there until the end there was never more than a four-point margin.

Lineups:

P.C.V.S. (46): Ash 3, Young 6, Grafstein 3, Hempstead 6, Brown 7, Langhorne 12, Cranfield 8, Cunningham, Hendry.

St. Catharines (49): Dube 14, Harrison 12, Martin 12, Rieva 4, Wilkerson 7, Moar, Rea.

Campbellford Gains Final Midget Round

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10 — (ENS). — The largest crowd of the season, about 1,200 in number, saw Campbellford O.M.H.A. midgets emerge victorious from a hard-fought series, by defeating Richmond Hill on the semi-final round, in Campbellford Saturday night.

The game was close all the way through, but Campbellford managed to keep their five-goal lead on the round fairly intact, although Richmond Hill threatened to turn the tide on many occasions. Campbellford lost the game 8-7, but won the round 17-13. Atkinson and Youngberg stood out for the visitors, while Garvey and Wilson were tops for the locals. A large number of supporters from Richmond Hill were on hand for the game and did much to keep up the morale of their team.

Sticky ice in the third period caused tempers to run high, and spoiled many well set up plays. At one point Wilson of Campbellford received a five-minute major penalty for fighting, and Baker, star defenceman for the local lads, received three minor penalties in a row. He was also injured in the second period, when a puck caught him in the face, but returned to the game after being patched up.

Campbellford will likely take on Alvanston in the final round, which means a long motor trip to the Sarnia district, with a return game in Campbellford.

Richmond Hill — Goal, R. Bennett; defence, D. Pollitt and G. Crean; forwards, Le Cuyer, M. Chapman and B. Youngberg; alternates, R. Leuschner, N. Risebrough, R. Keith, P. Atkinson, O. Horwood, B. Brillinger, Cottrell.

Campbellford — Goal, Ed West; defence, Baker and Hendricks; forwards, G. Garvey, W. Wilson, D. Dooher; alternates, P. Girard, W. Gibson, J. Field, G. Ferguson, B. Potts, J. Petherick, J. Hagerman, J. Holmes, and P. Ingram.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton Mercurys, Canada's Olympic hockey team, defeated Switzerland 5-3 Sunday in Lausanne, Switzerland.

More than 14,000 spectators braved a heavy rain to watch the Canadians take revenge for the 5-4 defeat inflicted on them by Switzerland at Zurich last Tuesday.

The pace was slow because of the rain, although the ice was in good condition. The Canadians dominated the play throughout most of the game and only Switzerland's goalkeeper saved his team from a heavy defeat.

Canada's last representative in the third annual national Jewish Welfare Board basketball playoff in Baltimore was eliminated Sunday when Brooklyn trounced Toronto Y.M.H.A. 73-53 in the semi-final round. The other Canadian entry, Montreal Y.M.H.A. lost out in the opening round play-on Saturday night to a strong Baltimore Y.M.H.A. team 67-56.

Silar Dunklee of Sun Valley, Idaho, Sunday won the United States cross-country skiing championship in Paul Smiths, N. Y., by beating out Canadian champion Claude Richer of Ottawa, a student at St. Lawrence University, by 34 seconds. Dunklee's time over a 11.3 mile course was 1:30.-03.

Johnny Bratton, Chicago welterweight, Sunday withdrew from next Friday's fight against Johnny Saxton of Brooklyn at New York's Madison Square Garden when he injured his hand in training. Bratton hurt his hand while boxing Orlando Zulueta of Havana, at his Pleasantville, N. J., training camp.

The executive council committee of the Swiss Ice Hockey Federation decided in Zurich, Switzerland Sunday that the 1953 world hockey championships will be played at Zurich and Basle from March 5 to 15. The tourney previously was awarded to Switzerland.

Canada and the United States split the honors in Banff, Alta., Sunday and Saturday in the fourth North American Ski championships. Three of the six titles went to each country.

At the Seigniory Club, Que., Mrs. H. G. Douglas of Hamilton Thistle Sunday was awarded the Anderson Trophy, emblematic of victory in the 17th annual mixed curling bonspiel. Members of the team were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith and H. G. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas as skip.

Intent May Be Horse Of Year

ARCADIA, Calif., March 10 — (AP).—Intent, who was just another race horse until a month or so ago, set his sights today on the title of 1952's horse of the year. A lot of horses will kick up a lot of dust before the decision comes down, but as of today Intent has (a) a record amount of money to his credit; (b) a much better leg on the mythical trophy than Hill Prince or Counterpoint, to name a couple of leading challengers.

His owner, Harry Isaacs, a Baltimore textile man, has banked $181,075 on Intent's accomplishments at the current Santa Anita meeting, a record topping Great Circle's $152,574 here last year.

To do it, Intent won three rich Santa Anita fixtures, although he was disqualified and put second in the $100,000 handicap for bumping Miche in the stretch. That cost Isaacs another $84,000. But in the Maturity, Intent returned $112,000.

The meeting brought the Kentucky bred's total earnings to $192,650. He didn't race as a two-year-old and picked up only a little over $11,000 as a three-year-old.

He was the big noise not only of the meeting but of Getaway Day, Saturday, when he ran down Be Fleet and Bryan G. to take the $33,200 first prize in the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano at a mile and three-quarters. A crowd of 49,000 made Intent the favorite for the first time all season. But he still paid $5 to win.

Accept Oshawa In Niagara Loop

TORONTO, March 10.—Oshawa was accepted into the Niagara District Baseball League fold here Sunday, upon application of their sponsor and president, John Harris.

Inclusion of Oshawa makes the N.D.B.L. a six-team circuit with the other teams: Niagara Falls Fords, Welland Stokes, St. Catharines Saints, Tonawanda (N.Y.) Dodgers and North Tonawanda (N.Y.) Eldreges.

Oshawa was suspended from the Toronto Viaduct Major League last season, made tentative advances to re-enter again this season, as well as applying to both the Intercounty and Niagara district organizations.

Toronto Falls To The "Y" In Volleyball

Peterborough's Y.M.C.A. volleyballers romped home to three victories in easy fashion over the Toronto Kodaks Saturday afternoon at the "Y" gym. The wins gave them the Toronto-Peterborough district round of the Ontario intermediate volleyball playoffs.

Two weeks ago the Y.M.C.A. sextet won three and lost one to tie Kodaks in the first game of the round. A third entry, the University of Toronto, went winless and so defaulted in Saturday's games.

Those wins placed the Y.M.C.A. into the Ontario semi-finals against the Ukrainians, the Estonians and the Latvians. Those Toronto teams play weekly before 350 fans at Central Y.M.C.A.

Howard David, Lloyd Ash, and Barney Dundas, assisted by Ken Kingston, Errol Hanbidge and Fraser Wade, spiked the "Y" entry to a 15-5 win in the first game. The first five minutes were nip and tuck, one time Toronto leading 3-2. But the spiking by Ash and David soon rolled up the score in easy fashion.

The second game was the best of the afternoon with Gord Burns, Joe Stewart and Barney Dundas spiking. Kodaks took an early 5-2 score, then the score was tied, and again the Kodaks' team went up. The score was later tied at 10-all and 12-all before Burns and Dundas spiked for the winning points, 15-12.

After losing the first two games the Kodaks seemed to lose their spirit and the "Y" romped to an easy 15-12 win in the final game. At one time the "Y" held a 12-3 score, David, Burns and Stewart spiking, helped by Kingston, Hanbidge and Dundas.

Peterborough's superior height and excellent blocking won the games for the "Y". The Y.M.C.A. had nine tall players working each into at least one of the three games while Toronto had only three tall men to rely upon.

The Y.M.C.A. players could all block well and at times used two and three men blocking. Meanwhile Toronto had only three players who could block effectively.

Kodaks took an early lead in the first game and tied one and won two from the Bugs, the Grasshoppers won one and lost two to the Mosquitoes,

Socialist Peers Aristocracy Of Trade Union

By ROBERT F. S. JONES

LONDON, March 10. (AP)—A peer in Britain these days has to be pretty smart, or pretty lucky, if he doesn't want to end up a pauper.

Inheriting a title isn't what it used to be, what with death duties swallowing up most of the cash and land that goes with it.

That doesn't mean the peerage is dead or dying. During six years of post-war Labor government the aristocracy of tomorrow began taking shape—the aristocracy of the trade unionist.

During the Labor regime nearly 80 peers were created—and about three-quarters of them have heirs.

Some of these were war heroes like Earl Mountbatten, Viscount Montgomery, Viscount Alexander and Baron Tedder.

But the majority of the post-war peers have been politicians or trade unionists, honored for services to the labor cause. Included in the list are a miner's son, a former shop assistant, a union secretary who was once a newsboy and a teacher.

Not Ancient

The peerage isn't as old as the hills—in fact most titles were created in the last 50 years. There are about 850 pers in Britain now —and 540 of them were created between 1900 and 1950.

In almost every case the new Labor peers have followed tradition and taken out coats of arms.

Coats of arms are complicated and expensive. They cost about £105 and are designed by the Royal College of Heralds—set up in the days when every knight and nobelman wore his badge to identify himself on the field of battle.

They are described in archaic and traditional terms of their own and generally include some reference to the owner's name or occupation. For instance, Lord Crook —a former union secretary—has a shepherd's crook in his arms. Lord Quibell, who was once a builder, includes a trowel and a pair of dividers in his.

The seeds of a new aristocracy have been sown by the Socialists but in 100 years time there probably will be little difference between the new and the old.

The settings won't be the same, of course. More and more of the stately homes of Britain are going under the auctioneer's hammer and their former owners are moving into modest flats or city houses. Families who for centuries have been landowners are turning to commerce to get their living. Castles and granges are getting too expensive to keep up in these days of rising prices.

In the opinion of L. G. Pine, editor of Burke's Peerage and authority on British aristocracy, by the end of the century no one in Britain will hold an estate of more than 5,000 acres unless he is phenomenally rich.

Refuse To Place Responsibility

NIAGARA FALLS, March 10—(CP)—A coroner's jury Friday indicated that 24-year-old Dorabelle Mae Pollock was killed by a train, but refused to place any responsibility for her death.

Miss Pollock died Feb. 24, the day after her unconscious body was found beside the railroad tracks near a level crossing about 10 miles from her farm home overlooking the Niagara river. The jury found death was caused by a fractured skull.

Miss Pollock was found a few hours after her 20-year-old sister, Violet, disappeared. The inquest failed to shed any new light on the girl's disappearance.

Train engineer Frank Davis of St. Thomas said he was travelling about 15 miles an hour when he saw a woman in a green coat walking toward the track. He said she was within six feet of the crossing when he lost sight of her because of the height of the engine.

"Before I lost sight of her," he said, "she stepped right onto the track in front of us."

West Germany's Capital Somewhat Rustic

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, March 10 — (AP) — Pig pens and chicken yards lie within the shadow of west Germany's parliament building.

Sheep regularly invade the parliamentary lawn to nibble the green grass.

Guards recently shot a boar in the grounds of the presidential palace. They cooked and ate it.

Bonn is a somewhat rustic capital and has many oddities. Three years ago it was a quiet little university town, half-destroyed by the war, best known as the birthplace of Beethoven.

Then the new German government, the three allied high commissions and diplomats of many countries swooped in, giving it a boomtown atmosphere.

Parliament was plunked into a teachers academy overlooking the Rhine river. The parliamentarians work in a goldfish bowl. In the summer there's a beer garden just outside the glass-walled chamber where they meet. Plump German women eat their cream cakes there and stare at the parliamentarians in action. Debate is punctuated by the "toot, toot" of barges chugging past on the Rhine.

Bonn is a four-currency town. All the foreigners carry German money and the special occupation scrip issued by Britain, the United States and France.

There are almost more barracks than buildings in Bonn. It's one of the oldest garrison towns in Europe.

That's one reason Bonn became the capital. The Germans could find no place to put their new government in 1949. So somebody said "let's put it in all those barracks in Bonn."

They did —and Bonn became a paradise for landlords. It's now a place where nobody dares admit his wife is dead because he would be swamped with 1,400 applications to rent her room.

Even the parliament building is so tiny that only a handful of its members have private offices. Most of them conduct their business in the lounge. This is being remedied with a new seven-storey "skyscraper."

Throughout the city, jerry-built structures are springing up along the worn, cobblestone streets in a mad rush to provide quarters for government offices and workers.

Transportation, the telephone system and night life aren't keeping abreast of Bonn's booming expansion.

The street cars are so overcrowded that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's secretary plugs along to work every morning on a bicycle. The town's telephone switchboard became so jammed the dial system was scrapped for new telephones.

As for the night life, there are only three night clubs and six bars in Bonn. The city health clinic says there are eight professional street walkers.

MATERIAL WITNESS—Held by Toronto police as a material witness in connection with the wounding of two detectives by two gunmen is Mrs. Anna Camero, 28-year-old blonde whose car (later reported stolen) was identified as the one driven by the gunmen. It was found abandoned three blocks from the scene of the shooting.

Sir Ralph Richardson To Star In British Theatre Festival

By JACQUES POUTEAU

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England, March 10 —(Reuters)— This birthplace of William Shakespeare is once more bustling with preparations to receive a record flow of pilgrims for the 93rd season of Shakespearean plays opening at the Memorial Theatre March 13.

For nearly eight months, this little Warwickshire market town where the great poet-dramatist was born in 1564, will again teem with visitors.

The natural attraction of the Shakespeare festival has been enhanced in recent years by the growth in its artistic prestige to a point where its performances often outshine those given in London at the Old Vic.

Last year the playhouse, which has redecorated the previous winter and altered to increase the seating capacity to 1,300, accommodated the record figure of 335,000 spectators during the 31-week season.

Richardson To Star

The season this year will be 33 weeks and the theatre authorities again expect more than 300,000 spectators.

At the end of February, 70,000 tickets for the first 16 weeks of performances had been sold in Britain and abroad.

One of this season's attractions will be the first appearance at Stratford of Sir Ralph Richardson, a top-rank British actor and two other newcomers, British actress Margaret Leighton and American actress Mary Ellis.

Anthony Quayle, who has produced eight plays at Stratford since he became director in 1948, will devote himself exclusively to acting this year.

He will begin by playing the title role in "Coriolanus," which opens this year's season. Although ranking among Shakespeare's great tragedies, "Coriolanus" is comparatively rarely performed.

March 25, there will be a revival of last year's Michael Benthall's production of "The Tempest". It also is the play chosen for this year's Shakespeare birthday celebrations April 23.

Glen Byam Shaw's production of "As You Like It" will be presented April 29 and, June 10, John Gielgud's production of "Macbeth" will be given.

Australia Makes 80% Import Reduction

CANBERRA, March 10 (Reuters)—Emergency import cuts of 80 per cent in many consumer items were announced by the government Saturday in a drive to make ends meet in Australia's international trade.

The regulations, which came into effect today, mean an overall slashing of the import trade by 50 per cent. They require importers to have customs-department approval for goods from all sources—a restriction which previously applied only to dollar areas.

The move strikes a heavy blow at British goods but it was agreed upon at the Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Conference in London last month, Prime Minister Robert Menzies said.

New Austerity For U.K. Seen In First Conservative Budget

Bevan Avoids Vote Of Censure By Clear Majority

LONDON, March 11. (AP)—Aneurin Bevan today defeated an attempt by Clement Attlee's moderates to censure him for bucking Labor party views on rearmament. The motion was defeated 172-62 at a party meeting in which Attlee at one time was booed. All that Attlee salvaged was a watered-down version of restoring "standing orders" of party leadership. Under standing orders, rebels can be expelled from the party. But the resolution as finally adopted left loopholes for the Bevanites.

The party decision avoided censure of Bevan and his 56 followers. Bevan had not recanted in any of his beliefs and headed off an ironclad crackdown on his bloc.

The resolution said:

"Believing that the disregarding of decisions arrived at by the parliamentary party gravely damages the party as a whole and makes it impossible for the parliamentary party to discharge its duties as an effective opposition, this meeting decides to impose such standing orders as will make it obligatory on all members to carry out decisions of the parliamentary party, taking into account the traditional conscience clause."

Key Words

The key words were "such standing orders." If the words were "the standing orders," Bevan and his followers would have been required to toe the line closely hereafter or face expulsion. The reference to the conscience clause also is an out for the dozen or so in Bevan's following who oppose Britain's rearmament for political reasons.

The party split came to a head last Wednesday when Bevan, former health minister, and his bloc refused to follow party orders during a commons vote on supporting Britain's rearmament program—a program launched by the Attlee government—but questioning the ability of the Conservative government to carry it out.

Butler Reduces Food Subsidies By Nearly Half

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, March 11 (CP). — Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today reduced Britain's food supplies by nearly half, increasing household budgets on a wide range of basic food products.

The subsidies which now cost the government slightly more than £400,000,000 a year, will be reduced to £250,000,000 annually.

Butler estimated this may mean an extra one shilling sixpence a week expenditure for every person in the country.

The Chancellor's decision on subsidies had been awaited almost breathlessly because of its possible political effects.

Banking and business circles here had argued that subsidies would be regarded abroad—in North America and on the continent—as a test of Britain's resolve to strengthen the pound sterling.

Distort Economy

It is understood, for instance, that official Canadian circles regard the subsidies as tending to distort Britain's economy and to deflect attention from the seriousness of the financial crisis.

On the other hand, the Trades Union Congress, official mouthpiece of organized labor, asked for an increase in the subsidies.

Maurice Webb, Food Minister in the late Labor Government, said several weeks ago that a reduction in food subsidies would produce "something like a revolution" in Britain.

The subsidy bill totalled about 1-10th of the budget. Grants covered bread and flour (£90,000,000); milk (£65,000,000); meat and bacon (about £45,000,000); eggs (£28,000,000); butter (£27,000,000); cheese (£20,000,000) and some other items.

Included are so-called "welfare" subsidies, covering milk and vitamin foods for expectant mothers and babies provided free or at nominal prices.

A leading argument against the subsidies has been that they benefit rich as well as poor.

Missionaries' Plane Seen, All Said Safe

R.C.A.F. Search Ends For Four Priests Missing Three Days

EDMONTON, March 11. — (CP)—An aircraft missing in northern Alberta since Saturday with four missionaries aboard was sighted at 10:45 a.m. E.S.T. today five miles south of Fort McMurray. The men were believed to be safe.

The single-engine Norseman apparently made a forced landing in an open area.

The pilot, Rev. William Leising, 39-year-old Oblate father, formerly of Buffalo, N.Y., was reported to have planned to refuel at Fort McMurray, 240 miles north of Edmonton, after taking off from the Alberta capital Saturday afternoon.

The report of the plane sighting was made by a Fort McMurray resident.

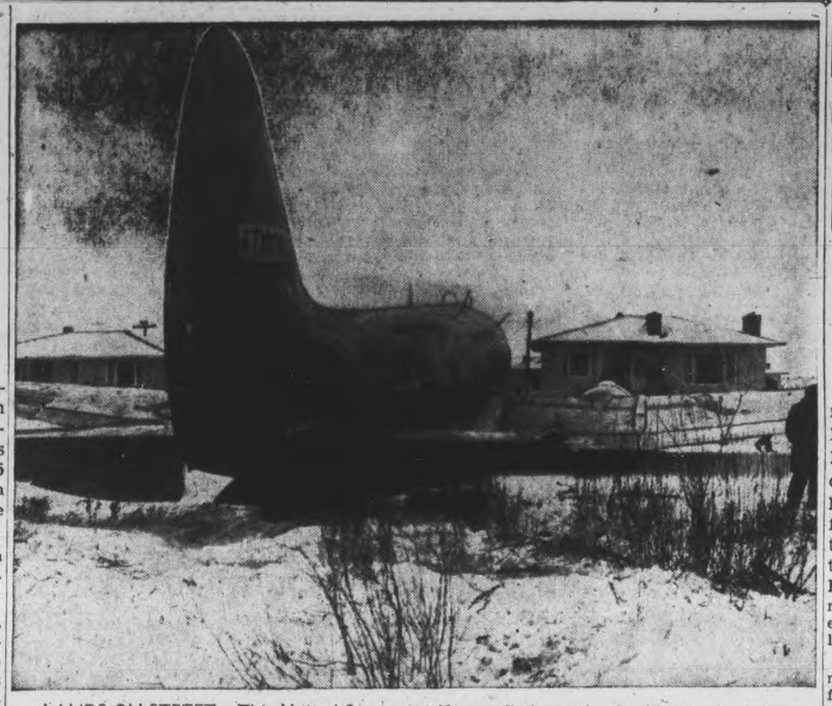
Air Search Starts

The R.C.A.F. launched a search this morning. A Dakota flew north from Edmonton to make a low sweep of the rugged bush and lake area and another plane was called in from Rivers, Man.

The transport department reported that Father Leising left Edmonton without filing a flight plan, as required by new government regulations. However, it was reported here by a church source that he planned a 450-mile flight to Fort Smith, N.W.T., just across the Alberta border.

Passengers aboard the plane were tentatively identified as 20-year-old Brother George (or John) Doughterty of Philadelphia, Brother Anthony Petrin, 38, of Timmins, Ont., and Brother Michael Dabrowski, a Polish missionary from Kielce, Poland, with 25 years' service in the north country.

The Norseman is owned by the Apostolic Vicariate of Mackenzie in the Northwest Territories. Planes are used by the Oblate Fathers to supply missionary outposts from Fort McMurray north to the Arctic coast.



LANDS ON STREET—This United States Air Force transport plane crash-landed on an Edmonton street within 75 feet of a row of houses just south of the Municipal Airport. The plane crashed soon after taking off on a flight to the far North. It skidded 800 feet across a snow-covered open area to a safe belly-landing. None of the five crew members was hurt. The plane was understood bound for a project of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.

Economic Woes Resulted Because Exports Failed To Expand—Butler

Excess Profits Tax of 30% Introduced, Food Subsidies Slashed, Gas Taxes Boosted In "Critical Budget"

LONDON, March 11. (CP)—A drastic cut in imports and new restrictions on gasoline and excess profits today gave Britons a new round of austerity. But the Chancellor of the Exchequer told the Commons there will be no increased taxes on tobacco and liquor. Chancellor Richard Butler, making his first budget speech, said food subsidies will be reduced to £250,000,000 a year, a reduction of about £160,000,000. Food subsidies are one of the means by which the British government held down the cost of living.

Slashing of food subsidies will mean increases in a wide range of food prices which may cost an average of about one shilling and sixpence a head per week.

Among foods which will be increased in price will be meat, bread, flour, milk and tea.

Family allowances given to every family for each child under 16 years of age—but not including the first child—will be jumped from five shillings to eight shillings a week.

Butler also announced an increase in automobile license fees from £10 to £12, 10 shillings.

Loan Rates Up

He announced an increase in the bank rate for loans in an effort to make money dearer and to halt inflation.

The excess-profits tax was promised by Winston Churchill last fall before his Conservatives won the Oct. 25 election.

The tax, retroactive to January, will skim 30 per cent of everything over a standard reckoned on the last three years' earnings. It will have a ceiling of 18 per cent of total profits.

The gasoline tax brings the price of an imperial gallon in Britain to four shillings, three pence, an increase of 7½ pence.

The announcement that there will be no new tax on tobacco and liquor is gratifying to most Britons. Cigarettes cost about three shillings, sixpence for 20.

He announced a juggling in income-tax rates which will exempt some 2,000,000 low-income earners from any tax.

Corporations also will get some tax relief to help offset the new excess-profits tax. The rate on earnings held in reserve, now five per cent, will be cut in half. The rate on earnings paid as dividends, now 25 per cent, will be cut to 17½ per cent.

Budget Highlights

These are some of the highlights of the budget speech R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, made in the House of Commons in London today:

Income-tax rates will be juggled in such a way as to free 2,000,000 Britons from paying any tax. The purpose is to encourage people to work harder and longer.

An excess-profits tax will be imposed retroactive to January of this year.

A further cut of about £100,000,000 in imports. This will bring import cuts announced in the last few months up to £600,000,000.

The tax on gasoline will be increased to four shillings, threepence an imperial gallon, an increase of 7½ pence.

A bank-rate interest increase from 2½ to four per cent, the chancellor of the exchequer announced today.

Food subsidies were slashed nearly in half, thus raising the cost to the householder on many basic foods.

Ontario Budget Given March 20

TORONTO, March 11 (CP) — The Ontario budget will likely be introduced in the legislature Thursday, March 20, it was learned Monday. It will be Premier Frost's 10th budget.

The government hopes to wind up debate on the throne speech before that date. A night sitting has been called for Wednesday in an effort to speed up the debate.

Detours For Lunch Fireman Fined

HAMILTON, March 11 (CP).—The fireman who detoured a 60-foot aerial truck to pick up his lunch has been fined seven days' pay.

Fire Chief E. J. Nixon, after an investigation Monday, stated that fireman Russell Malcolmson would have to work seven statutory holidays for the offence.

On Friday the aerial truck — under the supervision of fireman Malcolmson—was being brought from an east end station to central fire hall.

Fireman Malcolmson directed the driver to detour, the Chief stated. The aerial truck swept wide around a corner and crashed into a Department of Agriculture car.

Total damage was estimated at $250.

Ottawa Limits Russ Diplomats

OTTAWA, March 11—(CP)—The federal government announced today the Russian Embassy staff here has been informed not to go outside the Ottawa area without notifying the External Affairs Department.

Leonid Teplov, Charge d'Affaires at the embassy, was informed of the curb in a formal note this morning.

Cabinet aprpoved the step, taken in conjunction with Canada's allies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and in retaliation for Russian restrictions on movements of Western diplomats in Moscow.

Soviet Proposes Conference On Germany

MOSCOW, March 11—(AP)—The Soviet Union proposed today an immediate big-four conference to reunite divided Germany and prepare for a peace treaty barring the Germans from alliances aimed at any of their Second World War enemies. Western observers in Moscow predicted Britain, the United States and France would turn down the proposal, which included a detailed outline of principles which the Russians said should be the basis of the peace treaty.

(West Germany is one of six governments negotiating to form a European army linked to the Atlantic alliance against Communism—an alliance which Russia has insisted is aggressively directed against her.)

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the plan to big-three diplomats in Moscow Monday night.

A final peace with Germany was pictured in the identical Soviet notes to the Western big three as the key to a "once-and-for-all" easement of east-west tensions.

Help Stabilize Peace

"The signing of a peace treaty with Germany will be conducive to the improving of the international state of affairs as a whole, thus being conducive to the establishing of a stable peace," the Soviet communication said.

Russia put the unity of Germany ahead of a peace treaty draft, saying the treaty must be worked out with the participation of a general German government.

After the big four and Germany agreed on a draft, it would be presented to an "international conference where all the interested state would be represented."

The Soviet list of principles for a German peace seemed identical with previous Russian proposals on the subject.

They called for putting the German borders on the lines set by

Camouflaged Red Base Left In Blazing Ruins

SEOUL, Korea, March 11. (AP)—United States jet pilots turned a huge camouflaged Red supply base into blazing ruins today in the most intense attack of the Korean war with flaming jellied gasoline. The flames spread over a four-square-mile area of the supply depot.

"It looked like hell itself," said some of the pilots, who flew a total of 250 sorties in waves.

Swarms of Red jets streaked in from Manchuria to try to protect the base near Sinmak, 30 miles northwest of the truce village, Panmunjom.

U.S. Sabre jet pilots shot down three MIGs in air battles, probably destroyed another and damaged five.

That boosted Red planes knocked out to 19 in two days. The Air Force reported seven MIGs downed and three damaged Monday. U.S. losses, if any, are reported only weekly.

Looked Like Village

F-80 Shooting Stars attacked the supply depot, camouflaged so it "looked like an innocent farming village." Pilots said they could see it was a fake. Then they let loose.

They poured 33,300 gallons of searing napalm (jellied gasoline) on the area, blasted it with 300,000 pounds of explosives, and raked it with 45,000 machine-gun bullets.

They attacked through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire. The Shooting Stars unloaded their bombs, roared back to base and came back with new loads.

Pilots said they demolished at least 32 Red anti-aircraft positions but lost count of the number of installations and Red troops destroyed.

Nothing Much Left

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said they still were attacking the flaming area at nightfall.

"There isn't much of anything left of that place," one pilot said.

The air war continued to overshadow ground action along the thawing front lines.

A U.S. Eighth Army briefing officer said the Reds Monday failed to throw a single probing attack at U.N. lines. Only a few small patrol clashes were reported.

Toronto Tipster Receives Threats

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—A Toronto hotel clerk who gave police the Montreal address of gunman Steve Suchan said today he has received anonymous threats.

Suchan, shot and wounded in a swank Montreal apartment, was sought in connection with recent Toronto bank robberies and the shooting of two Toronto detectives last Thursday.

The clerk's tip led police to the Montreal apartment where they ambushed Suchan.

Police were reluctant to discuss the threats. The clerk, who was not named, is reported to be under police "surveillance."

The search today continued in Toronto without let-up but there was a feeling in police circles that Jackson and Boyd had fled.

The threats to the clerk, a police official said, were like those received by Arnold Schuster, 24-year-old Brooklyn pants salesman, who "fingered" Willie (The Actor) Sutton. Schuster was shot to death in Brooklyn Saturday night.

Toronto's Mayor Allan Lamport, in an interview today, agreed with Judge Robert Forsyth who said Monday the city is on the way to becoming a crime centre. The Mayor said the way to check its progress in that direction is for polic to crack down on lawbreakers and for the courts to hand out stiffer penalties for crimes of violence involving weapons.

"If every judge realized, as does Judge Forsyth, the terrible crime potential of a city of this size, we'd have fewer policemen in the hospital".

Ask Court Order Rail Strike End

CLEVELAND, O., March 11 — (AP).—The government today asked the federal court to order three rail unions to end their strike against two rail lines "immediately."

The request for an injunction order is expected to be considered without delay.

The army, which has controlled the railroads since Aug. 27, 1950, also asked the court to keep engineers, firemen and conductors from spreading the walkout to other railroads.

Since the surprise strike started Sunday, only the New York Central Lines west of Buffalo and the St. Louis Terminal have been targets of the three rail-operating brotherhoods. About 6,000 men are on strike, and an additional 25,000 New York Central employees have been laid off.

French Premier Wins First Vote

PARIS, March 11 — (CP)—Premier Antoine Pinay today won his first vote in the National Assembly by a vote of 293 to 101.

Only the Communists opposed Pinay in the vote of approval for his new right-of-centre cabinet. Pinay is pledged to continue French support of the Atlantic alliance, the fight against Communist-led rebels in Indo-China and a rigorous tax collection reform to finance a contribution to defence.

He has promised to defer the 15-per-cent tax increase proposed by Premier Edgar Faure, his predecessor, until he sees if he can collect enough money from tax dodgers.

Pinay brought his cabinet, the first right-wing government in France since the war, before parliament for the first time today. The session was temporarily suspended because of wild disorder.

Belgium And Greece Restrict Russ Envoys

By The Canadian Press

Greece and Belgium today joined countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which clamped restrictions on travel of Russian diplomats.

Other countries that have taken action to curb movements of Communist diplomats are Canada, Britain, the United States, France, the Netherlands and Italy.

In Athens today, the foreign office said it is notifying the Soviet embassy that henceforth the staff of the embassy and Tass, the Russian news agency, may not go more than 24 miles from the centre of the capital without permission.

In Brussels, it was announced that Belgium decided to confine Iron Curtain diplomats to Brabant province unless they get permission.

Some Ethics In Revolution Allow Opponents To Flee

HAVANA, Cuba, March 11 — (AP) — Veteran revolutionary Fulgencio Batista said today he might become Prime Minister and head a new regime after a cleanup of "thieving and gangsterism in government."

He promised elections for a new government after the cleanup.

With army backing, Batista ousted the government of President Carlos Prio Socarras before dawn Monday. Two men killed in a brief gun battle at the presidential palace were the only reported casualties.

Batista's forces were reported in command of police, army and navy stations in Cuba's five outlying provinces.

In the best traditions of Latin American politics, there was a rush by Batista opponents to embassies and foreign shores for asylum.

Three Cuban army generals and eight other Cubans arrived at Miami in two Cuban army planes. Heading them was Gen. Otalio Soca Llanes, assistant army chief of staff under Prio.

The 51-year-old Batista, who ruled Cuba from 1934 until 1944—first as a behind-the-scenes dictator and then as President—this time called himself "Chief of the Revolution." He named a 15-man cabinet of civilians, replaced top military and police officers as well as Havana's mayor.

Batista is barred from the presidency until October, 1952, by a Cuban law requiring a former President to stay out of office eight years.

President Prio, who had left the presidential palace Monday just ahead of Batista-controlled army tanks, took refuge early today in the Mexican Embassy. He was expected to ask asylum in Mexico, where he lived in exile from 1935 to 1946.

Mexico was expected to grant his request and to start negotiations for his safe conduct there.

The government overthrow came in the midst of the campaign for presidential elections June 1 in which Batista was a candidate. He at once postponed the balloting indefinitely.

Italian General Quits NATO Job

ROME, March 11 (AP)—Gen. Maurizio Lazzaro de Castiglioni of Italy has resigned as commander of land forces in southern Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a high Italian source said today.

The reason was said to be Greek and Turkish opposition to placing their troops under his leadership.

Gen. Efisio Marras, Italian chief-of-staff, asked Castiglioni to reconsider his resignation, the informant said, but Castiglioni rejected the request.

Eisenhower was reported to have worked out plans to put Greeks and Turks under Admiral Robert B. Carney of the United States, allied commander-in-chief for southern Europe.

Highland Creek Floods 70 Families Stranded

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—Some 70 families were stranded today on an island at nearby Highland Creek village following last night's rainstorm.

The section was cut off when three feet of water roared over the concrete causeway which served as a bridge. Only a few residents were able to make their way up a 200-foot bank on the other side of the ice-choked island. One hundred school children were stranded and five families had to be evacuated.

New Zealand Cancelling Non-Sterling Area Imports

WELLINGTON, N. Z., March 11 (CP).—New Zealand today cancelled all licences for imports from Canada, the United States, Japan and other non-sterling countries.

Prime Minister Sidney Holland said the government will review the situation and grant new import licences on a reduced scale.

The action is New Zealand's part in the drive by sterling area countries to reduce trade balance with the dollar countries.

Holland announced that this attempt at selective cutting of imports is not so much for New Zealand's economy—which he described as sound because of trade adjustments started a year ago.

Instead, it was New Zealand's way of helping the sterling bloc generally.

He emphasized that there will be no restrictions on imports from sterling countries.

However, he disclosed that import licencing is being reimposed on motor vehicles from all sources.

There would also be attempts to increase New Zealand exports to dollar countries.

At a recent London conference, aimed at finding ways of relieving economic problems of the sterling bloc, Holland estimated New Zealand would have a surplus on the year's trading of £5,000,000 with non-sterling countries.

The conference asked New Zealand to increase the surplus to £12,000,000. The conference later asked for £25,000,000.

Holland said the moves announced today were necessary if this goal were to be reached.

8 Firemen Overcome In Montreal Blaze

MONTREAL, March 11—(CP)—Eight firemen were overcome by smoke Monday night while battling a brief but stubborn fire in a two-storey St. Lawrence Boulevard building.

Three returned to their posts after being treated on the scene. Two others were taken to hospital but are expected to be released shortly.

Fire broke out in boxes of acetate, owned by a fur-trimming concern on the ground floor.

Penitentiaries College Opened At Kingston

KINGSTON, March 11 (CP)—A penitentiaries staff college, established by the federal department of justice and believed to be the only institution of its kind in North America, was opened here Monday.

The college, in the former residence of Senator W. Rupert Davies on the Kingston penitentiary reserve was officially opened by Joseph McCulley, deputy commissioner of penitentiaries. Commsisioner Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson of Ottawa was unable to attend.

Deputy wardens and chief trade instructors from across Canada are attending the first conference here.

Mr. McCulley said the college will provide two main types of instructors. A six-weeks course for custodian officers in basic training on the purposes of imprisonment, psychology and rehabilitation, and a 10-day course for specialized groups such as teachers, chaplains, accountants, storekeepers and classification officers. They will discuss common problems and work out new techniques for the operation of Canada's prisons.

Gardiner Tightens Sask. Blockade, Regina Meatless

By The Canadian Press

Restrictions in Southern Saskatchewan aimed at checking foot-and-mouth disease among livestock there have been tightened amid demands that provincial embargoes on meat and livestock movement be relaxed. Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced Monday in Regina that movement of livestock or fresh meat into the quarantine area around Regina was prohibited. Movement of livestock and meat out of the area was banned early in the two-week-old campaign against foot-and-mouth disease.

Main purpose of this move, Mr. Gardiner said, was to ensure that a grower who might bring in a herd would not carry the virus of foot-and-mouth out with him.

Another step which may be taken is to enlarge the quarantine zone and the buffer area which wings it. Mr. Gardiner said the buffer zone will be extended in whatever way will meet with the wishes of the Manitoba government.

Manitoba banned movement of livestock and meats through the province. Similar embargoes are in effect in British Columbia, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

When he flew to Regina last week, Mr. Gardiner said one of his jobs would be to try to get inter-provincial embargoes relaxed.

J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, said Monday in Regina the S.F.U. asked the federal government to use its constitutional powers to clear inter-provincial trade in livestock.

Want Power Used

The S.F.U. wants the power used if the province's don't accede to requests for removal of embargoes on livestock. Mr. Phelps also said the union requested penalties for buyers and packers who buy or offer prices for hogs below government floor prices.

He said the union is pressing for a full investigation into the administration of competence of the federal veterinarian service in dealing with the initial outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the Regina area.

Agricultural Minister David Ure of Alberta added his voice to those demanding federal action against inter-provincial restrictions on movement of livestock.

He successfully moved a resolution in the Alberta Legislature asking the federal government to take immediate action. The resolution would have embargoes removed from importation and transportation of dressed livestock and carcasses approved by federal inspectors.

In Regina, members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L) asked the government to over-ride the provincial restrictions.

Meek Sentenced To Be Hanged In Farm Murder

CORNWALL, March 11—(CP)—Elias Meek, 21, Monday night was sentenced to be hanged June 10.

The Cornwall district farmhand was convicted of the Sept. 28 knife murder of Mrs. Dolly Alguire at her farm home, 10 miles north of here.

When jury foreman Herbert Riley of Cornwall announced the verdict after four hours deliberation, the only sound that could be heard in the crowded court room was the sobbing of Meek's two sisters.

Plans To Appeal

Meek's defence counsel, J. C. Horwitz of Ottawa, immediately announced he would appeal the verdict handed down by Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen.

When Mr. Justice Aylen asked Meek if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Meek quietly replied: "No sir".

As the judge passed sentence, Allan Alguire, the murdered woman's husband wept openly. Meek's aged father sat motionless beside defence counsel Horwitz, then leaned forward and shook hands with him.

Dealing at some length with the question of insanity in his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice Aylen pointed out that expert psychiatrists were unable to agree in testimony as to the mental state of Meek.

He said the experts were not trying the case. The jurymen themselves must decide whether Meek wilfully and knowingly killed Mrs. Alguire or whether he might have killed her while insane.

Lower Prices Spread As Support Slips

TORONTO, March 11 (CP) — Stock market prices drifted lower today in early afternoon dealings as yesterday's decline spread to all sections.

Industrials, golds, base metals and western oils opened irregularly as slightly firmer support checked industrials' and base metals' recession. Within the first hours, however, support weakened and industrials and metals against turned lower. The trend then spread rapidly to golds and oils.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,859,000 shares.

Papers, refining oils and manufacturing companies led industrials lower. Steels and retail stores held gains and losses in balance but agricultures, constructions and miscellaneous issues weakened. Banks and utilities edged upward.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Central Explorers, Federated Petroleum, Long Island Petroleum, Scurry and Trans Empire traded lower.

Base meals slipped as Cassiar, Coldstream Copper, International Nickel, Mindamar, Quebec Manitou, United Asbestos and United Keno Hill posted losses ranging to about 25 cents.

Senior golds dipped. Giant Yellowknife, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves turned lower. Secondary issues showed a broad list of penny declines.

Warns Education Will Cost More

TORONTO, March 11 —(CP)— The Rev. M. J. MacKinnon, Director of the Extension Department of St. Francis Xavier University, said Monday that if the Canadian taxpayers wants his children to be educated, rather than merely instructed, he must be prepared to pay well for it.

In a lecture, he said that "teachers are the most important servants of any community. If they are doing their job as it should be done they should be paid a decent salary and they should never have to go on strike."

Father MacKinnon heads the University Department which developed and spread the famous Antigonish movement of co-operative action.

Hold Youth, 18 In Slaying Of Employer

MONTREAL, March 11 (CP)— Police today are holding Louis-Jacques Cote, 18-year-old native of Chicoutimi, Que., in connection with the crowbar slaying Monday night of his 24-year-old employer.

The body of Jean Allaire, father of three children, was found in the washroom of his machine shop on north-end St. Lawrence Boulevard, his head beaten to a pulp.

Police said this is what happened:

Cote had been employed by Allaire for three months and had just finished a term at Bordeaux jail where he underwent treatment in the psychiatric wing of the prison hospital.

A quarrel ensued over money and Allaire was beaten about the head with a 50-pound, steel bar.

Heard Scuffle

Rene Jasmin, in his home adjacent to the machine shop, said he heard a scuffle and then there was the sound of a window breaking.

A man walked out and drove off in Allaire's automobile, parked outside, ramming into a parked car as he did.

Jasmin said the car returned a few minutes later. He went downstairs and spoke to the man who got out.

"Where is Allaire?" he said.

"He is dead upstairs," the man answered. "You had better not go up there unless you want the same thing to happen to you."

Jasmin went upstairs, discovered the body and phoned police. Meanwhile, the man drove off again and was picked up by police shortly after when the vehicle went into a snowbank.

Respect Parliament's Rights

OTTAWA, March 11. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent assured the Commons Monday that no foreign undertaking by Canada will constitute a commitment until parliament has approved it. But, at the same time, he reminded the Chamber that the framing of foreign policy is the business of the Cabinet, not of parliament, and that parliament always can oust the government if it does not agree. The prime minister's statement was the outgrowth of a clash with George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader over a foreign-policy speech in New York Friday by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson, now in Washington, was not present to reply to Mr. Drew's protest that he had made four important declarations on policy concerning the Far East in his New York speech without first consulting parliament.

The clash between the two leaders took some of the shine off the Throne Speech debate as it moved into its second week.

Mr. St. Laurent said a plan has been devised to advance payments to Canadians with war claims resulting from death or personal injury. Forms have been sent to those involved.

The Chamber gave first reading to a bill providing for a redistribution of parliamentary representations on the basis of shifts in population during the last 10 years.

In the throne-speech debate itself, David Croll (L.-Toronto Spadina) urged the government to make full use of the advantage to populate Canada on a large scale and to aim at a population of 25,000,000 in 20 years.

He asked the government to stand by its present "excellent" immigration program—which has brought more than 500,000 persons to Canada since the end of the war—and not to give in to those who seek a reduction in the flow of immigrants. Immigrants brought new wealth, new industries and new jobs to this country.

J. M. Macdonnell (P.C.-Toronto Greenwood), financial critic for the official opposition, criticized the government's taxation policies and urged it to make every effort to recover lost markets in the United Kingdom. The government's tax policies had increased trade difficulties.

Wise Policy

James Sinclair (L.-Coast-Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott suggested the government was pursuing a wise course in reaping big budgetary surpluses and reducing the national debt. That was more than the Conservatives had done in their years in office.

John Diefenbaker asked the government to initiate a federal-provincial conference to discuss the proposed redistribution of parliamentary seats. A plan should be worked out to prevent provincial representation from falling below a certain figure.

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) asked for a federal authority to establish floor prices for meats and to control their retail prices as a protection for agriculture. Declining meat prices, partly due to the foot-and-mouth outbreak, were threatening the farmers.

Takes Different View

Mr. St. Laurent replying to Mr. Drew's protest over the Pearson New York speech, said he takes "a quite divergent" view from that of Mr. Drew on the question of constitutional practices.

In his view, it is not the practice of the government "to ask parliament to approve of the responsibility it exercises in advising the Governor-General as to administrative government."

"With respect to External Affairs," he went on, "if any new commitment is to be made or to be recommended by the government, it will be declared to the House and will not become a commitment until the House has had an opportunity of saying whether or not it has confidence in a government that is prepared to make that kind of a commitment."

If parliament did not have that confidence, it could overthrow the cabinet.

Might Not Mean Canada

He noted that Mr. Pearson is chairman of the North Atlantic Council and his use of the word "we" in speeches does not necessarily refer to Canada.

Mr. Drew, in his protest, took exception to Mr. Pearson's declarations that "we" should tell Red China that any new aggressions will be met by collective agreement, that no aggressor should expect to be admitted to the United Nations, that Formosa can not be allowed to fall into Red hands while the Korean war continues, but that we do not intend to overthrow the Communist rulers of Red China itself.

Mr. Drew said:

"Unless we are to have authority over decisions affecting the future of Canada, the parliament certainly can no longer claim to assert its proper authority on behalf of the people of Canada."

Raise Ticket Tax

Butler said he plans to raise the entertainment tax on admission tickets to football and cricket, Britain's main sports. He did not specify how much; "a bit more" was the way he put it.

Rates on parcel post within the United Kingdom will be raised an unspecified amount. Letter rates will remain unchanged.

There will be a "small increase" in the cost of telgrams and telephones and the fee for postal orders.

The chancellor estimated the slash in imports at £100,000,000 a year. Its purpose is to stem the drain on Britain's gold reserves. This brings to £600,000,000 the total of import cuts ordered since the government of Winston Churchill took office last October. Butler said Britain will have a treasury surplus of more than £350,000,000 in the fiscal years ending March 31, but added the country's position in international trade is steadily growing worse.

The chancellor said British spending by the end of the current fiscal year will total about £4,070,000,000, or £120,000,000 less than estimated last April.

Stern Warning

He issued a stern warning that the financial policy he is presenting will determine Britain's future.

The House was packed as the chancellor rose to deliver one of the most critical budget speeches in Britain's history. The task before him was not only to balance Britain's domestic accounts but to restore the world's confidence in sterling currency.

There were cheers from the Conservatives when Butler entered the chamber. He carried the famous old red dispatch box of the chancellor and in it were tax secrets all Britain awaited. He also estimated total revenue for the 12 months would be £4,440,000,000, about £200,000,000 more than the budget estimates.

He said Britain's economic woes resulted because exports failed to expand quickly enough to meet the rising cost of imports. Deficit on balance of payments over the year was £400,000,000 more than expected.

Speaking of the Commonwealth, Butler said prices for tin, rubber and wool which were so high in 1950 and 1951 are falling closer to normal levels.

Speaking of the drain on the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves, Butler said:

Without Daily Bread

"If they had been allowed to run down, we here in this island would, before the end of the year, have found ourselves unable to secure either our daily bread or the raw materials upon which both employment and production depend."

By the end of 1951 the reserves stood at only £835,000,000.

The chancellor said $2,000,000,000 have been lost from gold and dollar reserves since last June.

To halt the drain, fresh import restrictions will have to be imposed, he said. This will reduce imports from all sources to about £3,150,000,000—a reduction of 10 [illegible]

But industry's essential needs will be met and stocks will not be reduced below a reasonably-safe level, he said.

One of the means of halting inflation, Butler said, will be an increase in the bank rate from 2½ to four per cent.

The term "bank rate" as used in Britain refers to the Bank of England's discount rate in its dealings with private banks and other financial institutions.

In effect, an increase in the "bank rate" makes it more expensive for these institutions to borrow from the Bank of England. The increased rate gradually makes itself felt in the general interest rate of all borrowings, and thus discourages loans and spending.

The system is embedded in the complexities of the British banking system.

"The future is uncertain and the consequences of failure are dire. We are determined not to fail," he said.

Together with the commonwealth "we shall win through again,"

But one can go only so far cutting imports before one starts reducing one's own export market, and exports are vital to the British economy, he said.

"We shall have to provide for an increase of about £50,000,000 in the volume of exports.

Tremendous Task

"This means a tremendous task for our exporters but we must help them and safeguard the employment of our people."

Extra supplies of steel from the United States should enable an upward movement.

In view of the overriding need for exports, home investment will have to be reduced substantially. This was the reason for the boost in the bank rate.

The announcement drew cries of "Shame" from the Labor opposition.

"If the budget is to fulfil its main function and restore confidence in the pound, it must further reduce government expenditure and make a significant effort in reducing taxation . . ."

"This country has taken on far too much at once—as anyone outside would agree."

He then announced that an excess profits tax will be imposed on business firms, backdated to Jan. 1.

"Sacrifices should be equally borne," Butler said. "I am not prepared to see excessive profits being made as a result of rearmament."

The levy on profits would be 30 per cent of the excess profit or 18 per cent of the total profit, whichever was less.

Clear German Of Carrying Cattle Virus

Immigrant Planning To Return To Vancouver For Job

OTTAWA, March 10. (CP)— Willi Bruentjen received more public attention during his five-month residence in Canada than most immigrants. But he will be happy to forego it in future.

Bruentjen will leave tonight for Vancouver after being cleared by agriculture department officials of having carried foot-and-mouth disease to Saskatchewan farms from his native Germany.

Eleven days of tests at the Hull, Que., laboratories of the department of agriculture established that Bruentjen was free of any trace of the disease. The clothing and effects destroyed in making the tests were replaced and Bruehtjen was given $50—the price he set himself—for his trouble. The government will pay his plane fare to Vancouver.

Bruentjen a former German army corporal who speaks only a few words of English, told his plans for the future through an interpreter.

Didn't Stay Long

He said he didn't stay long on the southern Saskatchewan farm where foot-and-mouth disease was suspected early in the outbreak which has crippled the Canadian livestock industry.

He moved to Pine Falls, Man., about 160 miles from Winnipeg, then later moved east again to Heron Bay, about 150 miles east of Port Arthur.

By the time R.C.M.P. and Ontario provincial police got on his trail, he was headed for Vancouver, still unaware of the nation-wide search for him as a possible carrier of foot-and mouth virus.

Bruentjen said he sought help in getting work from immigration officials in Vancouver who turned him over to R.C.M.P.

"I was afraid I was going to be deported," he said. "It is very good that everything came out negative. I have 10 times better chance of making a living in Canada than in Germany, and I would not like to have gone back."

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) —The F.B.I. today arrested a former convict in connection with the $1,500,000 burglary of a Reno, Nev., residence 12 days ago. The man was identified as Andrew Robert Young, 46. F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover said he has previously served time for robbery in Illinois, and was convicted later of murder in Sheboygan, Wis.; for which he received a life sentence in 1939. Young was given a pardon in Wisconsin in January, 1946.

At Milwaukee today, Young was charged with inter-state transportation of some of the loot obtained from the home of multi-millionaire L. V. Redfield.

Defeat Move To Make Editor Apologize

VICTORIA, B.C., March 11—(CP) — The British Columbia Legislature Monday night defeated a resolution asking that Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Daily Times, be called before the bar of the House to apologize for an editorial which appeared in the newspaper.

The House also defeated a measure which would have expressed the House's disapproval of the editorial but which would not have required Mr. Keate to appear before the bar. The vote was 23 to 17.

The editorial, which appeared in last Friday's issues of the Times, said some members of the Legislature were suggesting that the hospital insurance service's "co-insurance" charges be abolished "for only one reason—to win an election."

The Legislature has the right to call any citizen to the bar to account for actions considered to be defamatory to the House. The Legislature may order a retraction, or may even fine or jail the offender.

The resolution was introduced by Sydney J. Smith (L-Kamloops) and seconded by Walter Hendricks (L-Nelson-Crestom). It was supported by C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch.

Demanded Retraction

It asked that Mr. Keate appear at the bar of the House this afternoon to apologize for and retract the editorial.

The resolution said the editorial was "defamatory of this House in that it attacks the character of one member, it is a slur on the integrity of a committee of this House . . . and it imputes improper motives to members of this House."

Mr. Winch said the editorial was a piece of "personal character assassination." He said also that it was "the most scurrilous attack on the members of this House that I have ever seen."

Mr. Winch first called the editorial to the attention of the House last Friday. He asked that Speaker Nancy Hodges take the matter under advisement and bring in a report to the House.

Mrs. Hodges reported that the matter should be decided by the House, rather than by her.

Council called a special session for March 17 to discuss a bylaw on warble fly control. Most township farmers favor the bylaw.

Council Permits Paying Tax In Instalments

MILLBROOK, March 11 (ENS) —Tax payments to the village of Millbrook will be payable in two instalments this year for the first time. Council ordered preparation of a bylaw to that effect at its March meeting.

Drunk Driver Jailed 7 Days

In drunk driving charges, the test is, was the man so intoxicated he was a danger when driving a motor car, Magistrate W. R. Philp said Monday after he had convicted Joseph Devlin, 29, 21 Cricket Place.

Devlin was sentenced to seven days in jail. The car was not impounded as it belonged to another man.

Patrol Sgt. Gordon Trennum and constable William G. Scott both testified that Devlin was drunk when they picked him up on Monaghan Rd., just after midnight, February 13 in front of the Prince of Wales School.

Devlin said he and the owner of the car, Jack Cook, had had three pints of beer at the Legion hall a couple of hours before he was stopped on Monaghan Rd. He denied that he had been weaving from one side to the other as he drove up Charlotte St. Both officers said Devlin made a left hand turn against a red light, when he turned south from Charlotte St., onto Monaghan Rd. Devlin said the light was green.

Staggered

Patrol Sgt. Trennum said Devlin staggered when he took a few steps after getting out of the car. Constable Scott described Devlin as being unsteady on his feet. Both officers said his breath smelled of alcohol.

Gordon H. T. Farquharson defended Devlin and argued that in evidence given in drunk driving cases, "the slightest exaggeration can be damaging and witness are often too prone to exaggerate." The two officers disagreed as to the condition of Devlin's companion, constable Scott said he was drunk, while Patrol Sgt. Trennum maintained he was sober. "If their memory is so poor on an important part of the case, how can their evidence be accepted on points regarding the accused's condition?" he asked.

"The crown has proven its case," said Magistrate Philp in finding Devling uilty.

Ordnance Depot Work Speeded In Spring Mud

COBOURG, March 11 (ENS).—The site of the new $15,000,000 ordnance depot is rapidly becoming a hive of activity—also a sea of mud. A steady stream of trucks is daily hauling gravel from a dump east of Division St.

Work is being rushed in the construction of a 72-inch drain which will drain the huge depot area into Leonard's creek. The problem of mud will be a big one until the area is sufficiently drained. A C.N.R. work train will be brought in shortly to start work on the construction of a siding. A few major contracts remain to be let before the entire project is ready to proceed. Work will run into at least two years.

Keep Streets Tidy

BANCROFT, March 11 (ENS) — Bancroft village council took a step to keep the business streets tidier at the regular March meeting. They decided to place metal waste paper receptacles by the bus terminal and in front of the municipal building. The location in front of the municipal building was chosen as it is in the centre of the main street.

Floor To Cost $10,000

COBOURG, March 11 (ENS)— The new floor which the Kinsmen Club will instal in the memorial rink at a cost of $10,000 will, it is hoped, turn the community rink into more of a money-making proposition. The revival of interest in hockey when Cobourg got into the play-offs with Lindsay jumped the attendance up into figures which delighted the rink board.

The new floor, when installed, will make the rink available for many other purposes besides skating and will play a big part in upping the receipts, it is felt.

The F.B.I. said both admitted making false notes to conceal loans they had approved which later proved uncollectable.

HUNT GANG MASTERMIND —Edwin Alonzo Boyd, already sought as a leader in several Toronto bank robberies, now is being hunted in connection with the shooting of two Toronto detectives. Boyd, who escaped from Toronto's Don Jail last November with Leonard Jackson, also sought in the police shooting, was believed during the weekend to be in Montreal area, where a third confederate, Steve Suchan, was wounded and captured. The hunt now has been concentrated in the Hamilton area where it is thought Boyd and Jackson may be in hiding.

WANTED FOR POLICE SHOOTING—Leonard Jackson, escaped bank robber, is wanted on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the shooting last week of two Toronto detectives. During the weekend Jackson was believed in the Montreal area with another escapee, Edwin Alonzo Boyd, after Steve Suchan, the third man wanted for the police shooting, was wounded and captured.

The Right To Cut Your Own Trees

There is no doubt at all that the proposed County bylaw putting restrictions on tree-cutting is an infringement of property and personal rights. A man who owns a woodlot or tract of forest and who is not permitted to cut or sell his trees as he wishes, loses absolute freedom to deal with his own property. Numerous readers have objected to the bylaw for this reason. But many of them do not seem to realize that very few property rights are absolute in civilized communities.

* * *

The process of civilization has been a balancing of personal and private freedom by restrictions imposed by the community for its own preservation and advancement. So it is that we have police (who prevent a person from doing exactly what he wants to do if that action is harmful or annoying to the community); restrictions on the use of cars; on fishing in one's own streams. There are laws requiring farmers to cut weeds on their own property; against villages and towns polluting lakes and rivers. Everywhere the rights of the community are placed above the private rights of individuals. If it can be shown that unrestricted private cutting of trees is harmful to the general good; and that the new bylaw is in the best interests of all the people in the county, including the owners of the woodlots; then people in [illegible] should support the Council in its conservation effort. It is unfortunate for the smooth passage of the bylaw that the County Council did not demonstrate its anxiety for our woodlands by taking some positive action last spring against the tent caterpillars.

The Trees Conservation Act was passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1946. By it municipalities are given the power to pass bylaws restricting tree-cutting, under certain conditions. A principal object of the act was to discourage the commercial cutting of trees before maturity, which is very wasteful. The County bylaw has been prepared under this Act. The restriction imposed by it would not prevent an owner from cutting and selling off mature timber at the time when it should be harvested. Nor would it prevent him from cutting wood for his own use.

Great emphasis has been put in recent years on reforestation, and replanting unproductive corners of a farm. That is necessary and beneficial, but first emphasis should be put on the proper management and production of existing woodlots; to conserve what is already there, rather than to wait for the maturing of a planted forest. The bylaw seems to hold a great many advantages, both for the community and for the owners of the woodlots. Properly administered, it will help to prevent soil erosion, wasteful run-off of water in the spring; the drying-up of wells and streams in summer; and it will increase the selling value of the woodlots and timber.

Some writers against the bylaw have said that nature will look after itself (and the woods and trees) without human tinkering. It will not. If man had not been able to improve on nature and control her antics, we should all be living in caves like fearful and hungry savages. Men have not always been wise in their use of nature, of course. For instance, five thousand years ago Mesopotamia was the cradle of European agriculture and one of the richest natural regions on earth. (It is said that the Garden of Eden was in Mesopotamia.) But the inhabitants cut down the trees to get farm fields; rivers flooded; the top soil was lost; irrigation failed. The Garden of Eden is now treeless sand and desert over which winds howl.

To the south of Peterborough our forefathers cut down the woods and the same processes of deterioration set in along the Ganaraska valley. The process is now gradually being arrested through extensive reforestation and county bylaws under the Trees Conservation Act. Peterborough county has the opportunity to take precautions in time. The trees, like the soil on which they grow, are both a heritage from the past and a dowry which must be preserved for the future. They represent the future at our feet. Is this future not worth guarding?

When Canada's first census was taken in 1666, says a contemporary, there were 3,125 inhabitants, "exclusive of aborigines." Well, there are still a few exclusive people to be found here.

Using God As A Stalking-Horse

There are many ways of putting one's opinion on record but nowadays it is somewhat unusual to address remarks to God which are intended to affect hearers of a less exalted nature. There is some suggestion in New York at present that the subway fare be increased. The Rev. Francis K. Shepherd, of the North Baptist Church, acted as chaplain to the New York City Council at a meeting last week, and after he had invoked God's blessing on the Mayor and City Councilmen, he delivered himself thus:

"May they remember the common man who stands with his family at the subway entrances and looks at the distance with less than a dime in his pocket. May their compassion fail not, even as Thine does not.

"Do something to the proud, haughty, arrogant souls who ride to their editorial places and business offices in limousined splendor, forgetful of the poor as they agitate for a higher fare."

It is a point for a subtle theologian as to whether Mr. Shepherd was addressing the Deity during this part of his prayer, or whether he had chosen a somewhat foxy method of addressing the New York City Council. An unkind critic might say that he was using God as a stalking-horse from whose cover he shot his arrows.

In an earlier day it was not unknown for specific sinners to be "prayed at" from the pulpit; the better taste of our own time condemns this use of prayer for mundane purposes. Certainly Mr. Shepherd prayed at a good many people with whose opinions he disagreed when he got his chance to do so before a powerful civic body.

Stalinist Chess

Russians have always been keen chess players, but now, according to a European radio report, they are bothered by the names of the pieces in the game. These, in case you are not a chess player, are King, Queen, Bishop, Knight and Castle; there are also eight pieces on each side called Pawns, and these are the least valued pieces on the board. The Russian suggestion is that these names be replaced by such acceptable terms as "[illegible]", and the like.

This is a pretty notion. The King, we presume, would be renamed Stalin, but what of the Queen? Stalin has a wife, we believe, but she is kept in the background. The chess Queen could not be given a masculine name, for as every player knows, her function on the board is peculiarly feminine. A Bishop might become a Director of Propaganda, and a Knight a Soviet Commander, whereas a Castle might well be re-named Leningrad. As for the pawns, we presume that they would simply be Valued Servants of the Soviet.

But chess is a very old game—far older than democracy or socialism or communism. Whatever the pieces are called, the King will always be a king and the Queen will continue to whisk about the board like Boadicea in her chariot. We have seen chess sets of many kinds, designed to agree with many ideologies, but the pieces were always recognizable for precisely what they were. Their nature is wrapped up in the nature of chess itself—the most subtle of all games—and will be the same long after Soviet Russia has become a moderate, middle-of-the-road welfare state.

Too Fretfully Busy?

Everybody complains today of the lack of leisure; the leisure to contemplate, to exercise the mind in quiet. If we are not too busy at the office or factory, we are too busy with international crises, good works and sociability.

The world has always been too busy. Ezekiel taunted the people because of their obsessions with the troubles of the day, and mocked them who cried: "Let us build houses; this city is the cauldron, and we be the fresh." Wordsworth said:

"The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers."

Leisure and quietness are matters of will. If one really wants to contemplate, the time and space can be found. It was found even by soldiers in the flaming hills of Italy and the nervous winter plains of Holland. Effort and will-power are required to give thought and soul room to live. Thus it is that philosophers have heroic natures. They stand out against the press of affairs and time, and create out of the busy-ness of this too busy world a calm in which to think and be. Good artists, too, have this valour. So it is that we have the phrase "the art of living". Over-busy people live; others who bend time and occasion to the mind and spirit make an art of living.

NOTES AND COMMENT

An Indiana man reports that he has burned the same light bulb for 12 years. Would he reveal how much mealage he gets from one paper napkin?

A group of poll-takers agree that about eight per cent. of the population have no opinion of any kind about anything. Speakers know these people well, for they are always to be found with their eyelids drooping and the lobes of their ears hanging down upon their bosoms in the front row at any public or private meeting.

Let's Make A Fiesta

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON
(in Oaxaca, Mexico)

THE farther you get south from Mexico City the less Spanish and the more Indian this country becomes.

Already in conservative Puebla, three hours over a mountain road, the "supermercado" of the capital has given away to crowded street-markets where barefooted Indian women, with long plaits, squat on the ground behind their goods.

TEN HOURS more down the Pan-American highway—an impressive journey I made in a 'bus by moonlight—lies Oaxaca, capital of this State and a city of 48,000 people, most of them Indians. The men dress in wide-brimmed straw hats and white shirts and trousers, and the barefooted women wear shawls and long skirts and are addicted to pert and frequently flirtatious remarks.

In the surrounding country districts the universal language is Zapotec, the tongue of a race which was overrun in turn by Aztecs and Spaniards, but which is still highly conscious of its identity and traditions. Thirty miles from Oaxaca lies Milta, today a small pueblo of dirt roads and adobe houses with cactus fences, but once the burial place of the Zapotec kings. The great, intricately carved temples, though roofless, still stand and the guide who showed us around, himself a Zapotec, was as proud as if he had built them all himself.

FROM Mitla here to Tehuantepec is a four or five hours' drive, plunging downwards into the curiously dusty tropics. It was about four in the afternoon when we reached it, crossing an impressive bridge over the river, and here we saw our first Tehuana women. Tall, by Mexican standards, stately and dark drown they wore braided hair and brilliant blues and golds with long dresses just clearing the ground to show their bare feet. They held their heads erect, laughing and chattering, and many of them waved as we passed and called out "Adios" —in this sense meaning 'Hallo". Here were no shy Iberians.

THIS impression was reinforced when we reached the hotel, where two maids in similar attire were arguing heatedly with the white (and harassed) hotel manager, and getting the best of it. The manager, when we asked about a meal, said dubiously that he thought the dining room was closed, but an Indian waitress said "Nonsense" and served us with the greatest good humour, conversing the while, and [illegible] a Californian lady that she shouldn't drink milk because it was fattening.

WE WERE joined at table by a tall, thin, middle-aged Texan, who told us that the day before he had heard sounds of revelry in an outlying "banio" and gone over to investigate. He found an Indian religious procession due to start. The participants greeted him warmly, pushed a large candle into one of his hands and a flag into the other, and virtually ordered him to march with them. After participating in a long church service, of which he understood not a word, he was given to understand that there was to be a dance the following evening and his presence would be welcome. So we all went along with him.

THE dance was being held in a large earth-floored building built of thatch and bursting with shouting, dancing, laughing Indians, who received us like long-lost brothers. First we were taken to the head table to be introduced to the President of the Fiesta, who turned out, rather to my surprise, to be a man, and who plied us with mezcal a powerful drink made of maguey, a cactus-like plant, which it would have been regarded as insulting to refuse.

IT WAS also insulting to refuse to dance. A determined, good-looking Indian woman came up to me and announced in Spanish, "You will dance with me". I didn't know the local dances and began to protest: "Pero, senora . . . ".

"Que 'pero Senora' ", she said. "Vaya! Bailamos!" We danced. It was the most exhausting quarter of an hour I ever spent. When I had recovered I asked one of the men, "Why are you all so cheerful?", "Why not?" he retorted. "What's the use of being miserable?"

I AGREED he had a point. "But why are you so friendly to complete strangers?" "Why not?" he said again. "We like people. We want everybody to be happy".

At this point I was cornered by an elderly lady who announced that her name was Anita Viva, that she was a friend of the painter, Diego Rivera, and that I was to give him her love when I was next in Mexico City. Furthermore, she ordered, we were to give her a lift back into town.

EVENTUALLY it grew dark, and there was no lighting, so the party broke up. We had lost Anita, but after we had bumped over two blocks she hailed us, rather the worse for mezcal, clambered in, and proceeded to direct us firmly to where she wanted to go. In the middle of an embankment, where the highway was fifty feet above the neighbouring streets, she told us to stop. Gathering up her voluminous skirts, she took off over the edge, missed her footing, and proceeded the rest of the way in a position most old ladies would have thought undignified, but which made seventy-eight-year-old Anita cackle with glee.

At the foot she picked herself up, called "Good-bye! Have a good trip", and reeled away past the street-lamps into the night.

TEHUANTEPEC had been playing host to Don Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, governmental candidate for the Presidency, and his cortege. It might be thought that a town of 5,000 people would be overwhelmed by such an invasion of dignitaries, but the only person who seemed to be overwhelmed was the hotel manager, who had to accommodate most of the party and didn't know when they were arriving.

The Indians all regarded the event as an opportunity for making political wisecracks —and for having another fiesta. The Mexican Revolution may still be far from achieving its object of giving every Indian a minimum standard of living, but at the same time these people are psychologically poles apart from the unsmiling, plodding Indian peasants of South America, whose fiestas seem a desperate and alcoholic escape from the poverty and misery of their everyday life.

The Tehuanes are cheerful, resourceful, intelligent and hospitable people; they believe in finding enjoyment wherever it is possible, and they kow-tow to nobody. As the Californian lady remarked: "If anyone came down here with any fool notions about racial superiority, he'd get his ego deflated pretty fast".

Letters To The Editor

HELP FOR BRANT

Sir: Surely Sir, someone in our city of Peterborough, either individually or organization should be made see that this man (Mr. Brant) be supplied with artificial limbs and also a substantial pension to take care of him the rest of his life.

The person or persons responsible for his being taken five miles out of the city of Peterborough in below zero weather must really be proud of themselves.

Sir, I could write on this item for hours but it would not get anymore off my chest that Mr. Frank Smith has stated in his letter of Saturday.

Yours very truly,
D. H. G.

DISHEARTENING

Sir: Just think, left on a highway in January at 15 degrees below zero, with a pair of shoes on, only rags for socks, and without money in his pocket. Any ordinary person would wonder how anybody could do such a mean low down trick, but it happened as most people who read the paper know. Not by an ordinary person but by a protector of the law. Men (if they may be called that) who are supposed to help people and protect them, policemen with a nice warm car, good warm clothes and a job that they are sure of, as long as they do their duty, and our money hangs out. But why don't they help people instead of making enemies of them? If the law, or the supposed to be authorities of the law, had spent one little fine, that we the people pay for on a city violation, and purchased a one-way ticket for the man and put him on a bus, this poor unfortunate man could have been walking around on both feet, healthy, willing and ready to take the first job offered him.

This isn't the first unreasonable thing that has happened and its high time the "authorities of the law" smartened up.

It usually is the poor person the law steps on, one who can't kick back and I suggest a lot more care be taken.

Law is law, but it isn't justice as proved here. There could be more justice, with less law, and more common sense used because everyone does break the law; even the ones that make them and those who protect them.

If you men are human at all, there must be some of you feel pretty guilty and ashamed of yourselves when you haven't as much as gone to see the poor man that you bullied to jail, and is now lying lonely and helpless wondering how many months it may take before he can get out of the hospital, that alone, without the thought of learning to walk again (if he can?) would be enough to dishearten any man.

OBJECTS TO CITY "ALIEN LAW"

Sir: The "Alien Law" of the seventeen nineties, which authorized the U.S. President to send out of the country any alien, caused much political controversy and was repealed under Jefferson's Administration; but traces of such a law can still be observed in operation in various parts of North America; though I doubt if there is at present a law that permits a Magistrate to order a person to "beat-it" to some other locality: decency forbids; If a person is not fit to be at large in this clime, the act of ordering him to go to some other place is probably somewhere within the range of scandalous conduct. Deportation of undesirables often takes a lot of time and court action.

On the front page of the Examiner, March 5, a news item "Youth 24, Lies in Hospital With Foot Amputated . . ." says that Fred Brant was "advised" to leave town; I wasn't in Court at the time but the advice, as I have previously heard it given by a Magistrate, in the Peterborough Police Court, was in the imperative mode, and there was no need that the Vag. should doubt that he would be liable, and likely to be picked-up by the police if seen in the City after the expiration of the time-limit set by the Court.

In this Fred Brant case a Provincial Police cruiser might have been persuaded to carry and drop him at Lindsay, or some other town's doorstep, as I have seen kittens, and even a grown cat disposed of. Some years ago I met, for the first time, a young man from Peterborough who, ignorant of some border rules, was trying to cross over to Detroit, in violation of some emigration laws; he was permitted to stay at my place in Detroit for approximately 24 hours, while the officials, I presume, checked his case, anyhow he was turned back but, instead of being turned loose at the Windsor city limits, he was provided with return railway fare for his trip.

I don't worry about the cost to the public, but action such as this Brant case has been a chronic gripe with me. As recently as just before Christmas last year while I was conversing with a retired member of the Peterborough Police Force I voiced my objection to just this sort of procedure.

I am at liberty to discuss problems with shop management, providing I can get a hearing, but I am not permitted to advise (influence) a magistrate in any court- case, or decision, no matter how much he may be in need of it. Respectfully,

W. H. ROSEBUSH.

DO CANADIAN WOMEN REALLY WANT EQUALITY?

Sir: I have recently read an article in one of our Canadian Women's magazines (Chatelaine) entitled "Canadian Women are Suckers." This article was written by two Americans who wished to remain anonymous for reasons of their own.

In my opinion this is a gross and flagrant misstatement. For years we have been assailed by endless and voluminous tirades regarding the inequalities of women in our society. But never is there any mention of the inequalities that exist that are quite the reverse and that men have tolerated for years.

In the first place I agree in absolute equality. If they want it give it to them, including equality before our courts of law.

Let us have their help in revoking laws like a breach of promise suit, which legally allows a woman to break an engagement but attempts to force a man to carry his part of the agreement out. Can any woman or anyone else defend such onesided laws?"

Property laws are no better. If a husband dies a large portion of his property goes to his wife whether he wishes it so or not. If she dies she can leave everything she has to whoever she wishes, and in many cases where all the property is in her name, can leave her husband without anything.

Equality; do you women really want it? Then also ask for the revoking of these one-sided and outdated laws and you will make a large number of allies in your cause. Until you decide that everything should be equal let us hear no more talk of "Canadian Women are Suckers." Under the present arrangement who is the sucker, I ask you?

Yours very truly,
W. E. MATTHEWS.

CONDEMNS "VAGRANCY" CHARGE

Sir: The general public of this city has had revealed to it in the last week, through the pages of the Examiner, the case of Fred Brant of Lindsay.

I have read the account of your reporter's coverage. Reporters are usually extremely accurate in compiling the facts at their disposal. They have to be for reasons which are self-evident.

I have read the comments of civic officials and the police report. Obviously, someone is lying—someone could be "covering up."

There are pertinent questions which should be answered.

Who signed the necessary admission papers when this man Brant was placed in hospital?

By whose authority did a city police car find itself 3, 4 or 5 miles beyond the city-limits and with a city police officer behind the wheel?

The question of financial liability has been raised. The fact that the question was ever asked, could be self-explanatory.

If any man or group of men in this city is directly responsible for the thing which happened to Fred Brant, the blame lies indirectly at the feet of every adult citizen of this community.

The following comments are not written for the purpose of placing any individual in a bad light. They are written in respect of logic.

The law, in this city, in this Dominion, or anywhere else on this earth, is not a bright and a shining thing. It is neither reasonable nor unreasonable. it is neither just nor unjust. Concepts and precepts, tenents and premises, printed in tomes and volumes and stored away in archives, are only, in very truth, what they are in actual reality—mere books—only on paper.

The moral integrity of the law is commensurate only with the ethical integrity of the man who administers it. It cannot be greater. A man (who any judge is) is not necessarily kind, considerate, honest, tolerant, without prejudice or even sane, simply because he is a judge. Because he is a man, he could be, quite conceivably, the absolute opposite of the aforementioned qualities.

The question is, whether his ability to jurisdiction comes from an intelligent, considered, honest allegiance to jurisprudence or whether his jurisdiction is of the nature of "Polly the Parrot" simply because someone taught him to say thusly.

Who takes the trouble to find out?

The term "bull" is possibly the most appropriate one humanity ever picked to describe a certain type of police officer, which is, and always has been, far too numerous. This does not apply to all police officers. Some of them are gentlemen. All of them are mere men. Who bothers to screen them?

The term "mentally deficient" is used far too loosely, particularly, when it is deemed convenient. A great number of well known pyschologists (men of letters and high repute) apply it in a very general way to 90% of humanity. It does not mean that anyone is necessarily insane.

Brant's apparent "mental deficiency" could very well have been anxiety or desperation, or both. The man was destitute.

I leave, for the consideration of every one who reads this letter, the following lines, penned by a noble man as a noble concept of the freedom of speech.

This is the land which free men till,
That sober-suited freedom chose.
A land, where girt with friends or foes
A man may speak the thing he will.
Is it? Is it a land "where freedom slowly broadening down, from precedent to precedent"? I think— [illegible] yet.

Freedom is not a concrete quantity, to be personified into the hands of a few individuals whether they appear to be responsible or otherwise.

It is, to any man and every man a personal thing for "he himself" to guard well, lest he lose it.

When a people anywhere permit to exist within their midst, a charge of the vague and evasive nature which the charge of vagrancy is (used often to arrest a man for no valid reason whatsoever) they place upon the shoulders of their law-enforcement officers, not a mantle of responsibility, but a cloak of unutterable and damnable hypocrisy.

Sincerely yours,
A. J. WATT.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness.

The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him. The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him. It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord. (Lam. 3: 22-26.)

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matt. 9: 35-38.)

Unconsidered Trifles

SOME PARROT

A man took home a parrot as a present for his wife. "Oh, how lovely!" she said. "But why tie a string to each leg?"

"Pull one and see."

"Good afternoon, madam!" the parrot said as she pulled the string attached to its left leg. "Pleased to meet you," it responded when she pulled the string on its right.

"I wonder what would happen if I pulled both strings together?" she asked, curiously.

"I should fall off my perch, you fool!" replied the parrot.

Peruvian, Austrian Pupils Outline Home Life to Rotary

A Peruvian and an Austrian student, now attending the University of Toronto were guest speakers at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

Elisabeth Brigitte Hildegard Kupelwieser of Salzburg, Austria, and Guillermo Amezzaga Arellano of La Punto, Peru, are two of 90 outstanding graduate students who were awarded Rotary Foundation Fellowships last year. These 90 students are now studying in 70 different universities in 17 countries of the world.

Both of the speakers, despite the handicap of speaking in a foreign language, gave brief, but interesting accounts of various aspects of their respective countries.

Mineral Resources

Mr. Arellano explained that Peru is divided into three regions: coast, jungle and mountains. He referred to the great mineral resources of the country including copper and silver and he pointed to the lack of communications and education as the two major problems to be solved in Peru today.

Austria as an occupied country was explained by Miss Kupelwieser. She explained this four-zone occupancy by the Russians, French, English and Americans has not set up the barriers that it has in Germany. There are no difficulties in travelling from one zone to another.

Recovering

She said that the country is slowly recovering from the effects of the Second World War with new buildings being erected in the bombed areas.

Both students expressed their appreciation to Rotary for making this year's study in other countries possible for them and the 88 other fellowship students.

Both pointed to its benefits in promoting better understanding among countries and as a major factor in establishing goodwill.

Miss Kupelwieser explained that this year in Canada was giving her more than opportunity to study at a Canadian university. It was also making it possible for her to become acquainted with the Canadian way of life.

"I have been most impressed by your beautiful modern homes and wonderful highways," she said. "I also couldn't help but be impressed with the understanding and consideration that Canadians have for other countries and your high feeling of responsibility."

Petes Drop the Hawks, 4-2 To Take a 2-0 Lead On Group Semi-Final Series

BELLEVILLE, March 11.—An outplayed Peterborough Petes' squad took full advantage of opportunities here last night and defeated the Belleville Hawks 4-2 in a hard checking senior "B" tilt to take a two-game lead in the current semi-finals' bracket. The team clash in Peterborough Wednesday night in the third game of the best-of-seven series. The Hawks, playing it hard both ways, had an edge on territorial play throughout the game. Harding in the Petes' net was the jinx of the Belleville squad, turning back what seemed to be definite tallies.

SWELL EFFORT — Goalie Ray Harding came up with a nifty effort in Belleville last night for the Petes as the latter pulled out a 4-2 win to go two up in their senior "B" hockey semi-final series.

The Hawks, flashing the brand of hockey that characterized their play in the early season, led the Petes 2-1 at the end of the first period.

The Petes flashed back with periodical breakaways, their passing was good and they were almost poison, especially Chum Fryia in front of the Hawks' net. They shoved home a pair of goals in the second heat, one of them the cheap variety, and scored another in the third session to grab the verdict.

Fast and Clean

It was fast, clean hockey, a typical Belleville - Peterborough tilt. The game was clean with referees Bill Reason and Art Casterton of Kingston handing out but nine penalties, five of them going to the Hawks. One was costly. Macdonald drew an interference sentence in the second and Chum Fryia banged in a sloppy rebound for the tying marker. The Hawks' defence looked bad on that one. It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with the Hawks deserving a better fate. Their checking nullified the Petes' smart passing plays but their offensive was met by a stubborn Petes' defence aided and abetted by the outstanding work of Harding. Coach Red Doran paced his crew with a terrific effort. Big Vern Goyer was lethargic. Keith MacDonald and Knobber Day skated miles as did Peter Jones and Wardhaugh. Huck Reeves was the team's opportunist banging home two Hawks' goals in the first period.

Chum Fryia was the pick of the Petes despite the fact he scored only one goal. He was a skating fool going both ways and on one only Lefort to beat but the stocky Hawks' goalie beat him to the punch. Gus Leonard and brother Earl with Dugan (not forgetting Harding) were the pick of the Petes, the latter finger-tipping two shots that were labelled.

Hard To Score

The teams battled for 14 minutes in the first period with a crowd of 939 thrilling at the speedy plays. Huck Reeves broke the scoring ice when he fired a hard low drive from Desjardins' passout. Both teams raced up and down the ice with both goalies having narrow escapes. Then Dugan smashed home Stewart's rebound to tie the count. But Reeves flying in 10 seconds later, put the Hawks one up on another low hard drive from Don Barrett's pass close in.

Hawks had a definite margin in territorial play in the second period but the opportunist Petes, playing canny hockey, waited for the breaks and got them. Earl [illegible] crease and calmly poked in a Robinson rebound as the Hawks' defence looked weak. With seconds to go Chum Fryia, on a Petes' breakaway fired home Gus Leonard's pass to put the Petes ahead 3-2.

The Hawks roared back to the offensive in the third period but the Petes held off all their efforts. Again it was nip-and-tuck with the Hawks having the edge but they could not beat Harding and his blue-line stalwarts. With six minutes to go Mason locked the door when he fired home Dugan's pass to beat Lefort.

Peterborough: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling, E. Leonard, Wade, Peters; centre, G. Leonard; wings, Fryia, Robinson; subs, Dugan, Mason, Stewart, West, Floyd, Collins.

Belleville: Goal, Leforte; defence, Reeves, Semark; centre, Goyer; wings, Moher, MacDonald; subs, Desjardins, Jones, Day, Wardhaugh, Doran, Barrett, Bastedo, Trumble.

P.C.V.S. Cagers Drop Tilts On New Floors

This season whenever P.C.V.S. teams play out of town, the boys and girls act like babes in the woods with the result, they lose. Monday night was no exception.

In the final game of the two-game series for the senior girls Lake Ontario title, Audrey Hustditt's lasses lost to Port Perry High in Port Perry 17-8. This gave the Port team the series 33-25 and they will now advance in the C.O.S.S.A. championship series Saturday in Toronto.

In Toronto, Jack Cullis' juveniles opened their O.A.B.A. playdowns but found the height and experience of Sir Adam Beck playground cagers too much. The Garnet and Grey lost out 88-44 in the first game of the points-to-count series. The teams play at P.C.V.S. March 18.

Port Perry's Monday night victory brought to an end P.C.V.S.' annual appearance in the girls' C.O.S.S.A. tournament. Annually since the war years the Collegiate girls have been in the finals playing junior or senior.

Although the Garnet and Grey girls gave everything they had to hold their one-point lead on the round (they won Friday 17-16), Port Perry with a fast forward line was a slightly better team. The Port girls led throughout the game, 6-3 at the quarter 11-6 at the half and 13-8 at three-quarter.

After the game Coach Hustwitt said, "I don't think I have seen our team play as well as they did tonight, but they could not score in the smaller gym."

Mayrene James, Doris Denure and Cathy Hall, the Ports' forwards, broke through the P.C.V.S. guard line with a pivot away from them and then would dribble into the basket.

James led the Ports with eight points while Hall had four points.

Again P.C.V.S.' best were Maureen Fletcher and Betty Wilkinson. They checked, intercepted, rebounded, realizing that their chances for a C.O.S.S.A. title depended on it. But the forwards couldn't sink the ball, generally due to the Port Perry guards who checked closely and quickly.

In Toronto the juveniles were met by a wall of tall players who have played together since they first started handling a basketball and who average at least a year older than the Garnet and Grey. This height and experience overwhelmed P.C.V.S.

On the small Malvern Collegiate floor the playground giants used a fast break to build up a 27-11 first quarter score, then to add to it throughout the game for a 47-21 score at the half and a 62-35 lead at three-quarters.

Another group of shooting experts, the Adam Beckers had almost a 45 per cent record on their field shooting, sinking 40 out of 90 shots taken. They outshot P.C.V.S. 30-20 in the first, 15-10 in the second and 26-12 in the fourth. The Garnet and Grey's best time was the third when they outshot Adam Beck 25-19. They had a game record of 21 for 67 shots, slightly below their season standard.

Bill Thompson and Russ Dunn, a couple of sharp-shooters were all that Adam Beck needed for the win. Thompson whipped in 40 points, the highest recorded against the Garnet and Grey by any team this season. Dunn drifted in 23 points.

Boorman again topped the P.C.V.S. scoring with 12 points, closely followed by Dan Griffin with 11 and Terry Roberts with eight.

Lineups—Boys—P.C.V.S. (44)—Allan, Armstrong 5, Boorman 12, Burgess, Carleton 3, Corbett 6, Eastwood, Foote, Fowler 1, Griffin 11, Marshall, Roberts 8.

Sir Adam Beck (88)—Thompson 40, Breedon 2, Dunn 23, Findlay, Furniss, Gates 2, Humphrey 13, J. Lewis, G. Lewis, Logan 8.

Girls—P.C.V.S. (8) — Rowell, Wilkinson, Clarke 3, Estlick 1, Frost 2, Frederick 2, Fletcher, Jones, Thomson, Wood Derry.

Port Perry (17)—Leask, James 8, Denure 2, Hewitt, Hall 4, Brock 2, McKee, Wilson, Munroe, Vance, Knight, Howson, Chopin.

Provincial minor puck semi-finals are on here Thursday eve in a triple-header at Civic Arena. St. Peter's bantams play Marlboros of Toronto at 6:30, followed by the Martin-Hewitt midgets meeting Marlboros, and then the juvenile Marines go against Toronto Downsview. These are O.M.H.A. semi-final "A" series and Marines [illegible] the first scrap. They should make that up and take the round, but it'll be a swell struggle. Fans who saw the opener in Toronto marvelled at the hustle and class of these two fine juvenile clubs. Bantams and midgets go in first games of their rounds, the returns being listed later for Maple Leaf Gardens. Don't pass up these important puck playoffs.

Next O.H.A. senior "B" playoff on local ice is tomorrow night at 8:30 in Civic. Belleville Hawks clash with the Petes in the third joust of their best-of-seven group semi-finals. Last appearance here this week of these teams, as the other semi finalists are at it Friday e'en. Hawks will be fighting furiously in this one as the Petes are favored to take it ere the time limit of seven games. Anything can happen in any playoff schap, so the midweek tilt should be one chunk full of action. It rates a hefty crowd of fans. Same squads go back at it again Friday night on Quinte ice. The Eagles are off to Kingston on the morrow in their series.

That Mysterious Goalie

Eagles are protesting Kingston's use of the new goalie from the Maritimes. Claim he wasn't signed by the K's ere the deadline for signing O.H.A. players. We're quite in agreement with them as it looks like Kingston is trying to get away with something. Other clubs can't pull in last-minute replacements in playoffs and get away with it. He looked good in their net here last eve and the visitors all clicked well throughout for their 7-5 win. It gives 'em a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven semi-finals, and puts Eagles smack on the w.k. spot. The locals didn't come up with their best hockey except for a 10-minute splurge in the second frame and one in the third. At that, they made it fairly close. Only a so-so crowd on deck.

* * * * * *

In Bella Villa last gloaming, the Petes tore back from behind to grab a 4-2 win o'er Hawks before a thousand fans. It made two in a row in their sawoffs and indicates that the Ellis outfit will wrap it up in four straight if possible. They didn't like a long semi-final series to start with. Play was fast and clean, with Ray Harding tougher to beat than taxes. Chum Fryia was another local ace, while Arn Dugan was in on two goals. Earl Leonard went well, too but then the whole club clicked on foreign ice to make things look grim for the Doran dudes. Of course it's not over yet, and things might be reversed in the Wednesday night clash here.

Champion Shoots Perfect Snooker

LONDON — (CP)—The perfect snooker break of 147 points, never accomplished before, has been scored here by Clark McConachy, world billiards champion, but it won't go into the books as a record.

In a friendly match at London's Beaufort Club, the New Zealand wizard accounted for 15 blacks off as many red balls and followed on by potting all the colored balls.

The unprecedented break, made on a table reserved for professional players, beat by a single point the previous high run, scored by Joe Davis in 1950 in a match against the Canadian Snooker Champion, George Chenier, of Montreal.

But Davis' mark of 146 will stand as the recognized world's record.

Officials of the Billiards Association and Control Council, called to put their seal of approval on McConachy's billiard feat, found that the table he used was slightly above standard dimensions.

Lakefield Gets E.P.L. Title Over Warsaw

LAKEFIELD, March 11 (ENS)—Defeating Warsaw Flyers 6-3 at Warsaw last night, Lakefield Merchants captured the E.P.H.L. title in three straight and brought home the Dit Clapper Trophy, which they lost a year ago to Warsaw. A good-sized crowd saw a fine fray on soft ice, with Merchants finishing strong to earn the victory.

Hockaday scored early from Chittick for Lakefield, with E. Payne getting that one back from S. Lonsberry. Penalties went to Henry, Sabatino, Evans and Clements. Each side counted one in the second, M. Batten getting the first from B. Batten, while Chittick tied it shortly after on R. Calberry's pass. Sharpe and Knox went off twice, and Sabatino and Chittick once each. G. Payne got the only Warsaw marker in the third from Paterson. Chittick got hot to slam home three in a row for Lakefield, Birch adding the other one. An assist each went to Morrison, Hockaday, R. Calberry and Henry. Penalties were given to Clements, L. Nominating Slate For Men's League

The men's City Softball League last night set up a nominating committee to bring in a suggested slate of officers at the annual meeting on March 24. President Bob Batley was in the chair and led various discussions on plans for the season. Any amendments to the league constitution must be in the hands of the secretary a week before the annual meeting, it was pointed out.

The nominating committee will consist of: Dave Leether, Frank Wood and Fred Scates. It was felt that the first meeting was not representative enough to go ahead and elect officers for the 1952 season. Entries will be called for again.

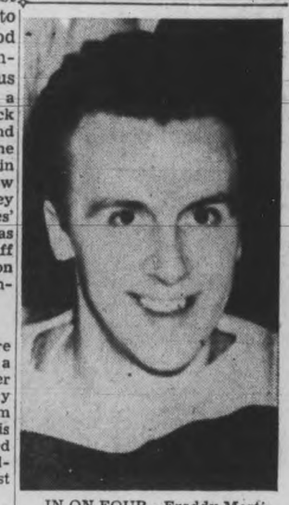
Eagles Protest K's Goalie As Kingston Gets Win For 2-0 Semi-Finals Lead

Kingston defeated the Eagles 7-5 here last night to take a commanding 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-finals. They won the first playoff 10-4 in the Limestone City, and the third tilt will be staged there tomorrow night, the fourth being here Friday. Only a fair-sized crowd viewed the tussle last evening. The visitors swept to a 3-0 lead in the first period as the Eagles couldn't get untracked. The latter were minus Bert Hill, who sat it out with a swollen hand. The Vitarelli pack fought back in a 2-2 second stanza, and came on late in the third to outscore the K's 3-2 in that hectic heat. Kingston drew eight of the 12 penalties, but they weren't costly, while an Eagles' miscue cost two markers. It was a fairly fast game, with some stiff checking seen, and Kingston on the whole had an edge on combination thrusts in close.



IN ON FOUR—Freddy Mortimer was in on four goals, scoring three, for Eagles here last night but they still lost a 7-5 semi-final senior puck playoff to Kingston, their second reverse of the young series.

Protest Goalie

Coach Ned Vitarelli said before the game that he was lodging a protest with the O.H.A. over Kingston's use of Goalie Sammy MacDonald, who came up from the Maritimes to play in this series. The protest will be based on his late arrival after the deadline for signing players was past in the O.H.A. grouping.

Don Murray and Gabby White counted two goals each for Kingston, with George McGregor, Sammy Mulholland and Jerry Wagar getting one apiece. Murray and Aitken clicked for two assists, singles going to Tinkess, Sweetman, McGregor and Catlin. Freddy Mortimer was leading lamp-lighter for Eagles with three goals and an assist, George Samolenko and Reg Stewart got a goal each, Keith Montgomery two assists, and Armstrong, Crowley, Greenlaw and Doug Mortimer one assist each.

Cost Two Goals

Crowley drew an early boarding penalty and Mulholland followed for tripping. Then Tinkess drew the nod for high-sticking, but all were back when Smith was gated for tripping. It cost two tallies as White got in first in a scramble with Murray and Aitken to slide the disc by a prostrate goalie, and Murray slapped a hot pass. Later, Kingston kept pressing with neat passing plays to go in close, and McGregor's sizzler beat Milne on a pass from Tinkess. White was waved over for holding and Goalie MacDonald was good to hold Eagles off. A rush by Vitarelli and Crowley nearly paid off. Bender later hit the trail for holding.

Sweetman was a sin bin occupant early in the second for holding but returned to help Murray score on a breakaway. It was in the crease but allowed as Montgomery tripped him going in and would have been penalized but for the score. Mulholland then made it 5-0 with a slap on McGregor's passout. Montgomery was chased for interference and Goodfellow followed for tripping. Eagles later fought in to outplay Kingston, and Fred Mortimer finally broke the goose egg on a smart bit of combination with Monty and neat finish. Freddy added another seconds later when he tipped in Monty's forward pass after the latter was fed by Armstrong. Goodfellow went over for boarding, with Twist and Latimer getting it for roughing. Eagles pressed hard till the gong.

Drove Too Late

Early in the third, Eagles roared in repeatedly but couldn't tally, and Kingston scored two more to make it 7-2. White's screened shot from Murray after a corner faceoff caught the mesh and, after Milne robbed Tinkess while sprawled, Wagar slammed an angle drive in on Catlin's pass. Eagles kept fighting back and passout. Montgomery came close on a play with Crowley and Sammy, and then Greenlaw and Fred Mortimer were robbed. The latter finally got in close with Doug Mortimer's pass to sink it, and Stewart followed right up with another neat in-close marker from Fred Mortimer and Greenlaw. They kept scrapping in but time ran out.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

If you can find any list, anywhere of world champion figure-skaters, you'll find that just over a half-century ago this title was won by a Canadian, the famous Louis Rubenstein. And he won it in St. Petersburg.

Russia hasn't changed much in a century or so, or even more. Perhaps, if there's any change, it has been for the worse.

Over fifty years ago, there was the glitter and the glory of St. Petersburg, then the capital of that vast domain. There was the pomp and barbaric magnificence of the court of the Czars. But beyond the stateliness and show, there was the poverty, the threat of the bomb-throwing Nihilists. There was the pogroms and the purges, and there was the sullen suspicion, even in high places, of strangers.

Louis Rubenstein, a true amateur, paid his own way to Russia. He arrived there are noon, the day before the great meet, to be skated on an open-air rink, with lavishly decorated boxes to be occupied by closely-guarded royalty centring the stands. The young Canadian, inspected the great rink ice-surface. He checked the system and gradients under which he was to compete against champions of many countries.

Then he did a few practice spins on the wide-bladed heavy skates of the day, went to his hotel, ate his supper and retired to bed, to rest up for the gruelling test of the next afternoon.

But his rest was brief. At midnight, there came a thunderous knocking on his door and in heavy tones fraught with menace he heard: "The police. Open up!"

So he opened his door, and there stood six huge Cossack police. They gruffly ordered: "Dress, and come with us."

Louis did. He was taken to jail, put in a cell, locked up. In the morning, a plate of thick porridge was shoved through the door. That was breakfast. And now the world figure-skating title seemed far away. Louis Rubinstein was frantic. He demanded that he should see the British consul, and at last permission was granted. The British consul, who, Louis Rubenstein once told me, was a giant of a man with bristling mustache, overhanging eye-brows and piercing glance, spoke sharply to the Russian captors. He didn't ask, he demanded that Louis Rubenstein be released at once.

So, in early afternoon, our young Canadian was released, but with one proviso. He must be out of Russia within 12 hours of the finish of the meet.

Meanwhile, the Russians, crafty then as now, had secretly changed the system of competition. But that didn't bother Louis Rubenstein. He was a great skater under any system. He whirled through the school figures faultlessly. And when it came to to the free style, he swung in front of the royal boxes and etched his own name deeply into the ice—LOUIS RUBENSTEIN, CANADA.

There was no question about his victory. The young Canadian, with only a bowl of porridge to support him, was adjudged world champion. Then he was rushed to the train, and an hour or so after the meet was over, he was on his way out of Russia, and very glad of it.

So we guess Russia of years ago wasn't much different to Russia today, with suspicion, hatred, police, prisons. And now, an Iron Curtain too.

Rookie Canadiens Share Spotlight With Red Wings

MONTREAL, March 11. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings may have clinched the National Hockey League championship for the fourth time in as many years but a fair share of the spotlight covers a couple of rookies performing for Montreal Canadiens. In team standings, the Wings have had things pretty well their own way, widening their advantage as the season progressed. Right-winger Gordie Howe of Detroit has done just about the same thing in the individual honors department.

On the other hand, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Dickie Moore, are the new Canadiens who aren't doing too badly at all for themselves.

Geoffrion is in fifth place in the standings, a noteworthy fact in itself. But here's where the "Boom Boom" comes in. He has scored 28 goals, more than any other player in the league with the exception of Howe, well out in front with 41.

Moore, in games up to the morning of March 8, had played in 16 consecutive games in which he had garnered at least one point a game. In the 16-game streak, he scored 16 goals and earned 11 assists for a total of 27 points which isn't too far off two points a game.

Detroit has won 40 of 64 games, losing only 13 and tying 11 for a point total of 91, 18 more than the second-place Montreal Canadiens who have won 32, lost 23 and tied nine.

Toronto comes next with 70 points and is followed by Boston and New York, tied with 55 points apiece. Chicago is in the cellar with only 38.

Howe Leading

In the individual department, Howe has 75 points—41 goals and 34 assists and second-place Elmer Lach of Montreal has 61 from 13 goals and a pace-setting 48 assists.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit is third with 56 points, made up of 21 goals and 35 assists, and is followed by Don Raleigh of New York with 16 goals and 38 assists for 54 points.

Howe's 41 goals are just nine short of tying Maurice Richard's mark of 50 goals in a season while Lach's 48 assists are seven shy of Ted Lindsay's record of 55 assists in one season.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit leads against in 64 games for a 1:89 average. Sawchuk also leads in shutouts with 11.

The most penalized player is Gus Kyle of Boston who has 123 minutes and the Leafs the most penalized club with 763 minutes.

The 1951-52 Stanley Cup playoffs mark the Wings' 14th straight appearance in the spring classic. The last time they failed to make the post-season playoffs was in 1937-38.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. I-848

Schroeder Decides Pass Up Cup Matches

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 11—(AP).—Ted Schroeder, veteran Davis Cup tennis player, said on Monday he has decided to pass up playing in future Davis Cup matches and at Forest Hills and Wimbledon.

He said he was bowing out of big-time tennis "for purely personal reason. I don't want to make the effort necessary for big time tennis."

"I'd just like to play the game for the fun I get out of it," the La Crescenta, Calif., refrigerator salesman told a civic club luncheon.

Powell Certain Be Best Scorer

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP).—Ray Powell, 26-year-old centre of Providence Reds, enters the final week of play in the American Hockey League virtually assured of the scoring championship and assist crown.

The veteran sharpshooter also is in the running for the goal-getting title. Powell has tallied 35 goals, two less than Wochy's pace-setting 37.

Powell, who has two games to play, previously won scoring titles with Kansas City of the erstwhile United States League in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

Goalie Johnny Bower of Cleveland Barons has just about [illegible] goals-against average. Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh is second with a 2.48 mark. Mayer leads in shutouts with five. Pete Durham of Buffalo is tops in penalties with 166 minutes.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Thoroughbred racing officials, noting the record-breaking attendance and betting at several winter tracks, gave credit today to the U.S. crackdown on bookmakers and increased public confidence in the sport.

If the tremendous upswing continues at the summer tracks as the horses move northward, 1952 may be the biggest ever for the business, now conducted in 24 States. It could surpass the all-time record year of 1946, when $1,830,287,455 was shoved through the mutuel windows.

In 1951, a survey showed $1,629,239,777 wagered, 17.01 above 1950. Attendance last year hit 24,302,020, up 6.01 per cent over 1950. Revenue to the States hit a record of $99,927,423 in 1951.

Betting at the New Orleans Fair Gorunds hit an all-time high of $23,885,695 for the 81-day session which ended Saturday. The previous high was $20,167,398 in the 1946-47 season.

Continental Press Service said Monday at Cleveland it will shut down its national race news wire network after Wednesday's report.

"Conditions affecting racing publications throughout the country" are forcing Continental out of business, the service admitted.

Top shuttle stars are in Winnipeg practicing for the 1952 Canadian badminton championship matches which open Wednesday. At least 10 former champions will compete in the four-day matches. Heading the list is Vancouver's Daryl Thompson, defending men's singles champion.

More than 250 entries are expected for Montreal's Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament, officials said today. Eliminations will start March 19, with the semi-finals listed for April 21-22 and the finals April 25.

Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., who drove Proximity to [illegible]d harness racing records in 1950, will fly to Toronto for Canada's first "Sports Celebrity Banquet" Thursday night. Hodgins is training harness horses at Orlando, Fla., and will make the Toronto trip especially for the banquet, in aid of the Ontario Crippled Children's Society.

Dickie Moore, Canadiens' fast-skating rookie, is in hospital undergoing treatment for badly-bruised knees, it was announced Monday night. He will be out of action for Thursday night's game with Toronto Maple Leafs here and may also miss the weekend games with Boston Bruins.

Four more players have signed 1952 contracts with Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League, general manager Guy Moreau announced Monday. They are catchers George Pfister and Charlie Thompson, pitcher Ed Roebuck and outfielder Walter Moryn.

Charles A. Comiskey II, former vice-president of Chicago White Sox, joined the Liberty Broadcasting System at Dallas, Tex., today as vice-president in charge of the White Sox family, resigned from the Chicago organization several weeks ago in a dispute over what he called meagre earnings and inadequate tenure guarantees.

Outfielder Dick Wakefield was released by Cleveland Indians on Monday and immediately announced he intends to join Chicago White Sox.

Edmonton Meteors Monday night won the right to represent Alberta in the playoffs leading to the Canadian senior basketball championship. They defeated Magrath Rockets 63-42.

Pitcher Looks Good In Comeback

By JOE REICHLER.

TAMPA, Fla., March 11 (AP) "See that big fellow over there?" Cincinnati manager Luke Sewell was saying. "He's an old friend of yours. Why don't you go over and talk with him. He may be the biggest story of the year."

"The old friend" turned out to be Floyd (Bill) Bevens. Remember him? He's the guy who came within two strikes of pitching the only world series no-hitter.

This is the same Bevens who needed only one more out to pitch the Yankees to a no-hit victory over the Dodgers in the fourth game of the 1947 series. Picture the drama-packed scene.

The Dodgers at bat, runners on first and second and two out in the ninth. Bevens hadn't allowed a hit. Cookie Lavagetto, pinch-hitting for Eddie Stanky, missed the first pitch, then lashed a long liner against the right field fence. The blow not only ruined Bevens' no-hit dream but gave the Dodgers a stunning 3-2 victory.

Trying Comeback

The big righthander, now 34, is attempting a comeback with the Reds after four years of wandering around from one minor league team to another. A mysterious ailment that caused his pitching arm to go dead at the height of his career had caused his dismissal by the Yankees before he had pitched a single game in 1948. Visits to doctors all over the land failed to restore the strength to the arm.

Finally, Bevens was advised to see Dr. Wayne Anderson, Cincinnati trainer and osteopath. That was in the winter of 1950. Anderson, after much probing, found the source of the trouble. After weeks of treatment, Bevens finally was ready to pitch.

Bevens chucked his job as appliance salesman and took a job pitching for his home town Salem club of the Class B Western International League. The Reds drafted him from that club for $4,000 after he had won 20 games and pitched 263 innings. Now let Bevens tell the rest of the story.

Bevens is 34, a father of three boys. He realizes he may not be as good as he was in his days as a Yankee starter, but he is convinced he can still pitch winning ball in the majors.

Frost, Salsberg Clash On Hope Report

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—Premier Frost and J. B. Salsberg, Communist Labor - Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew, clashed briefly in the Ontario Legislature Monday over the controversial Hope Report on Education.

Mr. Salsberg, arguing that the House should study and debate the report before acting on "piecemeal" government bills on education, charged the government had "buried" the report and had "a conspiracy of silence against it."

Mr. Frost said the government was not trying to evade discussion on the report, and that Mr. Salsberg had had several opportunities to speak on it.

The government's policy was unchanged from last spring the Premier said, when he told the Legislature that educational conditions were satisfactory and that the government was not bound by the recommendations of any Commission.

The Throne Speech debate continues today following speeches Monday by three Progressive Conservative members—Kelso Roberts (Toronto St. Patrick), John Yaremko, (Toronto-Bellwoods) and Robert Macaulay (Toronto Riverdale).

Lay Charges

Works Minister Thomas announced at the opening of Monday's sitting that charges of theft and of falsification of records have been laid against the superintendent of construction at the government's proposed fish hatchery at Hills Lake near Englehart, in northern Ontario.

The cross-fire between the Premier and Mr. Salsberg arose during debate on the principle of a minor government bill dealing with the admission of slow-learning pupils to special vocational classes.

The bill was finally passed, but not before the speaker, the Rev. M. C. Davies, arose twice to rule Mr. Salsberg out of order. Mr. Davies ruled that the Hope report could not be debated during consideration of the bill.

The Hope Report was issued in 1950 after five years of study by a commission under Mr. Justice J. A. Hope. One of its most contentious recommendations would have reduced the number of classes in Separate elementary schools.

Mr. Thomas outlined the investigations made following a statement in the Legislature last September by E. B. Jolliffe, then C.C.F. opposition leader, that there was "evidence of a somewhat shocking nature indicating the improper expenditure of public funds in connection with the Hills Lake fish hatchery."

Continued Investigation

The investigation was continued by Mr. Thomas after he became Works Minister in October, and eventually brought in the Provincial Police.

Mr. Thomas said Mr. Smith has been dnsmissed from the Department.

In the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Roberts attacked what he termed "sheer nonsense" behind the Federal Government's actions to drop the use of the word "Dominion" from references to the name of Canada.

Mr. Yaremko, Canadian-born son of a European immigrant, praised the Department of Edu- and language classes for new Canadians.

Mr. Macaulay urged the government to give municipalities more power to reduce smoke and soot pollution of the air by industries.

Long Connection

KASLO, B.C.—(CP)—A 10,650-foot power span across the Kootenay Lake, believed the longest of its type in the world, will soon be finished. Power lines carrying 170,000 volts from a hydro-electric plant at South Slocon to the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations at Kimberley will run from a 366-foot tower on the east side of the lake.

Movie Column

Esther Williams Has Problem On Swim Suits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (AP) —Florence Hackett has been handling Esther Williams' swim suits, wet and dry, for most of the amphibious star's movie career. And she has problems.

"Take that suit Esther had to wear in 'Skirts Ahoy,'" the wardrobe official said. "There was a scene in which she swam in the regulation navy suit. It's made of plain cotton and designed for Waves to use when men aren't around. Well, when Esther wore it in the water, it was just too sexy. The censors wouldn't allow it."

The problem with Esther's suits is that they get fancier and fancier. They have to be out of this world in design and yet swimmable.

Sequin Suit

The one she's wearing in "The One-Piece Suit" is a full-length affair of lastex covered with thousands of sequins. "It has to be skin-tight," remarked Miss Hackett. "When Esther takes it off, she looks like a waffle.

"Another suit in this picture is so tight that it won't go on when it's dry. I have to keep a bucket of water in Esther's dressing room, dip the suit in water and help Esther tug it on."

Suit design gets to be an expensive proposition. When several takes are made of Esther diving in the water, a dry suit is needed each time. The stand-in also requires the same suit. Six suits are made for each number.

RESCUED AND RESCUER — This year-old fawn was at the mercy of a number of dogs until it was rescued by Don Free of Campbellford. Don noticed the fawn being chased by a number of dogs across the lawn of the local post office. It was captured in front of a sign at the post office, reading "No Dogs Allowed" after jumping over several "Keep Off the Grass" signs. Don took the fawn to a nearby garage where he is employed, tied it up and chased the pack of dogs, that remained howling at the door. The deer had on a leather collar, proclaiming that he was owned by Douglas Rutherford of Healey Falls, five miles north of this town. The deer had apparently escaped from the barn where it was kept, and although it is quite tame, became frightened and confused by the dogs. The deer was later delivered to its owner by truck.—(W. W. Picked Up Night Fined By Court

After being fined $10 and $2.50 costs for drinking while on the interdicted list last Thursday, Coleman Pat Derrane, 220 Brock St., was picked up that night for again drinking liquor.

He appeared again on Friday in police court, and was remanded until Monday, when he pleaded guilty.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw pointed out that the law provides a penalty of a $200 minimum fine or one month in jail for a second offence on the charge.

Mr. Bradshaw said that Derrane is a very steady workman and that his employer was in court to testify as to his character.

Good Workman

had for the job he is doing," said Charles Saunders, who has employed Derrane for the last three years. "He may be guilty in the eyes of the law," said Mr. Saunders, "but it was domestic difficulties that caused the breakout. I was away in Montreal the day it happened and if I had not been away, it would never have happened in the first place." Mr. Saunders suggested that the matter should be dealt with in a family relations court.

Magistrate W. R. Philp said he did not see how the matter could be handled there and added, "all matrimonial difficulties are not covered by statute."

Mr. Saunders said he would be glad to take responsibility for Derrane not getting into the same adjourned for two weeks until March 24, and a plea of not guilty was entered.

Seek To Appeal Writ Halt Vice Inquiry

MONTREAL, March 11—(CP)—Leave to appeal a writ of prohibition which halted Montreal's on-again, off-again vice inquiry last week, was sought Monday by Pacifique Plante, former assistant Montreal police director, and Jean Drapeau, attorneys for the probe.

The petitioners claim the writ can only have one effect—delay the investigation uselessly.

They challenged the validity of the writ and said that if witnesses are afraid to testify because of fear of incriminating themselves, they can ask and receive protection of the court.

The motion, which will be argued Wednesday, would enable the inquiry to be resumed if granted.

Petitioners for the check-up allege corruption in the police department some 10 years ago.

Labor Council Raps Removing Wartime Houses

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) are protesting the removal of 125 "wartime houses" on the Hatton property at the west end of Charlotte St. This resolution endorsed unanimously Monday night by the Labor Council delegates, will be passed on to the City Council, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The houses, they say, should not be ordered removed until a sufficient number of houses are built to accommodate those families forced to vacate.

"Today there's still a shortage of houses in Peterborough," said Alfred Barber, Local 210, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL). "What are the families that lose their homes going to do"?

Were To Be Temporary

(The 125 houses were built for the temporary accommodation of wartime workers by Wartime Housing Ltd., whose successors are Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Because of the emergency their construction did not comply with the strict standards demanded in the city building bylaw.

(Considerable opposition to the project was voiced by some west-end residents who believed their property would be depreciated by the sub-standard buildings. The final agreement with Central Mortgage was that the houses would be removed six months after Dec. 31, 1952.

(Disposal of the buildings is the responsibility of Central Mortgage but the city has 30 days for considering purchase of the property when all the houses have been removed.)

Petition Council

"We should petition city council to leave the homes there for quite a while yet," said Thomas Cupoli, Local 570, International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL). "The houses aren't hurting anybody; many of them are still in good shape, and the tenants are satisfied.

"I know of one house there that has been empty for six months."

Clock Co. employee, "and yet there are many families in the city looking for accommodation."

"A hundred and twenty-five families are going to be put out on the street," said Mr. Barber. "It seems like some sort of set up between the city council and the real estate people so only expensive houses—beyond the reach of the ordinary working man—will be built."

President E. Humphrey of Local 434, U.P.W.A., said there were only two "excuses" for the City Council acting as they did: 1. the west-end residents are perturbed over the presence of the housing settlement; and 2. the agreement is up.

"Wartime housing seems to have been a thorn in the side of the people with big houses," said Mr. Humphrey. "But I don't think a person who already has a big house should decide that a poorer man should have none at all."

"There is already a precedent of allowing agreements to lapse," said Mr. Humphrey. "Originally all these housing projects were to have been cleared after so many years, but in a number of cases the houses were sold outright to the people who lived in them. If this has been going on all over the country why pick on the wartime housing residents on the Hatton property?"

As an example, he said that substandard houses at Burnham's Point were sold to the occupants on the understanding the houses would have proper foundations put in and brought up to the standard demanded by the city building bylaw.

Labor Criticizes Gov't Policy Of Immigration

Dissatisfaction with Canada's present immigration policy was voiced Monday night at the March meeting of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL).

The result was a resolution similar to one passed recently by the Ontario Federation of Labor (of which the Labor Council is an affiliate).

The burden of the resolution was that immigration, if properly planned, is a good thing; but the present policy is causing hardships to both native Canadians and the immigrants.

Resolution Endorsed

Alfred Barber who introduced the resolution from Local 210, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), asked the Labor Council to endorse the following:

1. "Planned immigration which will be carried out with consideration given to the employment and housing here at all times.

2. "Representatives of organized labor on all administrative levels of the Immigration Department."

Mr. Barber said there are now 112,000 unemployed in Ontario and more than 300,000 in Canada. And the immigration policy should be re-examined in the light of this condition.

Lloyd Fell, UPWA representative, said: "Our objection is not so much against immigration itself as against the lack of planning.

"Our population should be increased by many millilons," said Mr. Fell. "Immigration must be planned on a basis where organized labor, industry, and governments at all levels sit down and plan a constructive policy."

Want Cheap Labor

He said the Canadian Manufacturers' Association just wanted to bring in millions of immigrants so there would be an abundance of cheap labor on the market. They were not interested in how the immigrant looked after himself from the time he lands in the country until he becomes self-supporting and a productive unit.

The resolution will be passed along to City Council for endorsement, and the federal and provincial governments, Gordon K. Fraser, MP, and the Hon. Harold R. Scott, MPP.

FOX HOUNDERS SUNDAY.

Drawing on their large membership within a 40 mile radius, of Peterborough, members of the Kawartha Fox Hound Club will hold a meet this coming Sunday, March 16, at Tully's Swamp in Smith township. The winning animal will be awarded the Johnston Memorial Trophy, presented in memory of Arthur Johnston, Sr., by his son, Dr. Arthur Johnston. Members are requested to meet at the C. N. R. freight sheds at 9 a.m. Ladies of the club will provide warm field refreshments to those participating in the trials.

City To Sign Agreement In Land Deal

Ontario, Crown Co. To Buy Land City Installs Services

Possibly the biggest real estate deal in the history of Peterborough was set in motion by the council Monday night assuming authority for the purchase of nearly 550 acres in Smith township for the new Land Assembly Project.

City took the options during the winter on the Sanderson, Stalker, Hetherington farms and certain other land across the northern boundary of the city. At a special sitting of the council Monday night, Mayor Waddell and City Clerk Outram were empowered to sign an agreement with the Department of Planning and Development of the Ontario Government, and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a federal Crown company, securing the advantages of Land Assembly.

The meeting was only a ten minute session during an adjournment of the finance committee. It followed an explanation of the details of the Land Assembly agreement by W. W. Scott of Toronto who is on loan from Central Mortgage to the Ontario government's planning department.

Council thanked Mr. Scott for returning to Peterborough at its request for a thorough review of the details of the agreement for the expansive planned housing area which may not be fully occupied for possibly five years or, even more.

Freeze Values

One of the purposes of this agreement is to "freeze" land values for the benefit of the individual home builder.

In London, Ont., similar lots are selling at $65 and $70 up to $250, with some at $300. Average frontage will be 45 to 50 feet.

"The purpose of the Land Assembly [illegible] is to provide good, serviced land in a planned subdivision at as low a cost as possible to enable people to buy home sites and build more cheaply," Mr. Scott said in his introduction. "It also provides for the municipality a planned development of its services for a period of at least five years and more. It might possibly be ten years before this new area north of Peterborough is fully occupied.

The Provincial and Federal Governments are acting jointly with the city in acquiring and developing these lands."

Mr. Scott said that this planned action concentrates expenditure on new streets, sewers, water lines, street lighting, fire protection, and so on, in one locality instead of helter-skelter development by private investment in various sections.

Two Plans

The scheme provides for persons to buy individual lots on which to build their own homes, and also enables others to acquire sections for multiple housing projects in the ordinary course of building for sale.

These are a few of the features of the scheme, the details of which will be published at length from the city's agreement.

Another provision spreads over a period of 15 years the owner's part of the cost of new services. A man buys a lot on which to build for occupancy by himself, and the cost of roads, sewers, etc. are paid by him on the basis of annual instalments for 15 years.

Actual purchasers of the lands are the two governments. The city will be reimbursed for any option costs.

Main obligation of the city is to provide services to the boundary of the new housing area. Annexation is expected to be effected at Jan. 1, 1953.

Immediate action directed Monday night was, the acceptance of the agreement by the city; and actual purchase of the properties on which options have been secured.

MRS. ELIZABETH RODGERS

Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers, 95 Enjoys Life To The Full

By NICK NICKELS

MADOC, March 10.—Granny Elizabeth Rodgers celebrated her 95th birthday this year on Feb. 2 by assisting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Rodgers to "tie in" a new quilt they were making. And because her birthday falls on the Shadow Day her large family calls her the "Li'l Ol' Bear." She is far from bear-like and a very pleasant old lady to talk to although her lack of hearing makes it a bit difficult. Her actions are as spry as a cricket.

Two or three times each month she leaves her modest home in a side lane in the heart of Madoc and nips up town. She may go to a movie; she always collects her old-age pension cheque personally.

At the drop of a hat she is ready to go for a car ride to Belleville or any other place the driver has in mind. Mrs. Rodgers has never worn [illegible] and reads newspapers [illegible] family Bible every day. [illegible] sharp brown eyes water [illegible] members of her family talk [illegible] and inquires frequently [illegible] they are talking about.

Smokes For Asthma

Many years ago [illegible] had asthma and her physician recommended that she take [illegible] smoking [illegible] before it was an affectation, and finally a habit, among women. So now she pulls on her pipe every day with great enjoyment.

Younger women who smoke cigarettes are sissies, as far as she is concerned although she admits to accepting a cigarette, just to be sociable. But drinking. It is the work of the devil entirely, Granny says quite vehemently.

Granny Rodgers can truthfully boast that she came over from England at the age of nine of the "Mayflower", not the original, of course, but an immigrant ship of those days. She lived in Belleville for a while, married Flory Rodgers and moved to Madoc.

Her husband died and she married his brother, Andrew. Upon his death some years later, she married a third time to a cousin of her two former husbands, John Rodgers.

She raised ten of her 13 children and there are five living today. They are: Mrs. Louise Castleton (Lily), Mrs. John Sargent (Alice), Charles and Arthur, all of Madoc, and Dave of Oshawa. And there are 37 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren.

In the best of health at her advanced age, Mrs. Rodgers enjoys each day to the full. She was ill for six weeks this winter but recovered and now looks forward to spring and more car rides in the country. Meanwhile she sits by her stove, reads a bit, dozes a bit, smokes a bit and visits brightly with anyone who comes along.

Emergency Meeting Called As First Count Of Taxes Soars To 66 Mills

Board of Education, Police Commission Other Boards Asked To Attend Conference On Taxes Wednesday

Confronted with a tax rate of at least 66 mills—11 mills more than last year—finance committee of the council last night decided to invite the other spending bodies to an emergency conference at the City Hall Wednesday night. That is the tentative levy for 1952, according to the arithmetic of the chairman, Ald. T. D. Miller. The other spending bodies include: the Board of Education, the Police Commission, Public Library Board, Recreation Commission. Even the Utilities Commission is being asked to send representation.

Towards the close of the meeting Ald. Miller simply told the committee that in the present stage of preparing the estimates for this year, the prospect was taking the shape of 66 mills.

"That does not include all the salaries either," the chairman said.

"I don't know whether we should publish it yet. That is up to the committee, but I think we should make an appeal to the other spending bodies to join with the council and see what we can accomplish. In the rate as it appears, the council has control over 28 mills, and the remaining 38 mills take in the debenture charges, Board of Education, the Police Commission, Recreation Commission." It also includes the hospital requirements.

Try Again Friday

Finance Committee will delve into the budget again on Thursday night, and as a final preliminary to that engagement it was decided to seek the help of the other branches of the civic administration in trying to compress the tax rate to a lower figure.

"I think we might as well tell the people now where we stand," Ald. J. E. Gillespie suggested.

Mayor Waddell agreed with that course of information, saying that it was essential that the public should understand the difficulties facing the council.

Ald. A. B. Burrows referred to a recent editorial in the Examiner stressing the fact that recent years of expenditure on capital improvements, together with salary increases and cost of living bonus, had created an extraordinary demand on the treasury. Consequently, the duty of budgeting for the needs of the city in those circumstances called for drastic revision of the estimates of ordinary spending as a means of helping to counterbalance the extraordinary 1952 demands and the tax rate therefor.

"I agreed with 99 per cent of that editorial," Ald. Burrows said, "and with Fire Chief Smith we went over that department's estimates again, and took out $2,500 for fire hose."

Cards On Table

Those were the chief aspects of Ald. Miller's gesture of laying the cards on the table so that they can be plainly seen. It was also quite evidently intended to strengthen the invitation the council decided to send out "to the other spending bodies" for what is hoped to be a pruning rally, if such be possible, according to the motion by Ald. Burrows, seconded by Ald. P. J. Anglesey.

Some of the elements of the grim position of the council can be briefly stated.

For every mill they can cut off the ominous 66-mill rate they must dispense with $40,000 of estimated expenditure.

The taxable assessment is in excess of $39,000,000. On that basis one mill is equivalent to approximately $40,000. If the council has any hopes of wringing five mills, for instance, off the rate Ald. Miller held up in prospect Monday night, they have to strike out a total of $200,000 from the estimates as they stand at present.

The council of 1951 put $32,000 aside in a miscellaneous account for contingencies, unexpected demands, and still had a deficit of some $5,000 at the end of the year.

Election Invalid Judge Orders CouncilRemoved

LINDSAY, March 11 — (ENS) —Judge J. A. McGibbon declared the December election for the township council of Monmouth, Haliburton county, invalid today at a special sitting of the Victoria-Haliburton county court.

Judge McGibbon also ordered that the present township council be removed from office and that a new election be held.

This was the outcome of charges by the defeated candidate, Ross H. Anderson that there were three infractions of the Municipal Act regarding the election. He claimed that three people were allowed to vote, although they were bedridden, that 11 people whose names were not on the voters' list were allowed to vote, and that two ballots were initialled by the clerk and not by the deputy-returning officer.

His Wife In Bed Voted.

On the first charge, Walter Clarke, the returning officer, stat that George White, 85, had asked for a ballot for his wife, bedridden for the past eight years. Mr. White received the ballot, took it home and later returned, placing it in the ballot box.

He also said that Fisher Scott, who was bedridden with a broken leg, voted after his father had asked for and received a ballot. The third case was similar.

Joseph Staples, who appeared for Mr. Anderson, asked Clarke if anyone had voted who were not on the voters' list.

Clarke answered, "Sure there was." He asked for the list and read the 11 names of people who voted but who were not on the voters' list.

Clarke explained that he knew all the people and that they should have been on the voters' list.

Regarding the third charge Mr. Clarke said that he left the polling booth for 12 minutes during the noon hour. While he was away two ballots were initialled by the clerk Lloyd Watson, and not by Mr. Clarke.

Judge McGibbon in making his decision said that he didn't like to be "unkind" but added that he felt Clarke was responsible for the irregularities in the vote. He then ruled that the election be invalid, the present council removed and a new election held.

Bedlam Ahead

Sure Cure For Boredom Found Between Two Needles

Recovering from the 'flu? Here's an answer for your boredom. It's guaranteed to stop you reading instructions on cereal boxes on how to make upside-down muffins.

You won't have to bother fixing doors, unplugging sinks, or changing diapers. Develop this little talent — knitting — and your wife will love you for it.

Adds Cheer

Your neighbors may find you some morning on the rooftop singing:

"I don't care if I go crazy
Long as I can knit like Daisy,
Purl five more and than go crazy . . ."

but don't let it get you down. Your wife may go home to mother, but she'll be back, sometime.

These ten simple rules are all you need. On your mark? Set? Okay, George, it's all yours.

1.—Start knitting . . . it's as simple as that.

2.—Knit two and two together . . . got that?

3.—Drop one. Now you have three left . . . okay?

4.—So, slip one, slop one, knit to and fro . . that's fine!

5.—Heel and toe and away we go. One, two, three, hop; before and behind hop. Weel may the keel row.

6.—Knit one — not two.

Forget one, know two.

Pick up one, drop it, undrop it, it's hot. Got a cigarette butt mixed up in here someplace. How did that happen, Pearl?).

7.—Pearl? Pearl who? Purl two, you dope.) Needle, needle, who's got the needle. Ouch! Found it when I sat down.

Turn the crank, Joe.

Cast off two plain.

Cast them on again.

Comes now, the critical moment.

Look around, carefully, about you. If all is well and no one is looking, kiss Pearl.

If she like it, purl two more steals.

Look again.

Purl!! Rapidly, in all directions.

8.—Breathe again.

9.—After that, it is all plain knitting, therefore.

Drip one, drop one, slip one, slop one, drop the sock.

Which is now grey. Therefore, continue knitting grey socks for eighteen rounds.

10.—Finish off with buttons at heels and toe and buttonholes to correspond, if at all possible.

Simple, isn't it? Of course, you must be reminded that there should be holes in the socks in a spot conveniently placed so that the foot may be inserted. If you have forgotten that, you'll have to start all over again. Knotwithstanding, this is the worsted thing that could happen. Better still, just let the wife pull the wool over your eyes and go back to sleep!

Thinks Sterling Dollars Must Be Convertible

MONTREAL, March 10—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Monday that dollars and sterling must be made convertible if North Atlantic countries are to become trading partners as well as military associates.

He said he made that remark merely to indicate what the essential objective should be—"but not with any intention of putting pressure on our friends in Britain and in Western Europe who confront grave issues at the present moment."

Canada, he added in a speech before the Montreal Canadian Club, is in "deep sympathy" with Britain's economic plight. The encouraging thing was that the sterling area recognized that it can regain economic stability only by attempting to live within its means.

There would have to be further cuts made in Britain's imports as she drives towards the goal of convertibility of sterling and dollars, but these should not greatly affect Canada's exports to the United Kingdom, Mr. Howe said.

Others Face Difficulties

In a speech that ranged over the dark and bright sides of Canada's trade, Mr. Howe noted that difficulties being encountered in Britain are being encountered in other countries, too.

"France has recently imposed new import controls. Even Belgium has been led to a policy of import restrictions on dollar goods, to our great regret."

The most important thing about the sterling area crisis, he said, is not its immediate effect on Canada's trade, but whether the crisis can be surmounted.

"Canada offers a good and a growing market for a wide range of goods and materials, from highly fabricated engineering goods, machinery and equipment to fats and oils, coffee, copra and cocoa."

While Canada was experiencing some difficulty in sterling area markets, she was moving closer in trade with the United States. Commercial ties between the two countries were "very close" and "highly dependent on the goodwill" existing between them.

That was why Canada was "perturbed" by the U. S. import controls on dairy products and furs and oils imported last year. But trade between the countries had grown so large that it could not be "seriously impeded" by "hasty action on either side."

Nevertheless, Canada took the position that the import controls in the U.S. "are not only unjustifiable, but contrary to the principles and agreements on which trade has been built up between our two countries."

TWO SUITCASES containing the weapons in the above photo were uncovered by Montreal Police following the capture of Steven Suchan last Friday night. Alonzo Boyd and Leonard Jackson, partners of the wounded thug, are still at large. The three gunmen are wanted in Toronto for the shooting of two crack detectives following a bank holdup. The end came painfully and dramatically for Suchan as he entered his apartment in Montreal. As he turned on the light he faced four detectives with drawn revolvers. While reaching for his gun one of the policemen shot him down. The gunman, in a last-ditch effort, tried to raise his gun but received two more bullets. He is now in a Montreal hospital where his condition is reported as serious.

Queen Astounds Diplomats By Grasp Of State Affairs

By R. B. MacLURKIN

LONDON, March 11—(Reuters)—The Queen has astonished British statesmen and foreign diplomats with her remarkable grasp of state affairs.

Many who were ready to treat the 26-year-old Queen as a beginner have had to make a quick reappraisal. They've found she knows almost as much as they do.

Only a month after assuming the Throne, Elizabeth has absorbed intricacies of current foreign questions, knows a great deal about what is going on in the Commonwealth, and seems likely to become an expert on Britain's tricky Colonial matters.

When she receives Prime Minister Churchill and her other statesmen she is reported to be confident and fluent. She questions them shrewdly and likes to be given sketches of personalities behind events.

With parliament in session now, she daily considers reports of her ministers and holds conferences with her private secretary, Sir Alan Lascelles, chief link between the Queen and her advisers.

The young Queen also knows everything that goes on at cabinet meetings. She is supplied with every document available to top government ministers — cabinet agenda and minutes, foreign office cables, reports of cabinet committees.

Foreign ambassadors give her inside information on what is happening in their own countries.

Best-Informed Woman

All this, combined with her natural aptitude, has made her, in a matter of weeks, probably best-informed woman in the world.

But her knowledge and grasp of affairs is no surprise to men who knew her before she became Queen.

Her father, King George VI, during the last year or two of his life, taught her the secrets and routine of monarchy and discussed with her—sometimes for hours at a time—world affairs, British policy and colonial problems.

Elizabeth has made one change in the routine her father followed. It is not important—except to herself and two small individuals.

The weekly audience the Prime Minister has with the Sovereign used to take place at 5.30 p.m. The Queen has changed it to 6.30

That is because the hour between 5 and 6 in the evening is the time Elizabeth ceases to be a monarch and becomes a mother. She spends every minute of it with her two children, Charles and Anne.

Find Barrie Man Tied To 'Y' Bed

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—A 65-year-old Canadian was found unconscious Monday tied to a bed in his room at the William Sloane house, a branch of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The victim, Albert Partridge, of R.R. 1, Barrie, told a clerk when he arrived at Sloane house that he had just returned from Bermuda.

Police said he apparently had sufered a violent blow on the head.

Two pieces of luggage he had with him when he registered last Friday were missing from his room, police said, and there was every indication it was a case of robbery.

Signs Of Struggle

Blood spattered the room, and there were other indications of a struggle.

He was found by a maid when she entered the room Monday. Partly dressed, he was slumped [illegible] his hands tied to the bedstead by rope, and his ankles bound by a leather strap.

Still unconsciuos, Partridge was taken to Bellevue Hospital where a detective was posted at his bedside to question him as soon as he regained consciousness.

A message was sent to Barrie, asking police there to locate relatives.

Court Told Story Of 1949 Killing By Two Brothers

WELLAND, March 11 (CP) — The story of a 1949 killing was told in court Monday when two Welland brothers, James Aldred Kelsey, 33, and Frank Lloyd Cross, 28, were committed for trial on a charge of murdering Sam Delibasich, a Welland taxi driver.

Kelsey testified at Cross's hearing—the brothers use different surnames—that Cross told him: "We can knock him (Delibasich) off and take the cab."

They hired the cab outside the city and told the driver to turn up a side road. There, Kelsey said, he struck Delibasich on the head with a hammer from the back seat and handed the hammer to Cross who also struck the driver.

Kelsey said the driver jumped out and started running and Cross knocked him down with his arm. "To make sure, I plunged an ice pick in his back," Kelsey testified.

Delibasich's body was found [illegible] ship side road, three miles north of here.

Dr. Lorne Whitaker of St. Catharines, Ontario pathologist, said death was caused by extensive skull fractures and lacerations and destruction of brain tissue.

In Kelsey's hearing, evidence was given by Inspector Charles Wood of the criminal investigation branch, provincial police.

Questioned Kelsey

He told of questioning Kelsey in Niagara Falls, N.Y., last January after Kelsey was arrested for illegal entry into the United States.

When the hearings ended, Magistrate Harley D. Hallett instructed the press not to use any evidence that might be prejudicial to the accused at their trial. The move was suggested by Crown Attorney T. F. Forestell.

Kelsey testified that he and his brother drove the cab to Toronto where they tried unsuccessfully to sell it. They threw the ice pick [illegible] Shortly after Kelsey's arrest Jan. 17, Cross was brought back from New Brunswick where he moved after the cab driver's body was discovered.

The hearings were held in nearby Allanburg.

Refuses Broadcast Red Propaganda

SUDBURY, March 11—(CP)—Baxter Ricard, president of radio station CHNO, Sudbury, said Monday the principles of free speech put him under no obligation to help disseminate Communist propaganda.

He was replying to charges by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) that he had refused to permit airing of a union program over his station. The union paper described the program as "hard-hitting and factual."

Ricard said he was visited by the R.C.M.P. after the union program carried a record which had the refrain "Russia Goes Marching Along." The officers took with them a tape recording of the record.

He said union officials agreed that Communist propaganda would not be carried on the program and he banned a whole series of records that were planned.

West Must Aid Germany Pearkes Warns

OTTAWA, March 11 — (CP) — Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes, V.C., Monday told members of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association at their annual luncheon that Germany is the key to the European situation and that Canadians must keep their eyes on any developments there.

"It is touch and go if Germany comes wholeheartedly in with the West," the Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Nanaimo said. "If they come in they must have markets to dispose of their exportable goods which in some instances may be in direct competition with those of Canada, Britain and the United States.

"But if barriers are erected to direct this trade elsewhere, the Germans of Western Germany may then turn East for markets which would lead to another alliance rather than that with the West."

Earlier Mr. Justice Colin Gibson, former Minister for Air and Secretary of State, was elected president of the association, succeeding Lt.-Col. J. T. Steele, of Guelph. Col. Steele will act as commandant of this year's Bisley team from Canada.

Col. R. J. Birtwhistle, secretary of the D.C.R.A. for more than 44 years, announced his retirement, but he will remain with the association as director of publications. He will be succeeded as secretary by A. G. Switzer, of Ottawa, who has been assistant secretary since 1947.

The Governor-General, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Lieutenant-Governors and Premiers of Canada's 10 provinces were named honorary patrons of the association.

Inventories Hit Record Figure In December

By The Canadian Press

Manufacturers in Canada had goods on hand during December that were worth more money than ever before but the Bureau of Statistics says the figure isn't too high in relation to the value of business being done.

The Bureau Monday reported manufacturers' inventories rose during December to $3,585,400,000 —the highest total ever recorded. This was an advance of $64,000,000 over November and was 29 per cent higher than the $2,772,400,000 at the end of 1950.

This increase over 1950, says the Bureau, includes both price and volume change. It should be interpreted against a background of changes in production levels.

Not Unduly High

"In the light of these conditions, it does not appear that the total inventory values are unduly high in relation to value of business being done", the Bureau said.

'The value of inventories of consumer goods at the end of December rose to $2,163,700,000 from $2,141,300,000 at the end of November and $1,780,800,000 a year ago.

The value of capital goods' inventories also increased—to $466,100,000 from $464,100,000 a month before and $302,400,000 at the end of 1950.

Industries turning out producers' goods reported inventory values increased to $678,900,000 from $661,100 at the end of November and $484,800,000 a year earlier. Inventories of the construction industries advanced in value to $276,000,000 from $255,000,000 at the end of November and $201,400,000 a year ago.

The value fo finished products inventories rose during the year by a greater percentage than raw materials in all industries except the capital goods industries. Nevertheless, the proportion of total inventory held in finished products rose only very slightly over the level prevailing in December 1950.

"Even in the consumers' industries as a whole, although some considerable finished products increases were recorded in specific cases reflecting declines in business at the retail level, the proportion of total inventory held in finished products rose only two per cent.

"This indicates that, while there has been some accumulation in specific areas, the increase in general was necessary to keep manufacturers' stocks at normal levels for maintenance of present and anticipated production programs".

BC Legislature Passes Bill Allowing Colored Oleo

By The Canadian Press

The British Columbia legislature has passed a bill allowing margarine manufacturers to color their product.

When the bill receives Royal assent and becomes law—possibly about the end fo the month—B.C. will become the second province to allow coloring of margarine. Newfoundland is the only other province to allow such action. The bill received third and final reading Monday night.

Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Ind.-Vancouver-Point Grey) introduced the bill, similar to one which was defeated last year.

An amendment by Attorney-General Gordon S. S. Wismer was passed which set down rules for inspection of margarine factories, wholesale and retail firms and testing of margarine by government inspectors.

The Alberta legislature approved a resolution asking the federal government to take immediate steps to remove the embargoes placed by five provinces on dressed meats. The motion was sponsored by Agriculture Minister D. A. Ure.

Urges Lifting Ban

Mr. Ure urged the lifting of the embargoes on importation into and the transportation through these provinces of dressed carcasses which have passed inspection by Canadian government officials at Alberta slaughtering plants.

The five provinces are: British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

Agriculture Minister A. W. Mackenzie told the Nova Scotia legislature that the danger of foot-and-mouth disease being taken to Nova Scotia is "very remote." He said the horses, which arrived in Kentville, Friday, came from Alberta with no stopover for feeding in Saskatchewan. They left before the province's three-week ban on such imports went into effect.

In the Alberta house, Liberal Leader J. Harper Prowse said the Alberta government's treatment of municipalities is "niggardly" and urged appointment of an unbiased Royal Commission to study provincial-municipal relations.

Mr. Prowse, first opposition speaker in the budget debate, also said the Social Credit government should drop its "rich uncle—poor nephew" attitude towards municipalities.

The Saskatchewan legislature was told by Health Minister T. J. Bentley that the federal government's failure to control rising prices was largely responsible for the increasing cost of the province's hospital services plan, estimated to cost $15,000,000 this year. He said the plan should not be as expensive as it was but the province had no control over rising prices which pushed up costs.

Most of the traditional ceremony will accompany the first session of the 47th general assembly of Prince Edward Island when it opens tomorrow. However, no social functions will be held in respect of the death of the King.

Strip Tease Out, Japanese Prefer Sword Dramas

By FRED SAITO.

TOKYO, March 11 (AP).—The strip-tease show seems to be on its last legs in Tokyo.

Its decline is being hastened by the sudden emergence of a new all-Japanese style of entertainment called a "Swordswoman's Drama."

The swordswoman dramas, like western movies, all have essentially the same plot.

A frail heroine, bullied and beset by cruel men, becomes an Amazon in the last act. Snatching up a Samurai sword, Japan's traditional weapon, she mows down her tormenters.

Japanese men and women apparently get a symbolic thrill from the dramatic ending.

The Samurai sword itself is a powerful Japanese symbol. For 1,000 years it was considered "The soul of the Samurai"—the revered warrior class—and even today a display of swords will draw a crowd.

Wins Top Spot

At any rate, at a time when Japan's biggest amusement company had closed its No. 1 strip-tease house near occupation headquarters, Michiko Oye, a leading "swordswoman" has won the top spot in an all-Japan stage popularity poll. The poll was conducted by Daily Sports, the Japanese equivalent of Variety, and there wasn't a single stripper on the list.

The earlier popularity of the strip show was one of Japan's post-war phenomena. The Japanese usually handle sex on the stage in a rather restrained way, but in the rush to ape anything western, the strip tease attained a certain popularity.

Japanese crowded the theatres to watch well-endowed local girls go through the motions—but they watched with solemn, cast-iron expressions. There were no whistles, no applause, and never a cry of "take it off."

The Japanese girls worked hard to try to master the alien art form, but apparently were relieved when the more congenial swordswoman's dramas came along.

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—Roy J. Garow, who has served eight months of a 15-month sentence for unlawfully carrying a revolver in his automobile, was ordered freed Monday by Ontario Court of Appeal.

Garow pleaded guilty to the charge at Windsor last July and was sentenced by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan.

2 Little Birds

Kathy Kelly, 11 months old, gets the bird, and she loves it. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has a devoted pet and companion in "Echo," a parakeet. Echo, like Kathy, hasn't yet learned to talk but they get along fine with bird-and-baby language. The parakeet has the run of the house, and thinks cages are for cats.

"NOT very dainty, but you can eat in a hurry using your hands," says Echo. Kathy approves of this method.

KATHY listens intently to words of advice from her parakeet companion regarding the merits of spinach.

ECHO rewards Kathy with a kiss for eating up all the spinach (and also gets a taste for herself).

ECHO'S very helpful. She keeps Kathy from drowning by holding her up by the hair. It's a hair-raising stunt.

Chapter 161 Eastern Star Celebrates 25th Birthday

Peterborough Chapter No. 161 Order of the Eastern Star is celebrating this month the Silver Anniversary. A banquet with more than 200 members and visitors attending was served Monday evening in Murray St. Church Sunday school hall, preceding a specially planned meeting in the chapter rooms on Brock St.

It was in January, 1927, that proceedings to form a chapter were begun here and 46 persons signed the charter which was instituted March 3rd. Ten of these are still among the present total of 203 members and were at the dinner: Miss Rose Sexsmith, Mrs. Maye McLean, Mrs. Louisa Greenslade, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Moore, Mrs. Janet Cummings, Mrs. Vera Squire Howson, Mrs. Leota Firth, Mrs. Jane Anderson and Mrs. Bertha Nimmons. Each was presented with a charter membership pin as gift from the Chapter and they were given corsages by the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron.

Two of these ladies have outstanding records. Miss Sexsmith was an officer for 21 years and never missed a meeting in the first 17 years, and Mrs. Greenslade was organist for 17 years.

During the 25 years the following have served as Worthy Matrons: Mrs. J. McPhate, Mrs. M. Logan, Mrs. G. H. Moore, Mrs. Mary Squire Wright, Mrs. Sybil Kendall Matthews, Miss Rose Sexsmith, Mrs. Alma Beavis, Mrs. Florence Beggs, Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe, Mrs. Sarah Deyman, Mrs. Annie Melrose, Mrs. Jane Anderson, Mrs. Evelyn Hutton, Mrs. Hazel Heckman, Mrs. Annabell Jocelyn, Mrs. Nellie Beatty, Mrs. Vera Squire Howson, Mrs. Jessie Spencely, Mrs. Mary Wheeler, Mrs. Marie Green, Mrs. Agnes Munro, Mrs. Madolia Windrim and the present officer, Mrs. Eva Ward.

Worthy Patrons in that time have been Messrs. N. G. Lewis, George Cameron, R. M. Paris (in office 19 years, 11 years as W.P.), George Moore, William Anderson, Harold Matthews, R. Hendry, Walter Wheeler, Walter Terrace, P. D. Windrim and Orville Kidd.

Present Gifts

The Past Matrons presented a lighted signet to the Chapter as their gift on this momentous occasion. Ceremony of dedication of this signet was put on with Mrs. Howson as director and Mrs. Spencely sang "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

W.G.M. Mrs. Mabel Meckereth of Toronto, one of the guests, spoke on various letters SIGNET, stressing sincerity, importance, goodness, nice things to be said and done, encouragement and tribute, exhorting all to live up to these points. W.G.P. Arthur Ashford of Ottawa, was also present and spoke briefly.

A cheque for $100 was presented to Mrs. Mackereth for her project—a respirator for the Sick Children's Hospital. The gift was handed her by Worthy Patron Orville Kidd. Mrs. Vera Howson then presented a gift of silver on behalf of herself, and her mother and sister, who were all charter members. There were also gifts to Mrs. Mackereth and Mr. Ashford from the Chapter.

At close of the chapter meeting a 25th birthday celebration was held with the officers and some past matrons taking part. The ceremony took the form of the making of a jewelled crown and was quite impressive. The birthday cake was cut by W.G.M. Mrs. Mackereth.

An anniversary booklet comprising the names of all people belonging to this chapter and a short history of the main events of each of the 25 years was composed by the secretary Miss Cora Bailey and copies were placed at the disposal of the guests.

Letters were read from Mrs. Ethel Malcolm, Dr. E. A. McQuade and Mrs. M. J. Barlow who were present at the institution but could not be present at this time were read. Telegrams were received from Mrs. Belle Linehan, A.G. Matron, and Mr. Ted Phillips, an honorary member.

Other Grand Officers present were P.W.G.M. Mrs. Emma Campaigne, D.D.G.M. Mrs. Elma Morrow, Mrs. Margaret Williams, Mrs. Christena Parks, Mrs. Olive Adams and Mrs. Betty McInnis. The guests were from Toronto, Hamilton, Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, Marmora, Havelock, Trenton, Montreal and Bowmanville.

Tickets on a chest of silver have been sold by the chapter members during this winter and the W.G.M. Mrs. Mackereth picked the prize winning ticket, holder of which is Mrs. Merle Townsend, 691 Ross St.

Banquet table decorations were blue candles and silver stars and blue streamers in the room. Plates were marked with blue and white sailboats and the flowers were tinted carnations. Decorations in the same theme were in the hall and were all the work of Mrs. Hutton, Miss Evelyn Bailey, Mrs. Gladys Metheral and Mrs. Howson.

Charter members and Grand officers were guests of honor at the banquet tables with W.M. Mrs. Eva Ward presiding, and her officers in their places. W.P. Mr. Orville Kidd was toastmaster. The sale of tickets was in charge of Miss Cora Bailey and Mrs. Gertrude Miles. At close of the evening's proceedings light refreshments were served by a committee under the convenership of Mrs. Jean Lashbrook and Mrs. Mary Saunders.

Envious Girls Try Hand At Breaking Up Romance

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago I met Gary, and though it wasn't exactly love at first sight, we liked each other from the beginning and had many things in in common. We began to go steady, and some of my girl friends told me I was making a mistake because he had gone steady with several other girls. Then my parents stepped in and made me break off because of our youth—he was 19, I was 16. We continued to see each other, and my friends continued to advise me. One girl, especially, told me tales that made me break off completely with Gary. Now he is going with a girl who always told me she thought he was a drip when he was going with me. They are going steady, and she thinks he's marvellous. Gary and I see each other in school, and sometimes I think from the way he looks at me that he still likes me. I'd like so much to go with him again, but don't know how to go about getting him back.

FRANCESCA A.

ANSWER: You have been a very gullible victim of not one, but two very vicious "friends." One succeeded in getting you to break off with Gary while another stood by ready to take up where you left off. Obviously, none of these girls are friends in any accepted sense of the word. You made the commonplace adolescent error of making a friend out of every acquaintance and schoolmate. eing so trusting has been a costly experience.

It beats me why a girl who won't take a word of advice from her mother is so easily convinced that all her contemporaries are oracles of wisdom, fully capable of plotting their own and anyone else's course of life.

Form Your Own Opinions

By now you realize the necessity for discretion in following advice, especially that given too freely. You also, I sincerely hope, have learned not to listen to vicious gossip, but to form your own opinions.

A girl who cannot get a boy friend hereself, or who cannot get the one she wants, enjoys nothing so much as spoiling another girl's dating. Most girls are no more discerning in such a case than you were. The insidious undermining that can be done with a few malicious lies, strategically placed, is appalling. A boy's character, or sometimes another girl's, can be wrecked in a few days. Aren't you ashamed for letting yourself be taken in by such a cheap trick?

Gary, of course, is now in the clutches of one of these despicable females, and deserves sympathy. None of it was his fault. You are now entitled to win him back by any means at hand. Make an all-out camapign of it. Invite him to a party—even if you have to trump up an occasion to have one yourself. If he has a birthday conveniently near, send him a card. In fact, send him a card for any near-future event. With the wide variety of greeting cards on hand today, you're bound to be able to find one to serve your purpose. Even St. Patrick's Day will do! Let him know that while your parents won't permit you to go steady because of your age, you do like him very much and would like to date him again. I hope the campaign is successful, but in the future be on guard against your girl friends.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am going with a girl one year older than I. We like each other very much but in the three months I have known her she has been telling me constantly I should go out with other girls. I assure her that I don't want to, but she really returns to the subject every time we meet. Do you think she really likes me? DOUGLAS M.

ANSWER: Your girl friend is actually a demanding little minx, and is using some of the lowest tactics known to females in order to test your devotion. She most certainly does not want you to go with other girls, but you are supposed to continually reiterate your lack of interest in any feminine company but hers. This gets very tiresome after a while, and I think rebellion is in order. Why not surprise her some time by deciding to take her advice? You'll have a very amazed, and annoyed, gal on your hands but it may stop her nagging on the subject. I really do think you'd be better off with a girl who was a little more advance, intellectually and emotionally. This one is destined for eternal childhood, marked with a ceaseless demand for attention. This means a difficult life for those who have to do the catering.

DEAR MISS DIX: Are my father and mother right in objecting to me kissing my date good night? I am 15 and go out quite often with different boys. They are all very nice boys and my parents like them.

ANSWER: They are most defnitely right! In fact, your parents are too liberal in the matter of your dating. At fifteen, "quite often" is too often to go out. Two nights a week would be a generous dating allowance. The other five nights should be devoted to study—which you could use! Bestowing good-night kisses on every boy who takes you out is going to earn you the unenvious reputation of being cheap, and before long you'll be on the taboo list of every boy and girl.

Bethany W.A. Asks Gifts For Hospital Bale

BETHANY, March 11 (ENS) — The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church met at the home of the president, Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, for their March meeting, with an attendance of 14. Mrs. Allan Gribble read the scripture lesson. The minutes and correspondence was read by Mrs. Roy Jarvis. Miss Winnifred Nesbitt gave the treasurer's report and presented the year's budget, asking for an increase in pledges towards the general expense fund. This was accepted by the members.

A number of completed articles of fancy work were turned in; money was received from the private sale of other items, and other articles of work were given out, all in connection with the annual bazaar work. Gifts were received for the Dorcas bale which is to be sent to missions in the Arctic; articles of baby's clothing will go to a hospital in Aklavik. Following the offertory, Mrs. T. S. Gault read a chapter from the study book of the year "Looking South". Mrs. J. J. Hamilton gave a talk on the Month's Bulletin and extracts from "The Living Message."

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a sum of money to Mrs. Gault, wife of the rector. Mrs. Gault and their two children Mary Rose and Patricia are leaving on March 20 for an extended visit with her family in England. They will sail from New York aboard the liner Queen Mary. The presentation of money was extended with all good wishes for a happy holiday. Mrs. Gault expressed her grateful thanks and said while looking forward to the visit in her homeland, she would also look forward to her return and the resumption of her pleasant associations among the parish.

Mrs. Hamilton and her assistants served lunch. Mrs. R. W. Price invited the members to her home for the April meeting.

Mrs. T. J. Jackson gave the topic "Christian Living" she said, "only by Christian living, giving and sharing can our lives be complete. The way to understand the teachings of Christ is to put them into practice."

What's Right?

RIGHT: Get to your feet quickly when the mother walks into the room.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Softer Soap Made In The Home

Mrs. Walter R. asks this question: Dear Miss Moore: I was reading how to make homemade soap. I was wondering if you could send me a recipe on how to make some nice white soap out of the rinds of pig and waste fat. Mrs. Walter R.

My answer to Mrs. Walter R. consists of the following recipe

Plain White Soap

This may be perfumed and used for hand soap.

Four pounds of solid fat (melted) —(see instructions for clarifying fat below), 1 9-ounce can lye, 5 measuring cups (1 quart milk bottle) of cold water, 1 scant cup cold water, 3 tablespoons borax, ¼ cup ammonia, 2 tablespoons sugar. Do not use aluminum for this. Have the 1 quart cold water in an enamel or granite container (or wooden pail), then slowly pour the lye from the can into the quart of water. It will bubble and steam and water will heat up. Allow it to cool down to room temperature, Do not put your hand in it. Mix the borax, sugar and ammonia with the 1 scant cup of water. Mix well, then add this to the lye stirring a little with a smooth stick. Warm the fat until it is a liquid but do not heat it more than this. Now cool it to 110 deg. Fahr. —warm to the hand. Add the lye slowly to the fat (not the fat to the lye) stirring slowly and continuously for 15 minutes. Do not falter, this determines the smoothness of your soap. At end of stirring time add from 4 to 12 drops of whichever perfume you choose: oil of lavender or rose geranium, wintergreen, rose extract. Pour into flat parchment paper-lined boxes. A smooth "flat" or butter-box is ideal. Better if stored for 1 month before using. When this is hard it may be shaved on a food shredder to make chips for the washing machine which are quite satisfactory. You could divide the soap in two parts and perfume only half of it.

To Clarify Fats

Some soap makers think pork and mutton fat are best for home-made soaps. Beef tallow makes the hardest soaps. Any kind of fat may be used, even oil or chicken fat or bacon grease fat in which many batches of fish have been fried. Mix the fats together. To 5 lbs. add 2 quarts cold water, then bring slowly to boiling point, strain through double thickness of cloth and chill. Lift the layer of fat from the water. The sediment clinging to the bottom should be carefully scraped off. Heat the fat once more to evaporate off any excess of water remaining in it. When the water is gone fat becomes still. Do not heat any longer or it will smoke. Harden fat once more before using it for soap.

Another letter on cleaning problems says:

Dear Madam: French chalk and cleaning fluid take spots off wallpaper. Well I can not get it any place. Can you tell me where I can purchase it. I would be pleased if you could tell me where to buy it. Mrs. J. P.

ANSWER: While the suggestion may have appeared at the foot of my column it was not my idea. My best advice about cleaning grease spots on wall paper is to rub them with straight, but not too hard, up an down strokes with 2-day-old white bread. Keep using fresh slices of bread as they become soiled. Stubborn grease spots sometimes yield to heat. Place a double thickness of blotting paper over the grease spot. Press fairly warm iron on it, being careful not to burn your fingers or to hold it there long enough to heat the wallpaper too much. It melts the grease and the blotting paper soaks it up. Repeat.

YOU probably have some special interest, too—something you'd love to have or do "some day".

But we all know a budget will only stretch so far. Today, more than ever, the secret is to plan ahead, save ahead. Here are two practical suggestions:

FIRST, decide what you want most, how much it will cost, and open a special savings account at The Royal Bank of Canada for that one particular purpose. Then save for it.

SECOND, use the Royal Bank Budget Book to keep yourself on your course, and to avoid careless spending. The budget book does not suggest how you should spend your money. Outlines Results From Fluoridation

WELLAND, March 11—(CP)—B. B. Williams, chemist of the Brantford Waterworks Department, Monday presented a comprehensive picture on the fluoridation of drinking water to a Welland service club.

Basing his information on six years of fluoridation at Brantford, Mr. Williams related the history of adding fluoride chemical to drinking water to reduce the incidence of dental decay.

He said that results showed too much fluoride—more than 1.50 parts a million—produced little or no decay, but resulted in mottling and eruptions. Too little fluoride brought on heavy decay, but no mottling or eruptions, while the right amount—about one part a million—gave little mottling or other effects and a remarkable low incidence of dental decay.

In addition, the board decided to grant an additional $100 a year to elementary teachers holding a Bachelor of Arts degree. All salary increases are retroactive to Jan. 1, 1952.

Mrs. John Harnden

WARKWORTH, March 11 — (ENS)—Mrs. John Harnden, 74, died Sunday morning at her home in Warkworth. An invalid for the past five years, she suffered a stroke a week ago which led to her death.

Mrs. Harnden, the former Elizabeth Ann Wells, was born in Centreton, a daughter of the ltae William Wells and Eliza Carson. She married John Harnden in 1896, and after that time, they lived at Cenreton, Burnley, and later in the Warkworth district.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Verna Wilson of Warkworth, two granddaughters, and eight great-grandchildren. Two daughters predeceased her—Mrs. H. Kelly (Carrie) and Edna.

Denham, George Bull, William Potter, and Walter Covert. The body will stay in the vault of Warkworth cemetery until spring when burial will take place.

OBITUARY

HERBERT DOUGLAS WILLIAMSON.

Funeral service for the late Herbert Douglas Williamson of 498 Windermere Ave. Toronto, was held on Monday in Toronto at the Turner and Porter Funeral home. The Rev. Crossley Hunter officated and burial was at Prospect Cemetery.

Mr. Williamson died in hospital last Friday following a short illness. He was born in North Monaghan township 83 years ago, son of the late John C. Williamson and Mary Ann Holmes, and lived and farmed there — the old Brayley Homestead —until 35 years ago when he moved Toronto.

A well-known musician, he organized and was bandmaster of the old North Monaghan Band and later the band of the Fourth Line of Smith Township. In Toronto he was a piano tuner.

He leaves his wife, the former Jessie Sloan, one daughter, Miss Thelma Williamson and two sons Lorne and Clarence, all of Toronto.

While living in this district he was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and a member of the Masonic Order (in Toronto.) Mr. Williamson was the last of his generation and was predeceased by five brothers, James, Robert John, Williaim, Alfred and Byron, all of Peterborough.

This group would appoint a member to sit with the local association in order that direct contact can be maintained with the ladies through this representative and thus eliminate any confusion in district activities.

Skipper G. and Scouter Fred Ford were guests at St. John's Mothers' Auxiliary meeting and gave the meeting a full light on what Cubbing and Scouting is.

Morrow Gift $452,000 So Far

Peterborough has received $452,000 from the estate of the late W. G. Morrow toward the financing of the cost of the new City Hall.

The most recent payment was $192,000, as reported to the council Monday night by the National Trust Co., Toronto, executors of Mr. Morrow's will. By its terms the trustee is retaining $40,000 invested in three per cent Canada bonds to pay annuities to four persons named as beneficiaries.

"We shall have to float a debenture loan for the difference," Mayor Waddell said.

Other monies to the credit of the estate of Mr. Morrow are $17,000 in a cash account and $2,000 in a revenue account. These will be held by the trustee for the purpose of meeting legal and any other costs for the performance of the will.

City has to pay for the site and furnishings of the building. That amount is not yet finally determined.

Peterborough Y.P.U. Stages Three-Act Play

MARMORA, March 11 (ENS)—A good-sized audience greeted the presentation of the three-act comedy "Have a Heart" by a cast of the Y.P.U. of St. James United Church, Peterborough, in the town hall on Monday evening. The play was under auspices of Circle 1 of St. Andrew's Women's Association. The embarrassing situations of the characters in what was a series of domestic entanglements made it as entertaining a comedy as ever seen locally. Bob Pullyblank as the husband, very much in love and facing odd situations, executed the leading part with ability. Dorothy Falconer, as Lou Mansfield, his charming and helpful neighbor, sustained her part with realism. The roles of Fritzi Vining and Bo Larson, the substitute wife, and the butler, taken by Rayma Brown and Bob Tamblin, provided some good comedy.

The Rev. G. D. Young welcomed the cast and took the opportunity to announce the start of the Red Cross drive for which the objective is $1,000 for the Marmora district.

Double Fire Insurance On Bancroft School

BANCROFT, March 11 (ENS)—Bancroft-Faraday Township School Area Board decided to increase the fire insurance on Bancroft Public School from $40,000. to $100,000. at its March meeting in the school office. They also decided to purchase a number of small fire extinguishers to be placed at key spots in the building.

The mattter came up in the agenda as a result of a request from principal J. W. C. Sutton for adequate fire protection for the school.

During the discussion it was noted that this 10-room brick school, built in 1931 when construction costs were far below those of today, could not be replaced for anything like the present insurance risk of $40,000.

In the spring of 1948 the school had a daytime fire of undetermined origin in the furnace room. Then the blaze was extinguished by senior students manning the canvas hoses that are connected with the private water system of the building. As the pressure is often very low it was felt that if an emergency arose in the future there might be trouble in obtaining water immediately.

Nicholas Eden Hopes To Have Banking Career

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP). — Nicholas Eden said Monday he is going to be a banker after a year or two in Canada as aide-de-camp to the Governor-General.

"But," added Anthony Eden's son, "there is always the possibility of politics eventually."

The 20-year-old son of the British Foreign Secretary arrived here Sunday to become a military aide to the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey. He went to work Monday.

He is expected to be commissioned shortly in the Victoria Rigles of Canada, Montreal, probably with the rank of captain, so he will be a Canadian officer during his period here. He now is a lieutenant in the King's Royal Rifle Corps of the British Army.

Likes To Travel

In a telephone chat with a reporter Nicholas was asked why he wanted to come to Canada. He said he liked the idea of having the opportunity to see a new country and hoped that he will get in a lot of travelling with Mr. Massey.

As for a career, he said he has decided against going back to Oxford University, and will go instead into a bank in The City, London's financial heart of the British Empire, when he goes back home in 18 months or so.

Sports? He is best at lawn tennis. He has never had a chance to ski or try other winter sports, but he wants to see what they are like while he is here.

Introduce Substitute For Ring Resin

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) —A substitute for ring resin, in official use by the boxing commission here, may end the need for wiping off a fighter's gloves after a knockdown.

It's a familiar sight to boxing fans: a fighter gets knocked down. When he gets up, the referee wipes off his gloves. That's to clean off the resin, scuffed around the ring to keep boxers from slipping. It can blind a man.

The substitute adopted by the District of Columbia Boxing Commission is a chalk, precipitated calcium carbonate. Commission chairman Heinie Miller said today it prevents slipping better than resin and is so mild that doctors prescribe its internal use for some stomach ailments.

Manuel Ortiz won back his world bantamweight boxing title by taking a close decision over Harold Dade at Los Angeles five years ago tonight. Dade had beaten the champion two months previously. Ortiz himself lost the title to Vic Toweel three years later.

Fleischer Says Good Food Helps Boxers

NEW YORK—(AP)—Nat Fleischer says the Europeans are eating better.

How did the editor of Ring Magazine and the Ring Record Book come to this conclusion? Nat says Europe's boxers are scoring more knockouts.

"It must be more and better food which gives them more strength," he says. "In making up the new Record Book for 1952, we discovered that about 20 per cent more knockouts were scored last year than in '51 and the rise was particularly noticeable among European fighters.

"Boxing is on the upgrade all over the world, except in the United States," adds Fleischer. "For the first time in history Denmark has a European champion—lightweight Joergan Johansen. Denmark, which didn't have more than a name or two in my other books, now has quite a few. South Africa, with a bantamweight champion in Vic Toweel, has several dozen good fighters.

"There are about 2,000 boxers listed in the new book, but about 200 less Americans. The draft and defence work have made further inroads on the list of American fighters."

Science progresses . . . for 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN and is sold at druggists everywhere.

DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Charges Abbott Becoming Lobby-Eyed

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP).—J. W. Murphy, (P.C.-Lambton West) applied a new term—"lobby-eyed"—to Finance Minister Abbott in the Commons Monday night.

He said Mr. Abbott is "getting sort of lobby-eyed" because he suspects lobbyists at every parliamentary corner. The Minister saw lobbies in delegations representing motor car and cigarette manufacturers and in a newspaper ad. criticizing taxes on refrigerators.

Mr. Murphy said no one favored certain types of lobbies, such as those in the United States, but the groups coming to Ottawa to seek lower taxes had been forced by Mr. Abbott himself to make representations.

Didn't Like 'Influence'

Mr. Abbott interjected that he had nothing against legitimate representations, but he did not think groups such as motor-car dealers should try to "influence" members.

"My only objection is that they try to make Charlie McCarthys of members of parliament," he said.

"You're the Charlie McCarthy of those advisers of yours, if you ask me," Mr. Murphy retorted.

Mr. Murphy said Mr. Abbott had made a "bad blunder" when he increased the tax on cigarettes last year.

The only way the tobacco industry could be revived would be for taxes to be reduced to a point where a package of 20 cigarettes could sell for 30 cents instead of 42 cents.

The government should not hold back taxation cuts for an election year.

"We should have an end to this political budgeting," said Mr. Murphy.

DROPS HIS MATCHES — Alleged underworld czar Frank Costello watches his matches drop to the floor as he enters a New York court to show cause why he should not appear at the trial of Michael Orecchio in Hackensack, N.J., March 10. Orecchio has been charged with misconduct in office while he was a detective chief.

Big Concessions For Seamen

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—The Seafarers International Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) Monday won major concessions from Canada Steamship Lines and Paterson Steamships providing a general wage increase of $25 a month for more than 3,000 Great Lakes seamen employed by the two firms.

At the same time, the union is preparing for strike action, if necessary, to enforce wage demands on deep-sea shipping operators.

ganizer, said the increase for Great Lakes seamen brings the base rate for deckhands to $230 a month and $320 for skilled men. The contract also provides for a 40-hour week, except for work necessary in navigation of the ship. It will give the seamen a day off when the ship docks and free time when sailing from 6 p.m. Saturday to 6 a.m. Monday.

The union is continuing negotiations with other Great Lakes operators where it claims a total membership of 6,000.

For its 2,000 deep sea members, the C.I.U. has asked for a $50 a month across-the-board increase.

New Air Base Home To Sabre Jets

Written For The Canadian Press By BOB VEZINA

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Some 600 workers and about $18,000,000 are being used to carve Canada's first all-weather jet air station out of a 6,000-acre plateau three miles northeast of here.

The giant station, expected to be completed late this year when the personnel will be increased from its present 400 to 600 men, will become a permanent link in the defence of Canada's far-flung northern approaches.

Theh R.C.A.F. moved in last September and No. 430 Fighter Squadron, equipped with F-86E Sabre jet fighters of Canadian manufacture, has been carrying out training operations. An operational training unit, slated for night fighter work when CF 100 all-weather jets arrive, now is warming up on navigational and radar training in Mitchell bombers.

The new base is being built around an airport opened by the Department of Transport in 1938. Used during the Second World War to accommodate a Royal Air Force ferry command unit, it later was a stop-over spot for Trans-Canada Airlines and private planes. The original airport will remain under D.O.T. control.

One section of the station has become the site of 170 modern housing units for married Air Force personnel. Another 100 units will be completed this year. Allowance deductions for rent on the housing development, which itself covers 200 acres, amount to about $51 a month for ranks below Sergeant.

Big Population

About 90 children attend the modern station school. Population of the base is expected to reach the 2,000 mark by next fall. Barrack blocks will be constructed for single men.

A messing staff, working with the most modern of electrically operated equipment, turns out meals for approximately 200 persons a day. Civilians working on the station pay 50 cents per meal.

Most expensive structures on the station are two giant concrete and steel hangars. Reinforced with 520 tons of steel, each hangar will cost about $1,000,000. One probably will be completed this summer. Fireproof and requiring little maintenance, their life span will far exceed that of conventional wooden hangars.

The project, supervised by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, is being carried out by some 675 men employed by a Toronto contracting firm.

The station's effect on North Bay's economy is a source of considerable satisfaction to merchants and real estate operators. Property in the station areas has skyrocketed in price and station accounting officers estimate that more than 90 per cent of a $750,000 yearly payroll will find its way into North Bay's cash registers.

ALL-WEATHER JET STATION — Canada's first all-weather jet air station is being carved at a cost of about $18,000,000 from a 6,000-acre plateau, three miles northeast of North Bay, Ont. The R.C.A.F. opened the station last September and No. 430 Fighter Squadron, equipped with Sabre Jet fighters of Canadian manufacture, has been carrying out training operations. The station is expected to be completed late this year. Numbered buildings are: (1) homes for married personnel: (2, 3, 4, 5) barracks: (6) school; (7) mess hall; (8) temporary air force headquarters; (9) stores building; (10) temporary workers' barracks; (11) hangar under construction.

No Hope Of Resuming Work West China Missionary Says

OMEMEE, March 11 (ENS) — The Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Veals, United Church West China missionaries since 1920, have returned home and entertain no hope of ever resuming their work there. Under the Communist regime it is impossible, they say.

All church property has been given over to the Church of Christ in China. A Sunday morning service has been carried on by native pastors, which Mr. Veals was able to attend, but all foreign leadership was prohibited.

At all other times the churches are used for the holding of accusation meetings and for instructing the people, feeding them Communist interpretations of American actions and teaching them to despise the foreigners as reactionaries and imperialists.

Vicious slogans were included even in songs taught to children. Teen-agers jeered at missionaries.

"It is true, religious freedom is part of the Red order," said Mr. Veals, "but fill a cup with water and what room is there left for milk?" As in any totalitarian state thinking is largely controlled.

The Communist party in China is a comparatively small group, estimated by Mr. Veals to be less than one per cent of the population. It is an exclusive group to which you gain membership only when you have unquestionably proven loyalty. Yet, so drastic are their methods of discipline that no one dares make a statement differing from what is acclaimed by the ruling body. If any one was heard to say North Koreans invaded South Korea they would be made to confess at an accusation meeting. In China the Americans first invaded North Korea. One never knew when an informer might be present, for a good Communist doesn't draw attention to himself by talking, and so, like the wise old owl he hears more.

Large pictures of Mao Tse-tung, the head of the Chinese government, and Dju Teh, the military leader, are carried in their parades. They teach a modulated Marxism, as it was proclaimed by Lenin and all must be indoctrinated to live in China. The world was created by labor, they say, not by God.

Schools and hospitals have been taken over by the government. They are benefitting by improvements in education and health standards introduced by the missionaries, but take the credit themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Veals had frequent visits from the Bureau for Control of Foreign Nationals, which governed all their movements and issued permits. Police never knocked before entering, and there were police everywhere. "When we had permission to make a visit we never stayed late," said Mr. Veals, "for foreigners were always under suspicion." When they got final permission to leave the country they were escorted all the way to British territory at Hong Kong.

Four families still remained when they left. They had been given permission to leave but the time of going was delayed. They are Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Moncrief, Baptists, and three United church families, Dr. Leslie Kilborn and Mrs. Kilborn, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wilmott and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Small and their daughters Lorraine and Kathy. Mr. Moncrief, who had been head of the language department of the university at Chungtu was delayed to furnish information about the distribution of J.C.R.R. relief material to the unuiversity, which the Reds are slightly coming to them from the deposed government. Many such pretexts to get money were dug up.

Mr. Veals was born in the vicinity of Omemee and received his high school education in the village, while Mrs. Veals is a native of Manitoba. They now live in Toronto at 16 Manor Road. Mr. Veals has not decided on his next course of action.

Grand Duchess Olga Moves To Small Farm

GUELPH, March 11 — (CP) — The Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the late Czar Nicholas II, soon will move from the big farm where she has lived since coming to Canada, to a smaller farm 35 miles away at Streetsville.

Crowds gather Saturday for the sale of farm implements of the Grand Duchess and her husband, Col. Nicholas Kulikovsky. A threshing-machine which the colonel said he had paid $1,200 for when the family moved here in 1948 from Denmark, was sold for $290.

At 87, the Russian Grand Duchess still spends many afternoons sketching in scenic spots about the district. A year ago at London, Ont., she held her first exhibition since coming to this country.

The new owner of the farm is Baron W. Richthofen, a recent immigrant and a cousin of the German flying ace of the First World War.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Better Balance Needed In Play

TORONTO, March 11—(CP)—The 1952 Central Ontario Drama Festival opened Monday night with the presentation of Ferenc Molnar's comedy "Olympia" by the University Alumnae Dramatic Club.

Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre said the performance was distinguished and amusing but could have presented a better balance between the satire of love and the satire on Austrian Royalty.

"One good criterion was that the play seemed not to have length. The feeling of monotony never overcame me," he said.

He praised the performance of Frances Halfpenny as "excellent" and said she "dared to use her face" with great success. She fulfilled completely what the part should do.

Hugh Webster, as Krehl, was abandoned and daring in his comedy but with a tendency to go overboard in a few spots and become something of a clown.

The players were a good team and no performance was indifferent even if some of the characterizations were not quite deep enough. The direction by Herbert Whittaker was well done with a good sense of variety of pace.

JACKSON SHOT DOWN IN MONTREAL

Eisenhower Beats Taft In Primary, Kefauver Surprise

MANCHESTER, N.H., March 12. (AP)—General Eisenhower and Senator Estes Kefauver scored grand-slam victories in the New Hampshire presidential primary today, crushing Senator Robert Taft and President Truman, and capturing every delegate race. Results of the election, stunning to both major parties, can cause a complete redrafting of strategy for the presidential election in November. The primary is the United States' first state-wide election of delegates to party national conventions and a popularity test for presidential candidates.

Eisenhower swamped Taft in the preferential vote—the popularity contest—by 46,497 votes to the senator's 35,820. He took nearly 60 per cent of the total.

Kefauver took on the Democratic machine in New Hampshire, apparently wrested away thousands of labor union votes, and emerged with a score of roughly 20,147 against Truman's 16,298.

All 297 precincts had reported. Eisenhower won all 14 Republican delegates, while Kefauver won all 12 Democratic delegates, who have eight convention votes.

Doubled Prediction

Eisenhower's margin nearly doubled the most optimistic prediction of any of his followers. That was 5,000; most estimated less than 2,500.

As to delegates, the consensus before the election was that he would take 12. Taft had said he would be satisfied to win four.

In terms of pre-election forecasts, Kefauver's victory over Truman was even more stunning. The Tennessean made modest claims—but not for a victory—in the popular vote, and said he believed he would win "some delegates."

In Frankfurt, Germany, Eisenhower said, when told the returns "any American who is honored by so many other Americans considering him fit for the Presidency should be proud, or, by golly, he is not American."

Pearson Charges CCF Gives Comfort To USSR

OTTAWA, March 12 (CP). — External Affairs Minister Pearson Tuesday night accused the C.C.F. of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibly" advocating cutbacks in North Atlantic Treaty armament targets. Such an attitude, he said, could lead to disaster.

"The tragic fact is that, although the feeling of tension arising from the menace of Russian [illegible] extent eased in recent months, the situation remains explosive and full of danger," Mr. Pearson said in a speech prepared for delivery.

Present rearmament goals are an absolute minimum, he declared.

"It would be foolish—and worse—to slacken in our determination now to carry out the policy of collective defence which is beginning to make an impression inside the Kremlin walls."

Singles Out Statements

In a free-time CBC political broadcast, the chairman of N.A.T.O.'s Council singled out in particular statements by the C.C.F. National Council that N.A.T.O. has become dominated by military leadership which has set targets which are "disastrous and irresponsible." In particular the C.C.F. deprecated the aim to have 50 divisions in being this year, said the figure is impossible to attain and said that the effort may wreck the economies of Western European powers.

Mr. Pearson said it is "sad" that the C.C.F. seems to be moving towards the Communist position which holds that the Atlantic alliance of 14 countries is an aggressive coalition. The phrases used by the C.C.F. represented "exactly how the Kremlin would describe" N.A.T.O.'s goals of 50 divisions this year, 90-100 by 1954.

By implication, he refused the C.C.F.'s call for Canada to urge a cutback in these goals.

"In fact," he said, "those goals do not represent increases but decreases over those set a year ago and which the C.C.F. approved. They are the bare minimum necessary to provide the only kind of deterrent aggression that Soviet Russia with its 175 divisions understands.

". . . To say now that our defence effort is too great and is becoming aggressive is not serving the cause of peace. On the contrary, it encourages those who would destroy peace and rightly realize that N.A.T.O. is the greatest obstacle in their way."

Told To Get Jackson In Fight At All Costs

By WILFRED BOURDON, Assistant Police Director

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP)—As Chief of Montreal Detectives I sent my men out to get Jackson at all costs Tuesday night.

If that order had cost Jackson his life, I would have felt no remorse.

Jackson is a killer. But like all these "tough men" after a first show of bravado he broke down and cried like a baby.

When my men ordered him to come out he didn't hesitate to fire at them.

I don't know whether Boyd is in town, but if he is his chances of survival are slim. We'll get him. There are few places for rats of this nature to hide out. Eventually they make a mistake and tip their hands.

Shoot To Kill

My same order—shoot to kill—is as applicable in Boyd's case as it was in Jackson's.

sent down have been of great help. While they have not been able to help in the actual footwork involved, they were right on hand when the shooting started.

We were lucky that Jackson was hit before he had a chance to get a suitcase open containing two machine guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition. I still don't know why the girl with him didn't start operating one of those weapons. That would have made it twice as tough for us.

There are patches of blood on the apartment floor. It's all Jackson's blood—that's the thing I like about the situation.

5 Egyptians Jailed For Rioting

Prosecutor Demands Maximum Penalty For Acting Like Beasts

CAIRO, March 12. (Reuters) —The Egyptian supreme military court today sentenced five Egyptians to from eight to 12 years hard labor in the first of a series of trials following Cairo's "Black Saturday" riots. The Egyptians were charged with setting fire to a theatre. A sixth man was acquitted.

The Egyptian public prosecutor, in demanding "the maximum exemplary punishment," said the riot leaders "stabbed the country in the back."

"They acted like beasts, sowing and spreading sedition under cover of patriotism," he said.

The prosecutor produced a map of Cairo in support of his contention that there was "an attempt to set fire to the whole of the capital."

Exemplary punishment must be meted out so that the world could know that "there is law and justice in Egypt."

Murder and Arson

Murder, arson and looting marked "black Saturday," culmination of anti-British agitation since Egypt scrapped her treaty with Britain in October and demanded evacuation of British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

Nine Britons were killed in the riots, and within 24 hours King Farouk dismissed the Wafd Government of Mustapha El Nahas Pasha and installed the independent Aly Maher Pasha in his place. Maher Pasha subsequently resigned and was replaced by another independent, Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha.

M. MacLeod Boyer, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Cairo, was among those killed in the riots.

Janitor Fears For Life After Giving Tipoff

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP) — "I'm afraid that other fellow will come here after me," said Janitor X Tuesday night.

Janitor X is the man who tipped police that Gunman Leonard Jackson was living in the Lincoln Avenue building where Jackson was shot down by detectives.

Mrs. X, white-faced and nervous, said:

"I don't care what you do, I won't sleep tonight and I'm getting out of here today."

Janitor X refused to be named. He was afraid Edwin Alonzo Boyd, third member of the trio, would try to avenge Jackson. The other man, Steve Suchan, was shot down by police Friday night.

"I recognized Jackson's picture in the newspaper on Monday night," the janitor said.

"And just think, only today I was talking to Jackson about Suchan being awful to be shot like that but how about those poor policemen in Toronto who were shot."

"Jackson registered here Feb. 11 with this woman he called his wife. He told me then his name was Andre Wilson.

"The rent for the one-room apartment is $12 and he paid it promptly every Monday morning.

"They were a very quiet couple and most respectable as far as we could judge. There was never any drinking. Jackson even minded our baby when we went shopping.

Suchan Paid Visits

Suchan came about two weeks ago to see Wilson, or Jackson, and the woman. He had lunch with them then and again a day or so later.

"I had no reason to be suspicious about any of them until I saw pictures of Jackson and Suchan in the newspaper."

Wounded Man Surrenders To Police Squads After 500 Shots Exchanged

MONTREAL, March 12. (CP)—Leonard Jackson, second of a wanted trio of desperadoes, surrendered Tuesday night after a furious battle of blazing guns and tear-gas bombs. His pal, Steve Suchan, fell under withering police fire Friday night, in an expensive apartment several blocks away. Tear-gas finally ended the exchange of more than 500 bullets on quiet Lincoln Avenue, a few blocks from the Montreal forum. Jackson and a woman who said she is his wife staggered half-blinded from their basement apartment and surrendered. Jackson, who has an artificial foot, was reported by police today in "not very serious condition" in hospital. Jackson told police he lost his foot in a train accident seven or eight years ago. The hospital switchboard was swamped with calls about the bandit.

Jackson, shot in both arms and in the stomach, was told by doctors that the newspapers wanted to know how he was.

"Tell them I'm all right," he said.

Doctors said they will remove a bullet from his wrist today. Nothing will be done at present about the stomach wound.

Doctors said the slug apparently was lodged in soft tissue and no emergency operation was necessary pending further examination.

Jackson Asks About Police

When Jackson was brought into the hospital his first question was about the police.

"Did I get any of the cops?" he asked.

He appeared relieved when told none had been hit in the gun battle.

Edwin Alonzo Boyd is the last of the Toronto trio. They have been sought since a $24,000 bank holdup last Tuesday in Toronto.

An early morning tip that Boyd was seen in suburban areas across the St. Lawrence River sent detectives swarming into south shore communities. However, it is believed the tip was erroneous.

No police were wounded in Tuesday night's battle. Neither was the 24-year-old woman who came reeling with Jackson from the one-room apartment where police found machine-guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Jackson was taken to hospital with bullet wounds in his stomach and arms.

The girl was taken to police headquarters where she was identified by police as Ann Roberts of Toronto. She produced papers to show she was married to Jackson in January.

Jackson yelled at police and grinned defiantly as he was placed in an ambulance and taken to hospital.

As Jackson was put in the ambulance, he shouted:

"I know who tipped off the police and Boyd will be back to get them".

Trap For Jackson Well Laid

The trap for Jackson was well laid.

The uniformed police and plain-clothesmen were scattered for blocks about the area. The attack on the building was carried out by the full 16-man homicide squad.

Two Toronto detectives accompanied the squad as they hammered on the door leading to the apartment.

"Come out Jackson", a policeman yelled. "The game's up".

"Come and get me", yelled Jackson. "The door is unlocked".

As he yelled, Jackson fired, and the policemen returned the shots and began backing to the street.

Jackson smashed out a window with the butt of an automatic, and kept police at bay for 15 minutes as he fired steadily.

Police rained shots at the window, and finally heaved in a tear-gas bomb which forced Jackson to the street. Wounded and choking he finally gave up and his wife followed him from the building.

Police said the tipoff came from the janitor of the building.

The janitor said Jackson moved in Feb. 11, using the name Andre Wilson. They said he was quiet and bothered no one.

Suchan and Jackson are wanted in the attempted murders of sergeant of detectives Edmund Tong and Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry of the Toronto police force.

Detective John Gillespie of Toronto and Det.-Sgt. Leo Murray of Montreal hammered on Jackson's apartment door.

The door started to open, a bullet whistled past Gillespie's ear.

"I managed to get a shot at him and he staggered", said Gillespie. "He ducked sideways, shooting with both hands, and kicked the door shut".

Then from stairways, windows and hallway and from outside the building police fire smashed into the apartment.

Det.-Sgt. Roland Perron traded his .45 for tear gas and hurled "six or seven shells" into the apartment.

"There was enough smoke and noise to scare out an army", he said. "But he stayed in there and still stayed in there. So we kept right on firing and throwing bombs".

At the height of the shooting the woman started screaming: "Stop. Stop. That's enough. No more".

Gaitskell Says New Budget Aids Inflation

LONDON, March 12 (Reuters). —Hugh Gaitskell, former Labor treasurer, said today the Conservative government's new budget would encourage inflation and seriously endanger production.

Opening the opposition attack on the budget in the House of Commons, he said: "Stripped of all disguise it is a lamentable and to give to wealthier people."

At a moment when the country needs unity, he said, "this budget divides and weakens us."

Gaitskell pinned his main attack on the budget's big cuts in subsidies which will send up the price of staple goods. It would hit the low wage earners who do not profit in any way from new income tax concessions, he charged.

Labor members, meeting privately, were reported to feel that income-tax allowances and other reliefs would not offset food-subsidy cuts.

Fear Higher Rents

The Socialists were also worried that the increase in the bank borrowing rate from 2½ to four per cent would boost rents of new houses, and that the higher cost of gasoline would bring further fare increases on public transport.

Political observers said Socialists were surprised by the budget. They were expecting something grimmer. Laborites admitted the proposals would make it more difficult to stir up the country against the government.

The various budget measures, many Labor members contended, would result in the start of another wage-price spiral.

On the government side, the cabinet met today and discussed the reception given the budget. Government supporters considered it one of the most brilliant budgets in years.

Badly Beaten Negro Found In Basement

MONTREAL, March 12—(CP)—Donald Kindred, a negro, was found badly beaten in the basement of a Torrence Street building today and police picked up three men for questioning.

Police said earlier reports that a man was shot to death was erroneous. They said an argument apparently broke out in the building. Neighbors said they thought they heard a shot as three men and women left hurriedly.

BULLETIN

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter today ordered a complete investigation into the affairs of East Windsor General Hospital. The order was given with the approval of Premier Frost.

Missing Teacher Found In S.C.

ROCK HILL, S.C., March 12 (AP).—A three-month search for Dr. Barbara Morehead, former South Dakota State College English professor, ended when she was located here Tuesday, safe and in good health.

The 39-year-old educationist dropped from sight after checking out of a Marshall, Minn., hotel Dec. 8, the day after she disappeared from the college at Brookings, S.C.

Her brother, C. W. Morehead of Welland, Ont., arrived here last Sunday to join her.

She explained her disappearance by saying "I just wanted to get away to something different. I was very nervous and felt that I wasn't doing well with my teaching."

Dr. Morehead told the Rock Hill Herald that she failed to notify State College officials because her decision was made "on the spur of the moment."

NATO Deputies Back Ismay Nomination

LONDON, March 12 (Reuters). Atlantic Pact deputies tonight approved the nomination of Gen. Lord Ismay, British State Secretary for Commonwealth Relations as the first Secretary-General of the North Atlantic Pact Organization, an authoritative source said.

Search for a secretary has been prolonged by the refusals of Canada's L. B. Pearson, Sir Oliver Franks, Britain's Ambassador to Washington, and the foreign ministers of the Netherlands and Norway to accept the job.

Lord Ismay had been tipped as successor to Franks in Washington had Franks taken the N.A.T.O. appointment.

Lord Ismay was Chief-of-Staff of Winston Churchill during the Second World War and represented Churchill at the recent N.A.T.O. Lisbon conference.

Thinks Batista Ousted Soon

HAVANA, Cuba, March 12 (AP).—Ousted President Carlos Prio Socarras today charged Cuba's strong man, Fulgencio Batista, with treason and said he is confident the country will "not remain long with a military boot on its neck."

Prio, who left his palace Monday after former President Batista seized control of the army and police by a swift coup, remained in refuge in the Mexican embassy.

He is awaiting arrangements for his departure into exile in Mexico.

In a letter to newspapers, Prio said he fled to Matanzas Monday to try to raise a military defence against Batista, but found the regiments already had gone over to the revolution.

"Without troops it was impossible for me to resist," he said. He charged that Batista was impelled only by ambition in breaking "the constitutional rhythm of Cuba," attained after years of struggle against military rule.

Helicopter Winds Rope Around Pilot In Water

TOKYO, March 12—(Reuters)—a helicopter flying in tight circles wound a rope around a United States pilot floating in icy waters off the North Korean coast and succeeded in rescuing him.

Air Force headquarters here, releasing the story today, described it as "one of the most remarkable rescues of the Korean war."

Capt. Clarence W. Tuxbury, a Marine jilot, was the man saved in the "Maypole" rescue.

He bailed out of his plane and was floating in the sea when a helicopter tried to drop a rope to him.

His hands were too cold to grip it tightly, so the helicopter flew in tiny circles until he had enough rope wound around him to hold on and be hauled into the plane. The helicopter pilot was Maj. Amerson E. Hellier.

Rail Strikers Back On Job

CLEVELAND, March 12. (AP)—Defiant railroad workers at Toledo, O., and Elkhart, Ind., refused to end their strike today, blocking New York Central's main-line traffic from Cleveland to Chicago. At all other points, however, the strike appeared over. In Toledo, 500 workers shouted against union orders to return to work and said they would form a union of their own.

Pickets were still stationed at five places at Elkhart. The walkout there made idle about 1,800 employees.

Workers at both points were to meet again today on the question of whether to end the strike.

Three brotherhoods—engineers, conductors and firemen—called off the strike Tuesday on orders from a federal court judge.

The strike was directed against New York central lines west of Buffalo and the St. Louis terminal lines.

"Volunteers" or rerouting might be used to eliminate the two bottlenecks, the company said, but these steps were not expected to be taken in the immediate future.

As the situation stood, service was being resumed on about one-

RAIL STRIKERS (Continued on Page 2)

German Who Designed V-2 Dreams Of Man-Made Moon

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., March 12 —(AP)—There will be no iron curtain anywhere if the vision of the maker of the German V-2 guided rocket comes true.

The vision is a military space station—a tiny, man-made moon 11,075 miles up—which each day would see every square mile of clearly as from an airplane at 5,- the people moving around as the earth's inhabited surface and 000 feet.

The dreamer is Prof. Wernher Von Braun, the youthful German genius who made the V-2, and who now at 39 feels that the military satellite is possible. He lives here and is taking out United States citizenship papers.

The military satellite would circle the earth once every two hours. It would circle from north to south, at nearby right angles to the earth's rotation.

Thus if it passed over New York city at 10 a.m., on its next circuit down from the north it would travel somewhere over Denver and the west coast. In 24 hours it would see everything on the earth by day-light. And also it would come up each trip on the opposite side for a night view by radar.

The satellite would carry a telescope, through which you could see a strip of earth more then 1,000 miles wide as clearly as if you were only 5,000 feet away.

Looking down you could see far better than looking up from earth's surface. If you want to see why, try looking through thin tissue paper at a printed page a foot behind the paper. You see no letters. But lay the tissue on the page and you can read it. For the watcher on the satellite our air is the tissue paper, and it is contact with the earth.

Von Braun said:

"You can see men running around on the deck of a warship, atomic building projects, airports, troop concentrations, ships and industrial developments. It will be the ideal observation point.

"The satellite crew can drop guided misisles, right on the target".

You shoot a winged A-bomb backwards from the satellite, he explained, so that it lags behind the satellite. The slower velocity causes the bomb to drop toward the earth, and as it falls it accelerates. During the long drop it is in silght of the satellite, and as it enters the upper air it is under radar control so that it can be guided to the target with the men up above watching it hit. With a radar-scope neither clouds nor night would prevent bombing.

Truck, Bus Crash Kills 33 People

BAHIA, Brazil, March 12 (Reuters)—Thirty-three persons were killed and about 40 injured today in the worst road disaster in Brazilian history—a crash between a bus and a truck loaded with Brazilian dust-bowl refugees.

The truck was jammed with destitute farmers and their families.

The bus was travelling between Salvador and Euclides da Chuna.

The farmers were moving out of the drought-stricken belt of northeast Brazil.

Capture Of Jackson Thrills Detective

TORONTO, March 12—(CP)—Detective Roy Perry, one of two police officers shot down by bandits last Thursday, said from his hospital bed Tuesday that he is "thrilled and glad" that Leonard Jackson was captured.

He heard the news of Jackson's arrest in Montreal over his bedside radio. "Now I hope they get Boyd."

Detective Edmund Tong, who has been on the critical list since he was wounded, was "too tired to be told about it," his nurse

U.S. To Begin Talks On Bases In Spain

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) —State Secretary Dean Acheson said today negotiations will start with the Franco government soon for the use of military bases in Spain.

The United States is seeking use of both air and naval bases. Acheson told a press conference that negotiations will involve these bases and also "the use of the $100,000,000 already voted by the Congress for aid to Spain."

Jackson's Wife Says 'I'll Always Love Him' Known He Was Bad Crook For Two Years

MONTREAL, March 12 (CP) —Ann Roberts, the woman who said she married Leonard Jackson last February, said at police headquarters today: "I'll always love him. He's my guy."

She surrendered with Jackson Tuesday night when a hail of police bullets and tear-gas bombs riddled their one-room basement apartment.

"I knew Len was a crook ever since I first met him in Toronto two years ago," said the 24-year-old woman. "But I loved him just the same.

"I know Steve Suchan well and think he's a sweet guy. I think I saw Boyd once."

She said she had been worried since the shooting of two Toronto detectives in Toronto last week.

"Len was with Steve in Toronto at the time. I stayed alone here in the apartment.

"We haven't had a proper night's rest since then. Len always had a .45 automatic under his pillow at night and never went anywhere without at least one gun."

Then she talked about Tuesday night's gun battle.

"The bullets were flying all around us and the noise was terrible. Len told me he would never give up; that he would fight it out like Steve did.

"Tear gas started to fill the room. My eyes were on fire and I could hardly see Len. But I heard him yell to the cops, 'I'm coming out; don't shoot'."

Allies Reject New Red Plan

MUNSAN, Korea, March 12 —(AP).—Allied truce negotiators today rejected a new Communist scheme to let Russia examine United States secret weapons.

United Nations negotiators said the Communist plan "amounted to a forced gathering of military intelligence" by neutral inspection teams supervising a Korean armistice. Under the Red proposal these teams would include Russia.

Allied negotiators also rejected a prisoner-exchange plan they said the Communists seemed "very anxious" to put over. Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby said "it could be a trap." It did not include voluntary repatriation on which the allies insist.

Despite the dual rejection, U.N. spokesmen noted an improved tone in truce talks after recent days of bitter exchanges.

The Reds apparently abandoned an attempt to ban Allied blockades of the China coast.

U.S. To Lift Ban On Cattle From Mexico September 1

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) —The United States announced today it plans to lift a ban against cattle, sheep, swine and other ruminants and livestock products from Mexico by Sept. 1.

The embargo was put into effect in December, 1946, when an epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease broke out there.

Plans for removing it were disclosed in a joint statement issued by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan and President Miguel Aleman of Mexico.

The embargo will be lifted providing there is no new outbreak of the dread animal disease in the meantime.

This announcement came only about two weeks after the U.S. had closed the Canadian border to livestock and livestock products because of outbreak of the disease near Regina. The disease also exists in much of Europe, Asia and in parts of South America.

Before the embargo, Mexico shipped between 260,000 and 580,000 head of cattle annually to the U.S.

The U.S. and Mexican governments have worked jointly for five years to stamp out the disease.

Ask Constitution Be Brought Up To Date

TORONTO, March 12 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature Tuesday heard a suggestion that Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, be "brought up to date" to permit federal aid to education.

Elmer Brandon (P.C.-York West) said education has become half the total of the municipal tax bill and ratepayers are wondering where the peak will come. Federal and provincial grants "with no strings attached" would take part of the burden off the local taxpayer.

The tax would also promote equality of opportunity for school students across Canada.

Mr. Brandon's plea, made during the throne-speech debate, was supported by Alfred Cowling (P.C.-Toronto High Park.)

Suggest Representation

One solution was for the municipal councils to have representation on boards of education or else have power to appeal the budgets of school boards.

G. Mennen Williams, Governo. of Michigan, visited the Legislature. He spoke of the long-standing friendship and co-operation between Michigan and Ontario.

In honor of the governor's visit the old mace which was used in the early legislature of Upper Canada, was brought out for the session. The mace was captured by the American troops in the War of 1812 and returned in 1938 by President Roosevelt.

When the mace appeared, Premier Frost commented to the Michigan Governor that Canada took Detroit during the War of 1812 and returned it but the United States took 125 years to return Ontario's mace.

Mr. Brandon said part of the surpluses of the Ontario and Federal governments should be distributed to the municipalities. Municipalities were forced to pay federal sales tax on everything they bought and thereby contribute to the federal surplus but they were not allowed to budget for a surplus themselves.

REBUILD ESCORT DESTROYER — The fleet "V" clss destroyer Algonquin is in Yarrow's shipyard at Victoria, B.C., being rebuilt as the first of a new-type escort craft. The eight-year-old destroyer will be used this summer by the Navy to test radical new equipment for fighting submarines. The hull still will be that of a destroyer, but the superstructure, with the exception of the funnel and the mast, will be low-slung and stripped down.

British Budget Milder Than Expected

LONDON, March 12 (AP) — Britain looked today to a record budget of £450,000,000 ($11,520,000,000) to restore world confidence in the pound and to slow up the drain on the country's vital gold and dollar reserves.

Newspapers generally hailed the budget introduced Tuesday in the House of Commons by Richard A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer ,as "brave," "hopeful," "bold," and "imaginative." Dissenters were the pro-Labor Daily Herald which attacked it as "bad and unjust," and the Communist Daily Worker which called it "the most vicious class budget in British history."

Labor members decided to attack it during the immediate commons debate as offering no solution for, nor contributions to, Britain's export and defence problems, but simply redistributing income against the poor in favor of the middle classes. Some Socialists called it "a recipe for a slump."

Considered Mild

But generally, Britons who expected a budget which would mean even harsher austerity, considered it mild.

One of the immediate effects will be a stock market slump, brokers said. Paradoxically, that will be because the budget has "strength and soundness," they added.

They said the slump will be caused by the raise in the bank rate from 2½ to four per cent—which the Bank of England ordered with Butler's approval to put a tighter rein on all credit.

Another almost-immediate effect will be higher prices for basic foods such as bread, fats, cheese, butter, sugar, bacon, eggs, and milk because of the £160,000,000 cut which Butler directed in the £410,000,000 government food subsidies.

NAVIGATION SEASON OPENS SOON—Lock Eight of the Welland Canal, the biggest single lock in the world, still has a thin coating of ice, but the 1952 navigation season is expected to open earlier than usual because of the comparatively mild winter. The waterway, built originally in 1829 to link Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, by-passes the fall of 325 feet on the Niagara River. The $130,000,000 canal was opened officially August 7, 1932, in the presence of a number of world leaders.

Asks Taxi Bylaw Be Rescinded

LAKEFIELD, March 12 (ENS) —Deputations took up a major portion of the council's time at the regular meeting held on Monday evening in the council chamber. Present were Reeve E. H. Northey and Councillors J. L. Fraser, J. R. Hull, D. B. Millar and K. Morris.

Messrs. E. Sheehy, William Whibbs, J. Crowley, T. O'Connor, Sr. and T. O'Connor, Jr., were present and E. Sheehy on behalf of Mr. O'Connor, Sr. addressed the council about the transfer of the lease on lot 24 plan 30, Lakefield, from Mr. Whibbs to his client. Mr. Whibbs spoke briefly on the subject and Councillor J. L. Fraser outlined what had taken place concerning the matter at the council meeting in the latter part of 1951. The other members also spoke on the matter.

A motion by Councillors Fraser and Morris that the park committee meet with the council to consider the disposition of the Whibbs' cottage and lease of lot was defeated with Councillors Hull and Millar and Reeve Northey against it.

An amendment to the motion and Hull, "that the motion on the cottage of Mr. Whibbs be rescinded and that Mr. Whibbs be granted a renewal of his lease on lot 24 plan 30, from August 1, 1947 to August 1, 1957, and Mr. Whibbs be granted permission to transfer the lease on the said lot and the Reeve and Clerk be authorized to sign and seal the consent of transfer, when presented to the Council."

The amendment was put to a vote first and the registered vote showed Councillors Hull and Millar and Reeve Northey voting for the amendment and Councillors Fraser and Morris against.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard and Mrs. Clarence Coons were present on behalf of the Red Cross and supporting a County Health Unit. Mrs. Coons spoke briefly on the subject of the Health Unit, and after some discussion the council decided to wait until the county council take the matter up at their March meeting.

Eric Anderson addressed the council re the local taxi cab bylaw and asked if the council would consider repealing this bylaw. After discussing the merits of the said bylaw, it was decided to have the operators of the two taxi businesses in Lakefield at the regular April meeting of the council for a full discussion on the matter.

Accounts totalling $1,795.25 were authorized for payment.

Find Missionary Near Airport

EDMONTON, March 12 (CP)— Brother Anthony Petrin, 38-year-old missionary from Timmins, was found exhausted and hungry near Fort McMurray airport Tuesday night after he had been sought throughout the day by ground and air searchers.

Brother Petrin had been wandering alone for 15 hours in an effort to reach the town and get assistance for himself and three other Roman Catholic missionaries whose aircraft was forced down Saturday five miles from the town.

Fort McMurray is 240 miles north of Edmonton.

While Brother Petrin attempted to reach the town, the plane, a bright red Norseman, had been sighted and fuel got to it. The Norseman then flew into McMurray at noon.

Brother Petrin was located by Burt Burry of McMurray Airways who had been flying over the area during the day. The pilot dropped a note and sandwiches to the missionary and a few minutes later is believed his condition is not serious.

Others aboard the downed church plane were the Rev. William Leising, an Oblate father, and brothers George Doughtery and Michael Dabrosky.

Postpone Plans For Television

CANBERRA Australia, March 12—(Reuters)—The government today postponed indefinitely its plans to introduce experimental television in Australia. Postmaster-General Hubert Anthony said practically all equipment would have had to come from overseas. The government "considered it inopportune to embark on such a venture now."

(Last Saturday Australia slashed her imports by one-half in a drastic measure to stop her overseas reserves from running out.)

Had No Delegates

In the Republican primary, Harold E. Stassen, ex-Governor of Minnesota, had approximately 5,000 votes out of the nearly complete ballot count. Stassen was entered only in the preferential ballot; he had no delegates in the race.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was given approximately 2,700 Republican write-in votes. None of the candidates who ran as delegates favorable to him was elected. MacArthur had requested his admirers not to enter his name in the "popularity" primary.

Sixteen names appeared as write-in on the Democratic ballots—half of them Republicans. New Hampshire Democrats cast more than 100 votes each for Eisenhower and MacArthur, along with a smattering for John Foster Dulles, Taft, Stassen, Governor Earl Warren of California, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and Louis P. Schneider, St. Louis lawyer.

Many of those strikers who did climb back aboard the locomotives and cars did so grudgingly, knowing their strike had gained them nothing but a loss of pay, the road and unions conceded.

In Toledo, there was outright revolt. Five hundred diehard strikers quit their brotherhoods in a body, and decided to form a new union. The new organization will be called the Model Railroad Club.

The Toledo strikers, however, decided they will see how they feel about the matter after they got out of bed this morning. They will hold another vote today — this time by secret ballot.

Say Manitoba May Ease Ban

WINNIPEG, March 12 (CP) — The Free Press says today in a newspage story the Manitoba government will give immediate consideration to a federal request that it lift the provincial embargo on cattle shipments from Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The newspaper says Agriculture Minister Gardiner "strongly urged" this action when he met Manitoba's agriculture minister, F. C. Bell, Tuesday.

No official statement was issued, but The Free Press says it learned that "Manitoba wants to see the federal ban against shipment of livestock out of the St. Boniface union stockyards lifted before it takes any steps to end its own embargo.

"If the federal ban on shipments east is lifted and if the federal government can persuade Quebec to end its embargo the chances are Manitoba will agree to erase its ban," the newspaper says.

Industrials Higher On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 12 (CP) — Industrials pushed steadily higher today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading was active in selected western oils and a few golds and metals attracted speculative interest. High Crest Oil was a standout as it gained pennies in a turnover of more than 200,000 shares. Volume for the first three hours was 2,013,000 shares.

Refining oils and papers led industrials upward while constructions, miscellaneous issues and foods held gains and losses in balance but manufacturing companies and retail stores slipped.

Base metals posted a majority of moderate declines. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, International Nickel and Quemont slowed losses ranging from fractions to about $1. Coast Copper, Quebec Manitou and Steep Rock dipped pennies.

Western oils were mixed as Anglo-Canadian, Central-Leduc, General Petroleum, Kroy and United Oil strengthened while Mid-continent, Scurry and Superior weakened.

Senior golds showed little trend as McIntyre edged upward and Lake Shore eased. Secondary issues were mixed.

See Infection Easing As Cattle Killed

By The Canadian Press.

Canada's foot-and-mouth livestock problem appeared to be easing Wednesday with continued slaughter of infected prairie herds and no new outbreaks reported in the quara tine area around Regina.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who flew to the South Saskatchewan scene almost a week ago, was on his way back to Ottawa. Tuesday at Winnipeg he met with government officials of Manitoba, which along with British Columbia, Quebec and Nova Scotia, has imposed an embargo on Saskatchewan meat.

The Minister said the danger of the disease spreading is now less than at any time. He declined to comment on his discussions with Manitoba officials but indicated strongly that Saskatchewan livestock now could move eastward with no danger of spreading the disease.

One Herd Left

At Regina itself livestock reported as new cases last weekend were slaughtered. The latest killings—107 head of cattle and 55 Swine—completed the immediate slaughtering program except for one herd due to be shot Thursday.

This is the herd of Leonard Waas of McLean, Sask., where a disease first described as stomatitis, broke out last November.

With the slaughtering the Waas herd, a total of 1,291 animals will have been killed since the outbreak was first confirmed last month.

Mr. Gardiner has said that the slaughtering method of eliminating the disease is in accordance with United States regulations. This is the only method of elimination which would satisfy the United Sates and bring about a re-opening of the American border to Canadian cattle shipments. The U.S. closed off Canadian shipments as soon as the foot-and-mouth outbreak was confirmed in this country.

Atkinson Fund Had Revenue Of $192,907

TORONTO, March 12 — (CP)—The Atkinson Charitable Foundation in 1951 had revenue of $192,907.16 and spent $192,109.76 in charitable or philanthropic work, its executive administrator reported today.

Alexander C. Give the administrator, said in his annual report that of the total expenditure $174,296.50 was paid out in grants and $17,813.26 for operating expenses such as staff salaries, office costs and travel.

Since the foundation, established by the late Joseph E. Atkinson, began full-scale operation in October, 1950 its revenue amounted to $344,265.84 of which $336,868.39 had been distributed — $311,706.52 in direct grants and $25,160.87 for expenses. The foundation's trustees had authorized grants totalling $462,906.52 of which $151,200 remained to be paid out in varying amounts in 1952, 1953 and 1954.

The report said the foundation's revenue came from two sources: Interest on its capital holdings, which it received from Mr. Atkinson's estate and from the Toronto Star Limited; dividends and donations from the Toronto Star, shares of which are held in trust for the foundation by the Atkinson estate. Eventually the foundation would become owner of the Star, of which Mr. Atkinson was the owner.

In 1951 six grants totalling $27,000 were paid for education, 14 totalling $78,650 for health and eight totalling $68,646.50 for special welfare.

B.C. Fishermen See Record In 1952 Run Of Sockeye

VANCOUVER, March 12 (CP)—When the summer of 1955 rolls around British Columbia fishermen expect a record catch of sockeye, the prince of salmon.

A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries here, said the number of sockeye successfully making their way to spawning grounds of the Fraser River system in 1951 was almost double that of 1947, the previous cycle year.

Sockeye salmon—the number one fish in British Columbia's number two industry—are four-year fish, returning to their spawning grounds every fourth year after roaming the sea.

Last year the fishing industry reached an all-time high value of $91,000,000 — $21,000,000 higher than 1950. Of this the salmon haul was $50,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 over 1950.

There are five species of salmon: Sockeye, springs, cohoe, pinks and chums, all of great commercial importance. Sockeye is the most valuable because of its canning qualities; its more or less uniform size, the deep red color of its flesh, and its oil content.

Fishing of salmon is done mostly by gill netters in and off the mouths of rivers, but some by purse seines.

In 1950 a virtual "keep out" order was issued to Russian and Japanese fishing fleets by the five-man international Pacific Fisheries Commission, which rules the waters off the Fraser.

They said the Fraser extended beyond the three-mile limit "indefinitely westward."

Previously any waters beyond the three-mile limit had been regarded as the high seas, and the seiners made rich hauls intercepting sockeye before they reached the Gulf of Georgia and the river mouth.

Difficult Problems

The problems encountered by the B.C. Fisheries Research Board with regard to maintenance of the salmon industry are made difficult because salmon spawn in fresh water.

Industrial and agricultural development of the province tends to interfere with the fish in reaching their spawning grounds. This is true also of Washington State. The removal of forests, clearing of land for crops, and building of dams all have adverse effects.

In 1913 the run was almost wiped out by a slide at Hell's Gate, millions of salmon dying in the boiling water of the Fraser.

Since that time, every fourth year has seen an increase in the run.

Introduction of fish ladders has been a tremendous help to the industry. The fish, fighting their way upstream to interior lakes, sometimes come face to face with an unsurmountable fall. Fish ladders, with their average three-foot jump, enable the salmon to continue on their journey.

Dams pose a special problem, overcome by hauling fish by tank truck from the lower level to the top where they are placed in the river once again.

In Washington State tests are being carried out by an international commission to determine how many make the return trip to the sea.

International co-operation is needed to ensure the perpetuation of this multi-million dollar industry.

Cobourg Parks Board Plans Pavilion Repair

COBOURG, March 12 (ENS)—Park improvements were discussed at the regular meeting of the parks board. It was decided to dump and grade 200 loads of fill around the pavilion in order to prevent water from getting under the building and heaving the dance floor. The board will get prices on a new paint job for the bandshell plus repairs to the floor. The board authorized purchase of a new flag for the park.

Armored Vest Made Of Nylon

SEOUL, Korea, March 12 (AP)—United States infantry in Korea are testing a lightweight armored vest that is all nylon. It weighs only seven or eight pounds—about half the weight of metal alloy vests, the army said today.

Last February the army tried vests that contained protective inserts of lightweight metal.

The latest vest is designed to protect against mortar, grenade and shell fragments. These normally account for 60 to 80 per cent of combat wounds.

The nylon vest will sometimes stop a .45-calibre slug but will not protect against high-velocity rifle or machine-gun fire.

ANN JANE BRADLEY

OMEMEE, March 12 (ENS) — Ann Jane Bradley died in Peterborough Civic Hospital Tuesday after a brief illness.

Miss Bradley, a daughter of the late Samuel Bradley and Mary Jane Sanderson was a lifelong resident of Omemee, and kindly remembered by many in whose homes she had administered to the sick. She was 75 years old and the last of a family of seven. Her brothers were the late Henry, Joseph, Robert, John and Reuban Bradley. The late Mrs. William White (Elizabeth) was her sister.

She was a member of the United Church. Funeral will be Thursday at 2:30 p.m., at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Bradley, the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiating. Burial will be in Emily Cemetery.

MRS. ELLEN ROSE

MARMORA, March 12 (ENS)—Following an illness which confined her to her home for the greater part of two years, Mrs. Ellen Rose, well-known resident of Marmora, died Tuesday. For the last few months she had been unable to leave her bed.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barnum and was born at Cannifton, later moving with her parents to Marmora where she lived the greater part of her life.

Like her husband, William Rose, who died about 30 years ago, she enjoyed fame as a cook. When the gold mines at Cordova were in operation, the Roses managed the company boarding house for some years as they did later for a period at Deloro.

She was a faithful attendant at the former Marmora Methodist Church, later to be known as St. Andrew's United Church, until overtaken by illness. She was an active worker on the Ladies' Aid and was once elected president.

She was one of the oldest members of what was known for years as Marmora's Council 279, Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, having been initiated into the order in October, 1903. The name of the organization was changed to the Reliable Life Insurance Society, some years ago.

She is survived by three children: Clinton, Toronto; Mrs. Clifford Jones (Myrtle), Marmora, and Mrs. Delbert Fleming (Mae), Stirling; a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Also surviving are one sister, Mrs. Alice Gano, Marmora; and two brothers, Samuel Barnum, Kingston, and Edward Barnum, Belleville. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church, followed by burial in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Sees Good Year For Cobalt Mine

TORONTO, March 12 — (CP)—A good year for the Cobalt [illegible] was forecast today.

C. V. J. O'Shaughnesy, manager of the provincially-operated Timiskaming testing laboratories at the town 40 miles south of Kirkland Lake, told the annual convention of the Prospectors' and Developers Association:

"During he last year there were 14 shippers of silver ore, 12 from the Cobalt area and two from the Gowganda area. The prospects for this year are for a further increase in volume due to the increased production of Cobalt ore and a probable increase in the volume of silve ore as well".

He said the Ontario Mines Department has operated a bulk sampling plant at Cobalt since 1921. The present plant was installed during 1942 and 1943. Cobalt ores are assayed for silver, nickel, cobalt and copper and the ores are bought and paid for by a smelter on the basis of the assay results.

South Africa Cuts Imports By Third

CAPETOWN, March 12 (Reuters)—South Africa today slashed imports by one-third as its contribution to the battle to prop up the sterling currency area's sagging economy.

Eric Louw, minister for economic affairs, announcing the cuts, said it is necessary not only to ensure that South Africa's sound exchange position should be maintained, but it follows on the conclusions reached by the Commonwealth finance ministers last January.

Thin Purse, Bare Table

The British Budget must be used for a double purpose: to keep the Government's housekeeping account balanced, and also the national housekeeping account. In other words, it must not only levy taxes to ensure that enough money comes in to operate the country and public services but must also be the responsible instrument for the economic soundness of the nation as a whole. It is this second capacity of the budget which is the more difficult. The budget which Mr. Butler brought down yesterday provides, without unpopularly increasing taxes on tobacco and liquor, and indeed with some income tax reductions, for a surplus of £200,000,000. It is not so certain that the budget will as successfully balance the national housekeeping account.

* * *

Britain has both a drastically unfavourable balance of trade (which has devoured her gold reserves) and inflationary pressures at home due to a heavy consumer demand for goods which she has not got. The people have the money, but are neither producing enough goods nor able to import enough, to meet the consumer demand, while at the same time the country makes a heavy rearmament effort. To save the situation the budget must reduce the total purchasing power of consumers, or provide for more goods. The budget attempts to

* * *

Income-tax rates have been re-arranged so that two million Britons will be free of income tax. This is expected to encourage people to work harder and longer. They will have to, because, at the same time that some of them are freed from the tax, the prices they will have to pay for daily necessities will rise sharply. This is a result of removing about £160,000,000 worth of subsidies, reducing the total to £250,000,000. It has been these subsidies which have kept the prices of food artificially low. In the round, it is likely that even the lowest-paid worker will be worse off economically than he was before. Certain taxes have been increased, on admission to football games, on gasoline; and interest rates have been raised so that it will cost more for a person to borrow money to build a house, buy furniture and the like.

* * *

It is through such means that the Government expects to reduce the total purchasing power of the people. The dearer money will retard inflation; and new taxes on industrial and commercial profits will drain off money from industry. However—and this seems a measure to encourage more production and a larger export—taxes on dividends and on an industry's earnings held in reserve, have been reduced.

* * *

The budget is not as bold as some expert observers believed necessary to restore Britain's economy and the strength of the pound. It has lessened some formal limitations on individual effort and industries (through tax changes) but in reality has imposed greater restrictions on the people. The imports cannot be cut by a further £100,000,000—a total of £600,000,000 of import reductions since the Churchill Government took office in the autumn—without making British life very hard and the table very bare. That is the greatest blow which the budget held. The people may be freer to try to earn more money, but there will not be the goods for them to buy, and what few there are will be higher in price because of the sharpest rap of the budget—the reduction in food subsidies.

Royal Stamps

It will be many months before new stamps bearing the likeness of Queen Elizabeth are issued to mark the beginning of her reign. During the eleven-month reign of Edward VIII Canada did not get around to issuing any stamps of Edward VIII; there was one issue of Edward VIII stamps in Britain. Queen Elizabeth made a hobby of stamp-collecting when she was a young Princess; she may therefore take a personal interest in the designs of the new stamps, which will undoubtedly bear her profile facing right. As on coins, traditionally the royal faces look alternate ways.

Queen Elizabeth inherited from her father the magnificent stamp collection begun by George V, a collection some experts have valued at more than a million pounds. There is a royal stamp room in the ground floor of Buckingham Palace, presided over by Sir John Wilson, keeper of the royal collection. The walls of this room are lined with some three hundred albums in red morocco. Each contains between 750 and a thousand stamps. The collection has been accumulated through gifts and by private purchases by or for the sovereign. King George VI is said to have been a shrewd buyer; one stamp he acquired for £2,000 now has a market value of £10,000.

The founder of the collection never bothered with foreign stamps, but it has a complete file of every stamp printed in Britain and the British dominions and colonies in the last fifty years. Most of the early British stamps have also been acquired. The full range of the collection is not publicly known. It will be, however, when a catalogue, with photographs, is published in a few months. This has been under preparation for four years by the keeper of the royal collection. The book will not be in general circulation, for the price will be about $250.00 a copy.

No Hope Of Tax Reduction

Replying to a question of Mr. Drew's about tax reduction in the forthcoming budget, Mr. St. Laurent said these words in the Commons last Thursday: "It may very well be that there will be some adjustments. But so long as the world situation continues as it is, I cannot hold out any hope to the Canadian people of any substantial reduction in the scale of the rate of taxation in the country." That is plain enough; we may expect high taxes for an indefinite number of years to come, for it does not look as though the world situation will change very much for the better, and the arms race is being carried on in the most expensive possible manner.

The world situation is in a state of ferment because the world is much smaller than it used to be; if provocative words are spoken in Moscow today, we shall print them tomorrow: when Senator Connally says that the French must toe the line if they expect U.S. assistance, the French are bristling with annoyance within a few hours. Under such circumstances, how can the world situation be anything but irritable?

High taxes inhibit the ordinary business of the nation, for corporation taxes make expansion very difficult, and our high sales tax on virtually all commodities inhibits trade. Big Government spending gives us prosperity of a kind, but it may be asked if such prosperity is not illusory. If through some supernatural agency, all nations were to become friendly tomorrow and all preparations for war were to cease, what would our real prosperity amount to?

High taxes we must have, if we are to continue in the path which we have partly chosen, partly been forced to take. There is no immediate prospect that we shall ever have lower taxes, for anything less likely to reach a friendly solution than the present world situation can hardly be imagined. Upon the whole, we had better be thankful that high taxation is, so far, the worst that we have to bear.

No Danger To Human Feet and Mouths

Until last week-end no new cases of foot-and-mouth disease had been diagnosed since February 23rd. It had been confined to nine municipalities within a thirty-mile radius of Regina (which are in quarantine) and had affected only 22 herds involving about 900 cattle and 250 swine. The newest cases do not extend the infected area and affect only 95 cattle and 20 swine. Considering the precautions taken and the restricted area in which the disease has been recognized, the situation is not alarming.

The disease first appeared in the Regina district as long ago as last November, but it was not recognized as foot-and-mouth until last month. The incubation period is from two to five days after the animal has been exposed to the disease. With such a short incubation period and taking into account the four months it has been present in the area, there is little likelihood now that it will invade the whole country. It is possible for the virus to lie dormant for several months unless it is killed by disinfectant. The strong disinfection of suspected premises now being undertaken will kill off the virus, unless by bad chance carriers have already taken it into other areas.

The outbreak is, and has been, grave; but there is no cause for panic. The United States has had six outbreaks of the disease since 1900 and all were brought under control. The most serious, in 1914, involved twenty-two states and caused the slaughter of 170,000 head. The incidence of the disease in Saskatchewan is far from having these proportions.

The risk to humans is very slight. The disease is not fatal to them, and they are seldom infected by it, even after direct exposure. Certainly, meat coming out of packing-houses is perfectly safe to use, no matter in what province the packing-house is situated. The animals are inspected before slaughter and the processing is supervised by qualified veterinary Government inspectors. Any meat bearing the "Approved" stamp of the Health of Animals division of the Canadian Department of Agriculture is certified to be free of any disease and suitable for consumption in any area.

A sports writer asserts that "breathing is of the highest importance in long-distance running." We find it pretty important, just sitting still.

Socialists Turn Defence Front

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNER.

THE Atlantic policy of peace through unity and strength is in danger of losing the support of the democratic Socialists of Western Europe. This is the ominous fact which has emerged from the recent great parliamentary debates in Bonn, Paris, and London.

In Germany, the Social Democratic Party, under the leadership of Dr. Kurt Schumacher, has come out in strong opposition against the German contribution to European defence. It has also opposed the Schuman Plan, for pooling European iron, steel and coal, and in general has taken a cold and critical attitude towards the basic policy of the Adenauer Government of giving priority to German integration with the West over the restoration of Germany unity.

IN FRANCE the Socialists—with M. Jules Moch, the energetic former French Minister of the Interior and of Defence, as their principal spokesman—have been the most severe critics of the European Defence Community, and also the chief proponents of anti-Americanism.

In Britain, the Labour Party has become openly divided over rearmament, and is uneasy over western policy on the German defence contribution. Mr. Aneurin Bevan is the leader of the rebellion against the rearmament programme, while Mr. Hugh Dalton is the chief spokesman of the opposition to Germany's inclusion in the Atlantic and European defence plans.

IT IS not an exaggeration to say that if the Socialist policies in the three chief West European countries are added together, they amount to the complete negation of the policies worked out and agreed by the North Atlantic Alliance over the last two years. If Germany were not rearmed and British rearmament were severely cut down, there would be no hope of making Western Europe militarily secure in any foreseeable time. If French-German unity were ruled out and France and Germany decided to regard each other as potential enemies, each of them would almost inevitably be driven to seek reinsurance against the other through some understanding with Russia. The Western European defensive unity against Russia would therefore fall to pieces, both militarily and politically, if the policies of the German and French Socialists and the Bevan and Dalton groups in the British Labour Party were combined and carried out; and [illegible] present American policy of building up Atlantic unity and strength as the basis of the containment of Russia. The field would be given to those Americans—neo-isolationists, "Asia-firsters", and advocates of preventive war—who would write off Europe, base their foreign policy exclusively on American strength and American interests, seek peace through a showdown, and, in General MacArthur's words, "if necessary go it alone".

THE Socialists are not in the Government at present either in Germany, France or Britain. They are therefore not in a position to enforce their present policies immediately. The Socialist opposition to the present Atlantic policy is nevertheless a very serious source of weakness for the West. The Socialists are one of the strongest, most articulate, and most permanent elements in the Western European political set up. They are certain to come back into government sooner or later. Even outside government they remain a factor to be taken into account as the authentic representatives of the industrial workers, without whose whole-hearted support it is hard to carry through rearmament and impossible to fight a war. Their present opposition deserves therefore to be carefully analysed and understood. It is a major task of Western statesmanship to overcome it, and to reconcile, if possible, Socialist policy with Government policy.

THIS should not be altogether impossible. For there is no doubt that the present European Socialists are fundamentally as anti-Communist, and as aware of the Russian danger, as are any of the Atlantic Governments. It is true that in their historic origins democratic Socialism and Communism are linked; and that as late as in 1945-46, there were wishful attempts on the part of many Socialists to recreate "Socialist Unity" by co-operation with Communists. But that policy collapsed in 1947 with the enforced fusion and liquidation of the Socialist parties in Eastern Europe. The irreconcilable hostility of the Communists to democratic Socialism was then recognised everywhere. The few who refused to recognise it—fellow travellers or crypto-Communists—split off. And during the years 1947-50, democratic Socialists in Western Europe were in many cases the leaders of resistance to Russia, and the initiators of the defensive alliance which became formalised in the North Atlantic Treaty. The incisive and sometimes heroic parts played in this respect by the late Mr. Ernest Bevin, the former British Foreign Secretary, the late M. Leon Blum, the veteran French Socialist leader, and by Herr Ernest Reuter, the gallant Socialist Burgomaster of Berlin, belong to history. M. Moch, and Dr. Schumacher also played notable parts in rallying French and German resistance to Communist encroachments in those critical years.

WHAT has now changed the Socialist attitude? Certainly not a newly-awakened sympathy with Russia or Communist Imperialism. Men like Schumacher, Moch and also—despite rumours to the contrary—Bevan are convinced democrats with no illusions about Moscow. There is no doubt that in a real crisis—in the case of Russian military attack or a violent Communist coup—they would fight for the preservation of the basic freedoms as doggedly as any Liberal or Conservative. But it seems that, under the double influence of a temporary relaxation of direct Russian pressure and of the temporary loss of governmental power in their home countries, they have lost their sense of proportion, and allowed their opposition to conservative Government at home to override their resistance to the Communist danger from abroad.

IT IS unfortunately impossible even for the sympathetic observers to detect in the present Socialist position any real alternative policy of effective resistance to the continuing Russian and Communist policy of unlimited expansion and ultimate world domination. Mr. Bevan has made explicit his belief that the Russian danger is exaggerated—a belief which, if all the relevant facts are soberly considered, appears as sheer escapism. The French and German Socialist leaders are less explicit but their policies seem to rest on the same assumption.

Only if the Russian danger were no longer acute, and if security were already achieved—only then would it be right from a Socialist point of view to oppose the sacrifices of working-class standards and the delays in social progress which are entailed by rearmament; only then would it be understandable to go slow with such great historic decisions as the merger of France and Germany in a European Defence Community. But it is only too plain that in fact the danger is as great as ever and that there is no security yet.

IN THESE circumstances it is hard not to feel that the Socialists who acted so bravely and realistically when in government, have succumbed to the temptation of irresponsibility which always goes with opposition. From the wider international point of view it may have been a misfortune for the Atlantic cause that the Socialists lost power in most of Western Europe during the last two years.

There remains, however, when all this has been taken into account, one profound paradox. This is that everybody—in Britain, France and Germany—the Socialists seem now to have become the staunchest upholders of a traditional and narrow nationalism, bordering on isolationism. In defending the Welfare State against rearmament they are basically playing their proper part, even if they may at times take their defence beyond the limits imposed by a sense of responsibility and a sense of proportion. But in defending national sovereignty against international integration, in clinging to the most old-fashioned definition of national interests and waving the faded banners of "Germany against France", "France against Germany", and "Britain against all comers", they deny the noblest aspirations of their past. Can those sceptics be right who have long somewhat sneeringly maintained that international brotherhood has ceased to be a Socialist ideal in practice and that all twentieth century Socialism is bound to end up as National Socialism?

Letters To The Editor

A TERRIBLE WARNING

Sir: Like many other citizens I was appalled to read of the treatment meted out to Fred Brant by the powers that be.

I suggest that a copy of Swain's article be presented to every visitor and newcomer to the city, to serve as a warning of the fate in store for them should they be so foolish as to allow themselves, to become unemployed, penniless or friendless within our gates.

Truly, man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn.

Yours truly,

SENDS DONATION FOR BRANT

Sir: It appears that your story of March 5, on the experiences of Mr. Fred Brant, has raised great public indignation—and well it should! You are to be congratulated for your coverage; but I trust you will not stop there. It is to be hoped that through the medium of your newspaper columns, you will demand an investigation as to the men responsible for such an un-Christian and barbaric act, and reveal to the public the names of those responsible so that they may receive their 'just' rewards for crippling a man for life.

As a worker in the field of Social Work in Toronto for three years, many of the sorrows and hardships of those not blessed with financial backing and opportunities have been revealed to me. It is not difficult, therefore, to visualize all the trials and heartaches placed before Fred Brant during his young life. He has been a victim of circumstances, and since none of us have a choice as to what colour, race or family we are born into, who are we to unjustly condemn one who has not had the blessings of birth and home that many have had? Fred Brant would have received better treatment had he been a criminal—yet his only crime was not having a home, family and job—and a feeling of security because he had no one to care or love him, and basically we all need that feeling.

To-day, we are fighting to preserve our Democratic Way of Life, yet right here in our [illegible] who are supposed to uphold our democratic method of justice) destroying the principles for which our men are to-day dying on the battlegrounds of Korea. What will these soldiers think when told of a man condemned to physical suffering for life, by the upholders of the law, because he was guilty of having no home and no money?

Why did the police not contact that worthy Christian group, the Salvation Army? They are always ready to lend a helping hand, regardless of the money jingling in one's pocket, and to show Christ's Way of Life, which was one of love and helpfulness without thought to man's material wealth or circumstances. Unfortunately, society, made up of individuals, is not always ready to follow in Christ's steps.

May the prayers of many go to Fred Brant, and may the pocket books of all be opened to him, so that we as citizens of Peterborough, may help erase the very black shadow a few members of our judicial department have cast upon our city.

Enclosed you will find a small donation to be given to the Salvation Army, or used by your paper to start a Fred Brant Fund. And may I remind all that in thinking of the cost of his hospital expenses to the city because he is a public patient, may each one remember that he is there through the acts of our publicly paid judicial members, so the city cannot complain about the cost of his hospital fees.

Thanking you for your time and for the splendid job you do in upholding our democratic principles through your newspaper columns, I remain. Yours sincerely,

ISABELLE NORTHCOTT.

PLEASANTRIES AMONG DOG LOVERS

Sir: In reply to letter of Peace and Goodwill (pen name) the writers left off their surname, "Disturbers".

I am very pleased to know that several in the neighbourhood, that didn't sign the petition, at least used their heads for more than just a handy place to hang a hat. It is an awful shame that some people let half of their property grow wild. You would find a lot of the same unusable property around Apsley. Or would you? Among cedars is a poor place to hang clothes at anytime.

In the first instance a direct complaint would have been the proper procedure. No! They run and grabbed Benny and the Police who couldn't or didn't order the dogs tied, as they had been so, a long time before some of petition-signers come on the street.

The dog mentioned is real well-fed and doesn't have to eat anybody for a meal, and has yet to bite anyone.

Several petition-signers were not a wee mite scared of a dog when they wanted fill, lumber, and shovels, for building foundations.

As the writers say about keeping three large dogs in the basement. I think they should be in a midway, as they sure make good guessers. As to health standpoint, there sure must be a lot of unsanitary houses in this large city, as there are more dogs kept in basements than tied to a kennel, howling all hours of the night, so clean one guy had to burn his last summer to clean it up.

Then! when some goodwillers have to take their own medicine it is like a rusty, dirty gun, it backfires.

Concerning the elderly lady being terrified. I don't blame her. A dog doesn't have to be as big as a bear before it can bite, or be deemed a nuisance. She sure is not the only high strung and nervous being in our neighbourhood, and in years gone hence it was not a dog the neighbour was scared of.

As feeling sorry for a child's playmate, there were no goodwillers' thoughts of my son's dog when they were scratching their names down on the petition. As for throwing stones at an over-exuberant spaniel puppy, you use what ever defence at your disposal. How old does a puppy have to be before he gets to be a dog? I have given him your recipe, call the Humane Society and the Police.

In closing I hope this will make clear in the readers' minds the true fact concerning a mere detail that could have been settled by neighbourly arbitration.

Thanking yon, Mr. Editor,

Signed
"LOVER OF DOGS"

Navy Tightens Atlantic Harbor Defences

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, March 12 (CP)—The navy is toughening and tightening the defences of major Atlantic harbors, but strict secrecy cloaks most of the work.

A special section of the navy is in charge of the steps to create so-called seaward defence bases at Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., and probably elsewhere. But it's largely a secret section as far as the public is concerned.

Its job is to defend the harbors and approaches and to leave the role of going out to meet the enemy at sea to other elements of the fleet.

The secrecy which surrounds it also cloaks the small, fast "harbor defence patrol craft" to be specially built for this job and supposed to be capable of coping with both submarines and mines. Harbor defences will also include minesweepers.

There are two main, obvious reasons for the secrecy. One is Russia's possession of submarines capable of reaching the Canadian coasts—they proved it last year—and penetrating any loose harbor defences. Russia, as well, has dangerous mines to sow around harbor mouths.

No Use Telling Plans

The second reason, naval officials say, is that there is little sense in erecting defences if a potential enemy knows the plans.

The latest public indication of what is going on came with disclosure that a wharf and "other permanent installations" are being built at St. John's for the seaward defence base.

All the navy will say about them now is that the wharf will be 300 feet long and 125 feet wide, that estimated cost is $543,450 and that work will start as soon as weather permits. The contract went to the Diamond Construction Co. of Fredericton.

The only other place where it has been announced seaward-defence work is going on is Halifax. A naval spokesman said this to mean that other harbors on either coast are being neglected or that they are wide open to attack.

However, in the Commons Tuesday, Dan Riley (L., St. John-Albert) urged the government to pay particular attention to the defence of the Port of Saint John, N.B., and argued that the provision of adequate facilities there are as essential any other defence project.

THE LITTLE CREEK which ordinarily trickles through the centre of Cobourg, passes under the business section and makes an inconspicuous entry into Lake Ontario, was a raging river Tuesday as night-long rains, plus melted snow and water sent it over its banks and over a widespread area. Removal of a bottleneck some 15 years ago saved the business section from the damage which occurred in the last big flood, but on James St. to the north (shown above), the flood was the greatest in memory of inhabitants on that street. The Factory Creek at the west end of the town was many times its normal width and flooded cellars of houses bordering its banks.—(Murray Smith Photos).

Will Continue Back Seaway Governor Says

TORONTO, March 12 (CP) — Michigan Tuesday pledged "continued support" to the St. Lawrence seaway.

During a one-day goodwill visit to Toronto, Governor Williams spoke as the province's guest at the opening of Tuesday's sitting of ehe Legislature.

In a speech from the floor of the Legislature he said the seaway will bring "benefits for peace as well as wartime defence . . . for generations to come." He added:

"I pledge my continued support to this great project, in the fervent hope that it can provide another example of North American co-operation."

Co-operation and friendship between Michigan and Ontario were the main points of the Governor's speech.

Th relationship between the two peoples "has long since ceased to be that of strangers and foreigners," he said.

"We have reached the stage in our relations where our friendship is so deep and permanent that even our past wars have been drained of bitterness and we remember only the bravery of those who fought on both sides."

This "unparalleled achievement of neighborliness and international goodwill" was due to a "basic agreement on ultimate values," stemming from a common ancestry.

The Governor and Mrs. Williams met Premier Frost and his Cabinet at noon Tuesday, followed by a meeting with Ontario's Lieutenant - Governor Louis Breithaupt. The Governor had lunch with the Cabinet.

Earlier he toured the city.

Ten Fined; Had Liquor In Wrong Places

Ten written pleas of guilty on charges of having liquor in a place other than a residence were entered in police court Tuesday.

Roger Wilson, 284 O'Carroll Ave., Donald Cassan, Havelock; Walter Little, Havelock; Stanley Towes, 3, Havelock; Dale Goodfellow, 466 Bonaccord St., Glen Cullen, 498 Cambridge St., Gordon Fennell, 643 Montrose Ave., and Howard Alfred, Havelock, were each fined $15 and $2.50 costs. Mrs. W. Smith, Havelock, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, on the same charge, indicating the liquor was found on her person rather than in a car as in the other cases.

1st Ambassador Not Worried By Revolution

OTTAWA, March 12 (CP) — Cuba's first ambassador to Canada took up his new duties Tuesday, seemingly little concerned about the revolution which brought about a quick change of government in his island country Monday.

Delfin H. Pupo y Proenza, 48, who was appointed by deposed Cuban President Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, arrived in the capital just a few hours after Gen. Fulgencio Batista took over power in a 77-minute coup in Cuba.

Tuesday in his top-floor office in the Chateau Laurier Hotel, the ambassador told a reporter he wasn't interested in politics. He is in Canada, he said, to serve Cuba as ambassador and enhance trade between the two countries.

He was in Canada on a trade mission three years ago.

As for the effect of the revolution on his position here, he showed a gold ring initialled "F.B."—for Fulgencio Batista.

"Batista and I are good friends" he said.

Ability Impaired Driver Fined $50

Alfred Marshall, 121 William St., Kingston, pleaded guilty in police court Tuesday to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. He was finded $50 and $2.50 costs.

O.P.P. constable Russell Pollard testified that Marshall was driving west on Highway 7 on February 22 when he sideswiped an oncoming eastbound car and continued toward Peterborough without stopping. Constable Pollard said the other driver turned around and followed Marshall into the city.

He said Marshall drove up on the sidewalk on Prince St., and stopped. While the driver of the other car was telephoning police, constable Pollard said Marshall drove off, and he was finally stopped on Albert St.

After Marshall pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while impaired, crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said he would be offering no evidence on a second charge against Marshall of leaving the scene of the accident.

"On the sum total of the matter, you can consider yourself very fortunate," Magistrate W. R. Philp told Marshall.

2 Drivers Fined For Carelessness

Two men were fined $10 and costs in police court Tuesday for careless driving.

Douglas Yaxley, R.R. 3, Keene, entered a written plea of guilty on the charge and paid a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs.

Edward Bland, Millbrook, was convicted of driving carelessly on Highway 28 on November 23 and was fined $10 and $30.50 costs.

Evidence on the charge against Bland, who was defended by W. B. Gordon, was heard March 4. Magistrate W. R. Philp then adjourned the charge until Tuesday for judgment.

Bland, who was travelling toward Peterborough, was passing a truck which he said speeded up after he started to pass it. As he drew abreast of the truck, the two vehicles broke over a hill, and an oncoming southbound car had to swerve to avoid a head-on collision.

Went Out Of Control

John Faust, of London, the driver of the car travelling south, said he had to pull over to the right hand shoulder to avoid an accident. After Bland squeezed between the truck and the oncoming car, his car went out of control and overturned in the ditch.

In finding Bland guilty, Magistrate Philp said that there was a solid white line for some distance south of the crest of the hill. The magistrate said that when Bland saw that the truck was not going to let him pass he should have dropped back behind, rather than try to speed up and pass the truck on the hill. Bland claimed that a northbound car had closed up the space behind the truck he was passing, but Magistrate Philp said he should have dropped back behind both vehicles rather than continue to try and pass the truck as he did.

The service will be free to pensioners.

Yukon Eric Gets Main Bout When Bobo Brazil Hurt After Hot Grappling Match

Bobo Brazil and the main pro mat bout at the Brock Arena last night came to an untimely end in seven minutes of the final round. It wound up with Yukon Eric declared the winner as he carried the injured Negro out through the anxious crowd and, with the help of police, up the stairs to his dressing room. It was found that Bobo had pulled muscles in the neck when he missed a drop kick and landed heavily on the floor.

Up to that point, it was a sizzling scrap with the 247-pound Brazil matching speed with the brute strength of the 278-pound Alaskan and pretty well holding his own. He had made the clumsier Eric miss several drives just before and was retaliating for chest smashes in the corner with head butts when he got Yukon against the ropes. He jumped back and launched his drop-kick attack, but Eric managed to sidestep that one and amble dazedly away as Bobo fell hard on the boards, twisting his head as he landed. Eric revived and started to go in for the fall, but Referee Sammy Gotter waved him away—seeing the colored husky was hurt—and gave Eric the fall. While more of the crowd were for Bobo, all gave the Alaskan a hand when he carried his opponent out.

A Back-Breaker

Eric had taken the second and equalizing fall in 10 minutes with his "Kodiac Krusher"—a back-breaker—after catching Bobo's attempted flying scissors in mid-air and throwing him heavily into a corner. Two quick slams then set Bobo up for the unconscious hold. However, Brazil had a good margin on the round with his speed, aggressiveness and head butts. He threw elbows, too, when Yukon tried to rough it up. The latter was much too strong for Bobo, but Brazil had speed and fight to match it and make it a swell scrap. Each in turn was out of the ring in lively going.

The first fall went to Bobo in 11 minutes when he came off the ropes with a flying body scissors for a quick fall, the ref giving him a fast one-two-three on it. However, Gotter later evened that up by giving Eric a slow count as he climbed back into the ring. Just before the fall, Bobo tried a flying tackle off the ropes but it was shed easily by the powerful Yukon. Bobo then crossed him up with the flying scissors. There was some hard grappling with Yukon refusing to be down like ordinary wrestlers as he flexed his giant muscles. Bobo kept battling and was much faster as well as using the odd head butt to slow his opponent up. Eric was back on his feet immediately after being counted out. Bobo drew a big hand for this fall.

Goes To Draw

Fred Atkins, at 246, and the 250-pound Warren Bockwinkle staged a dandy semi-final which went to a draw. They were slugging it out on even terms in the middle of the ring at the time-limit gong. Atkins worked a punishing armlock for quite a time, and also roughed it up along the ropes in his usual boring-in style, but Warren was fast and tricky for a big man to make it a good bout. He drove Fred out of the ropes for protection several times when he came back with slams and elbows to the face. Plenty of open wrestling was seen with Atkins peeved from the start after getting a head smash to the nose. The referee was kept busy trying to yank the driving Australian off his quarry, but Bockwinkle finished up just as strongly.

Strangler Bob Wagner, scaling 243 to Pat Flanagan's 230, won the prelim in 21 minutes when Pat had to concede after hurting his shoulder. The talkative and tricky Strangler started off clean-book away. He got in a lot of illegal stuff and argued with the referee frequently. Pat got a headlock clamped on him to bother Bob plenty, till the latter tied Flan up in the ropes and slammed him repeatedly with the elbows. It was fast and exciting all the way, with the fans' boos showering Wagner. Bob escaped Pat's driving by going under the ropes and, when in a painful armlock, kept offering to concede partially, but backing out. He finally got extra rough with fists, feet and knees to bang up Flanagan's shoulder. He was working furiously on it and had Pat in a bad way when the latter had to concede the fall.

Brantford Dumps Indians 4-1 To Deadlock Semi-Final Series

By The Canadian Press.

Brantford Redmen kept their chances for a berth in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals alive Tuesday night when they delighted a home crowd by dumping Stratford Indians 4-1 to deadlock their best-of-seven semi-finals at three games each.

In Tuesday night's O.H.A. Junior A play the host Guelph Biltmores bounced back from an 8-6 Sunday defeat to down Toronto Marlboros 6-2 and even their best-of-seven series 1-1, in games. The third game will be at Guelph Friday night.

With Toronto St. Michael's standing by after ousting Galt Black Hawks in their quarter-final, St. Catharines Teepees took another step forward in their fight for the right to meet the Collegians in semi-final play when they drubbed Kitchener Greenshirts 6-1 at Kitchener. Teepees now hold a 2-1 edge in games in the best-of-five series.

In the red-hot Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds drove back from a 5-3 Monday loss to blank North Bay Black Hawks 5-0 last night in North Bay.

Leads Attack

Bill Simpell paced the Brantford attack with a pair of goals while singletons went to Lloyd Ferguson and Bob Russell. Denny Flanagan came through with Stratford's lone goal.

At Guelph, Biltmores shared their six among Andy Bathgate, Danny Blair, Dean Prentice, Ron Stewart, Billy McCreary and Jim Connelly. Parker MacDonald and Wally Maxwell scored for Marlboros.

Buddy Boone and Chuck Marshall paced the St. Catharines attack with two goals each. Other Teepee snipers were Bill Young and Orrin Gould. Centreman Duke Edmundson scored the losers' lone goal.

Terry Biocchi banged in a pair of markers for Sault Ste. Marie while Doug Towers, Joe Bumbacco and Ted Roney added the others.

Y-Jacks Take Close One 27-26

With less than a minute to go the Y-Jacks' Spragge sank a lay-up shot on a breakaway to give the Jacks a 27-26 win over the Normals Tuesday night in the Y.M.C.A. house league. The Y-Knots, although hindered at first by poor shooting, kept up their winning streak with a 33-22 victory over the Penguins.

Spragge's basket was the climax of a close-checking duel which saw Normals pressing the Y-Jacks throughout. In fact Normals had taken a slim one-point lead with only two minutes left when McMartin sank two foul shots. But lead in quick order.

Normals, by virtue of their foul shooting, kept in the game from the start. They sank eight out of 15 while Y-Jacks scored three out of 15.

The Jacks jumped to an early lead, 11-3, in the first quarter on points by Spragge and Flowers. Normals rallied with Laundry, Roblin, McFadden and Hulsman scoring in the second but they were still down 19-12 at the half.

Laundry began to hit regularly in the third quarter and with help from Roblin and Hulsman outscored the Jacks 8-2, giving Jacks only a one-point lead. Four good foul shots with a basket by Roblin kept Normals in the game in the fourth until Spragge's basket. Spragge easily led the scoring with 12 points followed by teammate Groves and Normal's Roblin each with eight.

Missed On Shots

For a while in the second game, Y-Knots appeared to be headed for their first defeat and it was their own fault. They missed shot after shot from various places on the court. Then in the second half Batchelor with his one-hand hook shot and Butcher found the range in time to pull out a win.

The Y-Knots with Fowler, Butcher and Harwood scoring took a slim 5-2 lead at the quarter but gave way to Penguins in the second. Bill English dropped in three baskets, Motta and Bogue one each for the Penguins in the second to give them a 12-10 score at the half.

Batchelor with the hook shot began to hit the hoop in the third and went for seven points out of Y-Knots' 11 as they went ahead 21-18 at the three-quarter mark. Butcher joined Batchelor in the scoring spree in the fourth and the Y-Knots swept to the victory.

Batchelor of the Y-Knots and Bill English of the Penguins shared top point honors each with 12. Butcher scored nine.

Lineups—1st Game — Normals (26)—Laundry 7, Roblin 8, McFadden 2, McMartin 5, Pigden, Rikely, Radnor, Hulsman 4.

While some of last year's officers won't be able to act this coming diamond season, they want to leave the club okay financially and with a league berth. An early [illegible] in this regard. Oshawa merchants—with "angel" John Harris again prepared to bring in a flock of U.S.A. imports—has been accepted into a loop comprising Niagara Falls, Welland, St. Catharines and two N.Y. towns. The T.B.A., by the way, has dropped out of the O.B.A. this year.

Sportswriters Association is staging its big celebrity dinner in Toronto tomorrow eve, with proceeds for crippled children. A lot of big names will be there and some of these former star athletes will be heard over CBC at 9.30 p.m. Chaps like Lionel Conacher, Jack Dempsey, Sandy Somerville, Jim Thorpe, Newsy Lalonde, Frank Leahy, and others. A trophy goes to Marlene Stewart, as Ontario's outstanding athlete in 1951. Wes McKnight and Rex (The Lung) Stimers will handle the radio chore. Main course on the dinner menu is roast venison and a thick steak, too. Cost is $25 a plate, with $19 in each case going to charity.

Hawks Tangle With Petes

With backs to the wall, Belleville Hawks face the Petes at 8.30 here tonight in Civic Arena. Third of their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-finals. As the Petes won the first two, the Hawks have to take this one this eve or be squarely on the spot where they'll have to win at home Friday or hang up their skates. You may be sure they'll shoot the works to get back in the hunt, and the Ellis squad will have to be at their best. They've been playing in great form lately and hope to wrap up this series soon and prance into group finals. Tonight's tilt should be a speedy and exciting one, a game rating a big playoff crowd.

Eagles are off tonight for Kingston, down two games in their sawoffs, the fourth being here Friday. Eagles have sent a protest to the O.H.A. over Goalie MacDonald, who came up from the Maritimes for this series. Kingston claim him as a replacement for Dougall, who was injured about the middle of January. But Anderson played goal for them since, right up to the end of the schedule. And the deadline for signing O.H.A. players is Feb. 10. So how come MacDonald can come in as a replacement at this late date? The K's were tied for last place when Dougall was hurt, yet with Anderson in goal they finished the schedule in second place. They're not entitled to any further breaks. No other club can get replacements for injured players in playoffs.

After Provincial Finals

Don't forget the O.M.H.A. semi-final triple-header at Civic tomorrow eve, commencing at 6.30. Toronto Marlboros vs. St. Peter's bantams, the Marlboro midgets vs. Martin-Hewitt—these are the first of two-game series—and Toronto Downsview vs. the juvenile Marines, the latter being down one goal on the round. Three grand playoff games assured, and that juvenile joust should be a memorable melee. Fans who saw the first one in Toronto were loud in their praise of the class of these well-matched teams, of practically junior calibre. We feel that Marines can overcome that one-goal margin and go into the Ontario finals. While the Saints and M-H boys are building up a lead to take them into the finals. The tilts deserve a real large crowd.

Main pro mat match at the Brock last p.m. went to Yukon Eric when Bobo Brazil twisted his neck after missing a drop kick. The powerful Alaskan, built like a brick telephone booth, is no nymph on his feet, but he did manage to side-step this attack and gravity and a hard ring floor did the rest. Eric got a reluctant hand from the crowd when he toted the injured Negro to his dressing room. Before that, they had staged a swell tussle with the speedy Bobo holding his own against Eric's terrific strength in the 278-pound frame. First time they've ever met anywhere, and they really put on a bout. A good semi-final, too, with Atkins and Bockwinkle battling to a draw. Flanagan had to concede the prelim to Wagner.

Apsley Victors Over The Point

YOUNG'S POINT, March 12 — (ENS).—The second game of the K.H.L. finals was played in Lakefield Arena before a good crowd, with Apsley taking the game 8-5 to tie the series one game each.

Play was fast and the scoring began early in the first when B. Howden (Watson) netted one at 3:42. At 11:56 J. Murray batted in a long shot which seemed to be offside but was counted. A few minutes later K. Delahaye made it three in a row for Apsley. However, D. Isaac (D. Jacobs) count-

Action was more even in the second frame with each team scoring once. Howden (Houle) got one for Apsley and Church (D. Heard) scored for Young's Point. Play became a bit rough at this point with Murray going off for tripping at 14:50. Four minutes later Houle and D. Heard were given major penalties for fighting, and in the closing minute of the period J. Murray and S. McNaughton went off together for roughing.

The third frame was free-scoring, with both teams effective around the net. Howden scored his third goal of the night and added two more later in the period. Houle (Howden) got one at 14:08. D. McIsaac scored at 5:15 for the Point and D. Heard at 15:30. J. Church got their final goal. Two players were injured and had to retire from the game during the final period. K. Delahaye was knocked out about the half-way mark and D. Heard got a stick in the mouth about five minutes later.

Young's Point—Goal, B. Kyle; defence, S. McNaughton, R. Freeburn; forwards, D. Heard, C. Russelle. J. Church; alternates, D. McIsaac, J. Darling, D. Jacobs, E. Tedford, C. Freeburn, P. Heard, D. Hogarth.

Apsley—Goal, G. Spencely; defence, K. Delahaye, J. Murray; forwards, G. Watson, B. Houle, B. Howden; alternates, L. Smith, V. Tucker, K. Brown, J. Tucker, D. Tucker, J. Post, D. Martin, S. Jeff, A. Wagner.

Referees, T. Junkin and J. Chittick.

Herb Bradburn, Dr. R. Morgan, F. Hollowell, and S. Williamson leave for Toronto this evening to play in the final rounds of the Colts' competition. This is the same event that was won by Burritt Harrison's rink last season.

This item is especially for men curlers. The Merchants' bonspiel will be held on Wednesday, March 26. It's wide open, and as this is the club's last open bonspiel for the season, the committee would like a capacity entry of 28 rinks. Give your entry to Dr. McCartney or Ira Moore.

The rinks that qualified to return on Friday for the finals in the big mixed bonspiel are:

Empress Hotel Trophy — T. Gordon, Bobcaygeon, and T. McArthur, Peterborough.

Calvert Trophy — Dr. Laidley, Lindsay, and A. Ingram, Peterborough.

Eaton Trophy— B. Dench, Peterborough, and R. Hutchinson, Peterborough.

G. K. Fraser Trophy—F. Brown, Keene.

We understand that when Dr. Clark's rink lost their first game in the Macdonald Brier competition, one of our popular young chaps sent a telegram. It read:

"Let not your heart be troubled.—Joe."

Mackell Scores Winner As Boston Bruins Subdue Detroit Wings 3-2

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

There has been a lot of talk in National Hockey League circles about the January Toronto-Boston trade that sent right-winger Fleming Mackell to Bruins and brought Defenceman Jimmy Morrison to Maple Leafs by way of their Pittsburgh Hornet American Hockey League farm club. Boston sports writers and quite a few neutral observers have ventured the opinion that Bruin Coach Lynn Patrick was scalped on the deal. While Morrison turned in outstanding play along the Maple Leaf blue line, Mackell showed rather indifferently as a Bruin forward.

However, Tuesday night in Boston, Mackell scored his first goal since donning a black and gold sweater, and it may well prove to one that moves Bruins into the four-team post-season Stanley Cup playoffs.

The goal gave Boston a 3-2 victory over the N.H.L. champion Detroit Red Wings and moved them into fourth place in the six-team standings, two points up on the idle fifth-place New York Rangers. Rangers and Bruins are slated to play six more games each to finish the 70-game schedule and from here on in it's dog-eat-dog for the final playoff position.

Came From Behind

Bruins were forced to come from behind twice to gain their win. Metro Prystal gave Wings a 1-0 lead at 6:40 of the first period and Boston's Johnny Peirson deadlocked the count at 18:39.

In an action-packed middle session, Gordie Howe put Detroit out in front once again at 14:32 with a 20-footer, his 42nd goal of the season. Real Chevrefils tied it again for Bruins just 27 seconds later and Mackell's clincher followed at 18:22.

Bruins played it cagily throughout the final period, managing to hold off the power-packed Wings. The only real action in the third session came when veteran Milt Schmidt tangled in a brief fistic flurry with Gordie Howe during the final minute of play. Schmidt got a major penalty while Howe escaped with a minor.

ed out the teams dividing the sentences evenly.

One game is scheduled in N.H.L. play tonight, the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks moving into New York for a clash with the fifth-place Rangers. A win on the Blueshirts' part could move them back into a fourth-place deadlock with Boston.

Soviet Press Says U.S. Team Hoodlums

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP). — The Soviet press charged the United States' Olympic hockey team again today with engaging in free-for-all fights instead of playing hockey.

A telegram from Sweden reported that in last Sunday's game in Sundsvall, Sweden, an American player started a fist fight with a Swedish player. It claimed further that the entire American team joined in the battle, beat up the referee and then started to fight with the crowd.

More has been written about the American hockey team in the Soviet press than about all other Olympic athletes and teams put together and all in the same vein.

The press here continually has depicted the American and Canadian Olympic hockey teams not as hockey players but as "hooligans," who expect to win games, not by better playing, but by crippling all opposing players

ITALIAN AIR CHIEF HERE—Gen. Aldo Urbani, Italian Chief of the Air Staff, left, arrives at Ottawa for a brief visit with defence officials and a tour of R.C.A.F. training stations. He is greeted by Air Vice-Marshal D. M. Smith on behalf of Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, R.C.A.F., Chief of the Air Staff.

Manitoba M.P.'S Refuse To Become Radio Stars At Legislature

By The Canadian Press.

Manitoba legislators don't want to become radio stars.

The Provincial Legislature on Tuesday defeated 38-8 a proposal by Lloyd Stinson (C.C.F.-Winnipeg) that part of each day's sitting be broadcast. He said the House should realize it is no longer in the horse-and-buggy days.

Mr. Stinson also called for an independent commission to study seat distribution in the Legislature and recommended that the situation be reviewed after each census.

Increased salaries for teachers were forecast in the throne speech in Prince Edward Island. The speech also said that teachers in training will get additional assistance in the form of scholarships.

The Nova Scotia Legislature took steps to tighten up safety regulations in coal mines.

Mines Minister Alex McKinnon said that a bill given second reading Tuesday will give the province a code among the strictest in the world but said it will "in no way make every coal mine safe." Human and natural elements could not be definitely controlled.

The regulations were based on an investigation into an explosion at McGregor Mine at Stellarton earlier this year in which 19 men were killed.

Too Expensive

In Alberta, A. J. E. Liesemer (C.C.F.-Calgary) said that the Alberta government hospital care scheme—the $1-a-day plan—actually costs $5 daily and the cost prevented people who needed hospital care from getting it.

Attorney-General Lucien Maynard said the government does not pretend that everybody is getting hospital care for $1 a day—that was only a name by which it was known. The difference between the Alberta and Saskatchewan plans was that Alberta's required the patient to bear part of the cost involved.

In Saskatchewan, Jacob Benson (Ind.-Last Mountain) called for more independent thinking in the Legislature. He said the legislative debate was "rabid partisanship at its worst," and invited C.C.F. and Liberal members to join him as Independents.

Differences between Liberal and C.C.F. parties were "imaginary and political."

New Brunswick's fourth week of this session showed indications of a speed-up in committee work and private legislation. The next formal debate is not expected until after presentation of the budget Thursday.

Newfoundland's second Provincial Legislature opens its first session today since Premier Joseph R. Smallwood's Liberals were returned to power in a general election last November. New members were sworn in at a parliamentary meeting Tuesday.

Wide Variety Of Subjects Discussed In Commons

OTTAWA, March 12 (CP) — The Commons gave attention Tuesday to an assortment of subjects as the five-day throne-speech debate continued to hold sway.

No dominant theme developed in the day-long discussion and a dozen speakers spoke on a wide variety of topics.

The debate roamed over fishing, Maritime storm damage, conditions in Germany, textiles, parity prices for farm products and the industrialization of the Prairies.

One cabinet minister—Fisheries Minister Mahew—entered the discussion to report that "maximum protection" has been obtained for British Columbia fisheries in the agreement concluded last year with Japan and the United States.

Mr. Mahew, who represented Canada at a treaty-making conference in Tokyo, said the Japanese have agreed not to fish for salmon, halibut and herring in the coastal waters of Canada and the United States.

Removes Fear

He suggested the agreement removes the long-standing B.C. fear that Japan would fish along the B.C. coast. The agreement does not change long-standing Canadian arrangements with the U.S.

In the opening stages, Defence Minister Claxton said deliveries of Canadian cigarettes were made last month to the satisfaction of the men of the 27th Brigade in Germany, though there had been delays previously in getting smokes to them.

Labor Minister Gregg reported that 821 of Canada's 21,289 Packing House Workers have been thrown out of their jobs by the foot-and-mouth epidemic. Government employment agencies are doing their best to assist the men.

In the throne-speech debate, Capt. H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West), supporting the C.C.F claim that the Atlantic Alliance has committed itself to unrealistic and disastrous defence targets, said the C.C.F. is disturbed by those in the United States who advocate an immediate war with Russia. N.A.T.O. was dominated by U.S. military leadership.

German Recovery

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC-Nanaimo), reporting a recent stay in Europe, said the Germans have made an "amazing" industrial and financial recovery from the effects of the Second World War. They are determined to re-unite Eastern and Western Germany.

Walter Dinsdale (PC-Brandon) said the government's big defence program provides an "excellent" opportunity to encourage the industrialization of western Canada. Slow western industrialization has led to many western high school graduates moving to eastern Canada.

Dan Riley (L-St. John-Albert) asked the government to launch a continuing program of improvement and expansion of harbor facilities. Some of the facilities in the port of Saint John, N.B., were a disgrace to the country.

John Dickey (L-Halifax), parliamentary assistant to Production Minister Howe, and T. A. M. Kirk (L-Digby-Yarmouth) joined in urging the government to provide assistance to Maritime fishermen who lost their equipment in the recent Atlantic coast storms.

Too Much Dumping

George Hees (PC - Toronto Broadview) asked the government to bring to a halt what he called "legalized dumping" of American textiles on the Canadian market. Hundreds of Canadian textile workers had been thrown out of their jobs by the unfair competition.

J. A. Ross (PC-Souris) suggested the government stimulate food production by establishing parity prices for farm products. Existing support prices for cheese, butter, eggs and other produce were too low.

C. E. Johnston (SC-Bow River) expressed hope Finance Minister Abbott will include some anti-inflationary measures in his April 8 budget. Measures taken by the government to date had not reduced prices.

A BLOW from a pop bottle ended a struggle in the Playfair Bowling Alley early today when two men fled after attempting to rob proprietor Ross Wright, 576 McKellar St. Wright is recovering in St. Joseph's Hospital. Eagles Refuse To Play Kingston

Shortly before noon today, the Peterborough Eagles notified the O.H.A. and the Kingston Hockey Club that the Eagles would not play tonight in Kingston. They night in the third game of their best-of-seven senior "B" group semi-finals, Kingston having won the first two.

Eagles are protesting the use of Goalie Sammy MacDonald, who arrived from the Maritimes to play for Kingston in this series. The local club points out that Feb. 10 is the deadline for signing O. H. A. players, while the Kingston club claim is that MacDonald is a replacement for goalie Don Dougal, who was injured about the middle of January.

His place was taken from then on by goalie Anderson, who is still available to mind the Kingston net. However, MacDonald took over the job at the start of this series.

D. A. McGillis, president and sponsor of the Eagles Club in the Central Ontario grouping, talked by phone twice last night and once this morning with President Jack Roxborough of the O. H. A. Roxborough said he granted Kingston permission to use MacDonald as a goalie replacement and he would stand by his decision. He admitted that he did not know exactly where MacDonald had played senior "A", but insisted that he would be in goal for Kingston now and that Eagles must continue the series.

Mr. McGillis said he would not sponsor tonight's trip. The players also refused to go, if MacDonald played.

Bowling Alley Operator Slugged Counting Cash

An attempted robbery failed early today when two men fled after one of the pair slugged bowling alley operator Ross Wright on the head with a pop bottle. Wright, who operates the Playfair Bowling Alley at George and Perry Sts., was just counting the day's cash when the asked for cigarettes.

"It was just about 1:00 a.m.," Wright said in a hospital bed interview today. "Everyone had gone home and I was just counting the cash behind the counter, when they walked in."

Wright said he became suspicious of the pair after he told the man who asked for cigarettes to get them from the automatic vending machine a few feet away.

"The other man stayed by the door. The fellow who went to the machine, looked at it, then returned to the counter where I was counting the money. He asked me did I need any help. The blinds were pulled, and I figured I had better try to get out," explained Wright.

Picked Up Cash Box

"I picked up the petty cash box which had about $35 or $40 in small bills and change and started for the lunch counter and the door. As I started to walk behind the lunch counter, the younger man who would be about 25 or 30 said 'alright, let's have it.' The box fell and the money spilled all over the floor.

"I got in a few good swings at him," said Wright, as he rubbed his bruised right hand, "before the fellow by the door grabbed a pop bottle and hit me from behind. At the same time the first man I was fighting with, kicked me in the groin. I went down and they both ran out."

Still dazed by the blow from the pop bottle which struck him on the left forehead, Wright crawled to the telephone and called the police, When police arrived, Dr. William C. Wedlock was called and Wright was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Not Serious

His injuries are not considered serious but X-rays are being taken today to determine if the blow which broke the bottle, injured his skull.

"I'd know them if I ever saw them again," Wright said. He added that he had never seen them before.

He described one of the men as being about 25 or 30, with dark hair. He had a sallow complexion, was of slim build and about five feet ten inches tall.

The other man was about 10 years older, Wright said and was also of average height. He was wearing a brown coat, hat and gloves.

"I usually lock the doors that late at night," Wright said today, "but one of the lanes was late in bowling last night. One of the men ran out of gas over on Perry St., and I went out to help him. He called a taxi, and when it arrived, I noticed a car pull up in front of the alley."

Pulled Blinds

Wright said he is not sure whether the two men were in this car or not, but that he left the door unlocked when he went back in and pulled the blinds down.

Both men apparently became frightened that the struggle in the alley, would attract attention and fled without stopping to pick up any of the money on the floor, or remove any from the cash register.

Police said at noon, that no suspects had been picked up yet.

Peter Nigh Rescues Boy In Port Hope

Local Referee Swims Across Ganaraska Brings Child Back

Diving into the icy, flooding Ganaraska River in Port Hope, 29-year-old Peter Nigh of 239 Mason Ave., rescued a seven-year-old boy Tuesday night.

Nigh, who was on his way to Kingston to referee a junior B hockey game between Belleville and Kingston, was stopped as he drove through Port Hope by a frightened boy of about 6 or 7.

The lad told Nigh, "There's a boy in the river."

Clinging to Branch

Looking across the icy Ganaraska, Nigh saw the child clinging to a tree branch that hung over the water. He threw off his coat, dived in and brought the boy to shore.

Rescued was Billy Niles, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Niles of Port Hope. The boy had been riding an ice floe down the river when the ice broke beneath him. He grabbed at the overhanging branch and held on for more than five minutes, while his chum tried vainly to flag a passing car.

"That river was cold, slippery and deep," Nigh said today. "If he hadn't grabbed the branch, that youngster would have drowned."

Borrowed Clothes

Taking the boy to his car, Nigh drove him home, and borrowed a suit of clothes to wear on his drive to Kingston. He returned the suit on the return trip, and retrieved his own clothes, which the Niles had dried for him.

Nigh said he was waiting to pick up a fellow referee in Port Hope to go on to Kingston.

"I was putting in time, and drove up to look at the river. I noticed it was pretty high. Then this boy ran out in front of the car. He waved and I could see he was frightened. He told me there was a boy in the river.

"I jumped in and the water was really cold. It was deep there, too, the bottom was gouged out in potholes. I went in upstream from the boy and swam across.

"It was easy enough going to him, but bringing him back was tougher. I got him on my back and had to stop two or three times on the way back."

Vendors Ask For Buildings On Market Site

"We have the site, but where are we going to get the money?" was the question in which Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, condensed the problem of permanent market facilities at George and Rink Streets to a deputation of regular vendors who presented a brief to the committee Monday night.

More pressing business, including some phases of the city's budget, prevented the committee from entering into a detailed discussion of market planning, Ald. Miller said. It was agreed that another meeting would be arranged for broader consideration of market accommodation.

The brief was prepared by Melville A. Wood, who was accompanied by Mrs. John Miller, Harold Doig, Willan Hutchison and Harold Lewis, fieldman of the Federation of Agriculture.

A recent meeting of producers and vendors was sponsored by the Federation, resulting in a request to the council for a hearing.

The George St. site meets with the general approval of the vendors, Mr. Wood said.

Need Whole Area

"The whole area from Canoe factory to George St., and from Rink St. to Miller Bowl and the used car lot is needed, especially ket hall should be transferred to this area. At times last summer, the level area behind Miller Bowl was practically filled with shoppers' cars.

Immediate attention should be given to the erection of adequate rest room facilities on the present outdoor market."

For the basket market, Mr. Wood suggested a one-storey building of cement block or brick, affording vending space of 60 ft. by 100 ft., to be heated in cold weather. "It should run lengthwise along George St."

"It has been pointed out that the city needs a building for use by the Boy Scouts and Sea Cadets. The proposed market building could be used for these and other purposes, which would make it a valuable asset to the city."

Canopy Buildings

For the outside market Mr. Wood proposed a cement sidewalk and canopy type buildings for protection against rain and snow. Provision could be made at a later date for adding side walls for further protection against the weather.

"Two buildings are required, each 200 feet in length and 34 feet in width, to cover the cement walk, and provide vending stalls 12 feet by 10 feet, and 12 feet by 8 feet. The cost of these canopy type buildings would amount to approximately $7,000, and provide space for more than 80 vendors. With rentals at 50 cents per stall per week, such a building would pay for itself in four years."

It was remarked to the delegation that market supervision and other items of maintenance would have to be taken into account.

Mr. Wood said: "These two canopies should run east and west forming a "U" with the heated basket trade building."

Recently the council mentioned disposal of the public weigh scales on the old market. One proposal contemplated transference of this service to privately-owned scales, such as are in use at the fuel yards.

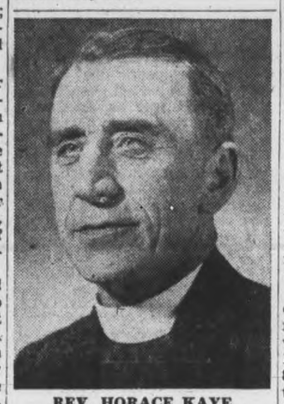
Move Scales

On that point, the brief said: "The weigh scales should be moved to the present outdoor market site. It does not seem to be in the public interest that private concerns should be licensed to provide this service".

Mr. Wood said it was hoped that the council would decide to establish a market worthy of the city. He intimated that, if the city would assure the farmers "that you have their interests at heart," they might be able to give assistance in promoting a new market project.

Another suggestion was that, to make the market pay, it might be used for selling two days a week instead of one.

This quotation is from the brief: "There is of course the moral obligation to provide satisfactory conditions due to the peculiar history of the local market. The present city council has a golden opportunity to cement rural-urban relations by giving the people of Peterborough and area the kind of farmers' market they desire."



REV. HORACE KAYE

Name Rev. Kaye New Moderator

The Rev. Horace Kaye of Lakefield Presbyterian Church was Tuesday elected Moderator of Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church at a meeting in St. Paul's Church.

He succeeds the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood. Mr. Kaye was moderator previously.

Mr. Kaye served in the armed forces during two world wars. During the First World War he served with the Royal Air Force. In the Second World War he was a padre for three years.

A committee is investigating a site in the south end. The Presbytery is considering building a new Presbyterian church in the south end. Members of the committee will meet with the session of St. Paul's Church before May 1 and report back to the Presbytery.

Air Cadets To Fly

Plans for activities this year of the Air Cadet League of Canada were outlined Tuesday by President H. L. Garner, Peterborough.

Mr. Garner spoke at the 11th annual meeting of the Air Cadet League held at the Seigniory Club, Montebello, Que.

He told of plans for continuation of exchange visits, flying training summer camps and other special awards to air cadets this year. Some 500 cadets have applied for the 200 scholarships to be awarded this summer, Mr. Garner said.

Provincial Inspector Investigates Death Of A. Boyd, Found Friday

Criminal Investigator Checks Story Boyd Knocked To Floor At Party Night Before Disappeared

Inspector Ralph Taylor of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the O.P.P. is heading an investigation into the death of Almond Boyd, 40-year-old Marmora township carpenter. Last Friday morning Boyd was found dead on the back verandah of his deserted family homestead, three miles west of Marmora village. The body was covered with snow that had fallen earlier in the week, indicating it had been lying there for several days.

Unconfirmed reports in the district were that Boyd had been at a party and during an argument had been struck a blow and knocked to the floor.

A bachelor, Boyd had been living since September at the home of his uncle, Bert Boyd of Marmora. Formerly he lived at the family homestead where he was found dead March 7. Mrs. Boyd said she last saw her nephew when he was starting out for work on the morning of Saturday, March 1.

He was believed to have made arrangements that afternoon, in Marmora, with a relative to get a lift, but he didn't turn up as arranged. His aunt, Mrs. Bert Boyd, said she was expecting him that afternoon, but when he didn't appear, she decided he had been given a lift and had driven on past to the homestead.

Enquired Later

She was not particularly alarmed when she didn't see him for a day or so afterwards because he often visited friends and relatives. But later in the week she began to make enquiries.

Finally, last Friday, Clarence Wallbridge, who lives near the apparently-deserted Boyd family house in Marmora Township, decided to look the place over. He was joined by another nearby resident, Art Peters. They found Boyd's body on the back verandah.

On their first couple of times around the house during their investigation the two men thought that Boyd's snow-covered body was an old mattress.

The pathologist who examined the body has not yet decided on the exact cause of death—other than exposure.

Bruises On Head

There are said to be unexplained bruises on the head; though these may have been caused by a fall.

An inquest was opened on instructions from Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville to established the identity only. Then the inquest was adjourned while the investigation into the mysterious death continued.

"As far as we know there is nothing to indicate foul play", Inspector Taylor told the Examiner today. "But we are trying to trace Boyd's movements prior to his death. You know he was unaccounted for for several days before he was found".

Super Trusts Under Attack

TORONTO, March 12 (CP). — Felix E. Wormser, vice-president of the St. Joseph Lead Company of New York, Tuesday night criticized the International Materials Conference and the United Nations' Economic Stability Program as "super trusts" cloaked in the mantle of government intervention and coercion.

He told the convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association that the two bodies were based on the idea of stabilization.

"It is a most appealing catchword but beneath the surface glitter is invariably the stern and repulsive face of government control, compulsion and imprisonment.

"The stabilizers do away with the stimulation of change. They have such a horror of depressions and unemployment they are willing indeed advocate, government intervention to prevent it."

It was Canada's reluctance to impinge on free enterprise that was enticing so much U.S. investment to Canada.

Airmen's Shrine Planned In Historic York Minster

By E. S. JOHNSON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—A Shrine to perpetuate the memory of some 20,000 Commonwealth and Allied airmen who lost their lives in defence of the Free World in the Second World War, is to be erected in Britain's historic York Minster.

The memorial, designed by Prof. Albert E. Richardson, noted architectural authority, will primarily commemorate the sacrifice of the men who served with formations based in north-east England, embracing the famed No. 6 Canadian Bomber Group.

public subscription and contributions will be invited from the peoples of all commonwealth countries.

In launching the drive for funds, Sir John C. Slessor, Marshal of the R.A.F., commended the idea of a shrine as a tribute to the courage of the Allied airmen.

"York Minster was a landmark well-known to our aircrews coming and going on their missions," he said. "It is a perfect choice for this memorial to the many thousand airmen from this country and others of the Commonwealth and Empire, and from Allied countries, who went out from their [illegible] turn.

Clock Feature

The memorial, to be set up in the north transept of the cathedral, adjoining the women's memorial of the First World War, will feature an astronomical clock, showing the phases of the moon and the solstice, embodying the picturesque signs of the zodiac. On the reverse side of the clock will be a map of the night skies depicting the constellations of the Northern Hemisphere under which the airmen flew.

If feasible, representations of the aircraft flown, may also be included.

Under the clock will stand a lectern on which will lie the Book of Remembrance listing the names of the men who did not come back. Arrangements will be made for one page of the book to be turned each week.

Both clock and lectern will be enshrined in a monumental framework of oak, surmounted by symbolic figures of Courage, Skill, Sacrifice and Victory on the lateral sides will be carved and colored the armorial badges and mottoes of the units which operated from north-east England.

Very Rev. E. Milner-White, Dean of York, said the venerable Minster may well have been the last glimpse of an English scene to thousands of airmen before darkness blotted out the landscape.

The corner chosen for the memorial site will be known as the British Legion and R.A.F. Association Memorial Chantry.

"There the Book of Remembrance will abide perpetually and the clock register the seasons of the skies through which our airmen flew," the Dean said. "The empty space of the North Transept facing the book and clock will serve as a most noble chapel for prayer."

Textile Union Asks Ottawa For Assistance

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP)— The Federal government was urged Tuesday to take steps to aid Canada's vast textile industry where "a pall of gloom" ing because of foreign competition and dropping employment.

A 22-man delegation of the Textile Workers Union of America (C.C.L.) told four government ministers that employment in the primary textile industry has dropped 10,000 from the 104,000 employed last April. Some mills have closed and others have run out of work. The living standards of workers in the industry—the Canadian manufacturing industries —is being seriously affected.

Ask Restrictions Eased

The delegation recommended the government immediately consider easing consumer-credit restrictions on textile products, take steps to control the cost of living, put further control on imports and help develop merchandising practices in the industry.

The recommendations were presented by the delegation to Finance Minister Abbott, Labor Minister Gregg, Production Minister Howe and Transport Minister Chevrier in an hour-long meeting. The Minister promised consideration of the recommendations.

The Ministers met the delegation, representing textile workers in Montreal, Toronto, Cornwall and Renfrew, and other parts of Canada, after another conference with representatives of the Canadian Woollen Association.

Too Much Sentiment In Play-Adjudicator

TORONTO, March 12 (CP). — Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre found Tuesday night's production of Somerset Maugham's "The Sacred Flame" by the North Toronto Theatre Guild repetitive, sentimental and slow.

Giving his views of the play, [illegible] the Central Ontario Drama Festival, Mr. LeFevre credited the North Toronto actors with taking to the stage with authority, setting the stage and achieving a sense of character—with some exceptions.

He said the role of the mother played by Doris Gill was beautifully played, transcending the sentimental values of the play by real acting.

Ask Americans Decide About Seaway Soon

OTTAWA, March 12—(CP)—W. J. Henderson (L., Kingston) appealed to Americans Tuesday night to make up their minds about the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Mr. Henderson described conditions in Kingston and said the city faced an industrial boom with the coming of the seaway. It had now begun to outgrow its railroad depot and he suggested the government consider building a new one.

Canada Seeking Bigger Place In Latin-American Markets

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP) — Canada will train more of her big export guns on expanding Latin-American markets to reduce the impact of widened import restrictions by Commonwealth countries, trade officials said Tuesday.

Already, they added, the South American continent is showing signs of becoming the best outlet in the world for Canadian manufactured goods—items which will be hit by new import restrictions of the United Kingdom, New Zealand and Australia.

Latest of the import restrictions was announced in Britain's new austerity budget Tuesday, which increased import slashes by about another $300,000,000 to bring to about $1,700,000,000 total import cuts announced by Britain's Conservative Government since it came to power.

Trade Minister Howe said they will not do Canadian cheese and apple producers any good, but emphasized that he still believed the bulk of Canadian exports to Britain will not be touched.

These were the tons of metals and minerals, the lumber and the wheat which Britain needed to stave off starvation and bankruptcy and build up export trade to the point where she can make sterling convertible with dollars.

In Right Direction

Canadian trade and financial officials judged from the drastic austerity steps that Britain is moving in the right direction.

By chopping off a big portion of the food subsidies, and by encouraging greater production by the worker and by reducing imports Britain was planning to "live within her means" and reduce her indebtedness to the world.

For Canadian trade, the gloomy aspects of the austerity was that some Canadian exporters will suffer a reduction in markets.

Coupled with this outlook was the possibility of a sharp setback in Commonwealth exports to Australia and New Zealand, resulting from new import reductions there. Details of the cuts have not yet been received by Canadian trade officials but they anticipate that they will cut into Canada's hopes of building textile and motor vehicle exports to these two countries.

The hopeful sign is that Latin-American countries may absorb more of Canada's production. A Canadian diplomatic official has surveyed the area and possibly out of this will arise recommendations for expanded diplomatic and trade representation in the Latin countries.

The Latin-American area was barely known to Canadian exports before the Second World War. Now it has leaped up among the top Canadian customers. Since 1938, trade has expanded about 12 times.

Exports to that area jumped to $208,000,000 in 1951 from a mere $17,300,000 in 1938. Imports have skyrocketed to $273,600,000 from $16,000,000.

Too Much Curling Can't Make Speech

OTTAWA, March 12 (CP) — Curling enthusiast Senator John T. Haig told the Senate Tuesday night that he is "so full of curling I can't think of politics at all."

Consequently the 74-year-old opposition leader adjourned until today delivery of the main Progressive Conservative criticism in the throne-speech debate in the Senate.

Senator Haig delayed his arrival in Ottawa a week to attend last week's Canadian curling championship at his home town of Winnipeg. And he gave his colleagues the impression he wouldn't have missed it for the world.

"I have never seen a finer body of young men," he said as he paid tribute to curlers from all provinces.

Incidentally, Manitoba's Strathcona Club, won the title.

Costello Urges Actors Use Code In TV Work

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 (AP). —Lou Costello dropped his usual role of funnyman today and urged his fellow comics to adopt a code for television behavior.

"Television can be a tremendous force for good or for evil," the little comedian said. "Today's youngsters are influenced greatly by what they see on TV. And some of the comedy material on TV can certainly do them harm.

"The kid audience is the most important factor in TV. Kids can make or break a comedian. And it's important hat comics do not use material that will give them wrong ideas."

Among the principal offenders, added Costello, are the comics who use unmanly gestures, such as stroking the eyebrow with the little finger or flouncing around with hand on hip.

"The routine of acting like a woman has never seemed funny to me. Think how it would be if young boys started imitating those things."

No Contortions

Costello also criticized comics who go into contortions as though they were victims of a disabling disease. Ed. Wynn, also a critic of this brand of humor, calls it "spastic comedy."

"I think it's a mistake to poke fun at any person's infirmity, directly or indirectly," said Costello. "Imagine how the afflicted people must feel! That's why we never use stuttering for comedy."

He added that he was also alarmed by the use of drunkenness in an effort to get laughs.

"How would you like to come home and find your child had found some liquor and drunk it, because it seemed funny when a comedian did it on TV?" He asked. "It's entirely possible."

Abbott and Costello have another rule concerning their comedy don't scare the kids. But they had to learn it the hard way.

Costello told the story of getting a phone call form a mother in Kansas City. At first, he thought it was going to be a touch for money. But the mother explained her eight-year-old daughter had been frightened by the Frankenstein monster who menaced Abbott and Costello in a picture. Medical and psychiatric aid couldn't overcome the girl's bad dreams.

Costello had the mother and daughter fly out and stay at his home for two weeks, during that time, he showed the girl the make-believe of the movie. He took her to the studio, showed her the Frankenstein set, introduced her to the actor who played the part and stomped on a Frankenstein mask. Still she was frightened. At the end of the stay, he held her hand while she saw the Frankenstein film. He hit at the screen when the monster came on, Finally the girl overcame her fear.

CALL RAIL STRIKE—The leaders of three operating railroad brotherhoods meet in Cleveland as they call a "legal strike" against two lines, the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, and the New York Central Lines, west of Buffalo. They said that the surprise walkout is a "practical way" to enforce wages and rules demands. Left to right are: J. P. Shields, of the Engineers; D. B. Robertson, head of the Firemen and Enginemen; and R. O. Hughes, of the Order of Railway Conductors. The strike was called off Tuesday.

Didn't Consider Seaway Legislation

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee did not consider legislation to authorize the controversial St. Lawrence Seaway and power project at its late meeting Tuesday. The committee met in a routine executive session.

Consideration of the St. Lawrence proposal, on which the committee held hearings last month, is not expected until the testimony of proponents and opponents of the estimated $818,000,000 joint Canadian-United States project is in printed form.

Committee spokesmen estimate that the printed record will not be available for at least another week or ten days.

Plan To Raise Penalty For Export Breaches

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP).— The Federal Government launched new legislation Tuesday night to increase the penalty for breaches of the Export and Import Permits Act by which Canada keeps a tight rein on shipment of strategic materials to Iron Curtain countries.

The Bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Wishart Robertson, Government Leader, increases to $5,000 from $500 the maximum penalty for breaches of the regulations.

It also increases to 12 months from six the time allowed for launching of prosecutions under the legislation and provides that such prosecutions may be by way of summary conviction. At present the Act provides that if no action is launched for six months, prosecution must come through more cumbersome indictment procedure.

MONTREAL, March 12—(CP)— D. A. McAlary of Edmundston, N.B., was elected chairman Tuesday of the industrial relations section of Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. R. S. Armitage of Quebec City was elected vice-chairman.

Alberta Plans Academy On French One

EDMONTON, March 12 (CP)— An Alberta academy, modelled in some ways after the Academie Francaise, is planned by Alberta's Social Credit government.

A bill introduced in the legislature says the academy is "to encourage cultural development in Alberta by (giving) honor and recognition to creative achievement in the arts and humanities."

The French academy is limited to "40 immortals" but there will be no numerical limit on membership in the Alberta academy.

Premier E. C. Manning said at a press conference Tuesday that the idea of the academy is to give the same sort of recognition and encouragement to home-bred artists, musicians and writers as the government in the past has accorded the province's agricultural leaders through the master farm family awards and the agricultural hall of fame.

The academy will have two classes of membership—"electors" and plain members. The provincial Arts Executive will appoint the electors and they in turn will elect the members. For election a candidate must carry 75 per cent of the electors' votes cast.

Names of newly electors members will be published in the Alberta Gazette.

Successful Mother-In-Law Gives Formula She Uses

DEAR MISS DIX: Accept my five cents worth on this perennial mother-in-law problem taken from the book of life. I am a mother-in-law to six men and women, and I think I can truly say I am welcome in each of their respective homes. I was widowed at 63, and am now past 75. After the last child married I sold the family home and bought a simple two-room cottage, new and modern, near the church and shopping centre. I kept my books, my car, my sewing machine and have a nice little yard to cultivate.

I go among my children in times of joy and of stress, always glad to help out when another understanding woman is a godsend in the house. When the occasion passes, I am glad to go back to the quiet and routine of my own home, and I do not feel hurt to know that they, too, are happy to be all alone by themselves. I have resolved never to carry tales or offer advice unless it is asked for. I like to take over the care of the house and the children and let the girls have an evening or a few days off with their husbands. I do not consider they are making a baby-sitter of me, but rather that they are according me a place as a loved member of the family.

By keeping up a life of my own, independent of the children, they do not feel I am a weight about their necks, depending on them for life and entertainment. I keep up with my old friends, cultivate my new neighbors, read, keep a nice yard and go to a good show occasionally. The children know I am never home just chewing my nails and feeling sorry for myself. My means are limited and I am constantly receiving gifts of things I can use or such money as they can give.

The press and radio do a disservice to young folks, playing up the predatory mother-in-law. They go into marriage with their guards up, ready to take offense where none is intended. Truly there are many women who are glad to hand over their children to good partners and do everything they can to promote the stability and happiness of marriage.

MRS. H. K.

ANSWER: The whole secret of your success, Mrs. H. K., is that you have grown—and are growing—emotionally and intellectually with each birthday. May God send you many more! You have accepted each responsibility as it came—wife, mother, mother-in-law, grandmother—and discharged it in a fine, capable, womanly fashion.

A Splendid Example

Few women achieve the complete fulfillment you have. What a happy world it would be if your example were emulated by more of them. If, instead of whining for the pleasures of a lost youth, they were content to enjoy the richness of the present! Surrounded, as you are, by the things of the spirit—your church, your books—and the material things—a car, a machine, a yard—that help to make a full life, you have learned to make your own pleasures and pastimes without being dependent on the constant attentions of your children.

Of course you have been blessed by God with the fundamentals that make your pleasant life possible. You have health, and a sufficiently good financial background to make you independent. But, of course, these things would avail nothing if you didn't also possess common sense, tolerance, good humor and faith.

Perhaps too much stress is placed on the domineering, trouble-making mother-in-law, but her number, though small in comparison with the mothers who do try to do a good job as in-laws, is still large enough to warrant frequent warnings. It is true, and encouraging, however, that each generation sees a smaller percentage of mothers who balk at the thought of acquiring daughters or sons-in-law. The modern woman is becoming more self-sufficient, more alive to the many opportunities around her for activity.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with a boy I've known for seven years. Recently he married another girl and I can't forget him. I'm 18 and he's 24. Do you think I'll ever get him back?

SHORTY K.

ANSWER: I realize how heartsick you are, and how tragic life is to you at the moment, but you will never make things better by yearning over a man who belongs to someone else. It seems impossible, I know, but you must stop thinking of him all the time, and look around for another beau. Whatever you do, don't make any attempt to continue seeing this boy. He's out of your life now, and you'll be committing a great wrong if you try to break up his marriage. Even if he should want to go out with you, prove yourself the stronger and refuse.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 14 years old and very much in love with a boy 16. We are planning to be married in two or three years. About a week ago, I went to the place where Eddie works and his boss told me he had taken another girl, named Ada, out. When I asked Eddie about it, he admitted he had taken her out and kissed her. The girl is engaged, too, so I don't see why she couldn't leave my boy friend alone.

SALLY IRENE.

ANSWER: First of all, you're too young to be so seriously involved with Eddie or any other boy. Secondly, if he has so little will power that he's going to be easy prey for every girl who looks at him, he's not what you want. Always remember, a man who can't be trusted as a friend or a fiance will never be a faithful husband. You certainly don't want to go through life worrying about the Adas in this world, so let Eddie know that you're no longer interested in him.

"Hot Flashes" Stopped or strikingly relieved in tests by doctors!

• If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life"—you may be suffering unnecessarily!

For, in tests by doctors, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief from such functionally-caused suffering—in case after case! Complete or striking relief.

Yes! Research has proved Lydia Pinkham's thoroughly modern in action . . . has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous, "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change"!

So get Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or new, improved Tablets. Both are grand, too, for functional pains and "weak" feelings of monthly periods.

It acts through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of these awful "heat waves"!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Homemade Jellied Veal Special Menu

N. L. — This Is For You

Tomato Soup .....
Homemade Jellied Veal
Mustard Pickles
Delmonico Potatoes
Quick-cooked Spinach
Raw Turnip, Carrot and Celery Slivers
Raisin Squares Cheese
Coffee

Directions

N. L. asked for homemade jellied veal and raisin squares with maple icing—so since I'm always short of space I made it up into this menu.

N.L. also said "jellied veal that isn't sour (or pickled)—something to use for leftover veal or pork—not too highly spiced" (If there are readers who want to make jellied veal starting with raw veal shanks, they can write to me and I will print it.)

Jellied Veal: Soak 2 tablespoons gelatine in 4 tablespoons cold water. Dissolve in 2½ cups hot meat stock or diluted consomme or bouillon from tins OR use 2½ cups boiling water plus 1 teaspoon MSG, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Let this stock stand until it begins to jelly. Pour into loaf tin to ¼ inch depth and place sliced or chopped veal on it. Chill until set. Continue these layers until all meat and stock are used up. If you care to, slices of hard-cooked egg and fancy cooked carrot shapes may decorate bottom of mould. Chill until set. Turn out on cold meat platter, garnish with parsley, radishes, tomato, etc. Slice with very sharp knife. Use any other cold meat besides veal if you wish.

Delmonico Potatoes: Pare and cube 4 large potatoes. Put in shallow baking dish, dot with 2 tablespoons butter, sprinkle with ¾ teaspoon salt, and shake of pepper. Cover with 1½ cups milk. Sprinkle top with at least 1 cup grated cheese. One hour at 400 deg. Fahr.

Raisin Squares

Make recipe for Plain Paste: 1½ cups pastry flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ cup best shortening, 3 or 4 tablespoons cold water. Divide in halves. Roll out 1 half to fit shallow pan. Cover with Raisin Filling (same as for Banbury tarts): Remove seeds from 1 lemon and slice it and add to 1 cup water and simmer 20 minutes. Remove lemon and put through food chopper or chop on board. Return to water, add 2 cups chopped seeded raisins and 2 cups sugar. Mix 3 tablespoons flour with 1 tablespoon fine cracker crumbs and ¼ cup water. Stir this into the first mixture until it thickens, then cook over hot water 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Cool. Spread over pastry in pan. Cover with.

Top Crust for Raisin Squares: Roll out second half of Plain Paste. Cream 5 tablespoons butter or margarine and spread 1/3 of it on half of the pastry, fold other half over it and roll lightly. Repeat twice more using all shortening. Roll out finally to fit over raisin filling. Tuck in corners and edges to make them neat. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. to finish. Cool in pan. Cut into squares with very sharp knife. If to be frosted do so when cold but still in pan.

Maple Icing (for Raisin Squares): 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup corn syrup, 1/16 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon maple flavouring, 2 egg whites. Mix sugar, water, corn syrup and cream of tartar. Stir over heat until it boils. Cover and boil 4 minutes. If any crystals of sugar remain on sides of pan wipe them off with damp cloth. Boil to 238 deg. Fahr. (soft Ball). Remove from heat add flavouring and let stand 5 minutes. Beat egg whites stiff, and pour syrup over them slowly while beating until of spreading consistency. This is an excellent frosting for a layer cake with date and walnut filling.

Study Period Interesting

An interestingly presented study period featured the meeting of Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary Monday evening at Trinity Church. It depicted the work among fellow Canadians from the Orient in the past ten years by the United Church. Miss Anna Edmondson and Mrs. W. Head took the parts of Japanese women discussing the situation when asked to leave their homes in B.C. in 1941 and then again in 1942 when they were settled in re-location camps and their children were able to go to high school through church help. They spoke finally of 1951 when they were happily established in homes in eastern Canada. President Miss Myrtle Sargent appeared as the secretary of the board of home missions with Mrs. C. H. Marrs as superintendent and they told of the work in nine centres across Canada. Mrs. F. Leslie as a volunteer worker among Chinese in Vancouver expressed interest in the stories told by Miss Clara Seens and Miss Olive Armtsrong of Chinese women who had been married 20 years before their husbands could bring them to Canada. Literature secretary Mrs. F. W. Horton drew attention to publications on this subject. Devotions were in charge of Miss Ila Giles. Mrs. S. Harrison read scripture and Mrs. Marrs led in prayer. Miss Helen Moore presented the case of the new United Church training school for which funds are sought. Refreshments were served.

Nurses Add To Service In Registry

Annual meeting of the Community Nursing Registry was held on Tuesday evening, in St. Joseph's Hospital residence with president, Mrs. Eva Breckenridge presiding.

In its fourth year of organization the registry moves steadily forward with every opportunity to serve the community constantly to the fore whenever and wherever occasion arises. Reports on all branches of registry work were encouraging and indicate the rapidly growing service that this democratic organization stands ready to give to the community on a 24-hour daily basis.

To date, hundreds of emergency calls have been received and attended to with satisfaction to all. Every month the community becomes more aware of this service which the registry stands at all times prepared to give. It is the hope of the Registry Board that the public will feel free to use this service at all times since it was originally set up at the request of the Provincial government through the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario in order that the greatest of nursing services might be distributed throughout the communities, and that all emergencies be taken care of as quickly and satisfactorily as possible.

Resignations were received with regret from Sister Benedicta, Mrs. Anna McIlraith and Mrs. Harold Grady. The retiring members of the board are: Ex-Mayor Swanston, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, M. J. Roche, Mrs. John Bradshaw, Miss A. L. Thomson, and Mrs. L. M. Fulton.

New members to the Board who are elected for a term of two years are: Dr. W. J. Gordon, V. J. McElderry, Alderman H. T. Rehill, Miss Evelyn Robson, Miss Harriet McGeary, Miss Ruby Cunningham and Miss Wilma Armstrong.

The president expressed appreciation to the retiring members for their interest and support and welcomed the new members.

Norwood Couple Celebrate Anniversary

NORWOOD, March 12.—Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Thain of Dummer Road, Norwood, quietly celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary today by receiving friends and relatives.

The couple have spent most of their married life on a farm in Seymour township, except 12 years spent at Trent River and five years in Asphodel township, coming to Norwood over two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Thain were quietly married March 12, 1902, by the Rev. Mr. O'Rourke, who served the circuit that contained Stockdale and Frankford. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. C. Bartley of Stockdale, Mrs. Thain's grandmother with whom she had lived since the death of her mother when she was a small child.

Mr. Thain, 71, is the son of the late Walter Thain and Isabel Buchanan of Seymour near Campbellford. Mrs. Thain, 67, was the former Herriett Sophronia Bartley, daughter of the late James Bartley and Anna Pemerton of Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thain had three children: Mrs. Jack Donnison, (Helen) of Norwood; Mr. Walter Thain, 125 James St., Peterborough, and Everett Thain, who died in 1926 at the age of 23.

There are also four grandchildren: Robert Thain and Lynn Thain of Peterborough, and Glynis and Billy Donnison of Norwood.

Mrs. Thain said the day they were married it rained heavily. They are both in good health; Mr. Thain at present is cutting his own wood in the bush.

Mrs. Thain does all her own housework.

What's Right?

You know some gossip and are tempted to pass it along.

WRONG: Feel free to do so if you first say "Don't quote me" or "Don't let this go any further."

RIGHT: If you must be that cautious it is a pretty good indication that the gossip should not be passed on under any circumstances.

Young's Pt. Hold Basket Social

YOUNG'S POINT, March 12 (ENS)—A basket social was held at Young's Point school, Friday with Mr. Ted Bradshaw as M.C.

Mr. Bradshaw performed magic tricks, assisted by Mrs. Bradshaw. Tickets for door prize were drawn. The winner in the adult section was Miss Ruth Dewdney who received a voucher for a quantity of merchandise, donated by Nicholson's and Peltons, two local merchants. In the children's section little Wayne Freeburn was the winner.

Auctioning of the ladies' baskets got under way with J. Jones as a very persuasive auctioneer. A prize voucher went to P. Godfrey as the highest bidder, also prize vouchers went to Miss Ruth Dewdney and Mrs. A. Freeburn for the most attractive baskets as judged by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bradshaw.

A novel note was struck in the auctioning of baskets made by the girls in public school, with the buyers limited to boys of the same age group. The prize to the highest bidder in this group went to Bob Clark and the prizes for the most attractive baskets went to Marilyn Jones and Sylvia Freeburn, as judged by Mr. R. Nicholson and Mrs. E. Barnett.

The evening's entertainment was sponsored by the Young's Point Recreation Centre.

6—In Memoriam

HENSHALL—In loving memory of our darling son, age 3 years, who passed away five years ago today, March 12, 1947.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who though absent is just as dear.
—Sadly missed by Mother and Dad.

MASTERS—In loving memory of Mrs. George Masters, who passed away four years ago today.
Sweet memories will linger forever;
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.

MASTERS—In loving memory of a dear sister, Mrs. Margaret Masters, who passed away March 12, 1948.

Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
—Ever remembered by Michael and Lovina.

ALPHA THETA CHAPTER

Mrs. E. Cochrane was hostess Monday evening for the meeting of the Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Preston, Clonsilla Ave. The assignment for the program was on nature and was taken from one of the Audubon series on birds and given by director Mrs. Jean Strasser with Miss Mary Clifford leading the discussion. President Mrs. E. McWilliam presided for business when a buffet supper was planned for the Ritual of Jewels night, May 12th. Arrangements are in charge of Miss Mary Polton and the meeting will be at the Kawartha Country Club. Mrs. Iris Sorenson reported for the nominating committee.

XI IOTA CHAPTER.

A supper party at the home of Mrs. Maurice Holt, Water St., was enjoyed on Monday evening by the members of XI Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Each of the guests prepared a special dish for the occasion so a very interesting meal resulted.

Further plans for the Easter bonnet bridge to be held at the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday, April 19th, were made with convener Mrs. Hugh Redmond.

Mrs. Gordon Matthews gave the topic for the evening and related the history of knives and forks. She started with the hard flint stones and three-pronged spears and led up to the time of Queen Elizabeth's court when ladies ate with their fingers. History records that forks for eating were not known before the 17th century in Britain and were then introduced by a traveller from Italy.

In her account Mrs. Matthews reminded that ancestors of those present used forks no smaller than those now used to cook and serve meat. She also remarked that even in the present day Egyptians eat a great deal with their fingers and the Chinese and Japanese still use chopsticks.

She concluded with an interesting test for stainless of dropping a few drops of malten vinegar on the blade.

President Mrs. Donald Anderson presided for the meeting.

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, March 12(ENS) sociation held its first Father's Night on Monday evening in the high school auditorium. Since it was the nearest week to education week the public school also held open night with the pupils' work on display. Notebooks and work books were left open on the desks, and there were art displays. The teachers were in their rooms to meet the parents and to discuss their children's progress with them. In the senior room the boys had on display sets of corner shelves made in manual training classes.

Girls and boys both showed plaques and silhouettes they had made, and the girls waste paper baskets made in handicraft period while the boys took manual training.

Alex Gilbert, vice-president, was in the chair for the meeting which followed. The minutes were read by Ed. Nattress, and Stewart Snelgrove gave the financial report and called the roll.

Mrs. A. M. Butler gave a report for the publications committee on the various pamphlets which were obtainable this month. Members were reminded of the meeting in Queen Mary school on March 19 to which they had been invited, and of Lakefield's school fair on April 4.

Mrs. Bruce Ingham was appointed as delegate to the convention being held in Toronto Easter week.

The program was put on by the pupils of Mr. Hamilton's room. They gave two choruses, "To the Moon," and "Santa Lucia" and a play "Bookworms-Don't Have To Bite." Those taking part were Joan Gilbert, the girl who hated books; Helen Ingham as the green bookworm who grew wings; Dorothy Ball as Jo March from Little Women; Ada Olan as Heidi, Dorothea Chapman as Alice in Wonderland, and the six girls in the chorus who spoke in unison, were Elsie Fickling, Loreen Guthrie, Carol Hawkins, Janet Hobbs, Lenore Ouellette and Marilyn Sanders. Large book covers had been made to fit the book characters who turned the pages so the first page could be read.

The $2 attendance prize went to the pupils of Mr. Hamilton's room.

Adults present split in two to discuss safety problems as far as traffic was concerned in Millbrook and to discuss means of making Home and School meetings more interesting, and of producing more co-operation between Home and School and the school board, between parents and teachers. The Rev. A. A. Chote acted as leader of the first group and Dr. M. E. Hobbs of the second. After a 20-minute discussion period the groups returned to the auditorium to give their findings. The first group decided that there definitely was need of traffic supervision for children going to and from school. They thought this could be best met by stationing high school students at the foot of the hill and of the school bridge, at the corner of Tupper and King Sts., and at the post office corner. This should be done in conjunction with the local police, they thought. The second group thought the programs now being used in the Home and School were interesting and right in line with the aims of the society. They favoured getting more members to participate in programs and to depend more on local talent for speakers. They thought Home and School members should sit in on at least one school board meeting a year. They should make suggestions for improvements in the school such as the procuring of playground equipment, or the serving of a hot dish at lunch for country pupils. Board members present said they would appreciate such help in their work. One way parents could co-operate with teachers more fully it was felt was by regular attendance at Home and School meetings.

Dorothy Ball and Lenore Ouellette played the piano.

More Protection for More People

Report to Metropolitan Policyholders for 1951

THE importance of Life insurance and its relationship to the lives of the people of the United States and Canada cannot effectively be portrayed by figures in a balance sheet. Cold figures can never adequately show human needs and their fulfillment. It is important, therefore, to try to interpret these figures in terms of the millions of people they represent and the millions who benefit by the use of the services rendered by the Company and its Agents. The Metropolitan was serving 33,373,000 Life insurance policyholders at the close of the year.

The personal phases of Life insurance — for it is a highly personal business — are highlighted daily by dramatic instances. Sometimes they are so unusual as to give special emphasis to the part our business plays in the life of the United States and Canada. The following quotation from a letter from the son of a deceased policyholder, requesting the return of a policy on which claim had been paid, tells with simple sincerity a moving story of a Life insurance policy, of the son's relationship with his father, and of a sound process of economic and social education:

"This policy . . . has for me possibly a greater sentimental value than it would have cash value . . . For you to understand this, you would have to know the years of close relationship and confidence that existed between my father and me. When I was a small boy, he would take me with him to his safety deposit vault . . . Always he stressed to me the importance of his insurance policy, how this piece of paper would some day have a cash value that might tide the family over in an emergency . . . Time has passed . . . but the sentimental worth of this piece of paper is constant in my thinking . . . I have always been told that business, especially Big Business, is hard and cold and rigid, but I know that this is not so, because business is made up of people. People with hearts and souls and loved ones, and people who have lost loved ones, and some who possibly think and feel the same way that I do."

We were, of course, pleased to grant this unusual request.

The record sum of $924,000,000 was paid in benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1951. This included payments of $141,000,000 on more than 1,250,000 claims (five times ten years ago) for Accident and Health and Disability benefits. A new high was also reached in Life insurance in force — $48,512,000,000, a gain of more than $3,000,000,000 over 1950.

More people than ever were protected last year by Metropolitan Accident and Health insurance. As the year closed, the Company had in force 3,270,000 policies or certificates providing weekly indemnity for disability of $86,000,000 per week. Hospital, Surgical or Medical Expense benefits were provided by 2,744,000 policies or certificates.

Another significant development during the year was the introduction of Extended Medical Coverage through Group insurance to protect people against abnormal hospital, surgical, and medical expense that might exhaust a family's entire savings.

METROPOLITAN OPERATIONS IN CANADA

These high lights of the Company's business in Canada during 1951, our 79th year in this country, will be of particular interest to Metropolitan's Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries

Metropolitan paid in 1951 to its Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries $47,042,393 in death claims — matured policies — accident and health and disability benefits — dividends and other payments. Of this amount, 70% was paid to living policyholders.

The total amount the Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $424,000,000.

Life Insurance in Force

In 1951, Canadians bought $233,659,426 of new Life insurance protection in the Metropolitan, and at the year's end the Company was serving 2,500,000 Life insurance policyholders in Canada insured for $2,658,301,557. Of this amount, 56% was Ordinary business, 28% was Industrial and 16% was Group.

Total Investments in Canada

Metropolitan investments in Canada amounted to $632,999,420 at the end of 1951. These investments are playing an important part in the economy of Canada with substantial totals of Federal, Provincial, and Municipal bonds and with sizeable totals in the obligations of steel and paper companies, the oil industry, railroads, electric light and power companies, and others.

Health and Welfare Work

Since 1909 Metropolitan has conducted a continuous health education campaign in Canada and during 1951 participated in numerous activities. More than 2,100,000 pamphlets on a variety of health and safety topics were distributed — monthly health advertisements appeared in national publications — "Good Hints for Good Health" was a daily feature on many radio stations.

Never Okay Them Longhurst Says Of City Accounts

"You have one objector," said Ald. H. S. Longhurst to chairman T. D. Miller as the finance committee otherwise followed custom in advancing Monday a sheaf of accounts for payment.

"As an accountant I'd never okay accounts that way," Ald. Longhurst remarked.

Ald. Miller said he was following the established procedure of passing accounts. They come to that committee from the other committees with the signatures of their respective chairmen who have examined them in the first place.

In this instance, Ald. Herbert Young moved, seconded by Ald. Anglesey, the accepted directive: "That the chairman (of finance) be authorized to examine all accounts, and report for payment those which he finds to be properly certified."

The "report for payment" is included in the report of the finance committee when it is subsequently presented to council.

Ald. Longhurst said he would rather have the accounts examined and approved by the finance chairman before they came up to that committee, instead of after.

"It doesn't make any difference to me" said Ald. Miller, "except that I also have to sign the cheques and I can do the two things at once." He referred to the examining of the accounts and also signing the cheques.

Cheques are signed finally by the Mayor, chairman of finance and City Treasurer Couper. They cannot be issued until they are ultimately approved by council on the recommendation of the finance committee.

Finance committee is provided with the file of the corresponding vouchers. One of the members, scanning the list of accounts, enquired: "What's this one for W. H. Bosley?"

This account related to the annexation of the Seabrooke property, included in the City Hall site. As a property item, it had come from the property committee, and the account bore the certifying signature of Ald. Longhurst.

Mayor Waddell commented that this was the final payment to Mr. Bosley, who was engaged by the council to assist in negotiating for the properties purchased for the city hall location.

(Probably, some persons would like to know the total amount of the payments to Mr. Bosley for his work, but that informaton would have to be obtaned by adding together the amounts of whatever cheques were remitted to him.)

"The system of passing accounts was established before I came to the council," said Ald. Miller. "In my case, I have to see that the accounts are all approved by the respective committee chairmen, and they are then submitted in our report for approval of the council."

"I'd rather have them signed by the chairman of finance before they come to the finance committee," Ald. Longhurst said. "I wouldn't do it this way."

The motion carried, as usual, with Ald. Longhurst declining to support it.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey were unanimously voted to the all-time New York Yankee team Tuesday in St. Petersburg, Fla., by 48 New York writers who were covering baseball in 1930.

The 1927 club that won the American League pennant by 19 games and annihilated Pittsburgh in four straight world series, was named the best Yankee team by a lopsided margin with 45 votes. Two went to the 1937 club and one to the 1928 team.

Results of the balloting were announced as the club headed into its 50th season. A dinner tonight at Tampa will commemorate the date the Yanks were voted into the American League, March 12, 1903, at the old Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York.

Regina Pats moved into the Western Canada Junior Hockey League final Tuesday night with a 3-1 victory over Calgary Buffaloes. The victory was the third straight for the Pats in the best-of-five semi-final. They now meet either Lethbridge Native Sons or Edmonton Oil Kings in the league final.

In Milan, Italy, Canada's Olympic champion hockey team Tuesday night trounced the Italian national sextet 8-0.

Johnny Williams won the British and Empire heavyweight titles Tuesday night in London by outpointing Jack Gardner in 15 rounds. Gardner weighed 214¾ to 194¾ for Williams.

Charlie Dressen, Brooklyn Dodgers' manager, Tuesday publicly thanked Jackie Robinson for coming to his defence last season when Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland catcher, said in a speech that "all baseball was rooting for the Dodgers to lose because of Dressen's shabby treatment of Erv Palica." At the time, Robinson said that Tebbetts didn't know what he was talking about and that the Dodgers were behind Dressen in everything.

Plans to televise the 15-round middleweight championship fight between titleholder Sugar Ray Robinson and Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu in San Francisco on Thursday night were cancelled Tuesday. Joe Phillips, member of the State Athletic Commission, made the announcement after conferring with George Gainford, Robinson's manager.

Russia will send a soccer team to the Olympic games at Helsinki, a Soviet official said yesterday in Rome. The statement was made by Sergei Savin, Soviet representative and one of the vice-presidents of the International Football Association Federation here for meetings of the executive committee. "We are sure we will make a good showing," Savin said.

Hastings Victors

HASTINGS, March 12 (ENS)—Hastings intermediates stepped up a notch as they took the Port Hope Redmen in an exhibition tilt in the local arena, and skated off with a 6-4 verdict, on a well played game before a good crowd.

Port Hope looked over the size of the village on the way in, and it must have lulled them in a false sense of security, as Hastings climbed all over them in the first period to wind up with a 3-0 lead.

The second period saw the Redmen building up the pressure but they were unable to dent the twine, while Hastings added two more.

At 14.50 of the third period Port Hope banged in their first goal, Downey from Gordon, but Hastings bounced back 15 seconds later with their sixth goal.

Port Hope kept up sustained driving attack from there in and whipped in three fast goals, two in a row by Free and in the final one by Gordon.

Batley, in the net for the locals, was a standout as time after time he stopped the visitors, on what appeared to be sure goals.

The return game is slated for Port Hope Friday.

Port Hope: Goal, Batley; defence, Isaacs, Peterson; centre, Blake; wings, White, Morrow; alternates, Stevenson, Oliver, Huard, Jeffs, Calby, Taylor, Parsons.

Redmen: Goal, Lavern; defence, Douglas, Evans; centre, Robinson; wings, Racin, Free; alternates, Forester, Gordon, Downey, Campbell, Medhurst, Churchley, Flesh, McKeen.

ORMTA Concert Pleases Crowd At Auditorium

The concert sponsored by the local branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association on Tuesday evening brought a numerous and appreciative audience to the P.C.V.S. auditorium. The artists were Margo Mackinnon and Ray Dudley, both young Canadians at the outset of their concert career.

Miss Mackinnon has a pleasing voice, with plenty of power and excellent control. She appeared to be nervous when first she appeared to sing a difficult aria from "Cosi fan tutte", and although she sang well technically she fell short of the emotional demands of the song. When next she appeared, however, she seemed more assured of the goodwill of the audience and sang charmingly. She was at her best in the Hebridean folk songs, of which she sang three. To these deceptively simple songs, which can take all of the art and all the knowledge of life which such an artist as Kathleen Ferrier brings to them, Miss Mackinnon brought her own qualities of youth and frankness, and revealed the beauty and grace of the songs very movingly.

It was the second time that Ray Dudley has played professionally in Peterborough. This young Ontario pianist showed last night a notable advance over two years ago in his command of the instrument and his interpretative capacity. His program made large technical demands, particularly the Chopin Fantasia in F minor, the Liszt Mephisto Waltz, and the "Four Excursions" of Samuel Barber.

Although the rhythmic force of the great Fantasia was given with clarity, there was blurring in some of the extended passages and, one felt, a lack of comprehension. His Liszt was a brilliant achievement. It was an exercise of skill and fire which demonstrated the bravura of that difficult work. The American Samuel Barber's composition was interesting for itself and for its sympathetic performance. It is an excusion into four popular American idioms: jazz, blues, folk song and barn dance, done in what amounts to sonata form.

Mr. Dudley Bach lacked maturity and, particularly in the suite numbers (Partita No. 4), eighteenth century grace. His fugal themes (E major, Book 2; C sharp minor Book 1, Well-Tempered Clavichord) were incisive. He got unusual piano tones from the instrument, a kind of sotto voice, in some of the chordal sequences. His Schumann and Chopin encores were given with fine poise and dignity; they were beautifully interpreted at the end of a heavy schedule.

Both Miss Mackinnon and Mr. Dudley introduced their numbers with explanatory comments. This practice is perhaps unwise, and unfair to ask it of the performers.

Criticizes System For Young Athletes

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP)—W. J. Henderson, Liberal member of Parliament for Kingston, on Tuesday night criticized the system under which young Canadian hockey players are signed up and then told that they "shall or shall not play on this team, or that."

Speaking in the Throne-Speech debate in the Commons he referred to "a case which occurred last fall" in which "sentences were handed out by a sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association."

It is time, he said, that "our government reviewed the whole situation of our national sport to see that citizens are not denied the right to participate in a game which should be for the good of our youth and our country."

"Such athletic activities should be supervised by a body responsible to the government, which in turn is responsible to the people."

An O.H.A. sub-committee last October slapped life suspensions on the manager and coach of the Kingston Nylons, a Senior B team. Two players were suspended for two years, 12 for one year, and two others were exonerated.

The club was charged with throwing a four-game play-off series to Peterborough last spring.

A CHEQUE FOR $2 changes hands as Billy James, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. James, 623 St. Catharine St., presents this sum to Mrs. J. P. Watts, chairman of the Women's Division of the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign. The money was raised by a group of children who attend the Y.W.C.A. Southend Nursery School in a penny march held during the week.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Nursery School Children Work For Money To Give

A group of 3 and 4-year-old children made a contribution of $2.00 to the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign, Tuesday.

These children all attend the Y. W. C. A. Southend Nursery School at Howden and Monaghan Sts. The money was sent to the campaign office in the form of cheque with an enclosed letter explaining how the money was raised.

The following quote from their letter tells why and how these children collected the money.

"One day our teacher, Mrs. Northcott, told us all about the community fund and how you need money to help all the little boys and girls who haven't food and toys, or who are sick. This made us feel very sad, so we decided to help mummy and daddy for a week to earn a penny to help others. Each day we had a penny march at Nursery School, when we dropped our pennies in the box and told how we swept the floor, made the beds, dusted and helped in ever so many ways. Sometimes our mummies said they thought we were more hindrance than help. We didn't know what they meant, but because they always smiled when they said that, we knew we were helping them a lot. Mrs. Northcott also told us that you help the Y.W.C.A. and we knew then that you helped us, because we are a Y.W.C.A. Nursery School, and we are very happy."

Arrest Swedish Sergeant As Russian Spy

STOCKHOLM, March 12—(Reuters)—Hugo Gjerswold, an avowed Communist, has been arrested on charges of spying for Russia, it was disclosed today.

Gjerswold was a sergeant in a Swedish Artillery Regiment.

He is accused of complicity with two other Communists, Fritiof Enbom and Lilian Ceder, in supplying Russian officials with Swedish military secrets, sources close to security police said.

Ex-serviceman Gjerswold, 32, works in an ironworks in Luleaa, North Sweden, is a part-time writer for the North Swedish Communist daily, Norrskensflamman, and is a Communist party member.

Enbom and Miss Ceder, committed last Monday for trial on spy charges, worked for the same newspaper.

Sweden has had two other spy trials in four months. In November, Ernst Andersson, a petty officer in the Swedish Navy, was sentenced to life imprisonment for selling military secrets to Russian officials.

Three unidentified persons were sentenced in January to short prison terms for espionage on behalf of a foreign power, not named.

Red Cross Agrees To Investigate Germ War Charge

GENEVA, March 13, (AP)—The International Red Cross Committee said today it has agreed to investigate Communist charges that United Nations forces are waging germ warfare against Communist troops in Korea. State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States asked for the investigation. He has denied the Red charges. Paul Ruegger, president of the Red Cross Committee, said the Red Cross Societies of Hungary, Poland, Romania and Bulgaria also sent protests to the committee against alleged use of bacteriological weapons in Korea.

Ruegger sent identical messages to Acheson, Korean Communist Prime Minister Kim Il sung, and Gen. Pen Te huaih, commander-in-chief of Chinese Communist troops in Korea, saying the committee would investigate the germ war charges if it is "assured of co-operation of authorities on both sides of the front."

Ruegger's message to both sides noted the U.S. has denied using germs to start reported epidemics of bubonic plague and other diseases in North Korea.

Take Drastic Measures

The Communists have been reported recently taking drastic measures to halt the spread of disease, inoculating all troops and civilians.

The Chinese and Russian press and radio have made detailed charges alleging U.S. planes have dropped bombs containing disease germs which were loosed from bombs blew up.

Ruegger advised both parties to the Korean conflict that the international committee was prepared to set up a commission under its direction "made up of persons who will offer every guarantee of moral and scientific independence which could be offered by experts who have highest qualifications, especially in epidemiology."

The International Red Cross Committee has been unsuccessful so far in obtaining Communist authorization to work behind the Red lines in assisting prisoners of war. The last message asking for such authorization was sent only a week ago.

Must Have P.O.W. List

In Munsan, Allied truce negotiators told the Communists today they were wasting time trying to get " the unconditional repatriation of all prisoners we hold in exchange for a small portion of those you hold."

That's what the latest Red plan amounts to, said Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby, and it is not acceptable.

The Communists insist that prisoner-exchange plans be adopted before turning over a "complete and bona fide" prisoner roster.

Libby said that's "putting the cart before the horse."

Anti-Protestant Wave In Spain Worst In Years

MADRID, March 13 — (AP) — Closer relations between the United States and Spain have caused the worst anti-Protestant wave in recent years, one of the highest Spanish Protestants said today.

This source, who asked anonymity, emphasized that the Spanish Government is not backing the anti-Protestant movement. On the contrary, he said, it is worried over the possible reaction on forthcoming negotiations for U.S. financial aid in return for U.S. air and naval bases here.

He said the campaign increased sharply following President Truman's statement recently that he is not fond of Franco's regime, and the explanation by former ambassador Stanton Griffis that the President was chiefly concerned at the lack of religious liberty in Spain.

President's declaration our reaction was, 'what chapels will suffer the consequences'?" he said. "The answer came on March 5 with the attempt to burn Sevilla's Reformed (Protestant) Chapel".

On the heels of that, Pedro Cardinal Segure Y Saenz, Archbishop of Sevilla, issued a pastoral letter warning the government that the "spirit of Roman Catholics is worried over the fear that, under the pretext of politics, concessions gravely prejudicial to the Religion may be made".

His statement reflected concern that the government, under cover of negotiations with the U.S., might make concessions of Truman's views on religious freedom".

The government's worry was reflected in an editorial Wednesday in Arriba, the newspaper of Falange, Spain's only permitted political party. Arriba commented that it could not agree with Cardinal Segura that the government was lax in any way in maintaining the rights of the Roman Catholic Church as the state Religion.

Suspend Priest's Flying Licence

EDMONTON, March 13 (CP).—The Rev. William Leising, 39-year-old Oblate Father known as the "Flying Priest," has had his pilot's licence suspended for 30 days for overloading his aircraft and failing to file a flight plan.

Father Leising and three Roman Catholic brothers were the object of an R.C.A.F. search early this week in Northern Alberta. They were found safe at Fort McMurray, 240 miles north of Edmonton, after the plane ran out of gas and made a forced landing five miles from the settlement.

Kenneth F. Saunders of Edmonton, district superintendent of the Transport Department, announced the suspension today, terming it "most lenient."

Lord Ismay Accepts NATO Secretaryship

LONDON, March 13 — (AP) — Lord Ismay, career-soldier and friend of Prime Minister Churchill, took on today the tough job of being the first secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He accepted the civilian command after a string of other statesmen had turned it down.

The 64-year-old general, quitting as Britain's Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, will start work alongside Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower next month at Paris headquarters.

Causes Sensation

Heads Of Big UAW Local Face Ouster As Pro-Reds

DETROIT, March 13 — (AP) — Heads of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) big Ford Local 600 face a threat of ouster today.

The union's international, acting on the heels of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee inquiry, accused Local 600 officers of failing to enforce union restrictions against Communists.

The charge created a sensation in union circles It is without precedent in the U.A.W. Apparently it was the outcome at least in part of the committee's inquiry.

Witnesses, including U.A.W. men, had testified that Ford Local 600, world's largest union local with 60,000 members, is under control of Communists.

Since its organization in 1941 Local 600 has been one of the U.A.W.'s greatest bulwarks.

The U.A.W. international executive board, headed by President Walter P. Reuter, acted against the Local 600 leadership Wednesday night less than four hours after the un-American activities committee adjourned its hearing.

Local 600 officers were accused of causing "irreparable damage" by failing to enforce the U.A.W.'s constitutional restrictions against Communists. They also were accused of disobeying union policy.

They were ordered to a hearing before the executive board Friday to show cause why an administrator should not be appointed for the local.

This would mean removal of the officers. It is a disciplinary step which has seldom been taken by the 1,250,000-member auto union.

An administrator takes full control of a local. He stays on the job, responsible only to the international union, until the board deems that conditions have been rectified.

Two of Local 600's top officers, vice-president Pat Rice and recording secretary William R. Hood, were unwilling witnesses before the investigating congressmen.

Both refused to answer any questions regarding communism.

None of the officers was named a Communist at the hearing. However, "co-operative" witnesses said Communists were influential, directly or indirectly, on all of them.

Sure Boyd In Toronto Brother Says

Montreal Police Press Search, Continuing Raids

LINDSAY, March 13. (CP)—Gordon Boyd today said he believes his brother, Edwin Alonzo Boyd, wanted by police in connection with Toronto bank robberies, still is in Toronto.

"He was born there," Gordon said. "He knows the city inside out. He'd be a fool to go some place like Montreal, a city he does not know like he knows Toronto. And Alonzo is no fool. He wouldn't see the sense in going to Montreal."

The brother of the suspected bank robber, now hunted by the police of Ontario and Quebec, has a wife and two children in a home

Tuesday night Provincial Police raided Gordon's home.

"They grabbed me on the way home from work," he said. "I could hardly get into a cruiser for the rifles in it."

Search In Quebec

In Montreal the police search for the bank robber, Edwin Boyd reached out today to Quebec's eastern townships, at the little village of Highwater near the Quebec-Vermont border.

Word came from Granby that a squad of Provincial Police sped eastward on a tip that a man resembling Boyd was seen in the heavily-wooded area.

Meanwhile, in Montreal, police ran down tips that placed the wanted bandit in many parts of the city at the same time.

"Armed, dangerous and crafty; moustache probably removed and sideburns shortened."

That was the description from police as they pressed their hunt for the last of a gun-packing trio wanted in Toronto for holdup and shooting.

Three More Raids

This morning police carried out three more raids. But they donned 35-pound steel vests, capable of turning aside a .45-calibre slug, for nothing.

Police speculated that Boyd, said to be the brains of the trio, may have more than $400,000 in cash as a result of many operations he possibly master-minded. So far, the stolen money has not been recovered.

Assistant Police Director Wilfrid Bourdon said he is still convinced that the sad-eyed mobster is in Montreal.

He said he is just as sure that Boyd won't get out — not alive anyway.

Massey Insists Income Taxed

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP) — Governor-General Viscount Massey wants to be taxed on the same basis as the Queen, whom he represents in Canada.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Wednesday he plans, at Mr. Massey's request, to bring in a budgetary amendment abolishing the tax exemption the Governor-General now enjoys on his personal income by virtue of his office.

The effect will be that only his official income of $48,667 will remain tax-free.

At present, all of the Governor-General's income — both official and private—is free of taxes. In Britain, the Queen's official income is tax-free, but her private income is taxed.

"Jolly Roger" Flies On Parliament Bldgs.

LONDON, March 13 (Reuters) —The "Jolly Roger" flew above the parliament buildings for several hours Wednesday night.

The pirate flag was not noticed until this morning when it was hauled down by a Works Ministry official.

Officials said it was believed to be a college-boy prank.

Whoever raised it on the Victoria tower mounted several precarious ladders to reach the 336-foot peak, at present enmeshed in scaffolding. The flag was made of a large sheet with the skull and crossed bones painted on it.

Bevan Quarrel Flares Anew In Committee

LONDON, March 13 (Reuters). —The quarrel between Aneurin Bevan, leftwing rebel, and leaders of the Labor party flared up again today at a meeting of the party's ruling body, the National Executive Committee.

The 27-man committee, on which Bevan and three of his supporters sit, framed a resolution denying a Bevanite suggestion that the annual party conference last year compromised on conflicting rearmament policies.

Bevan and 56 other Labor members of parliament rebelled last week in the Commons when Clement Attlee, former Prime Minister, ordered them not to vote against the Conservatives' defence program.

Today's meeting of the executive, demanded by Bevan after the revolt, lasted 3½ hours.

Clash Over Article

A major clash developed today over an article in Reynold's News, left-wing weekly, last Sunday.

Written by Tom Driberg, an executive member, the article blamed disunity on party leaders who approved the defence program, claiming that this attitude violated a compromise achieved last year between the views of the Bevanites and the orthodox group.

Bevans' opponents angrily denied this.

The executive voted to repudiate Driberg's article and "states definitely that no such compromise was arrived at."

The statement released at the end of the meeting also endorsed the resolution taken by the party Tuesday imposing standing orders on Socialist members of parliament. The orders constitute a strict disciplinary code demanding members to obey the party line on all policy questions.

Use Old Rescue Trick

BLIND RIVER, March 13 (CP) —Two men used an old trick for crossing thin ice Wednesday to save a dog from drowning.

H. Barloe and A. Snider pushed a canoe over the ice of the Blind River until they reached the spot where the dog had broken through. Then Snider got into the canoe, reached over the bow and pulled the dog out of the water.

Blind River is about 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

Coldwell Says Pearson Deliberately Smears CCF

OTTAWA, March 13. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, charged Wednesday that External Affairs Minister Pearson had stooped to "deliberate smears" and "slander" against him and the C.C.F. in a broadcast speech Tuesday night. He took exception in the Commons to a free-time political broadcast in which Mr. Pearson accused the C.C.F. of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibly" advocating cut-backs in North Atlantic Treaty rearmament targets.

Mr. Coldwell said he had long been an opponent of Communism and did not need to "defend himself against the charge of Communism." The minister's "inference" was something Mr. Pearson himself "must know to be untrue." Later, he told Mr. Pearson, seated across the house from him:

"I deeply resent the slanders that went over the air Tuesday night from the mouth of the Secretary of State for External Affairs."

Mr. Pearson did not immediately reply to Mr. Coldwell's charges.

Singled Out

The minister, also chairman of the N.A.T.O. Council, singled out in his broadcast statements by the C.C.F. National Council that N.A.T.O. had become dominated by military leadership which has set targets that are "disastrous and irresponsible." The C.C.F. also deprecated the aim to have 50 divisions in being this year, saying the figure is impossible and may wreck the economies of western European powers.

Mr. Coldwell recalled that when he had criticized the recent Lisbon conference of the N.A.T.O. in the Commons last week he had said he had no doubt his remarks would be "misrepresented and misconstrued."

"But," he added, "I did not think the Secretary of State for External Affairs would stoop to the deliberate smears in which he indulged.

"It has become apparent on this continent that constructive criticism demanded by the military leaders of N.A.T.O. is invariably criticized as Communist propaganda."

Dollar Earnings Down

LONDON, March 13. (Reuters) —Britain's dollar earnings in North America last month dropped to $49,560,000—nearly $5,000,000 below the January mark, export figures revealed today. Re-exports to North America increased substantially — bringing in $8,680,000 from the United States and $2,800,000 from Canada — compared with an average of $672,000 last year.

Form Human Chain To Rescue Child 5 Trapped For 17 Hours In 100-Foot Gully

TORONTO, March 13 (CP)— Michael Saunders, 5, murmured "thank you" to the firemen who rescued him today from the 100-foot gully where he had lain for 17 hours. Then he was given a glass of warm milk and wrapped in blankets.

Fifteen firemen and police formed a human chain to pass the numb but conscious child to safety after he was found following an all-night search.

The lad disappeared Wednesday afternoon. A few minutes before he was found in the gully two miles from his North Toronto home a police remarked:

"If he has been out all night in this temperature I don't think we are going to find him alive."

Except for cuts on his knees and the effects of exposure to the 30-degree cold, Michael was all right. He wore a sweater and trousers covered by a heavy snowsuit.

Offer $40,000 For Bingo Rights

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—J. Wesley (Paddy) Conklin has accepted the terms of Mayor Allan Lamport's revised midway contract for the Canadian National Exhibition.

In the new contract Mr. Conklin will pay full costs of hydro and ticket-taker expenses.

In his letter read Wednesday at a special C.N.E. contracts committee, Mr. Conklin said he is willing to increase his payments for a bingo concession from $2,000 to $4,000.

The committee opened tenders Wednesday for a third bingo game concession at the exhibition this year. The offers ranged from $3,600 plus 10 per cent of the net for one game to $40,000 for exclusive rights to all bingo games.

Because of some of the unexpectedly high offers, the committee instructed General Manager Elwood Hughes to make a complete report on the whole bingo situation at Friday's meeting of the C.N.E. Board of Directors.

Anti-British Party Condemns Hilaly

CAIRO, March 13 (Reuters)— The anti-British Wafd party today issued a manifesto condemning the Independent cabinet of Hilaly Pasha for using martial law to strangle freedoms and arrest innocent persons.

The party, which now dominates the now-adjourned parliament, withdrew pledges of government support made earlier this week.

Its statement accused British troops of "losing their senses in Ismailia, Suez Canal zone, on Jan. 25 and "committing aggression against the population." The next day, Jan. 26, was Cairo's "bloody Saturday" in which 27 persons died in Nationalist-sparked rioting.

Britons "plotted the murder of Sister Anthony"—a United States citizen killed in a convent during fighting between British troops and Egyptian terrorists—the statement charged.

Plan To Operate On Detective Tong

TORONTO, March 13 (CP)— An operation is scheduled to be performed today on sergeant of detectives Edmund Tong, one of two police officers shot and wounded a week ago today when they stopped two men for questioning.

Sgt. Tong's condition has improved to the point where doctors have decided to operate to remove a bullet which lodged against his spine after piercing both lungs.

Five Under Arrest As Cars Traced As Far As Alberta

OTTAWA, March 13. (CP)—The R.C.M.P. announced today the smashing of an international automobile smuggling ring. They arrested five men and seized 40 cars stolen in the United States and smuggled into Canada. The R.C.M.P. said 75 charges were laid. The arrests and seizures resulted from investigations going on since September, 1950. In simultaneous crackdowns, R.C.M.P. recovered 10 of the cars at points in Alberta, five in Manitoba and the others in Ontario.

Those arrested are Peter Bowman, 30, a used car dealer at Freeman, Ont.; Coste (Gus) Karadavis, 31, used car dealer at Hamilton; Joseph Mendiuk, 34, body repair shop man at Hamilton; Ronald H. Stephenson, 33, used car dealer also of Hamilton, and Charles N. Elliotson, grocer and former car dealer of St. Catharines.

R.C.M.P. investigations were carried out in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A spokesman said the R.C.M.P. believed it collared the major figures involved.

Arests Made

Seizure of the cars in various parts of the country took place over a period of months, but the arrests were made Wednesday.

In Hamilton today, the five men were remanded on $5,000 cash bail to March 27.

Inspector J. S. Cruikshanks, officer commanding the R.C.M.P. Criminal Investigation Branch, Toronto, described the alleged ring as the largest of its type to ever operate in Canada and said that the paper work done before the arrests was "tremendous." All transactions involving the cars, sold and re-sold, had to be investigated.

Police said at least 55 automobiles were stolen in Detroit and smuggled into Canada. Later they were re-registered in Quebec with serial numbers taken from wrecked cars in junk yards. Then they were distributed in other provinces, being registered again on the basis of the Quebec registration.

Police recovered one car as far West as Edmonton, another as far East as Quebec City.

Last Holdouts Ended In Rail Strike

ELKHART, Ind., March 13 — (AP)— The last holdouts against court and union orders to end the New York Central railroad strike went back to work today.

Elkhart members of the Engineers', Conductors' and Firemen's [illegible] to give in to the back-to-work orders. Resentful but relieved, they voted late Wednesday night to return to their jobs. A spokesman said the vote was 136 to 72.

Their fellow rebels made idle 1,800 employees and caused the re-routing of main-line traffic Wednesday. However, two trains the Pacemaker and Twentieth Century Limited, were taken through by supervisory employees.

No Punishment.

The Toledo and Elkhart strikers held out for 24 hours against orders from top union officers to go back to work. Before taking their vote they demanded and received assurance that no disciplinary action would be taken against them.

The Toledo men had resigned from their unions and set up a new union, called the Model Railroad Club. However, a spokesman said this action was merely a device to avoid punishment under the court injunction. The unions are expected to take them back.

Operations in Chicago also were affected Wednesday. Fourteen suburban trains were cancelled.

Fell 165 Ft. Down Pipe Man Seriously Hurt

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — Josephy Doyle, 24, who Wednesday plunged 165 feet down a 36-inch steel pipe in suburban Scarboro township, today was reported in critical condition.

Doyle, an assistant engineer on a construction job, was standing on a wooden cover when it tilted and dropped him down the pipe. He suffered fractures of both ankles, a broken leg, fractured skull, fractured pelvis, ruptured spleen and a broken jaw.

It took fellow workers almost half an hour to rescue Doyle. They had to crawl through a shallow tunnel and then take him on a small train to the surface.

Doctor Refuses Relinquish Post

WINDSOR, March 13. (CP)— Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, superintendent of East Windsor hospital, said today he has "no intention" of relinquishing his position.

He made the statement in a telephone interview in connection with newspaper reports Wednesday which stated that Health Minister Phillips telephoned him from Toronto ordering him to vacate his post.

The superintendent said that M. Frank Brobst, chairman of the hospital board, had made a statement concerning an alleged Phillips telephone call to a newspaper publisher.

"In any event," said the doctor, "the Ontario government has no more authority to ask me to resign that it has to ask Mr. Rhys Sale, president of Ford of Canada, to resign. Like the Ford company, the East Windsor hospital is incorporated under the requisite Provincial Government Act."

Further Action Hinted

Churchill Gov't Determined To Cut Food Subsidies

LONDON, March 13 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative Government appears determined to cut to the near-vanishing point food subsidies which have cost Britain more than £2,500,000,000 since the Second World War.

In the government's budget this week Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, gave the subsidies the biggest trimming since they started. Later in a BBC broadcast he criticized the system under which citizens pay taxes so that the government can sell food below cost price.

Butler told Britons he was handing back some of their tax money. Bluntly he said they ought to pay the real cost of the food they eat.

But even after the cuts—which slash subsidies from more than £340,000,000 a year to £250,000,000—housewives still won't be paying the full cost of basic foods when they go marketing.

That's one reason many observers think Butler may plan further cuts in later budgets. Such action probably is opposed by Butler's fellow cabinet minister, Lord Woolton, who developed subsidies as Britain's wartime food minister.

The food ministry never says how subsidies are distributed. But Woolton used taxpayers' money to keep down prices of bread, flour, meat, bacon, ham, fats, cheese, eggs, milk, sugar and tea.

As a result, Britain came through the lean years fit and well fed.

All subsidized foods are bought in bulk by the food ministry, which uses the subsidy money to resell them at below cost to traders.

In post-war years, rising prices gradually inflated the subsidies to a high of £500,000,000 in 1949.

Bread and milk are two of the most-heavily-subsidized foods.

Legislature Passing Bill To Allow Hospital Inquiry

TORONTO, March 13. (CP)—The Ontario legislature today deals with second stage in the passage of a bill to permit a full-sc... ...tigation of the East Windsor hospital at Windsor. Attorney-General Porter introduced the bill Wednesday and said that immediately after its passage it will be used to call an investigation at the hospital where he said there was evidence of "certain possible irregularities which may turn out to be quite extensive."

The bill will give the government general powers of Royal Commission investigation into any hospital, sanatorium, charitable institution or other organization receiving provincial grants.

Premier Frost said he will call the bill for second reading—approval in principle—today, together with other bills. The Throne speech debate will also continue today, and a night sitting is planned to help clear up business before the house before Mr. Frost brings down his budget, expected next Thursday.

Four members spoke in Wednesday's throne speech debate: S. F. Leavine (P.C., Waterloo North); G. T. Gordon (L., Brantford); W. K. Warrender (P.C., Hamilton Centre), and T. D. Thomas (C.C.F., Ontario).

Proposes Rebate

Mr. Leavine proposed a rebate on part of the federal income tax to the municipality where it is collected as a means of assisting municipal financing. Expansion of municipal income sources was necessary, and without past provincial aid "the municipal situation would be intolerable."

Mr. Gordon urged the government to transfer some of its attention from home purchasing to low-rental housing.

Ontario should start a low-rental housing plan "for the thousands of people who will never be able to buy a house."

Mr. Thomas said the people of the province lost out by Ontario's refusal in 1945 to enter a tax-rental agreement with Ottawa to exchange certain provincial tax fields for federal subsidies.

The federal government at that time also offered Ontario a complete health program and a universal pensions plan similar to that begun only this year, he said.

Premier Frost strongly denied that such offers were included in the federal tax-rental offer. Ontario would have had to pay its share of such welfare plans in the form of a poll tax of "perhaps $30 a year."

Mr. Warrender said that Communists used any public office they were elected to as a "sounding board for their propaganda." Communist party supporters should be deprived of their right to vote, and thus be disqualified from holding public office.

27 Left Homeless In $100,000 Blaze

REGINA, March 13 (CP). — A $100,000 fire Wednesday flashed through a section of the Black block here leaving 27 persons homeless and destroying two stores and five business offices. No one was injured.

A large crowd filled the streets as stocks of bullets ricochetted through Gray's hardware store on the main floor. Paint and other inflammable stores fed the fast-spreading flames that combined with dense smoke to defy the efforts of firemen and practically every piece of Regina's fire-fighting equipment.

The fire was discovered at 11:30 a.m. and was not brought under control until 2:30. By then the interior of the three-storey building was almost gutted.

Canadian Sailor Sought In Murder Case

LYONS, France, March 13 — (Reuters) — Police today kept a sharp lookout at all French ports for Canadian seaman Lorne Rutherford, wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of a French judge found beaten to death at his home near here on Wednesday.

Authorites said that a hitchhicker answering the description of Rutherford, believed to be from British Columbia, was picked up by Judge Bernard Rosselin Sunday morning. Later, a young man was seen entering the judge's home at the village of Chalons-Sur-Saone.

The Canadian embassy in Paris said today Rutherford comes from Trail, B.C.

Police Wednesday broke into the house after friends became worried about Rosselin's disappearance and found the body of the judge, bound and gagged, lying at the foot of his bed in a pool of blood. There were signs of a violent struggle.

On Lookout.

A description of Rutherford has been flashed to police stations thorughout France.

Last month Rutherford tried to stow away on a ship in a Northern French port but was found and put ashore before it sailed. Police believe he may try to stow away again and have ordered a sharp watch kept at all ports.

Rutherford reached France as a stowaway, he said in a letter he wrote the Canadian embassy in Paris after he was jailed for vagrancy. Canadian authorities are keeping in close touch with police during the hunt.

Establish Fund

Brant's immediate difficulties.

For a while, in 1950, he stayed at the House of Refuge in Lindsay, but he ran away twice, after working as a laborer on the farm there for a time.

The case of Fred Brant points up the fact, that although we are in the middle of the 20th century, we still have not progressed very far in the treatment and care of the mentally ill. Many of the asylums and poor-houses, or catch-all institutions of England which grouped the aged, the destitute, the crippled, and mental patients all under one roof, were criticized by social reformers two hundred years ago.

Today, there is only one public institution for the Fred Brant's of the province—the county home for the aged. It is neither desirable or sensible for young people to be obliged to live in an institution intended for elderly people.

The fund which is being started gives everyone who wishes to do so, an opportunity to take part in a worthy cause, by helping Fred Brant to help himself. If enough money is collected to assist him through his long period of convalescence, Brant may be able to get back on his feet and look after himself.

His background reveals that he has never had the advantage of a permanent home. Fred Brant wanted to go to jail, because he had nowhere else to go. He was friendless, destitute and unable to help himself.

It is unfortunate he suffered the misfortune of having his feet frozen. Recriminations and excuses will not help Fred Brant Law enforcement officials did what they are sworn to do—enforce the law. The fact that the results bordered on tragedy are regrettable, but Fred Brant needs more than sympathy. He needs financial assistance to get a fresh start. It may be the first time he has ever been given a chance and judging by his change of attitude since he has been in hospital, he may take advantage of it.

Major Everitt who has visited Brant frequently during his month in hospital, reports that Brant appears to be much brighter than he was at first, and is beginning to take an interest in his surroundings.

Several thoughtful people sent him baskets of fruit, candies and cookies. In fact he received so many gifts that some of them had to be distributed among other patients to prevent them from going to waste.

Every cent contributed to the Fred Brant Fund will be deposited in a special bank account to be used for Brant by Major Everitt. There is no objective, and contributions of any size are welcome. Every dollar, every dime and every copper will help establish Fred Brant after he gets out of hospital. Send your contributions to The Examiner, Fred Brand Fund. Receipts will be issued for all donations.

Heavier cattle offerings included more than 600 steers, mostly from Eastern Ontario. Steers were about steady, while cows started the week at about $2 higher only to lose most of that gain in later trading. Mixed good to choice steers from 27-29, medium 25-27 and common 21-25. Good and choice heifers brought 25-29 and common and medium 17-25. Good cows made 21-24, mostly 22-23, medium 18-21, common 17-19 and canners and cutters 12-15. Good bulls were 21-23 and common and medium 17-20.

The calf market was irregular with prices fluctuating from day today. Good and choice vealers ranged from 28-35 with the bulk at 29-33 and common and medium at 25-28.

Only a handful of sheep were sold at 12-20.

Hogs were steady at 26 for Grade "A", while sows made 14-15.

Need To Regain Forests Scott Message

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—Lands Minister Scott told the Ontario Legislature Wednesday that Ontario "should still think in terms of regaining and maintaining abundance" of forests.

He spoke on second reading of a bill which will consolidate the provisions of eight existing statutes governing the province's lumber and pulpwood industry.

The bill was drawn up to "tidy up" legislation dealing with Crown timber, drop out-of-date practices and eliminate duplication in existing laws.

Mr. Scott said the bill was introduced at a "particularly opportune" time when the province was seeking integration of forest operations to obtain full use in all forms of all wood cut from Crown lands.

Approved In Principle

The bill was approved in principle and will go before the sessional committee on lands and forests.

Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver said he doubts that Ontario is holding its own in forest preservation.

Premier Frost took issue with him.

"We have reached the stage in Ontario where we are holding our own," the Premier said, "and we now are marching forward."

J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog.—Toronto St. Andrew) said the government should carry out the provisions of a 1944 statute setting up a Commission to administer Ontario's Crown forests.

"That is not the policy of this government," Premier Frost said.

The idea at that time was to divorce forest administration from politics.

"But we can't turn over to a Commission, which is not responsible to the people, the forests on which tens of thousands of our people depend for their jobs."

Base Metals Drift Lower On Exchange

... (CP) — Base metals drifted lower today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections showed little trend.

Activity was brisk as Western Oils speculation dominated trading. A few golds and metals also attracted interest but turnovers were moderate. Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 2,293,000 shares.

Banks and papers recovered slowly from early industrial losses. Agricultures, foods and miscellaneous issues edged upward but liquors and constructions remained weak.

Western Oils posted small advances. Canada Southern Oil, Canadian Colleries, Charter, Federated Petroleum, Sapphire, United Oil and Harman pushed upward. Canadian Atlantic, Central Explorers and Del Rio eased.

Base metal losses ranged from fractions to about 25 cents. Chromium, Consolidated Smelters, Estella, Mindamar, New Calumet and United Keno Hill traded lower.

Senior golds were mixed. Junior producers tended lower but prospects and holding companies showed gains and losses in balance.

Canadian Dollar

NEW YORK, March 13. (CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1/32 ofa cent at a premium of ⅜ per cent in terms of United States funds in Foreign Exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was $2.78, unchanged from Wednesday.

Commute Sentence

Board Of Health Whittles Off $525

The Board of Health wasn't missed in the economy-minded council's attempts to reduce civic spending.

Wednesday's board meeting had its emphasis on finances as the members tried to reduce the 1952 estimated budget of approximately $45,000. A sum of $525 was cut from the total and the hope was expressed by Mayor Hugh Waddell that more checks would result in a further decrease of the total figure.

The main issue under discussion at the meeting were the pros and cons of purchasing a new car for Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson.

At present Mr. MacPherson is driving a 1942 model car that was purchased from war assets following the Second World War. The feeling of the board was that it would be more economical in the long run to buy a new car than pay for the needed repairs on the old car.

The motion that a 1952 English model car be purchased for the sanitary inspector was moved by Mayor Waddell and seconded by Ald. P. J. Anglesey.

Mayor Waddell said that he hoped the estimated budget could be cut to include this purchase without increasing the present $45,000 total.

Dr. R. A. Kelly explained that continued interest was being shown throughout the county in the project of establishing a county health unit. He said that six township and municipal councils had been visited recently where the project was outlined.

"We did not ask for any commitments at these meetings," he said. "These were only missionary visits to give information."

Railway Unions Draft Common Program

MONTREAL, March 13—(CP)—Top executives of the non-operating railway unions of the A.F.L. and the C.C.L. Wednesday met to draft a common contract program for the railway industry.

The two international unions last joined forces in a common committee during the rail strike in the summer of 1950 but their demands were framed separately and varied on several points, including wages.

No details of Wednesday's discussions were disclosed, but it was announced that another joint meeting will be held before demands are presented to the railways July 1, two months before existing agreements are due to expire.

The rail union conference is expected to reconvene in about a month and indications are wage demands will be substantial, perhaps 30 cents or more an hour. It is likely that the union shop will be a major issue.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Fire 3 Officials After 75 Aliens Enter Illegally

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP)—The Immigration Department informed the Commons Wednesday 75 foreigners entered Canada illegally as a result of irregularities in the immigration service.

In a reply tabled in the House, the department gave the names of three Canadian officials discharged for irregularities. It said 12 of the 75 immigrants have already been deported, that 17 more have been ordered deported and "the remaining 46 immigrants are under investigation."

The three officials discharged are G. C. Wilson, who was working in Rome and had a total income of $7,255 in salary and allowances; J. A. Cianci, who was working in Karlsruhe, Germany, with a total income of $6,837; and J. M. Bourget, working in Montreal, with a salary of $2,904.

The irregularities involved a ring which arranged for Europeans to enter Canada illegally.

The reply said no action has been taken to date against the three officials, but that "investigations are continuing."

Canada Seeks Embargo Clarification

By The Canadian Press

Canada sought clarification in Washington Thursday of the United States embargo on Canadian livestock and meats, imposed as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

Meanwhile, discussion continued over interprovincial embargoes on livestock movement.

Three Canadian agricultural officials were in Washington trying to find out what processed meats the United States will allow on its markets and whether Canadian livestock can move through the U.S. for shipment if it goes in-bond.

But the Canadians may also take up with the U.S. agricultural officials the question of whether Canada's embargo on import of U.S. livestock is legal.

The Canadian embargo was imposed to keep the Canadian market for Canadian produce but some Americans think it may violate a trade agreement between the two countries. This pact—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade provides that the signatories will not impose import restrictions which would reduce the effect of negotiated tariff raductions.

An Appeal On Behalf of Fred Brant

Many or our readers have expressed sympathy with Fred Brant, the indigent young man who is now in the Civic Hospital. After being discharged from the city jail, and left on the highway to find his own way to anyone who would help him, his feet were frozen and the forepart of each foot has been amputated. For some time after his discharge from hospital Fred Brant will need care and guidance.

* * *

This newspaper therefore appeals to those among its subscribers who feel active pity for Brant, for gifts of money to be used in his behalf. The Examiner will accept the gifts at its business office and will issue receipts for them. The money will be deposited in a special bank account, and it will be used on Brant's behalf by Major H. Everitt of the Salvation Army, who has been visiting Brant and advising him during his hospital stay.

* * *

Unless something can be done to find Brant employment suited to his capabilities, there is no future for him except further incarceration in an old folks' home. It is not fair to a young man like Brant that he should live in such a place, nor is it fair to the elderly occupants of such a home that a young man be put among them. Major Everitt says that during his time in hospital the mental dullness which is Brant's chief handicap has been somewhat dispelled, and if he can be given a chance to be independent and find a job suited to him, Brant may become self-supporting and self-respecting.

* * *

We do not ask for large sums, but for gifts under five dollars. A comparatively small sum of money, carefully spent by Major Everitt, may raise Brant from indigence to self-support. A gift to this fund is an investment in human nature, and in a man whom life has used cruelly. Will you help?

We Agree With A Communist

It is a novel experience for us to find that we are in agreement with a Communist, but we felt that J. B. Salsberg, the L.P.P. member for Toronto St. Andrew was in the right on Monday when he said that he thought that the government of Ontario was trying to jettison the Hope Report on education. A number of bills dealing with odds and ends of educational reform are before the Legislature; Mr. Salsberg thought that the Hope Report should have a thorough airing before these were debated.

Why the government is so afraid of the Hope Report we cannot discover. It is true that some sections of the Report are objectionable to Catholic educators, but there is no reason why these sections should not be discussed in the hope of a compromise. There is no reason to suppose that Catholic education is immovable or that it is not interested in measures of reform. There is a strong tendency observable in modern Canadian politics to drop any subject like a hot potato if there is any Catholic disapproval of it. Such an attitude is not good for the country or good for the Catholics. If the government is interested in education it should be interested in the Hope Report.

Instead of the Hope Report, however, we have had vague utterances from the Minister of Education about the importance of the "three R's"; Dr. Dunlop's much discussed speech on that subject had overtones of political expediency. Surely it is fair to expect that when the government of Ontario spends upward of sixty million dollars a year on education, it should treat that subject with real seriousness?

Ottawa Spending

Late in 1950 the Federal Government began to encourage and enforce economies in non-defence departments and bureaus of government. It was a passing whim, it seems. The rash of spending on military matters and the large surpluses seem to have discouraged efforts to economize and to encourage free spending. Most departments of the Government are spending more money this year than they did last. Some remarks in the Canadian Chamber of Commerce's brief to the Ministers of Finance and National Revenue on taxation policies are therefore timely.

Economy in government is as essential to the economic health of the country as economy in business is of the health of business, the Chamber of Commerce submitted. "A government surplus, planned or unplanned, is of little use in combating inflation and maintaining flexibility in the economy if in due course the buoyant revenues lead to expenditures not really required . . . The Chamber therefore feels that a searching examination of government expenditures in all departments should be made."

At the last session of Parliament a Parliamentary Committee was set up to examine defence expenditures. Little has been heard of it or what it is doing or proposes to do. High spending on the broad levels that defence preparations now require should come under careful parliamentary scrutiny, and not be left to heads of Departments and civil servants entirely. They know too well how to spend money, especially when there is a gravy trainload of it stopping at anybody's whistle. And when the international situation requires heavy defence spending, other government spending should be very careful, almost parsimonious.

Casual Revolution In Cuba

"I had news from the most reliable source," said Fulgencio Batista after dawn in Cuba on Monday, "that President Prio, faced with the defeat of his candidate in the June 1st elections, was planning a phoney revolution for April 15." Batista took this as sufficient reason to stage a real revolution a month ahead of the "phoney" one which, he had heard, the legal President of Cuba might concoct. The revolution lasted 77 minutes. Two palace guards were killed. Fulgencio Batista is now dictator of Cuba.

The new head of the State was a Cuban army sergeant whose political genius made him chief of staff and ruler of the country through a series of Presidents from 1934 to 1940, when he allowed himself to become President. He held the office until 1944. He has generously come back to power "to restore public peace . . . It has been impossible to suffer any longer a government of thievery and crimes." President Prio has fled to the Mexican Embassy for protection; three generals and eight other Cubans took off in military planes for sanctuary at Miami. The coup d'etat is a fait accompli.

Revolution is not an unusual substitute for elections in Latin American and South American republics, since nearly all of them are dictatorships anyway. The Communist East must find the situation amusing that the West, devoted to democracy and parliamentary government, has in its North and South American bastions of two dozen countries only a handful of them big and small which are democratically governed.

An Astonishing Proposal

At their annual meeting, the Brantford and district branch of the Civil Service Association of Ontario decided to have a small card printed, listing thereon the merchants who were willing to allow the Civil Servants a discount. This is an astonishing proposal, and we do not think that it will ever advance beyond the proposal stage, for the Brantford Expositor has jumped on it with hobnailed boots, and rightly so. What reason is there that Civil Servants of Ontario should receive discounts, any more than Civil Servants of Canada, or people with red hair, or people born during the month of June?

If by any chance such a proposal were to come to anything, it would of course provoke discrimination; people naturally shop where they can get what they want at the lowest price. But the favour extended to the Civil Servants of Ontario would have to be paid for by somebody, and that somebody would be the rest of the public.

Very few businesses give discounts, though once such favours were not uncommon. It has been found that it is better to charge one price, rather than to have an unprofitably low price for some and an economically unjustifiable price for others.

C.B. For Russians At Ottawa

Members of the Russian Embassy at Ottawa are to be confined to their barracks; that is to say, to their mansion and a radius of a few miles beyond it. They will not be able to travel to Montreal for a concert, to Banff for a holiday, to Nova Scotia for the sea air, without permission of the Minister of External Affairs. This is in retaliation for similar restrictions on travel which Russia has imposed on Western diplomats in Moscow. They cannot travel beyond a 25-mile radius of Moscow. This tit-for-tat attitude is unpleasant, and makes it seem that Canada herself believes the Russian hocus that every Canadian at the Moscow Canadian Embassy is a potential spy. Canada is not the only western nation which will restrict the travels of Russian diplomats; it is a concerted NATO action, taken at the behest of the Lisbon meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty countries. Well, if NATO wants to play that sort of chip-on-the-shoulder game, we suppose that Canada must tag along. It may relieve the R.C.M.P. of some of their guardian duties over restless Russian diplomats.

U.S. Crime And Corruption

By KENNETH HARRIS (in Washington)

THE big question —and I put it bluntly— is this; has criminal and political corruption reached a point where America, too, must follow the downward path of other nations? I say that we are dangerously close to ruination point —if not right on it."

These are not the words of a Soviet Union propagandist but of an American Senator who has published a book— condensing what he heard as chairman of a Senate committee which investigated crime in America during the twelve months to May, 1951. They will disturb those who believe that the internal strength and the outward example of the American democracy are for the time being the main props on which the free nations lean in their struggle to prove themselves physically and spiritually stronger than the Communist State. They are such dire words that they need to be investigated as much as the crime and corruption which they assess.

THE crowning piece of the evil structure which so disturbs Senator Estes Kefauver, is the situation he found in New York where some of the highest officals of the municipal government seem in the past to have entered into alliance with men who have become rich by breaking the law. Frank Costello, whose legal right to be in the United States is still in question, an ex-bootlegger and ex-convict, and a proprietor of illegal establishments, was not only allowed to continue his activities but has been proved to have procured the appointment of a magistrate as justice of the New York State Supreme Court. Joe Adonis, whose career resembles Costello's, was able to prevent the investigation of the killing of rival gangsters by men assumed to have been in his pay.

William O'Dwyer, an ex-policeman, who was district attorney at the time when the police failed to investigate these murders, was later elected Mayor of New York. "His actions" the Kefauver committee found, "impeded promising investigations of such rackets . . . and contributed to the growth of organized crime." Mr. O'Dwyer resigned his office in late 1950. Now he is United States Ambassador to Mexico.

THE crowning piece, Senator Kefauver points out, has a wide foundation. In one chapter of his book he asks the owner of a gambling house in a little town where gambling is illegal why he was able to run his business for fifteen years without any interference from the local police. Because ninety per cent of the people like gambling was the answer. The elections prove it. Two sheriffs run for office, one on an anti-gambling platform, and the other on an "open" platform. The fellow on the open ticket wins."

On this showing the Americans do not seem a law-abiding people. But before coming to any conclusion as to how immoral they are, it is worth while looking at the laws by which they do not abide. The law whose infraction gives the bulk of the material for the Senator's book is the law against gambling. In America it is illegal to bet anywhere except in the State of Nevada or on a licensed race-course. It is illegal to put money into slot-machines. Football pools of the kind known in Britain are illegal. But most Americans want to be able to do these things, and most Americans do them. Most Americans, therefore, are technically criminals.

IT IS this gap between what the law demands and what the people want to do that gives the criminal his opportunity of becoming almost respectable, the policeman the handicap of having to control an almost endless field of crime, and the elected officials the choice between turning a blind eye to what is going on or of calling for extra taxes to put down something which the majority of the people who elected him do not want to see eliminated.

Senator Kefauver's solution is to close the gap by taking the people closer to the law. He urges more laws to fill the loopholes in the old, more and better policemen with wider powers. He urges the people to elect better politicians, to press for the enforcement of the laws, and, having realised the evils to which gambling now leads, to give it up. Other Americans, as concerned about the gap as Senator Kefauver is, would close it by bringing the laws closer to the people. They point out that the Costellos and Adonises made fortunes out of smuggling liquor in the days when America was "dry"; when the prohibition law was amended in 1932 and America went "wet", the criminals turned to gambling. Legalise gambling, these reformers argue, and Costello and Adonis go out of business.

THIS gap between the laws and the citizen is familiar to all countries. In America it is wider than elsewhere because the main influence on, for instance, the gambling law is the puritan ideals of the Pilgrim Fathers, whereas the bulk of the people, Latins, Slavs, Jews, Roman Catholics, and Anglo-Saxons who have not descended from the Pilgrim Fathers, do not in all respects—of which gambling seems to be one—want to live like them. Whether the present outbursts of indignation against crime and corruption will lead to the gap being narrowed, and if so, whether the law or the people's behaviour is going to be altered, remains to be seen.

In the last 150 years there have been several outbursts, but nothing permanent seems to have been done to prevent crime and corruption entering American public life.

ONE reason may be that what should be a non-partisan moral issue has always become a partisan political one, the opposition, which has no more intention of facing the fundamental business of adjusting the law to the public conscience than has the party in power, preferring to pose the whole question as arising from the latter's inefficiency and incompetence rather than from any shortcoming in the people, or in the law which improachable ancestors have bequeathed to them. Public attention therefore has usually been seduced from the basic question towards clamouring for the removal of representatives whose removal, the public is led to believe, will make town or country a better place. And the Americans have so far acquiesced in the seduction because, on the whole, like many other peoples, they prefer to admit that they are badly governed, than to admit that their law is rather too good for them.

IN 1952, election year, this process is well under way. Senator Kefauver himself is leading a revolt within the Democratic Party against President Truman, and hopes to become President. The Republican candidates are making the crime and corruption with which President Truman's Administration has failed to deal the main plank of their platform, and few people would dissent from the opinion that if the Administration were turned out of office it would be mainly because of the crime and corruption issue.

The Senator's book, therefore, may become an important document in the history of American politics. Whether it would go on to become so important in the history of American morals is something which the result of November's election will not automatically decide.

"MAKE THE HOLE A BIT BIGGER AND YOU CAN BURY ME TOO"

How Not To Earn Your Indemnity

(THE CALGARY HERALD)

IT CAN scarcely be calculated how much the citizens of Alberta owe to people like Niles Buchanan, a CCF member of the Saskatchewan legislature.

Mr. Buchanan got up and talked in the Throne speech debate at Regina the other day, and he dragged out a tired old Socialist drum which he proceeded to beat in strict doctinaire fashion. We venture to suggest that every dreary clunk he coaxed out of it cost the people of Saskatchewan some money.

When oil becomes important in Saskatchewan, he said, and as long as the CCF is in power, the citizens are going to benefit. He went on to say that in Alberta the ordinary farmer and labourer had not benefitted. It is fairly well known that this Socialist attitude was responsible for a great deal of exploration money being yanked out of Saskatchewan and transferred to Alberta, with results that are now known all over the world.

It is even more strange that Mr. Buchanan should talk this way when, to the best of our knowledge, he is not attuned to the thinking in the higher realms of his party, which seems to have changed its mind. The last we heard, Saskatchewan was busy devising new oil legislation, using the Alberta legislation as a model.

No doubt profitting by earlier errors, the Saskatchewan government is now anxious to let all the oil people know that the province to their heart's content. No more talk of expropriation, for instance.

As for the people of Alberta not being better off because of oil, we think Mr. Buchanan is either ill-informed or is being deliberately blind. People aren't exactly receiving monthly cheques from an oil-rich government, but a vast new development such as has accompanied oil in Alberta cannot help but make conditions better for every individual in the province in one way or another. New industries, new construction, a greater demand for food and goods and services of all kinds, are all part of the oil picture.

Mr. Buchanan and his like have done Alberta good, but that's not what the people of Saskatchewan are paying them for.

prosperity.

This is precisely the kind of talk which has held back the search for oil in Saskatchewan in recent years, and while the citizens of Alberta have good reason to be grateful for the results of this kind of irresponsible chatter, the citizens of Saskatchewan would surely be happier if people like Mr. Buchanan shut up.

The implications of his remark are all too clear to organizations otherwise anxious to press on with the fabulously expensive pursuit of oil. They can risk huge sums of money, but if they strike oil the CCF government will then step in and take away an unspecified, but doubtless very large, share of the profit. This is a peculiar way to interest anybody in investing in a risky project.

Mental Messiness

SATURDAY NIGHT

THAT was a noble impulse of self-denial that led the arts staff of the university of Toronto to rush forward the other day with an admission of partial responsibility for the high rate of failures in their section of the university, but the "droning out of of old lectures" hasn't a thing to do with the indispensable tools of the English language with something approaching the skill that used to be expected of an educated man. One does not learn to write or utter good and effective English by being lectured to by any number of professors, no matter how eloquent. One learns those things by practice under the instruction of a competent teacher at the proper period of life, and that period is not the third year of a university course.

We suspect that inability to communicate effectively in English—the defect which has been conclusively proved against far too high a percentage of students in practically every university in Canada—is closely connected with inability to receive effectively ideas communicated in the same language, no matter how well the communication of them may be done. A man who does not know where to put the colons and quote marks in a very simple piece of prose set before him without punctuation may not know just how to interpret the same piece of prose, or a similar piece, when uttered for his acceptance by a professor standing at a desk. The sort of inability is a symptom of mental untidiness, which is just as bad a barrier to the reception of ideas as to the expression of them.

It seems clear that the devisers of university-entrance examinations have been accustomed to taking for granted, on the experience of generations long since gone, that a certain amount of skill in the English language would automatically go with the knowledge of facts that enables the student to get the required 40 or 50 per cent of "right answers". It may have done in old times, but today it doesn't. Somebody will have to revive the practice of "teaching English"—and it is not a job that should be left to the professors in universities. For one thing, we can't afford to have a population in which nobody can use decent English except those who have sat under professors.

GOOD ANSWER

A small child was explaining to her younger brother that it was wrong to work on Sunday.

"But what about policemen?" said the boy. "They have to work on Sunday. Don't they go to heaven?"

"Of course not," replied his sister. "They're not needed there."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, how great are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep. A brutish man knoweth not: neither doth a fool understand this.

When the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is that they shall be destroyed for ever: but thou, Lord, art most high for evermore . . .

Those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing: to shew that the Lord is upright: he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him. (Ps. 92: 5-8, 13-15.)

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. (Isa. 55: 7.)

Letter To The Editor

FOR FAIR BY-LAW

Sir: The Examiner's editorial of Mar. 11 issue gave a fair discription of Tree Cutting by-laws, their purpose and so on, which all appeared as described, reasonable enough. But previous descriptions as concocted by councilmen, etc. distinctly laid down monstrous rules and regulations where you could not sell anything except, perhaps, dead trees but stated we could cut some for our own use only! These tactics are what caused the furore and not sensible restrictions. Quite a number vehemently objected to strangling policies as the original draft certainly was. Later another proposed draft came up stating that 10 years ownership permitted you to do just as you wished with the woods. This leaves owners of less than 10 years in a straight jacket. When and if there is ever going to be a sensible and fair law drafted, I'm quite content (with others) to raise hell and object to any unfair laws, but willing at the same time to string along with a just and fair law if and when drafted.

Yours truly,
PRIVATE PROPERTY

Jackson's Mother Sobs At News Of Son's Arrest

NIAGARA FALLS, March 13—(CP). — The mother of Leonard Jackson sobbed Wednesday and said she is sorry for him and for the girl he married.

"I haven't any idea what got into him," said Mrs. Lillian Jackson, a few hours after she learned that her son was shot and captured by police in Montreal on Tuesday night. He is wanted for bank robbery.

"He was a pretty good boy," the mother said. "Yes, he was a very good boy. He didn't go very far in school because he was only 17 when he joined the Army. But he wasn't bad."

Mrs. Jackson said she was unaware her son had married an English girl two months ago. She hasn't seen him since last summer when his visit was prompted by an accident. She was injured when a car overturned near Sudbury.

Mrs. Jackson, widow of a stationary engineer, operates a beauty parlor here. Once Leonard joined her in partnership after taking a hairdressing course with his Veterans Affairs Department credits.

"He was good at it too," she said. "But he was restless — he wanted to go to the larger places."

Japan Airline Big Success

NEW YORK, March 13. — Japan's first post-war airline has been termed an outstanding success. Named the Nippon Koku Kabushiki Kaisha, it is also known as the Japan Air Lines Company. It was set up last October to provide air service between key cities on the four main islands.

Its planes, flown and maintained by Northwest Airlines, are being crowded by Japanese, who are finding that schedules cut many hours from train travel and that fares are comparably lower. Load factors have been reported to be better than 80 per cent.

Service is patterned largely after that of United States air carriers. Japanese stewardesses look after the comfort of the passengers. Tickets are available in 80 offices located in principal cities of Japan.

Northwest Airlines was named recently by the Supreme Command of the Allied Powers to take over the operation of the intra-Japan airline. When the Japan Air Lines Company receives the four twin-engined planes it has purchased from Northwest, its fleet will consist of three four-engined DC-4's and six twin-engined craft.

Petes Three Up On Hawks After a 7-4 Triumph In Senior "B" Semi-Finals

Pulling out a 7-4 victory over Belleville Hawks here last night before a thousand fans, the Petes went ahead three games to nothing in their O.H.A. best-of-seven senior "B" group semi-finals. The fourth fray will be on Belleville ice this Friday. Eagles failed to make the trip to play in Kingston in the other semi-final bracket, protesting Kingston's use of Goalie Sammy MacDonald. Belleville also has protested the Petes for using players in this series from the junior Oddfellows.

Petes led 1-0 in the first frame, and had a 3-1 bulge going into the third, the only exciting period of the game. While play generally was fast and clean, it did not produce good or exciting hockey till the last session. The Petes have the duke. Both goalies were good, Leforte having more work to do and he was shaken up a few times in scrambles on his doorstep. Curly Mason had his shoulder banged early but returned to action shortly.

SCORES PAIR — Don Floyd scored two goals for Petes here last night as they downed the Quinte Hawks 7-4 to go three up on their opponents in the senior "B" semi-final round.

Led The Snipers

Don Floyd notched two of the Petes' tallies, the others going to Curly Mason, Junior West, Gus Leonard, Arn Dugan and Ted Collins. West aided on a pair, with single assists marked to Collins, Peters, Dugan, Bill Stewart, Mason, Gus Leonard and Red Robinson. Quinte counters were Huck Reeves, Red Doran, Keith MacDonald and Peter Jones. An assist apiece went to Jones, Bastedo, Moher, Jackie Wardhaugh, Vern Goyer and Doran.

Play was speedy but ragged in the initial inning, with the Petes having more shots on net. Mason was banged up early but didn't stay out long. The Petes used their bodies effectively and each goalie in turn kicked out some hot thrusts. Reeves came close just before Floyd backhanded home a hot angle drive partly screened from defence. A Mason-Dugan stab nearly paid off and then, with Collins off for tripping, Hawks swarmed in but couldn't beat Harding. Day went off with a cut near the eye. West just missed on a breakaway. MacDonald drew a high-sticking penalty and Moher followed for tripping to leave them shy two, but no damage resulted.

Played Better

Better hockey was seen in a fairly close middle chukker. A drive by Gus Leonard and Stewart saw Leforte pull a fine save, though he was shaken up plenty for a space. Floyd got in shortly to bat home his own rebound with Maurice sprawling after a neat in-close pass from Collins to make it 2-0. Semark went over for tripping and Reeves, trying to clear the puck down the ice, hoisted a high one that bounced through Harding's pads into the net. The fluke shot was from Reeves' own side of the red line. It was even for a space with each goalie being tested and, after Steele served a penalty for elbowing, Mason smacked the disc into the mesh in a close-in scramble with West and Peters to make it 3-1. Stewart just missed on a breakaway as Hawks flew up.

Early in the third, Doran cuffed home a nice one on swell combination inside with Jones and Bastedo. Hawks kept pouring in and MacDonald tied it up on good passing from Moher and Wardhaugh right through. It was hot and even for a space till West scored from the side at the crease edge on Dugan's pass. Gus Leonard added one with a backhander at point-blank range with Stewart's passout. Jones tallied then from Goyer and Doran on a marker that the Petes vainly argued came in the crease. Dugan got it back as the Petes pressed on a swell finish inside, shooting as he fell, after short passes from Mason and West. Peters and Moher returned from a rest for high-sticking, and Belleville drove hard, but Collins counted the last one in close on dandy work with Robinson and Earl Leonard. Teams:

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

in the week that this fixed bonspiel proceeds, the more interesting the games become. Yesterday's games were chuck full of excitement. Fred Stenson's rink, that qualified for the Empress Hotel Trophy, won two of his three games by an extra end, and that game between Stenson and Greagory of Lindsay, was a pippin. Greagory, behind all the way, tied up the game and it was all square coming home. The 11th end was well played—first one had the advantage and then the other. The experts upstairs—and that's where the real experts are—were kept guessing until the Lindsay skip missed with his last stone.

Over an ice no seven, in the Eaton Trophy, N. Hawley, down one going home, pulled the old hat trick, counted three and that was that.

The rinks qualifying for the finals on Friday are:

Empress Hotel Trophy — J. Brown and F. Stenson both from Peterborough.

Calvert Trophy—O. Thurston, Bobcaygeon; H. Hamblin, Peterborough.

Eaton Trophy—N. Hamley and G. Gobel, both of Peterborough.

G. K. Fraser Trophy—B. James, Lindsay.

The draw for the leads and seconds for next Wednesday night is posted.

The final vice-skip game will be between A. Yelland and A. Jones.

Apsley Leads Point

YOUNG'S POINT, March 13—(ENS)—The third game of the Kawartha League finals was played in Lakefield Wednesday night with Apsley the winners 9-7. This puts Apsley ahead in the series two games to one.

The first goal came from the stick of D. Heard, and G. Watson tied it up on a pass from B. Houle. About midway in the period J. Murray (B. Houle) made it 2-1 for Apsley. B. Houle was sent off for elbowing and D. Heard tied the score at 13.48.

Play was quite even throughout the second frame with five goals being scored. G. Watson (Howden) got the first, but D. McIsaac tied it once more. D. Tucker was given a hooking penalty. V. Tucker (Murray) scored and D. Heard received a hooking penalty. D. Jacobs scored for the Point and K. Delahaye netted one to make the score 5-4 at the end of the second period.

Apsley changed goalies for the third period, K. Delahaye relieving A. Wagner. G. Watson (Howden) got his third goal of the night and B. Howden added another at 5.25. E. Tedford went off for tripping and J. Murray followed for slashing. Church (Russelle) scored for the Point. Shortly after Murray went off for tripping and Watson scored from Houle. About a minute later Russelle (D. Heard) scored and Howden got Apsley's final goal. Church (Heard) scored for Young's Point to make the final score 9-7 for Apsley.

Apsley—Goal, A. Wagner; defence, J. Murray, K. Delahaye; forwards, B. Howden, B. Houle, G. Watson; Alternates, K. Brown, L. Smith, J. Post, J. Tucker, D. Tucker, V. Tucker.

Young's Point—Goal, B. Kyle; defence, E. Tedford, S. McNaughton; forwards, D. Heard, C. Russelle, J. Church; alternates, J. Darling, D. Jacobs, D. McIsaac, C. Freeburn, R. Freeburn, J. Barber, D. Hogarth, P. Heard.

Girls' basketball playoffs resume tomorrow evening in the Y.W.C.A., starting at eight. Lindsay plays Black's, and have a nine-point lead on their semi-final round, while C.G.E. meets Nurses and will try to protect a two-point lead. Neill's and Normals have byes till next week. Two lively tussles should result in the Friday night twin bill, and more fans — and noisier ones, at that — should take in these tilts and whoop it up. Cheering fans make players hustle more. P.C.V.S. senior and junior boys are off to Toronto on Saturday for morning and afternoon C.O.S.S.A. cage playoffs.

Soon be Stanley Cup time again and raucous radio broadcasts of these hockey games. Brantford scribe writes: "[illegible] broadcasts it is not so. Some of these imaginative broadcasts are strange enough. How some people listen to the airing of hockey games is beyond us. Up and down the rink with amplified adjectives as a player shoots, coupled with oohs and ahs, get so tiresome. We know some chaps who take a battery-radio set to the Gardens just to see how imaginative the radio man, who is at the scene, can get. For shut-ins, interested in a game, it's the best they can get, so let the fun continue."

Puck Semi-Finals Here

Provincial minor puck playoffs go tonight in Civic Arena, beginning at 6.30 of the clock. It's Marboros vs. St. Peter's bantams, then the midget Marlboros vs. Martin-Hewitt, and the windup juvenile joust betwixt Toronto Downsview and Outboard Marines. First two games are openers of the two-game O.M.H.A. semi-finals of the "A" category, with returns listed later at Maple Leaf Gardens. But the juvenile tilt is the last one of the semi-finals, Marines being down one goal. Some swell hockey will be served up in this triple-header, so come out and cheer the lads along. They'll play better and they rate support as they aim for Ontario finals. You'll enjoy it, too.

* * * * * *

The Petes made it three straight by downing Belleville 7-4 here last night, fourth of their best-of-seven senior "B" semi-finals being on Quinte ice tomorrow. With playoffs come protests, and we hear the Hawks are protesting to the O.H.A. on the Petes using juniors from the Oddfellows in this series. They claim only a sponsoring club can take up juniors. Another headache for the O.H.A., one supposes. The Ellis squad got going in the second period and staved off a late drive by Hawks to earn the duke in a clean and fairly fast tussle. Ron Horton is sidelined the rest of the season, Chum Fryia may be out a spell with an injured knee, and Freddy Garvey is a flu victim. But they had enough on deck to win, and they hope to wrap it up on the morrow.

* * * * * *

Didn't Play Kingston

Eagles didn't go to Kingston last night, having notified the Sacs as well as the O.H.A. that they wouldn't play the K's again if Goalie Sammy MacDonald took part in the game. Nothing further has been learned at this writing, and there is no word on a possible Friday night game here. What the outcome of this mixup and the Eagles' protest will be remains to be seen. Prexy Jack Roxburgh of the O.H.A. points out that there is an exception to signing a player after the deadline—that a goalie may be replaced at any time with O.H.A. permission provided he has a doctor's certificate to prove that he has been seriously injured or is too ill to play. It seems Kingston obtained such a certificate for Goalie Dougall.

* * * * * *

Dougall was injured about the middle of January, and only now does Kingston bring in a replacement, having used spare goalie Anderson since Dougall left the game. The K's argue that they waited several weeks to see if Dougall would return to action and then they took a few more weeks hunting around for a suitable replacement. It stretches the credulity but evidently is legal, so Eagles' only chance seems to be to prove that MacDonald played senior "A" this year in the Maritimes—in which case he could not transfer to senior "B". We couldn't find out this a.m. whether or not the O.H.A. considers Eagles defaulted last night or when the Eagles' protest will be considered. No doubt it'll all come out in the wash shortly.

Few Upsets In Winnipeg Badminton Play

By AL VICKERY.

WINNIPEG, March 13 (CP) — Upsets were few Wednesday in the opening round of the Canadian badminton championships at the smart Winnipeg Badminton Club. Play in all open events got down to the quarter-finals.

Probably the biggest upset was the defeat of third-seeded Bev Westcott of Toronto by 1950 champion Al Williams of Calgary, making a comeback after sitting out competitions last year.

Williams took the measure of the eastern ace, 15-12, 15-7, to advance into the eights, where he will meet Dave McTaggart, 19-year-old British Columbia champion from Vancouver.

Other matches in the quarter-finals will see defending champion Darryl Thompson go against Jack Muir of Toronto; Ken Forsythe of Winnipeg against fourth-seeded Gordon Simpson of Montreal; and John Bouck of Vancouver against second-seeded Don Smythe of Toronto.

Women's Singles

In the women's singles, top-seeded Marge Shedd of Toronto will take on Joanne Legger of Saskatoon, while second-ranking Marj Mapp of Montreal meets Vi O'Grady of Winnipeg.

Other quarter-final games are: Mrs. Jean Bardsley of Vancouver against Jean Warren of Toronto; and Lois Reid of Vancouver against Clair Lovett, also of Vancouver.

Defending champions and top-seeded pair, Gordon Simpson and Dick Birch of Toronto are expected to have their hands full in the eights of the men's doubles Friday night when they meet Forsythe and Williams.

Grant Henry of Toronto and Tom Matthews of Winnipeg play the highly-regarded Muir and Bev Westcott. Thompson and Bert Jones of Vancouver take on Winnipeg's John Carter and Jack Ewbank, who scored a mild upset last night by defeating Andy Simpson and Lucien Soucy of [illegible]

SETS SKI RECORD — Bob Dawson, 20-year-old Banff skier, won the 1952 North American Downhill ski championship in the international ski tournament at Banff, Alta. Dawson, a native of Saskatoon, clipped almost seven seconds from the course record when he flashed down the 1½ mile course in one minute, 54.4 seconds. The former course record of 2.01 was set in 1950 by Andre Bertrand of Quebec city. Dawson's record time also was nearly nine seconds faster than that of Italy's Zeno Colo, 1950 world and 1952 Olympic Downhill champion, who ran the Banff course in 203.3.

Flyers Down Providence 7-4

Rangers Knock Off Hawks 10-2 To Tie With Bruins

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens can knock each other's brains out to decide which is to meet—or avoid—Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League playoffs. But of topical interest is that last-stretch drive for fourth place, and a chunk of the playoff money. It's a private duel between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins. The blueshirts knocked Chicago Black Hawks silly Wednesday night to win 10-2 and advance into a point-tie with the Bruins. The game, at Madison Square Garden, put Rangers one game up in games over the beantowners but the games-played column will be squared tonight when Bruins take a crack at the hapless Hawks.

Chicago has won only 15 of its 63 games to date and the team, which held Canadiens to a 4-4 draw last Saturday, is about due to snap out of it and show home-town fans that, after all, it still is in the league. It has some dillies coming up, a weekend double-header against Detroit.

It was a fairly-close game at New York Wednesday night for two periods with Rangers leading 3-1. Chicago got its second goal early in the third session but the New Yorkers roared back for seven more.

It was the highest goal output by one team in the N.H.L. this season and Rangers broke their own league record for the fastest four goals in one game—two minutes and 10 seconds. The old record was two minutes, 33 seconds, accomplished twice by Rangers in the 1941-42 season.

Wally Hergesheimer scored three goals—all in the big third period—to lead the scoring parade. Ed Slowinski netted twice and singles went to Herb Dickenson, Edgar Laprade, Don Raleigh, Reg Sinclair and Ed Kullman.

Bill Mosienko scored his 26th goal of the season for the Hawks late in the second period and Jimmy Peters beat Emile (The Cat) Francis on a passing play with Bill Gadsby and Jim McFadden in the third.

Sport Greats At Big Dinner

By JACK SULLIVAN.

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — North America's sports greats and near-greats will honor Canada's crippled children tonight.

Some of these sports page heroes made the world's headlines when father was a boy, others are of comparative recent vintage. All are known to Canadian sports fans and a few to sports followers from Moscow to Moosonee.

They are here from various parts of the United States and Canada to attend the first annual sports celebrity dinner, sponsored by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association. It marks the opening of the Easter seals campaign for crippled children across the country and proceeds from the $25-a-plate dinner, about $10,000, will be given to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

The dinner is a sell-out with the 417 places taken up more than a week ago. Sportsmen in Canada and the U.S. have picked up the tab for getting the celebrities here and home again and also for the costs of staging the big show, which will be an annual event.

The head-table list is representative of practically every major sport. Among the 22 sportsmen are Jim Thorpe, Jack Dempsey, Lionel Conacher, Bill Cook, Newsy Lalonde, King Clancy,

Sportsmen's Show To Draw 200,000

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — A show that grew in four years to become recognized as one of North America's finest springtime sports exhibitions is expected to draw more than 200,000 persons this year.

Included in the 200,000 will be five managers of United States sportsmen's shows to see how the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show is run. They will be on hand when the eight-day show opens Friday.

The exhibition made a profit of $45,000 in 1951—all of it devoted to conservation work throughout Ontario.

Humans will not be the only U.S. visitors at the show. Prize dogs from several States are expected to compete in the two dog shows being held during the last four days, March 19, 20, 21 and 22.

Outstanding Ontario and Quebec canines will also take part.

Preston Scout Trumpet Band, of Indian braves from the Six Nations Reservation near Brantford will participate in the show-opening ceremonies. An authentic Indian village will be on display during the whole show.

Other features will be a travel show, a boat show, a fashion exhibition, tuna fishing, a live mermaid in a goldfish bowl, a sports demonstration area, African animals, a hand-carved miniature city and a stage and tank revue.

Saturday, March 15, a group of 20 leading fly-casters from Buffalo and district will compete with a crack Canadian team of fly and bait casters in a competition arranged by Jack Bishop, president of the International Angling and Casting Association.

During the show, special trains and chartered buses will bring thousands of visitors from Peterborough, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Kitchener and other centres.

Teams Announced For Badminton Play

WINNIPEG, March 13 (CP)—Teams were announced Wednesday for the competitions deciding provincial badminton supremacy.

Play is based on a point system for each named player reaching the semi-finals, two for the finals and one for each winner. Winner of the Manitoba trophy last year was British Columbia.

Following are the Ontario competitors:

Women's singles, Marge Shedd; men's singles, Don Smythe; women's doubles, Barbara Ince and Joan Warren; men's doubles, Bud Porter and Don Smythe; mixed doubles, Barbara Ince and Dick Birch.

Jack Sharkey Traded Gloves For Fishing Rod

NEW YORK (AP).—In about a month the ice will be out of Maine's lakes and streams and Jack Sharkey will head for Lake Sebago to renew his acquaintance with a lot of fish.

"Anyone who loves the outdoors will never get in trouble," says the big guy who lifted the world heavyweight boxing crown from Germany's Max Schmeling 20 years ago come June 21.

Sharkey, born Joseph Paul Zukauskas in Binghamton, N. Y., is one of the attractions at the Annual Sportsmen's Show.

What does he do?

"I appear twice a day at the water tank (a big portable affair the size of a swimming pool) and do some fly-casting.

"Then I flick a cigarette out of a guy's mouth 60 feet away."

Sharkey's nearing 50, but still looks as if he could flatten many of the pugilists masquerading as heavyweights these days.

"I've been fishing practically all my life, but didn't start fly casting until 1926," he says.

How long does it take to learn how to flick cigarettes out of people's mouths?

"Look, pal, I can still take lessons there."

Sharkey spends January, February and March each year on the sportsmen's show circuit. The rest of the time it's up in the woods with rod and reel.

"Sebago, Moosehead, then up to Nova Scotia for some trout, and over to New Brunswick for the salmon. I used to spend a small fortune to do what they pay me to do now.

"And, you don't get punched on the chin in this business," he added.

Indians Crush Brantford 10-2, Take Semi-Final

By The Canadian Press.

Stratford Indians won a spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals Wednesday night when they defeated Brantford Redmen 10-2 to take the best-of-seven semi-final series 4-3.

Indians now play Owen Sound Mercurys in the first game of the final Friday night at Stratford.

St. Catharines Teepees moved into the semi-finals of the O.H.A. Junior A circuit by beating Kitchener Green shirts 5-1 at St. Catharines. The win gave Teepees a 3-1 edge in games in their best-of-five series and a crack at Toronto St. Michaels. The game may be played in Toronto Saturday.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group final, North Bay Black Hawks forced a sixth game in what was to have been a best-of-five series by defeating Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 5-4.

The teams now have won two games each and tied one. The deciding game will be played on neutral ice at Sudbury Thursday night.

Goal Getters

The five goals which gave St. Catharines its win were scored by Orv Tessier, Hank Ciesla, Brian Cullen, Buddy Boone, and Gord Myles. Joe Ingoldsby scored Kitchener's only counter.

At Stratford, Mickey Roth was top scorer for Indians with three goals. Dinny Flanagan had two and singletons were scored by Bill Walsh, Bruce Burdett, Jack White, Larry Lemenchick and Ken Ducharme. Brantford Redmen went scoreless until the third period when Lloyd Ferguson scored twice.

The Black Hawks at North Bay used Fred Valenti, Bill Dwyer, Frank Ringler, Rick Hogg and Ralph Orlando for their goals. Terry Biocchi scored three for the losing Greyhounds and Roy Heximer the other.

Chambers Aims At 20 Victories

By JOE REICHLER.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13 (AP).—Cliff Chambers, the tall, talented lefthander of St. Louis Cardinals, thinks he will be a big winner this year because he finally has landed with a winning club.

Chambers, 30, has set a goal of 18 to 20 victories for himself, provided the club goes well.

The most he's won in one season up to now is the 14 he captured last year. Eleven of these came after the Cardinals obtained him from Pittsburgh last June.

"I won 42 games in two years on the coast," said Chambers, "and I see no reason why I can't win here. . . I'm more experienced, more mature. I have a better curve ball, thanks to the teachings of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen."

"Brecheen gave me some sound philosophy on pitching. He said if you're not winning 20 games, you're just an ordinary run-of-the-mill pitcher. And if you've got any pride and ambition, you should do something different. I subscribe to that wholeheartedly."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

New York's ancient conflicting "blue laws" were scrapped by the Legislature in Albany Wednesday—clearing the way for locally-approved Sunday stock car races and other sports and recreational events.

The Senate passed the repealer bill without debate and sent it to Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

The measure would remove the Sunday ban against participation sports such as golf, tennis, fishing and hunting.

It also would give communities the power to permit spectator sports such as auto races and recreational events such as circuses.

The measure would not affect the provisions in the Sunday laws that permit baseball, football, hockey, bowling, basketball and movies after 2 p.m.

Jimmy Carter, world's lightweight champion, knocked some of the steam out of Luther Rawling's championship aspirations Wednesday night by winning a split 10-round decision in a non-title bout in Chicago.

In Milan, Italy, Edmonton Mercurys, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, defeated the Milan Red-Black Devils 11-1 Wednesday night.

Wilmer Fields, who hits, fields and pitches a baseball with equal skill, will return to the Inter-county Baseball League this summer. Brantford Red Sox have announced that their star performer in the league last year has been signed and will report here about April 20.

Fields was reported a few weeks ago to have signed with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, but he said he had decided that by playing with Brantford, he would be a free agent. He plans to play ball in South America next winter again.

The New York State Legislature voted Wednesday in Albany to levy a 15-per-cent state tax on admissions at the State's six harness tracks. The admissions levy now is collected only at flat tracks. Extension of the tax law to cover harness tracks is expected to net about $600,000 annually in extra state revenue. A total of 4,217,450 persons attended harness tracks last year.

McGill University's top sports award, the Major Stuart Forbes Trophy, Wednesday night was awarded to starry football and basketball player Dave Caldwell of Manchester, Conn., who, fourth holder of the award, given to the player who best combines athletic ability and sportsmanship, is a member of the graduating class in medicine.

JUMPING JIM-INY — Jim Brasco, N.Y.U.'s star scorer, springs high over Jerry McCloskey's head to keep the Violets in the game against Notre Dame at Madison Square Garden. The Irish won in overtime, however, 75-74.

ROBBED—Young Ed Wadley, local Clearwater, Fla., boy, almost picks himself off a souvenir baseball, but Outfieder Richie Ashburn makes a sensational leaping snare to rob the batter out of an extra-base hit during a Philadelphia Philly intra-squad game. Anyway, it looks good.

Norrie Appointed N.Z. Gov.-General

LONDON, March 13 (CP). — Appointment of Lt.-Gen. Sir Willoughby Norrie as Governor-General of New Zealand was announced at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night. British-born Norrie, now Governor of South Australia, succeeds Lt.-Gen. Lord Freyberg.

The son of a soldier, Norrie is 58 and was educated at Eton and Sandhurst.

Lord Freyberg, a New Zealander, has been Governor-General since 1946.

Norrie became Governor of South Australia in 1944 after commanding the 30th Corps in the Western Desert. He was wounded four times during his military service—which started in 1913 — and won the Distinguished Service Cross and the Military Cross and Bar.

The new Governor-General led British armored units in the early [illegible] Korps in Libya. He became the British Army's youngest major-general in 1940 when he was 46.

In Libya he gained the reputation of penetrating farther behind enemy lines than any other senior British officer. Several times he narrowly missed capture.

Lord Freyberg, 62, served at Gallipoli in the First World War and in the Western Desert in the last war. He won the Victoria Cross in 1916. He became a baron last year.

Miss Annie Young

HAVELOCK, March 13 (ENS) —Funeral service for Miss Annie Ida Young was held this afternoon on her 90th birthday at the home of her niece, Mrs. William Smith, and was conducted by the Rev. R. G. Newman. Burial was in Rockdale cemetery.

Pallbearers were Harold Smith, Albert Smith of Havelock, Roy Young, Russell Young, Clarence Young and Jack Torrance, of Campbellford.

Miss Young's death on Tuesday evening came as a shock to her friends in Havelock and district. Following a cerebral hemorrhage, she had been in a coma for six days prior to her death. Born at Rockdale, near Cordova Mines, she is the last of a family of 12 children. Her parents were the late William Edward Young and Marie Campion. Miss Young's paternal grandmother, formerly Mary Anne Tully, of Wetherald Abbey, Cumberland, England, was a daughter of the Duke of Cumberland.

Miss Young, a graduate of the Ottawa Normal School, followed school teaching as a vocation and part of her career of 50 years in the profession was spent in Western Canada. She returned to Havelock in 1935, having lived for a time in Cobourg prior to that. For the last seven years she had made her home with her niece, Mrs. William Smith. She was a member of Havelock United Church, a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of which she had been the temperance secretary for many years. She was also a life member of the Upper Canada Bible Society. While interested in all departments of church work she was particularly active in mission work, having had two sisters who served as missionaries. Her youngest sister, Grace, married Dr. William E. Smith, and went with him to China, where they worked for over a quarter of a century.

The other sister, Miss Hannah Young, worked many years among the Indians in British Columbia.

Surviving are 27 nieces and nephews.

Catching Diseases Cases Number 110

There were 110 reported cases of communicable diseases in Peterborough during February.

This figure was quoted by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., in his report at the Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

The breakdown of this total was: chickenpox, 53; German measles, 15; measles, four; mumps, 37; septic sore throat, one.

Sixteen child health clinics were held during the month with a total attendance of 406. In January there were 12 clinics held with a total attendance of 323.

Dr. Kelly explained that the increased number of people applying for chest X-rays in the bi-monthly clinics financed by the Peterborough Tuberculosis Association had become so great that they could not be satisfactorily operated. As a result arrangements have been made with the local hospitals for additional [illegible] were operated weekly and the four clinics had a total attendance of 177.

Publicity Topic At Bethany W.I. Meeting

BETHANY, March 13 (ENS).—The Bethany branch of the Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting in the Orange Hall on Monday night. Mrs. W. H. Armstrong of Millbrook, district president, visited the branch and discussed the different phases of Institute work. She stressed the value of community activities and announced the district annual meeting would be held at Elizabethville this year on May 28. Included in her talk were suggestions for publicity, ways to improve interest in meetings, suggestions for roll calls and the proper procedure for writing up local historical events to be incorporated in "Tweedsmuir Histories." She was introduced and thanked by Mrs. H. L. Challice.

Mrs. Mansell Finney, convener for community activities and public relations gave a talk on this subject saying in part: "Publicity means bringing before the public in concise form information concerning the work of the branch and this may be done through the medium of the press, or by mail and telephone. Advertising surely pays as is proven by the large amount of this matter seen in the daily papers and magazines. If advertising is so beneficial to the merchant, so it must be with an organization."

Mrs. H. Rayson gave a reading "The Legend of St. Patrick." Mrs. Orlo Wright read an article on "Leap Year Superstitions." Mrs. E. Lamb and Mrs. H. Rayson sang three Irish melodies, "Mother Machree," "They Called It Ireland" and "Galway Bay" accompanied by Miss Gladys Bigelow. A pictograph floral contest was won by Mrs. Ralph Preston.

Mrs. H. L. Challice presided for the opening exercises and the business session. Mrs. H. Sanderson read the minutes and correspondence which included an invitation to attend the Achievement Day for junior girls to be held at Orono on April 5 and a letter from Miss A. Lewis regarding the new extension services for homemakers. Mrs. R. W. Price reported attending the regular session accompanied by Mrs. H. Sanderson with regards to some renovations in the town hall basement, and reported that the council are having a new entry door cut in the basement; further improvements would be made when this was completed. Final plans were made for the progressive euchre party and basket social to be held on March 17. Mrs. H. L. Challice was appointed as leader of the Junior Girls Garden Club with Mrs. T. Jennigs as assistant. Mrs. Finney announced that the Glad I Canner Club, which is sponsored by the Women's Institute would hold a supper in the United Church Sunday school room on March 22, serving a menu typical of what they had learned in this year's course of "Nutritional Supper Dishes."

The president expressed the good wishes of the members for a safe and pleasant journey to Mrs. T. S. Gault, who is leaving next week to visit with her family in England. As a friendly gesture, the branch is sending along a parcel of rationed food items.

During the social hour which followed, Mrs. M. Finney, Mrs. H. Rayson, Mrs. L. Driver and Mrs. R. Palmer served lunch.

Canada Strongly Represented In Today's Fast-Growing Brazil

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There's a lot of Canada in Brazil.

There are a lot of Canadians, too—people from the Maritmes to British Columbia, who have made their homes there.

And, to date, both Canada and Canadians in that immense and friendly country, may be described for the greater part in the long name and huge operations of Power Co., Ltd.

For Brazilian Traction is a romance of Canadian enterprise, started some 50 years ago, which has given Canada a tremendous entry into Brazil.

It is Canada's largest industrial company, next to her railroads. It is her greatest private investment abroad. And, at the same time, it is Brazil's largest industrial operation.

The company's head office is in Toronto, with a strong maritme accent in its top ranks, and its shares are held largely by Canadians; in operation, it is an example, and aims at becoming an increasing example, of co-operation between Brazilians and Canadians.

Name Misleading

Its rather misleading name stems from the fact that it had its origins in a street railway; but today its main job is to supply 65 per cent of all the electric power, generated in Brazil, and 80 per cent of Brazil's telephone services.

That is a big opportunity, compounded with headaches—for Brazil, embarked upon a seemingly endless expansion, has an insatiable appetite for electric power and telephones.

These things and many others were observed in a recent trip to Brazil by a group of Canadians and Americans, of whom this writer was one; and this column, for a few days, will tell something of what we saw.

We saw, it is true, a lot of dams, power stations, reservoirs, and we were guests at many luncheons and dinners.

But we also saw and met many people—Brazilians and Canadians. We saw something of "Carnival", that great four-day out-pouring of gaiety which preceeds Lent. We saw what is described as the most beautiful city in the world, Rio De Janeiro, and we swam in the surf of its shining beaches. And we saw the fastest growing city in the world, Sao Paulo.

Size Of Canada

Brazil is a country roughly the size of Canada or the United States ica. It has a population of more than 52,000,000 people, nearly four times that of Canada, or as many people as are in all other countries of South America put together.

It extends from 300 miles north of the Equator to 2,300 miles south of it. Its north embraces the Equatorial Amazon basin. Its southern cattle lands, at about the same latitude in the south as the Carolinas of the United States in the north, see a bit of snow in winter. It borders every South American country except Chile and Ecuador.

Its form of government is patterned on that of the United States of America, with a president, a congress elected by universal suffrage, and a judiciary. It has 20 States, four territories, and the Federal district of Rio De Janeiro. Its language is Portuguese. It has mineral riches, but what has been found must be very small compared to what must lie untapped underground.

In brief, it is a great land of today which must, inevitably, be a much greater land of tomorrow, which we should know much better than we do.

Haig Complains Tax On Ability Kills Incentive

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — The Senate's opposition leader said Wednesday the federal government's policy of taxing a man on his ability was one which destroys the incentive to produce.

Senator John T. Haig said a man who has the brains to earn $40,000 a year was taxed two or three times as much as one whose brains would only bring him $20,000 under the same circumstances.

He was critical of Finance Minister Abbott's $700,000,000 surplus and of the finance minister's recent statements criticizing certain "pressure groups" for trying to influence his taxation policies.

Senator Haig said the people have a right to make demands. If that were stopped democracy would cease to operate. He did not want to see Canada get into the position where the government believed itself supreme and above the people.

Can't See Crime

Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, said he did not see the "enormity of the crime" in Mr. Abbott's surplus, estimated at $721,000,000 for the first nine months of the fiscal year, even though the finance minister had originally estimated only a $30,000,000 surplus.

Some $200,000,000 in defence orders had not yet arrived from the United States and now were not expected until beyond the present fiscal year. This accounted for the major part of the surplus.

Senator Robertson did not see what sounder step could have been taken than in using some of the surplus to pay off the country's debt, thereby escaping heavy interest charges.

Senator Haig said payment of debt was not the answer to the charge of excessive taxation. The country was spending more than ever before and heavy taxation meant inflation.

B.C. May Ease Embargo On Livestock

British Columbia may ease its ban on livestock from the Prairies within a few days.

Agriculture Minister Bowman told the B.C. Legislature Wednesday that some cattle may soon be allowed to enter the province from Alberta on a permit basis. The cattle would be inspected, and imported under bond. B.C.'s border has been closed to importation of livestock and meat for two weeks because of the foot-and-mouth outbreak in Saskatchwan.

Th Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Newfoundland Legislature predicted the most prosperous year in the province's history. It was the first session since Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberals were returned in last November's general election.

The speech, read by Justice Sir Brian Dunfield in the absence of Lt.-Governor Sir Leonard Outerbridge, said a new machinery plant will go into operation, and there will be a drive toward mineral development including potential oil fields on the island's west coast.

A Bill to set the maximum leave of absence for Alberta civil servants who join the armed forces at six years was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday. At present they are eligible for indefinite leave of absence.

Would Amend Act

Another measure would amend the Mines and Mineral Act to delete regulations governing leasing and disposal of sand and gravel. These regulations were made obsolete by legislation approved a year ago making sand and gravel a part of surface rights and not mineral rights.

Attorney-General J. W. Corman told the Saskatchewan Legislature that if another constitutional conference was called, his department would never consent to any alteration to the British North America Act giving veto power to any province.

The Nova Scotia Legislature concluded the Throne-Speech debate with Mines Minister Alex McKinnon giving a review of Opposition criticism. He disagreed with Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield on the extent of provincial aid to municipalities. He said the province pays about 66 per cent of the cost of municipal services, about 10 per cent more than the average for the country.

The New Brunswick Legislature held only a 35-minute session and then made the chamber available for the decennial auction of angling rights. The budget will be brought down today by Provincial Treasurer J. G. Boucher.

Singer Knocked Out

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 13—(Reuters)—Opera singer John Brownlee was knocked unconscious Wednesday night by a falling spotlight on the stage of the city theatre. Report 85 Plants Build Airplanes Across Russia

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP).—Russia has about 85 aircraft factories and more than 28 engine plants and probably produced 22,000 planes—half of them fighters—last year, the technical and trade magazine Aviation Age said Wednesday.

It added that the plants are well scattered, from Smolensk and Kiev in the west all the way across the vast country to Kamchatka Peninsula, north of Japan.

But the only three of large size are in the west, one near Gorki, southeast of Moscow, one in Moscow, and the largest at Tiflis, a short plane-hop from the Turkish border.

The Tiflis plant is reported to employ 30,000 workers and to produce almost 17 per cent. of the current output of airframes. The Gorki plant probably accounts for about 15 per cent. of production.

Aviation Age said its information came from "foreign sources." Its list of factory cities included four—Strukovsk, Tratyako, Repinsk-Gorki and Tempi—which it was unable to locate, "even with the services of the American Geographic Society and the National Geographic Society."

The magazine said these are the up-to-date facts about the Soviet aircraft industry:

1. There are 15 large, 30 medium and 40 smaller plants producing airframes, "an imposing array of industrial strength."
2. Russia's ministry for aircraft industry supervises 360 factories which do all or most of their work for the Red air force.
3. Contributing industries include about 20 rubber factories and 15 to 18 large aluminum plants.
4. About 15 larger and an indeterminate number of smaller plants produce jet engines and piston engines simultaneously, while another 13 plants manufacture piston engines only. The average annual output of a plant is 3,600 engines.
5. But for bottlenecks in three branches of production — aluminum, engines and precision tools—an annual output of from 50,000 to 60,000 Russian planes "could be assumed without fear of exaggeration."
6. With a peak production of 63,000 engines produced in 1951, construction of multi-engined aircraft is severely limited and "it can be seriously doubted whether the Soviet Union ever will be able to build a powerful strategic (heavy bomber) air force under such conditions."

Aviation Age estimated 1951 production at 10,700 fighters, 530 reconnaissance planes, 3,060 light and medium bombers, 1,246 heavy bombers, 1,430 transport aircraft and 5,000 trainers and liaison aircraft.

(The Aircraft Industries Association estimates U.S. production last year totalled 5,000 planes and 20,000 engines.

(There are 27 relatively large U.S. airframe factories and about 15 smaller ones, some 30 other companies building major subsections and other parts, and about 20 major engine plants and at least 15 smaller producers of

Overjoyed By Relief From Bad Stomach Disorders

Gives All Credit to Syntona Herbal Compound for Present Good Health. Now Also Free of Dizzy Spells, Rheumatic Pain and Tired, Rundown Feeling.

MR. JOSEPH BELLAND

"For six years I was troubled very badly with stomach disorders, and my entire system became rundown, but I am like a different person since taking a short treatment of Syntona," said Mr. Joseph Belland, 184 Simcoe Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"I actually began to feel better even after the first few days that I was taking this medicine. So, I kept right on and now instead of my food souring and bloating my stomach with gas, it digests thoroughly and gives me nourishment and strength.

"I never feel short of breath any more nor have sick bilious spells which were so bad they used to scare me at times. My sleep is more sound and restful and I get up mornings feeling more refreshed. I do not feel all tired out during the day as I did before.

"Then, too, I used to suffer from bad rheumatic pain and soreness all through my limbs, joints and muscles, but this is cleared up now and I am certainly very thankful to Syntona for helping me the way it did."

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbal ingredients, Syntona acts on stomach, kidneys, liver, and bowels . . . aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities and gives better tone to the intestinal tract. It promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Budget Troubles

DUBLIN, March 13 (AP). — Finance Minister Sean Macentee warned Wednesday night the Republic of Ireland's economy is in a highly-critical state and said he will impose sharp import cuts in his budget April 2. He told the Dail (parliament) the country had gone $434,000,000 in the hole on foreign trade since 1947 and that about one-third of the deficit was run up last year alone.

Prices Hold Up At Bull Auction

TORONTO, March 13 (CP). — Prices at the final sale of this year's bull auction by the Ontario Beef Cattle Improvement Association held up fairly well Wednesday, largely on bidding by artificial breeding units.

The two top bulls in the Shorthorn division went to the Waterloo County artificial insemination unit which paid $1,300 for Aberfeldy Nugget, second highest price in the sale of 102 purebred Shorthorns.

Top price of $1,625 went for the champion, Anoka Ransom, consigned by S. G. Bennett of Georgetown and purchased by J. F. Davis of Manitoulin Island.

The reserve champion also went to the Waterloo breeders. Klaymor Objective, consigned by W. J. Russell, Unionville, brought $1,150.

Aranmore Fearless, another high-priced animal, consigned by E. A. Manning of Hornby, went to E. Lee of Omemee for $1,075.

The Shorthorns brought an average return of $571, well above the average of $516 paid for Aberdeen-Angus Tuesday.

—Sgm. Robert Burns Macdonald, 21, of New Waterford, N.S., has been sentenced to death by a court martial in Tokyo for the murder of Pte. Harold Carlsen Harrison, 31, of Truro, N.S. The tribunal found that Macdonald shot his comrade Jan. 28 with a .45 calibre revolver during a quarrel in a house at Tokchon near Seoul in Korea. Harrison died in hospital Feb. 23.

Blame Father For Baby's Death

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que., March 13—(CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday night found Gerard Larocque, 30, criminally responsible for the death of his son from malnutrition. His wife was found responsible for "domestic negligence."

Crown Prosecutor Paul Martineau said he will apply to the Attorney-General's Department for a charge of manslaughter against the 30-year-old lumberjack. No charge will be laid against the wife.

Dr. Frank C. Cowley, Shawville, Que., district coroner, told the six-man jury that he found the two-months-old child in a log hut where another woman bore Larocque a child four days before his wife gave birth to the dead child.

Dr. J. M. Roussel, Montreal medico-legal expert, said in a report read to the inquest that the baby, which weighed only five pounds, died of malnutrition.

"Orchids to your wonderful Five Roses Flour and sour apples to myself for not having used it before — I probably wouldn't even be using it now if it wasn't due to the fact that my grocer, who incidentally calls here at the house, was out of the brand of pastry flour I always used.

"I was absent at the time, so he left the Five Roses with the stipulation I could change it on his next trip around. When I returned home I was quite provoked because I wanted to bake some individual meat pies for supper — I said, 'Oh, well, I'll have to use the flour but it won't be any good', but please accept my humblest apologies; my pastry was the nicest I have ever made, tender, flaky, beautifully brown. Everyone just simply drooled over the looks of it.

"Now, I can't understand why so many women are under the impression that Five Roses Flour is strictly a bread flour. For four years I worked in a grocery store and women just wouldn't purchase Five Roses for anything but bread making — could it be you don't stress the fact enough that it makes superior pastry to any so-called pastry flour. I love its fineness and another thing I noticed was how clean it leaves the baking board and rolling pin. No chunks of fatty dough to scrape off.

"Thanking you again for a wonderful product, I'll certainly recommend it to all my friends.

Yours truly,

John Fisher Speaks To Club

Speaker for Ladies' Meeting of the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club on Friday night will be John Fisher, nationally-known Canadian broadcaster.

A native of New Brunswick, Mr. Fisher has twice won the La Fleche Trophy for his contribution to Canadian radio, and the Beaver Award one year for the best Canadian commentator.

Last fall, he was one of the CBC's commentators covering the visit of the then Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. He was as well commentator at the historic Quebec conferences.

Friday night's meeting will be the first regular session of the club attended by wives and friends of members.

Distant Markets

HALIFAX (CP).—Shipment of Atlantic fish in a refrigerator truck from Halifax to Texas recently was cited by Dr. S. A. Beatty as a sample of efforts to widen the market for Maritimes fisheries. Director of the fisheries experimental station, he told a student meeting of the great growth of the industry.

No Return Trip

CANSO, N.S. (CP).—Most of the crew that brought a new trawler from England, instead of going home left for various parts of Canada to start new careers. The trawler named "Boston Swallow" then sailed for the fishing banks on her first trip with a Canadian crew.

Mobile Crime Clinic For Montreal Police

MONTREAL — (CP) — A crime buster on wheels will soon become the latest weapon of the Montreal police department.

Workmen are completing a new mobile police laboratory—the only one of its kind in Canada and one of the few in the world.

Chief of Detectives Wilfrid Bourdon says the rolloing clinic will be invaluable in the ward against crime. Science today is used extensively in fighting crime.

When the scene of the crime can't be brought to the police laboratory at headquarters, then the new super-equipped van will take the laboratory to the scene of the crime.

The present system of bringing minute bits of evidence to the laboratory at headquarters is rather hit-and-miss. Some part or other is occasionally left behind.

The rolling clinic will be ready to go at all times, and with a full complement of the most intricate sleuthing equipment the ten-and-a-half-ton truck is a rolling inventory of all that modern science has to offer.

Catalogue Season Ending Time To Get Ready For Real Gardening, Fishing

By JIM ENGLISH

The soothing pleasures of catalogue reading will soon end for this winter. Earth will be soft enough to attack with a spade; fishing will be near enough to make real preparations for it; highways will be all clear for Sunday driving.

Confirmed catalogue readers will breathe several sighs of relief. Dreams can be turned into reality, and a garden begins to be not just a fancy, but something tangible. Fishermen can see a time when they will be turning something more interesting than the handle of a pencil sharpener.

It's a pleasant way to spend the winter. Cold snaps keep you inside where you can avoid the evening's chores long enough to pry into the catalogue and see what this seedhouse charges for the Lady Jane Gigglebottom double-barrelled petunia with the reet pleat.

Anglers' eyes bulge out like organ stops at an illustration of the latest muskie lure—Figbody's Radioactive, Weedless, Monster-Muskie Bait, with cigar lighter optional.

The hot rod addict's heart leaps up when he beholds the latest in superchargers, guaranteed to add horsepower to his engine, and send his jitney skidding along the highway a few miles per hour more in excess of the speed limit.

Big Ideas

Anybody who reads catalogues makes lists of things he'd like to buy. Grandiose schemes at the beginning of winter fade by spring to accommodate the budget. The fisherman's plan to buy a complete spinning outfit ($60 or so) dwindles into three new plugs, a new line, a new guide for the casting rode, and a dozen flies ($12.50).

Orchids in the gardener's mind become gladiolus by January and pansies by mid-March. That new cultivator for the half-acre shrivels to a new shovel handle.

It's a pride-puncturing time of year, but a satisfactory one.

Peering out of windows and looking wisely at the shrinking snowdrifts and expanding spots of grass becomes almost a hobby now. Canny eyes are cast to the heavens, where a new type of cloud has appeared. Shouldn't be surprised if it did rain; it's bound to sometime.

Each shaft of sunlight is given a mental cheer; every patch of blue sky is a sure sign of spring. Newspapers begin to report flowers nudging through the chilly earth at unseasonable times, and the flower fanciers grit their teeth in envy.

But underneath the feeling of punctured pride and envy and hope is the certainty that spring is coming. It may take weeks or even months, but come it will. It always has.

What's Best?

Social gatherings become bitter discussion groups on the finer points of growing sweet peas or casting a dry fly.

Plant them deep, plant them shallow; fertilize them, don't fertilizez them; pamper them, don't pamper them; but be sure you plant them.

Tapered line, level line; 10-foot leader, six-foot leader; heavy hackle, spase hackle; but be sure you get that fly on the water.

These arguments never last longer than a day or two; because the catalogue provides something new for discussion the following day.

Soon the season for planning ends and the season for doing will be upon us. The coming season is always a fine test of the winter's promises.

Red Plot Hinted In Station Blast

TUNIS, March 13—(AP)—A bomb hidden in a waiting room of the station at Gabes exploded Wednesday as a train pulled in. The blast killed five and injured 17 persons. The waiting room was wrecked.

The explosion was the latest in a series of incidents in Tunis, but Nationalist circles, blamed for previous bombings, disclaimed any connection Wednesday night with the explosions. Police hinted at a Communist plot.

Persons close to the office of the French resident-general indicated they believe the Nationalist Party was not to be blamed.

A French Army command car was fired on Tuesday night in Tunis and a French patrol in Sfax drew gunfire.

Telephone pole cutting throughout the country, bridge and rail blasting, and explosions in a fertilizer factory were climaxed Monday night by an attack on the Tunis police station. A curfew has been imposed on the Tunis Arab quarter.

Action Dismissed

TORONTO, March 13—(CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday dismissed an action by Hollinger Bus Lines Limited which sought to prevent the Ontario Labor Relations Board from going ahead with ployees (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) as the bargaining agent for Hollinger employees.

Ready For Business

LONDON, Ont., March 13—(CP)—Two "pigs" shot out of Imperial Oil's new Sarnia-to-London pipeline Wednesday night, clearing the way for initial movement of gasoline, probably within a week. The pigs are devices forced through pipelines to clear them of obstructions.

Famous Liner Sold For Scrap

LONDON, March 13 — (AP) — The Canadian Pacific Steamship Co. Wednesday sold the 22,833-ton Empress of Australia to be broken up for scrap. The price was not disclosed.

The Empress of Australia was built by the Germans but was held in Britain by the First World War naval blockade. Her last voyage will end May 1, when she is due to arrive at Liverpool with troops from Korea and Malaya.

In 1939 the ship carried King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on a state visit to Canada. It was seen frequently in Halifax harbor as a trooper in the last war.

Will Quebec French Be Plain Or Toasted For June Congress?

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, March 10 — (CP) — Some Quebecers are concerned about how French Canada is faring culturally.

In the back of their minds is the province's second French language Congress to be held in June. It will be the second Congress in 15 years and ties in with the official centenary of Laval University, stronghold of French culture in Quebec.

French Canada will put on its best bib and tucker for hundreds of visitors from other parts of Canada, from the United States and from Europe, including Mother France.

Quebecers, thinking hard about the June cultural and historical festival, are worried about what their guests will feel when they walk Quebec streets for a look at the face of new France and talk to its ordinary citizens.

Will they be shocked by the sign, "quick lunch" — "curb service" — "barber shop"?

How will a member of the French academy feel if a Quebec waitress ask him does he wish "un hot dog?"

Everybody agrees that Quebec's own scholars will hold their own in the distinguished company expected for the congress and the dozens of associated events.

Women Editor's Concern

One of those who has expressed concern about Quebec's storefront advertising, English slogans and language of the sidewalks is Germaine Bernier, women's editor of Le Devoir, Montreal daily newspaper. A recent article on the subject by Miss Bernier was titled:

"Notre Francais Sera-t-il 'Plain' ou 'Toaste'? (Will Our French Be 'Plain' or 'Toasted?' ")

This was a reference to the Anglicized way a Quebec restaurant customer often orders a "plain" or "toasted" sandwich.

The writer noted steps being taken to improve French in common usage in such rural parts as Temiscouata County.

But after listening once again to Montreal tramway conversation, she wondered if Quebec is forsaking the language "which has delighted genius and given richnes to so many works."

The substitute, said Miss Bernier, apparently would be a "practical" lingo strong in such expressions as "hamburger," "chips" and "Chinese egg rolls servis avec plum sauce."

Fascinated Tourists

She drew attention to the efforts of Paul Grouin, provincial government adviser on cultural matters, who has been campaigning for more than a year to bring back to Quebec a French atmosphere that apart from cultural advantages would be fascinating to tourists.

Miss Bernier concluded that if Quebec families paid as much attention to teaching their children proper French as they do to teaching them English, there would be some improvement.

The discussion aroused by articles such as hers is one of the reasons that in the past 10 years more and more Quebec automobile mechanics say "caoutchouc" instead of "rubber."

Despite her fears, the French language congress in June undoubtedly will help advance the cause of a dual Canadian culture even if some congress delegate happens to get a "shoe shine" instead of a proper "cirage."

Translation experts offer the following French terms for a few of the more common Anglicisms of advertising:

Snack bar, quick lunch—casse croutte; light lunch—buffet; cocktail lounge—cabaret; grill—estaminet; curb service—autobuffet.

DESPERADO'S WIFE — Mrs. Ann Roberts Jackson, of Toronto, is the wife of Leonard Jackson, bank robber wounded three times in a furious gun battle with police in Montreal. Jackson is alleged to have been with Steve Suchan when two Toronto detectives were shot and wounded. Suchan was captured last week in Montreal also after a gun battle. A third member of the gang, Edwin Alonzo Boyd, still is at large. Her blood-spattered skirt and legs came from her attempts to aid the bleeding Jackson.

Tannery Closes

WHITBY, March 13 (CP)—This town's oldest industry, King Brothers Tannery, has closed. Officials say the suspension is only temporary, due to a general lull in the textile industry of which the tannery is a part.

Bill To Change Trustees' Act

TORONTO, March 13 (CP) — A bill to give trustees a broader field of investment was introduced in the Ontario legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Porter.

The Bill will amend sections of the present Trustee Act which have not been changed for 65 years. The Act now confines trustees to investments in government-guaranteed securities, first mortgages on real estate and investment certificates of certain loan companies.

Health Minister Phillips introduced a bill amending the Drugless Practitioners Act to permit government appointment of boards of directors for classifications such as osteopaths, chiropractors and masseurs.

An amendment to Public Libraries Act, introduced by Education Minister Dunlop, will permit library boards to build or buy buildings larger than required by the boards in order to augment library revenue by renting the extra space.

The bill would also authorize library boards to inaugurate pension and sick leave plans similar to thos operated by city councils and boards of education.

Pleads Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13 — (AP).—Frank (Blackie) McKee, notorious gangster and Alcatraz graduate, pleaded guilty in federal court here Wednesday to conspiring with 22 others accused in the Waxey Gordon heroin distributing syndicate. In this big crack down on heroin traffic William (Willie the Weeper) Levin, took the same course Tuesday.

Canadian, U.S. Trained Air-Rescue Squads Ever Alert At Goose Bay

GOOSE BAY, Labrador—(CP)—Trained rescue units are maintained at this northeastern air base by Canadian and United States Air Forces. They are ready at the drop of a hat to search for survivors of crashes in the trackless tundra of Northern Quebec and Labrador.

A "survival school" is conducted as a combined operation. Here airmen are taught how to live in the bush in winter or summer.

Both seasons pose particularly peculiar problems to plane personnel who may be downed in the bush.

Labrador is virtually unpopulated. Its terrain is heavily glaciated, dotted with miniature lakes, hills and valleys. Scrubby bushes and anaemic coniferous growth form a tangled bushy network—almost impassable in summer without a machete. Fly repellent is a "must".

During the winter travel in the bush is impossible without snowshoes—snow piles up four and five feet high, heavy and soft, and drifts are much deeper. Game is relatively scarce, outside of ptarmigian and snowshoe rabbits and the rare caribou herd.

Aircraft and ground-rescue teams are ready on a 24-hour basis for emergencies. An emergency can be anything from locating the injured crew of a downed plane to flying a priest or an eskimo to hospital.

Goose Bay has two well-equipped hospitals on the base run by the R.C.A.F. and the U.S.A.F.—and the Grenfell Mission Hospital is located 30 miles east, on Northwest River.

Of Canadian Origin

Though the Americans operate the survival school, its origin is actually Canadian. The education and know-how comes from the survival school at Jasper, Alberta.

Canadian and American survival units work together but each Air Force operates its own rescue teams, provided with different equipment which may be pooled at certain times.

When a crash has been located, the first men on the scene, if the operation is by air, are usually two expert Canadian jumpers, loaned to the Americans for just such emergencies—Cpl. Bob Crebo and Cpl. Ted Braidner.

Canadian rescue units use a ski-equipped Dakota and a Norseman, and snowmobiles are standard equipment for pushing through bush.

The survival school course takes a week—three days of lectures and films and two days of field work. Students are taken to the outskirts of the base where they put into practice what they have learned about the construction of "paratepees"—shelters made of cut-up parachutes—and the brewing of moss soup.

Among the 2,000 personnel at the base are a number of civilians, most of them with the Department of Transport, and the rest school teachers, secretaries, and cargo-handlers. About 800 are Americans attached to the Northeast Air Command which also has bases in Newfoundland.

Arthur Godin, foreman painter and local artist, flew in 11 years ago but is "waiting for land transport" to get out. Louis Viel, of Cornwall, Ont., has been at the base 11 years too— because he likes the quiet.

Flour Bleach Not Injurious

LONDON —(CP)— Lord Horder, physician to the Royal Family and adviser to the Minister of Food, has assured the British public that bread made from "agenised" flour has had nothing to do with the outbreak of nervous or other diseases in the country.

His assurance followed an attack in the House of Lords against the use of agene, a chemical agent employed by British bakers for more than 25 years to give a whiter and larger loaf.

Charges had also been made by Dr. John Coghlan, a Hull practitioner, that thousands had died and the health of many more had endangered by eating the chemically-treated bread.

Replying to those who demanded instant abolition of agene, Lord Horder said: "We don't say, because chromium has been used in motor car manufacture for the past 20 years, that therefore the increase in road accidents is due to chromium."

The same "fallacy" in elementary logic entered into the current bread-whitening controversy.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that we cannot trace any nervous complaints prevalent in this country to the use of agene as an improver in bread."

When Lord Chorley remarked that the practice of using agene had been discarded in the United States, Lord Horder retorted: "but the Americans change from day to day. They have a very sensitive administration. They discard something, then go back to it, and do not always tell you."

Deny US Legalized Dumping Crippling Textile Industry

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP). — Revenue Minister McCann denied in the Commons Wednesday charges that "legalized dumping" of American goods is causing unemployment in Canada's textile industry.

At the same time, he denied suggestions that there had been political interference with the collection of income tax from farmers in the east as against those in the west.

He said in the throne speech debate that the textile industry is suffering from a combination of factors, including over-stocking in anticipation of a shortage and the loss of a 10 per cent preference through the rising of the Canadian dollar to parity.

He frankly conceded that he did not know the solution to the industry's problem.

Dr. McCann was one of several members to join in the continuing debate in the short Wednesday sitting.

Donald Fleming (P.C.-Toronto Eglinton) lambasted the government's taxation policies and said it should make its April 8 budget the basis for a cut in taxes and an elimination of waste and extravagance by the government.

Obvious Method

It was obvious the government was following a policy of "soaking" the people until an election, when it could adopt a "good fellow" attitude and give them back money owing them.

Through excessive taxation, the government had increased prices while credit restrictions had increased unemployment. It was high time it adopted a policy of taking from the municipalities the burden of caring for unemployed employables.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, denied an assertion by External Affairs Minister Pearson in a broadcast speech Tuesday night that the C.C.F., in criticizing the Atlantic Treaty Defence program, was moving towards the Communist line.

He accused Mr. Pearson of stooping to "deliberate smears" and "slander" against him and the C.C.F.

A. Wesley Stuart (L-Charlotte) urged the government to give the fishing industry a break comparable to that of agriculture in the way of subsidies and other payments.

He could not understand why every single branch of the agriculture industry should be given special consideration while the fishermen were ignored. That condition could not continue indefinitely.
